SPEARMAN OF THORNLEY.

SPEARMAN, HENRY-JOHN, Esq. of Thornley, co. Durham, b. 7 Dec. 1794, s. his father.

Lineage.

ROBERT SPEARMAN, a younger son of the Spearmans of Dunnington, in Salop, (seated there since the Conquest, and said to be descended from the old Lords of Aspramont,) came into the north with the troops that suppressed the great northern rebellion, called "The Pilgrimage of Grace," and was at the battle of Solway Moss, in 1542. He m. 1st, Agnes, dau. of Thomas Robinson, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, merchant, but had no issue; and 2ndly, a dau. of Whitfield, of Whitfield, Northumberland, by whom (who m. 2ndly, — Bates) he had a son, ROBERT. Mr. Spearman, in the 35th ELIZABETH, 1593, held lands in Preston, within the manor of Tyncmouth. He d. about the year 1600, aged eighty-one, was buried in Tyncmouth Abbey, and s. by his son,

ROBERT SPEARMAN, who held lands in Preston and Tyncmouth in 1614. He m. Alice, dau. of John Browne, lieutenant-governor of Tyncmouth Castle, and had issue,

I. MICHAEL, of Preston, b. circa 1597, buried at Tyncmouth, 13 Dec. 1679. He m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of John Fenwick, of Morpeth, widow of — Mills, of Monkseaton, in Northumberland, and 2ndly, at Tyncmouth, 14 Dec. 1649, Alice Moreton. From this Michael descended the SPEARMANS, of Preston and Eachwick, in Northumberland. RALPH SPEARMAN, Esq., the late heir male, d. unm. at Eachwick, 13 July, 1823, aged seventy-four. This gentleman frequently mentioned a latent intention to arrange the recollections of a long life spent in the acquisition of antiquarian and legendary lore; but it is to be lamented that he has left no work behind him to perpetuate that extensive local knowledge, of which he seemed to be the sole depository. He devised his estates to his friend, John Hunter, Esq., now JOHN HUNTER-SPEARMAN, Esq.

II. THOMAS, of whom presently.

I. Agnes, m. to Thomas Ottway, of Preston.

II. Isabel, m. to John Butler, Esq. of Chirton.

III. Jane, m. to Dr. Middleton, a physician, of North Shields.

Robert Spearman d. in 1615, and was buried at Tyncmouth. His second son,

THOMAS SPEARMAN, Esq., born about the year 1598, m. 16 Nov. 1620, Margaret, dau. and co-heiress of John Atkinson, Gent. of Cleadon, in Durham, and dying 5 Dec. 1631, left (with another son, Thomas, who d. in 1631, aged eight, and a dau., Elizabeth, baptized 30 October, 1630)

ROBERT SPEARMAN, Esq. of Preston, born about 1623, who m. in 1644, Dorothy, dau. and co-heiress of John Patison, of Boldon, in Durham, by whom (who was living 16 October, 1663, the wife of Captain James Cordie, her second husband) he had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. Thomas, baptized and buried in 1647.

III. Robert, bapt. 18 March, 1650, buried 30 July, 1654.

IV. Robert, bapt. 23 April, 1657, of the city of Durham, who purchased, in 1715, the manor of Old Acres, in the Palatinate. He m. 11 Dec. 1701, Hannah, dau. of William Webster, of Stockton-on-Tees, merchant, and dying 18 Oct. 1728, left three sons and a dau., viz.,

1. ROBERT, of Old Acres, bapt. 4 March, 1702-3. This gentleman was distinguished for his extensive biblical knowledge, and was the author of several learned publications in reference to that subject. "His memory," says Hutchinson, in his History of Durham, "is immortal in the literary world; and who, for his erudition, was not more illustrious than for his private virtues." He m. 1st, Miss Mary Lewen, and 2ndly, Anne, dau. of Robert Sharpe, Gent. of Hawthorne, in Durham, by the latter of whom (who d. 18 March, 1748, aged forty-three) he left at his decease, in October, 1761, five daus., his co-heirs, viz.,

DOROTHY, m. to John-Ralph Fenwick, M.D., of Durham.

MARY-ANNE, d. unm., 9 May, 1777.

HANNAH-ELIZABETH, m. to Thomas Wilkinson, Esq. of Coxhoe, in the co. Durham.

CHARLOTTE, m. to Thomas Swinburne, Esq. of Pontop.

MARGARET, m. to Calverley Bewicke, Esq., M.P. of Close House, Northumberland.

2. John, m. Mary, dau. of Lionel Vane, Esq. of Long Newton, in Durham, but d. s. p.

3. William, bapt. 18 April, 1807, m. Hannah, dau. of — Milburne, of the city of Durham, and by her, who d. 7 Aug. 1761, aged forty-six, left at his demise, 17 Dec. 1775, aged sixty-eight, with three daus., Hannah, Mary, and Dorothy, who all d. unm., one son,

Robert-Wemyss Spearman, Esq., who d. 5 March, 1793, aged forty-four, and was buried at Crossgate, Durham. He m. in 1774, Mary, dau. of William Featherstonhaugh, Esq. of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and had issue,

William, b. in 1775, late colonel of the 2nd dragoon-guards.

Lineage.

"The family of Speke (we quote Collinson's History of Somerset) were very anciently possessed of the manors of Wenworthy and Brampton, in the county of Devon, and chiefly resided in the former of those parishes, at a seat denominated Heywood. In the time of HENRY II., Richard Le Espek (for so the name was formerly written) held three knights' fees of Robert Fitzroy, lord of the manor of Okehampton. In the same reign, he held one fee of William Tracy, and two fees of Oliver Tracy. The said Richard Le Espek had issue, William; and he another Richard, who was under age, 30 HENRY II.; Richard was father of Sir William Le Espek, who m. Alice, dau. and heiress of Sir Walter Gervois, of Exon, and by her had issue, William; which William, by Julian, dau. of Sir John de Valletort, of Clist St. Lawrence, was father of William and John. This John, who was of Bramford, wrote his name L'Espek: he m. Constance, the dau. of John de Esse, and had issue, John, Robert, and William; the two eldest d. without issue. William Speke (the name being by him thus first abbreviated) was father of John Speke, who m. Joan, dau. and heiress of John Keynes, of Dowlsh, in this county, and had issue by her, John Speke, Knt., which Sir John m. Alice, heiress of Sir Thomas Beauchamp, after whose death the family constantly resided at Whitelackington.* Lysons in the "Magna Britanua," states that the Le Espees, or Spekes, "have, for many centuries, been men of note in this county (Somerset) and Devon, John Speke, being a commissioner for administering the oaths in the 12th of King HENRY VI., and George Speke, sheriff in the 34th Queen ELIZABETH. Richard Espee, or Speke, descended from the famous WALTER LE ESPEC,* founder of three goodly abbeys, Kirkham, and Rievaulx, in Yorkshire, and Warden, in Bedfordshire, was the first that fixed his seat at Whitelackington, and from him twenty generations had descended in Camden's time, in 1607.

JOHN SPEKE, son of Sir William Speke, Knt., by Constance Totwel, his wife, m. as shown above, Joan, dau. and heir of John Keynes, of Dowlsh, (an estate acquired by the family of Keynes, temp. EDWARD III., in marriage with the dau. and heir of Thomas Wake,) and acquired thereby the lands of Dowlsh, Cudworth, and Compton Martin. His son and successor,

SIR JOHN SPEKE, Knt., m. Alice, cousin and heiress of Sir Thomas Beauchamp, and with her came Whitelackington, Atherstone, and Ashill, in Somersetshire. He was s. by his son,

JOHN SPEKE, Esq. of Whitelackington, who m. the dau. of William Somaster, and was father of

SIR JOHN SPEKE, Knt. of Whitelackington, living temp. HENRY VII., who m. Alice, a Spanish lady who came to England, as maid-of-honour with Queen CATHERINE, and had a son and successor,

SIR JOHN SPEKE, Knt. of Whitelackington, temp. HENRY VIII. He m. Joan, dau. and heir of John Wimworthy, Esq., and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN SPEKE, Knt. of Whitelackington, who m. Alice, dau. of Sir John Arundel, Knt. of Lathern, in Cornwall, and with her acquired the estate of Sampford, and Rounton. Sir John's son and successor,

SIR THOMAS SPEKE, of Whitelackington, knighted by HENRY VIII., was of the privy chamber to EDWARD VI. He m. Anne, dau. of Sir Richard Berkeley, Knt., and dying, was buried at London, leaving a son and successor,

SIR GEORGE SPEKE, Knt. of Whitelackington, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Andrew Luttrell, Knt., and widow of Richard Mallett, Esq., by whom he had one son, and two daus., namely,

GEORGE (Sir), his heir.

* "Kirkham, a monastery of canons regular, of St. Augustine, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, was founded by Walter Espee, and Adelina, his wife, with the consent of King HENRY I., who endowed the same with divers lands and tithes, and among other things, with the tithes of venison which he and his posterity should take, and of all fowl caught in and about his rivers; likewise the said Walter granted them the tenth penny, or tithe of the rents of his lands in Northumberland. Ailred, abbot of Rievaulx, gives him this character, that he was prudent in council, discreet in war, and a loyal subject. He had by Adelina, his wife, a son named Walter, who broke his neck hunting, to the great grief of his famous father, who having acquired a great estate by his several public employments, viz., general in war, &c., and being deprived of an heir, was at some loss how to dispose of it, till, by a consultation with his uncle, William de Espec, rector of the church at Garton, he was advised by him to make Christ his heir, at least to part of it, by building three priories, namely, this of Kirkham, where was one of his chief mansions, which he turned into this monastery, Rievaulx, in this county, and Warden, in Bedfordshire. The rest of his estates were left to his three sisters, of whom, to Adeline, the youngest (m. to Peter de Ros), was given the patronage of the priories of Kirkham and Rievaulx, where he had his sepulture, as he, (Walter the founder,) for some time before his death, became a monk in this abbey of Rievaulx, d. 18 STEPHEN, 1153; Peter de Ros, of Hamlake, who had m. one of his co-heirs, Adeline, was also buried there. His descendant, William de Ros, lord of Hamlake, in 1261, among other things, granted to the prior and convent of Kirkham and their successors, in lieu of the tithes of his hunting, three good wild beasts, as also the rent of £5 per annum, for other tithes, for which consideration the said canons did quit their claim of free chase in Hamlake. At the dissolution of the monastery this priory was valued at £260 9s. 9d. per annum; Dugdale, £300 15s. 6d. per annum." —LELAND.

Mr. Spens s. to the representation of the ancient family of Spens of Lathallan, on the decease of his father, in May, 1845.

Tintage.

The family of Spens is of great antiquity in Scotland, and in the opinion of some authors (founded on the usage by the Spens' of the lion rampant of Macduff) derives from a younger son of the Earl of Fife.

There were many considerable free barons of the name of Spens, who made a good figure both at home and abroad, several centuries ago, but the lineage of Lathallan is documented for three or four generations before any of the others existed.

The Spenses of Kilspindy, scions, undoubtedly, of Lathallan, became of distinction in the reigns of Kings JAMES I. and II., but are now extinct.

The Spenses of Bodham, in Aberdeenshire, which still exist, have been free barons ever since the time of JAMES III., and several other Spenses in the same co.; also the Spenses of Berryhole, in Fife, &c. &c., are all descended of Lathallan, which their armorial bearing testifies.

The family of Wolmerston, another great branch of the name of Spens, produced many worthy patriots, who did honour to their country, both in the cabinet and in the field, and had also the lion rampant in their armorial bearings.

Count de Spens, who ranked amongst the first of the Swedish nobility, and was Generalissimo of their forces, descended from the house of Wolmerston.

The immediate ancestor of the family of Lathallan,

HENRY DE SPENS, temp. ALEXANDER III., was compelled, with most of the nobility and gentry of Scotland, to submit to King EDWARD III. in 1296. Contemporary with this Henry lived Nicol de Spens, who was also forced to swear fealty to King EDWARD, when he had overrun Scotland in the same year, 1296. What connexion Henry and Nicol had with one another does not appear. Henry d. soon after the year 1300, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE SPENS, who, in the reign of ROBERT BRUCE, is mentioned in a charter of donation to the monastery of Soltray, together with Sir Robert Keith, great marischal of Scotland, Sir Richard Keith, his brother, and John Keith, his son, &c. &c. This charter has no date, but appears to have been granted about the year 1320. He is witness, in another charter to the same monastery, with the said Sir Robert Keith, &c. This charter also wants a date, but must have been in or before 1332, in which year Sir Robert Keith lost his life fighting in defence of the liberties of his country, at the disastrous battle of Duplin. Thomas de Spens d. shortly after, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM DE SPENS, who is mentioned in an authentic writ in favour of his son. He left issue two sons, WILLIAM, his heir; and Walter. William d. in the end of the reign of DAVID BRUCE, and was s. by his eldest son, WILLIAM DE SPENS, who was proprietor of the lands and barony of Lathallan, in Fifeshire, and several others, of which the Earls of Fife were superiors, till the forfeiture of Murdock, Duke of Albany and Earl of Fife, in 1425, after which this family held these lands of the crown, and Lathallan hath been their chief seat and title ever since the reign of ROBERT II. He m. Isabel, dau. and heiress of Duncan Campbell, of Glen-Douglas, Tarbit, &c., in Dumbartonsire. In consequence of this marriage the house of Lathallan, with several of its cadets, added to its arms, gyronny of eight, the paternal coat of Argyll. We shall only further observe that many descendants of this race have carried lozenges or mascles, as well as the lion, in their armorial bearings.

William de Spens entered into an indenture with Duncan, Earl of Lennox, and with the consent of the said Isabel Campbell, his spouse, lets to the said earl for his lifetime, alienarily, part of the lands of Glen-Douglas, Tarbit, &c., for six merks yearly of lack-duty, &c. This curious deed is dated at Stirling, 25 July, 1392, to which Robert, Earl of Fife and Monteith, Sir Patrick de Graham, Sir Walter Buchanan, Duncan Campbell, &c., are witnesses.

William de Spens afterwards got a charter from the Earl of Fife, which was ratified and confirmed in pleno parlamento, by a charter under the great seal from King JAMES I., Willielmo Spens et Isabella Campbell ejus sponse, terrarum de Lathallan, Kittedy, Craig-Sanguhar, &c., cum potestate tenere curias ritas et membrorum in predictis terris, &c., and if a thief or robber shall be apprehended and condemned at said courts, he is to be hanged on the gallows belonging to the earldom of Fife, &c. &c. The confirmation of this curious charter is dated 13 Feb. 1430. By Isabel Campbell, his wife, he had two sons and one dau.,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. William, first of the Spenses of Kilspindy, a family which flourished with lustre in Perthshire, for three or four generations, when the male line failed.

III. Isabel was m. to Andrew Balfour, a son of the family of Burleigh, who got with her a part of the lands of Glen-Douglas, &c., confirmed anno 1476.

William, of Lathallan, lived to a great age, d. about the year 1432, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN DE SPENS, of Glen-Douglas and Lathallan, a man of parts and spirit, and of great activity in business, mentioned in indentures and charters bearing date in 1419, 1420, 1430, 1433, and 1435. In 1434, he was chosen one of the lords of the articles in a full parliament held at Perth by King JAMES I. He m. Isabel, dau. of Sir John Wemyss, of Kires, progenitor of the Earls of Wemyss, and by her had four sons,

I. ALEXANDER, his heir.

II. Robert, who got from his father the lands of Kittedie, in Fife, with some tenements about Perth, but his only son, John, dying without issue, these lands returned to Lathallan.

III. Thomas, who being bred a churchman, became first, Bishop of Galloway, then, of Aberdeen. He was a man of extraordinary parts and learning, and made a great figure in his time, holding the high office of lord-privy-seal for Scotland, and being often employed by the estates of the nation, as ambassador to negotiate the most arduous affairs in the reign of King JAMES III. He erected an hospital at Edinburgh, where he d., and was buried in the Trinity College churchyard, at the foot of Leith-wynd, anno 1480.

IV. Patriek, an officer in the company of Scots guards, sent from Scotland by King JAMES II. to CHARLES VII. of France, anno 1450. He was ancestor of the family of Spens-Designots, of France.

John, of Lathallan and Glen-Douglas, did not long survive his father, but d. in the beginning of the reign of JAMES II., and was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER DE SPENS, of Lathallan, who, being a man of authority and power, was, by King JAMES II., appointed high-constable of the town of Craill for life, and got a charter under the great seal, de officio constabularii burgi de Craill in vicecomitatu de Fife, &c. &c., dated 29 Dec. 1458. He m. Katharine, sister of Sir Andrew Wood, of Largo, and d. in the reign of King JAMES III., leaving a son,

ROBERT SPENS, of Lathallan, who s. him, and is particularly named in several of the family writs. He d. before the year 1474, and left issue a son and successor,

JOHN SPENS, of Lathallan, who was served and returned heir to his father, Robert, in 1474. He m. MARGARET, dau. of PATRICK DUNBAR, of Kilconquhar, son and heir of George, twelfth EARL of MARCH,* and had two sons, JOHN, his heir; and David, rector of Plisk, who got a charter of the lands of Muirton, dated 1513. The elder,

JOHN SPENS, of Lathallan, who was returned heir to his father in 1495, m. Helen, dau. of Sir John Arnot, of that ilk, and d. in 1520, leaving a son,

ALEXANDER SPENS, of Lathallan, who sold for a considerable sum his lands of Kittedie to Walter Henriot, of Burnturk, but retained the superiority. He m. a dau. of the ancient family of Durie, of that ilk, and left a dau., Lillias, m. to John, eldest son and heir-apparent of Alexander Arnot, of Balcomino, and a son,

JAMES SPENS, of Lathallan, served heir in 1548, who, by prudence and economy, was enabled to improve considerably the estate. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Seton, of Lathrisk, and dying at an advanced age, in 1595, was s. by his eldest surviving son,

ARTHUR SPENS, of Lathallan, who m. Janet, dau. of William Duddingston, of St. Ford, and left a son and successor,

* Sir Robert Douglas, in his Baronage, states that the Spens' of Lathallan are undoubtedly heirs of line of the Dunbars, Earls of March. "The descent of those earls," says that able writer, "from their origin to their forfeiture in the reign of JAMES I., is fully set forth in DOUGLAS'S Peerage, pp. 437, 438, &c. It is there also sufficiently documented, that Patriek, only son and heir of the last earl, was in possession of the lands and barony of Kilconquhar, in Fife, in the reign of King JAMES II., which was the only part of their great and opulent estate that was not forfeited to the crown; and as we can discover no descendant of that family now existing, excepting those of the said Margaret, they have undoubtedly become heirs of line of that great and illustrious family.

ALEXANDER SPENS, of Lathallan, who m. Isabel Bethune, a dau. of the family of Creigh, but having no issue, he made a resignation of his whole estate, 14 Oct. 1609, in favour of his undoubted heir male, his uncle,

ALEXANDER SPENS, of the city of St. Andrews, younger son of James Spens, of Lathallan, by Elizabeth Seton. He m. Catharine Alexander, dau. of the Baron of Skeddoway, and was s. by his son,

d. 16 Oct. 1829, leaving issue, one dau., Helen.

Mr. Spottiswoode is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for co. Berwick.

Lineage.

The surname of Spottiswoode was assumed by the proprietors of the lands and barony of Spottiswoode, in the parish of Gordon, co. Berwick, as soon as surnames became hereditary in Scotland: they are frequently mentioned in donations to the monasteries of Melross and Kelso, upwards of five centuries ago. The immediate ancestor of the family was ROBERT DE SPOTTISWOOD, Lord of Spottiswood, who was b. in the reign of King ALEXANDER III., and d. in that of ROBERT BRUCE, leaving a son and heir, JOHN SPOTTISWOOD, of that ilk, living temp. King DAVID BRUCE, whose son and heir, ROBERT SPOTTISWOOD, of that ilk, m. a dau. of the ancient family of Lighton of Ulishaven, co. Forfar, sister of the celebrated Dr. Henry Lighton, 1st Bishop of Murray, and was father of HENRY SPOTTISWOOD, of that ilk, who d. in the end of the reign of King JAMES II., leaving a son and successor, JAMES SPOTTISWOOD, of that ilk, a staunch loyalist and firm adherent to the interest of JAMES III., for which he was forfeited, but reinstated subsequently by King JAMES IV.; soon afterwards he d. leaving by his wife, a dau. of Sir Adam Johnston, of Johnston, a son and heir, WILLIAM SPOTTISWOOD, of Spottiswood, who fell at Flodden, in 1513, with King JAMES IV. He had m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry-Hop Pringle, of Torsonce, by whom he had (with a dau., Jean, m. to William Hay, of Barra, a cadet of the House of Tweeddale, and a son, Hugh) two elder sons,

DAVID, his successor.

John, D.D., a man of great learning and piety, who m. Beatrix, dau. of Patrick Crichton, of Lugton and Gilmerton, and d. in 1585, aged 76, leaving, with a dau., two sons,

JOHN, of whom hereafter, as successor to Spottiswood. James, b. in 1567, in holy orders, appointed Bishop of Clogher, in Ireland, in 1621, where he remained till the troubles of CHARLES I.'s time obliged him to return to London in 1642, where he d. two years after, and was buried in Westminster Abbey. Dr. Spottiswood left (with a dau. m. to Archibald, son of Sir James Erskine) two sons, 1. Henry (Sir), knighted by JAMES VI., who m. Jean, dau. of Tristram Bulky, Esq. of Castlebarnhill, in Anglesey, by whom he had several sons, whose descendants still continue in Ireland; and 2. Richard of Drumbote.

The elder son,

DAVID SPOTTISWOOD, of that ilk, d. towards the end of the reign of King JAMES V., leaving an only son,

NINIAN SPOTTISWOOD, of that ilk, who was served heir to his father in 1550. He left two sons, WILLIAM, his successor, who d. unm. in 1594, and was s. by his brother,

JOHN SPOTTISWOOD, of that ilk, who d. s. p. soon after, when the representation devolved on his consin,

JOHN SPOTTISWOOD, Archbishop of St. Andrews, and Lord High Chancellor of Scotland, who then became of Spottiswood, which barony he sold in 1620, having previously purchased several other lands. This ever memorable prelate, the celebrated author of The History of the Church of Scotland, was b. iu 1565, and educated at Glasgow. On the accession of King JAMES VI. to the throne of England, Dr. Spottiswood, who had accompanied his Majesty, was raised to the Archbishopric of Glasgow, and made a privy-councillor in North Britain. In 1615 he was translated to the See of St. Andrews; in 1633, crowned King CHARLES I. at Holyrood; and in two years after was made Chancellor of Scotland. On the outbreak of the civil war, he retired to London, and there d. in 1639, being buried in Westminster Abbey. He m. Rachel, dau. of Dr. David Lindsay, Bishop of Ross, by whom he had (with a dan., Anne, m. to William Sinclair, of Roslin) two sons,

John (Sir), his heir, who had charters, dated April, 1616, and 5 June, 1621, of several lands, and others subsequently; he d. without surviving issue, his only son, John, having joined Montrose, was taken prisoner with him, and executed in 1650.

ROBERT (Sir), who continued the line.

The latter,

SIR ROBERT SPOTTISWOOD, b. in 1596, who was knighted by King JAMES VI., and by that monarch appointed one of the extraordinary lords of session, and one of his privy council, was created by CHARLES I. president of the College of Justice, and secretary for Scotland. He m. in 1629, Bethia, eldest dau. of Sir Alexander Morrison, of Prestongrange, by whom he had three sons,

John, who d. unm. before the restoration of CHARLES II. ALEXANDER, of whom presently.

Robert, physician to the governor and garrison of Tangier, d. in 1688, leaving, by Catherine, his wife, widow of — Elliot, an only son, Alexander, b. in 1676, a general in the army, appointed governor of Virginia in 1710, which colony derived great advantage from his administration. He m. in 1724, Butler, dau. of Richard Bryan, Esq. of Westminster, by whom he had (with two daus., Anne, m. to Bernard Moore, Esq., colonel of a regt. in Virginia, and Dorothea) two sons, Robert, the younger, a brave officer, was killed at a skirmish in Virginia, in 1756, s. p.; the elder, John, m. in 1745, Mary, dau. of William Dandridge, Esq., commander of the "Ludlow Castle" ship of war, and by her had a dau., Mary, and two sons, Alexander and John.

Sir Robert fell a victim to his loyalty, 20 Jan. 1646, being executed at St. Andrews, by the Covenanters. His second son, ALEXANDER SPOTTISWOODE, Esq., a firm friend of the royal family, having been bred to the law, entered advocate, and got a charter under the great seal from King CHARLES II., "Alexandro Spottiswoode, advocato, terrarum de Warristonn, &c.," dated 28 Aug. 1662. He m. 1st, the dan. and sole heir of Sir John Home, of Crimstain, by whom he had one son, Alexander, who d. unm.; he m. 2ndly, Helen, dan. of John Trotter, of Morton Hall, by whom he had (with two daus., Janet, m. to George Brown, of Thornydykes, and Catharine, and a younger son, Robert, who d. young) an elder son and heir, JOHN, of whom presently. He d. in 1675, and was s. by his only surviving son,

JOHN SPOTTISWOODE, Esq., an eminent advocate and writer on the laws of Scotland, who purchased back, in 1700, the lands and barony of Spottiswoode, from the heirs of the Bells, to whom they had been sold by his great-grandfather, the Archbishop of St. Andrews, in 1620, and became of Spottiswoode. He m. in 1710, Helen, dau. of Robert, Viscount Arbuthnot, and widow of John Macfarlane, of that ilk, and by her had a son, JOHN, his successor; and two daus., Helen, m. to John Gartshone, Esq. of Alderston; and Anne, m. to Dr. James Dundas, of the Arniston family, an eminent physician in Edinburgh. Mr. Spottiswoode d. in 1728, and was s. by his only son and heir,

JOHN SPOTTISWOODE, Esq. of Spottiswoode, who m. in 1740, Mary, eldest dau. of John Thomson, Esq. of Charlton, co. Fife, by whom he had issue,

1. JOHN, his heir.

2. Thomson, a merchant in Jamaica, d. unm.

SPRY OF PLACE.

SPRY, SIR SAMUEL-THOMAS, Knt. of Place and Tregolls, both in Cornwall, b. 25 July, 1804; s. his father, Admiral Thomas Spry, 27 Nov. 1828. Sir Samuel, who is a magistrate, deputy-lieut. and deputy-warden for the county, represents Bodmin* in parliament.

Lineage.

This ancient family, whose name has been variously written De Spre, De Spray, De Sprey, Spreye, Sprie, Sprye, and Spry, was seated at a very early period in the county of Devon, where several places still bear the designation in its more ancient spelling: as the parish of

* Of the family of Spry, it is somewhat singular that it should become a parliamentary one at three very remarkable periods: John Spry represented Tavistock in the reign of HENRY VII., when York and Lancaster united; Arthur Spry sat for St. Mawes, at the Restoration; and Sir Samuel came in for Bodmin, its first representative under the Reform Act.

Spreyton, Sprieton, or Spryeton, in the hundred of Wondford; Spray, or Sprey, in the parish of Maristow, in the hundred of Lifton; and Sprye Comb, in the parish of East Ashford, in the hundred of Braxton.* In the first-named, the Spryes held lands by inheritance at a remote date; and so far back as 15 HENRY VI., John Sprye, of Spryeton, was M.P. for Tavistock. His descendant and representative, John Sprye, of Spryeton, living temp. HEN. VII., having no male issue, conveyed his lands and tenements in Sprye, Spryeton, and Stowford, Devon, from the male line of the family, to trustees, for the use of Beatrice, his dau., and William Gregory, her husband, and their issue in tail, which settlement became, in the reign of ELIZABETH, the subject of a suit in Chancery, between their grandson and heir, William Gregory, and others.† After this alienation of the lands bearing the name in Devonshire, the heir male, moving across the river Tamar, settled on its opposite bank at Cuterewe, in the parish of St. Germans, while a younger member of the family seated himself at Bodmin, both in Cornwall, in which shire they received territorial grants from HENRY VIII., at the dissolution of the monasteries, including the priory of Place.

Several pedigrees of the Spryes are recorded in the heralds' visitations of both counties, those of Cornwall commencing with "THOMAS SPRIE de Cuterewe in Comit. Cornubia, arm. nup. Comit. Devonie," to whose great-grandsons the arms, crest, and motto of their ancestors were confirmed by Sir William Segar, Garter king-of-arms, 28 March, 1619. Thomas Sprie, the first seated at Cuterewe, m. Katharine, dau. of John Bake, of Labrake, and had two sons, who m. two sisters, the only children and co-heirs of JOHN TRENOWTH, of Cornewe and Tillond, in Cornwall, the last male of the younger branch of the very ancient and powerful family of Trenowth of Trenowth, with whose descent, as briefly recorded in the Harl. MSS. 1079 and 1162, we shall commence this lineage, until the line merges in that of Sprye, merely adding of the extinct house of Trenowth, than which none in Cornwall has ranked higher in antiquity, alliance, or possessions, that many of its members sat in parliament for the county, and for several of the western boroughs, at very early periods.

JOHN DE TRENOWTH, in Probus, Cornwall, the first recorded in the visitations, was father of

STEPHEN DE TRENOWTH, who m. Johanna, dau. of Richard de Trenaec, and had a son and successor,

MICHAEL DE TRENOWTH, who, by Margaret Butler, his wife, had four sons, MICHAEL, RALPH, John, and Thomas. The eldest son,

MICHAEL DE TRENOWTH, s. his father at Trenowth, but d. without issue, when his next brother,

RALPH DE TRENOWTH, became heir. He m. the dau. of Richard Bushell, and had three sons, JOHN, Thomas, and Richard. The eldest son,

JOHN TRENOWTH, of Trenowth, considerably increased his patrimony by marriage with Jane, the elder of the two daus, and co-heirs (by Alice, his wife, dau. of William Cheynduit, of Bodannan) of Stephen Trejago, of Fentongollan, in Cornwall, representative of a younger branch of the Trejagos of Trejago, in Crantock, which seated itself at Fentongollan as early as the reign of EDWARD II.‡

* Spray Radulphus, styled Servicus Regis, was named in writs tested at Westminster, 29 Aug., and at Windsor, 29 Sept. 6 EDWARD II., 1312, touching cattle purveyed for the king in Devon, and to be sent up to Westminster.—Parliamentary Writs.

† In the same reign, Thomas Sprye was defendant in a suit in Chancery, touching a tenement in the parish of Buckland Monachorum, in Devon, previously the inheritance of William Crymer, Esq., of that parish: while Hugh Sprye was defendant of a suit in the same court, touching a messuage and lands, part of the manor of Penpoll, in Cornwall, of which John Treggian, Esq., was theretofore lord; and Nicholas Sprey, the defendant in another suit in that court, concerning the manor and lands of Tregenver, within the parish of Budock, also in Cornwall; the pleadings in which mention a fine levied between the defendant and John Killigrew, Esq., and others, of lands and tenements in Rosemaryn, Budock, Caryvet, Govyse, Prebend, Cubert, and Cranloeck.—Proceedings in Chancery in the reign of Qu. en Elizabeth.

‡ Bodannon or Bodannan, a manor in the parish of Endydon, or Endillon, in the hundred of Trigg, and deanery of Trig minor, to which manor the bailiiff of that hundred, said to have been sometime called the hundred of Bodannan, was anciently annexed, lying about five miles from Wad-

By this lady John Trenowth had two sons, of whom the younger was ancestor of a branch which continued at Trenowth until the time of HENRY VIII., when it terminated in co-heiresses, who m. Boscawen, Borlase, and Hearle. The elder son and heir,

RALPH TRENOWTH, removed to Fentongollan. He m. Jane, dau. of Sir William Bassett, and was s. by his son,

JOHN TRENOWTH, of Fentongollan, who m. Jane, dau. and co-heir of Jacob Nanfan,* of Trethewell, in St. Eval, in the hundred and deanery of Ryder, near St. Columb and Pastow, descended from Nanfan of Nanfan, an ancient and eminent Cornish family. By this lady he had two sons, JOHN and WILLIAM. The elder,

JOHN TRENOWTH, of Fentongollan, m. Honor, dan. and heir of William Tregarthen, and d. without male issue, in 1497, when the possessions of this, the eldest branch of the family, devolved on his four daus. and co-heirs, who m. Carminow, St. Auhyn, Raynard, Stradling, and Godolphin. The male line of the family was continued by his younger brother,

WILLIAM TRENOWTH, of Cornave, father of STEPHEN TRENOWTH, who m. a dau. and co-heir of bridge, and seven miles from Camelford, was a seat of the Cheynduits,† a family of considerable antiquity and distinction, whereof Robert de Cheyni, of Bodannan, was sheriff of Cornwall, 5 EDWARD I., 1277; John Cheynduit, knight of the shire, 18 RICHARD II., 1394; and Sir John Cheynduit, 9 HENRY IV. and 8 HENRY V., 1407 and 1420. They bore, Gu., a lion rampant, regardant, arg., within an orle of acorns, or; and became extinct in the reign of HENRY VI., when the co-heiresses m. Trejago and Roscarrock, between which families their estates were divided. Bodannan fell to the share of Roscarrock, by whose descendant, John Roscarrock, Esq., it was sold, in 1586, to Nicholas Dagge, who, eleven years after, in 1597, disposed of it to Henry Rolle, Esq., of whose descendant, of the same name, it was purchased, in 1739, by John Lyne, Esq., whose son, the Rev. Philip Lyne, LL.D., was its proprietor in 1814. In the chancel of Endillon church, there is an ancient uninscribed tomb, said to be of one of this family, and by tradition, of a Lord Cheyney.

The family of Trejago, of Trejago, in Crantock, co. Cornwall, a parish bordering on the Bristol Channel, was also of considerable note and power in that county at a very ancient period. In 17 EDWARD II., 1323, we have a list of knights and esquires, all of whom held forty librates of land. The high-sheriff of the shire at that time was John de Trejago, who was among the first class of landholders. The heiress of the Trejago branch m. Mynors, in the reign of EDWARD IV. The Fentongollan branch settled at that place in the reign of EDWARD IV., in the 18th year of which sovereign, Johannes de Trejago thereof was high-sheriff of the county, and through the first half of the fourteenth century, members of this family were returned knights of the shire to parliament, as follows:—

35 EDWARD I., 1306, John de Trejago, with Henry de Bodrigan. 6 EDWARD II., 1312, John de Trejago, with Thomas de Erchdeckne. 12 EDWARD II., 1318, John de Trejago, with Edward Erchdeckne. 2 EDWARD III., 1328, John de Trejago, with John de Erchdeckne. 12 EDWARD III., 1328, John de Trejago, with Edward Erchdeckne. 14 EDWARD III., 1340, John de Trejago, with Michael Petit. John de Trejago, with John Arundell.

And 5 HENRY V., 1417, Richard Trejago and J. Butt, were chosen members for the borough of Liskeard. The ancient arms of Trejago were, Arg. on a chev. sa., between three balls, gu. [sa.], five bezants of the field. At a later period they bore, Or, a chev. between three crosses-crosslet, sa. The Fentongollan branch m. the heiress of Trewartheniek, and a co-heiress of Cheynduit; and the heiress of Trejago, of Fentongollan, m. Trenowth.

* The manor of Tretbewell, said to have been purchased by John Nanfan, in the reign of HENRY VI., passed by a female heir, on the death of Richard Nanfan without male issue, to the family of Erisy, and by successive sales, to those of Grenville, Smith, and Leach. It was one of the manors, which having been forfeited by Sir Robert Tresilian's attainder, was granted to his widow, the heiress of Hervis, and her second husband, Sir John Coleshill. The property is now in the possession of Sir Samuel Thomas Spry.

HALE, in his parochial history of the county, also speaks of a manor named Tregerryn, in the parish of Padstow, as having been purchased by John Nanfan, in the reign of HENRY VI., and not now known as a manor.

† Strickstenton, or Triggstenton, a parcel of the manor which belonged to the family of Mathew in 1620, and was subsequently the property of Mr. Clements, is said to have been also a seat of the Cheynduits, but no remains of a mansion are at this time visible.

‡ They have been erroneously stated also to have borne: Gu., four lozenges conjoined in fesse, each charged with an escallop shell, sa.

John Blomptin, or Blompin, and had a son and successor,

JOHN TRENOWTH, of Tillond, in Cornwall, who left by his wife, the dau. of — Beile, of Stoke, two daus., his co-heirs, Elizabeth and Catharine, who m. Thomas and John Sprye, the sons of

THOMAS SPRYE, or SPRIE, of Cutcrewe, who came out of Devonshire, and was the first of the family who settled in Cornwall. He m. Catharine, dau. of John Bake, of Lanrake, and had the before-mentioned two sons, viz.,

1. THOMAS, his heir.

11. John, to whom his father gave Cutcrewe. He m. 1st, Catharine, 2nd dau. and co-heir of John Trenowth, of Tillond, by whom he had a dau., Elizabeth, wife of John Vashmont, Esq.; and 2ndly, a dau. of John Hendy, Esq., by whom he had (with three daus., Alice, m. to John Trewbody, of Treworrick; Joan, m. to John Dehyll, of Insworth; and Eliza, m. to John Galston, of Plymouth) three sons, namely,

1. Oliver, of Cutcrewe, who m. Eliza, dau. of John Debell, Esq. of Insworth, and was presumed to have been ancestor of the Sprys of Boyton and Exeter.
2. John, of Trewinney, in Cornwall.
3. Robert, of Millbrook, in Cornwall.

The elder son,

THOMAS SPRIE, Esq., m. Elizabeth, elder dau. and co-heir of John Trenowth, of Tillond, as shown above, and acquiring with her the estate of Tillond, settled there. He had two sons and two daus, viz.,

HUGH, his heir.

Edward, of Tencreke, in Cornwall, who had issue,

Thomas, of Tencreke, who m. Anne, dau. of John Vashmont, of Cornwall, and at the date of the Visitation in 1620, had three sons and one dau., John, b. in 1602; Edward; George; and Elizabeth.

Peter, of Mawnen, in Cornwall, who m. 1st, a dau. of Richard Prideaux, Esq. of Devon; 2ndly, a dau. of Erisey, of Cornwall; and 3rdly, a dau. of Kestell, of the same co., but d. s. p.

Henry (Sir), Knt., a soldier of rank and reputation who served in the Low Countries. His will was proved in London, 1 Dec. 1627.

John, who, in 1620, had two sons.

Catharine, m. to John Kemp, Esq. of Levithan, in Blisland.

Joan, m. to Peter Burdon, Esq.

Agnes, m. to Robert Trelawny.

The elder son,

HUGH SPRIE, Esq. of Tillond, m. Margaret, dau. of John Debill, Esq. of Insworth, and had (with a dau., Joan, the wife of John Meriel) three sons, THOMAS, Hugh, and Edward. The eldest,

THOMAS SPRYE, Esq. of Tillond, and of Bodmin,* at which place he was living in 1620, m. Catharine, dau. of Arthur Ashford, Esq. of Wonwell, in Devon, and had four sons, ARTHUR, Thomas, Henry, and Robert. The eldest,

ARTHUR SPRYE, Esq., was the first of the family who fixed his residence at Place, or Palace, granted to them by HENRY VIII. It is in the parish of St. Anthony, in Roseland, which church (extra-parochial) was erected and dedicated to that saint in 1124, by William, Bishop of Exeter. Arthur Sprye was returned in 1660, with Mr. Cloberry, M.P. for the borough of St. Mawes; and again in 1661, the first parliament after the Restoration, with Sir William Tredenham, and continued as its representative until 1678. He acted as a commissioner of prizes;

* The manor and mansion-house of Blisland, a parish near Bodmin, did also belong at this time to the family. It was granted by HENRY VII. to the Stanhopes, and passed from them successively to the families of Parker, Reynolds, and Sprye. At the period of the civil wars, William Sprye was there settled, and was so active an adherent of the royal party in his shire, that serving in Pendennis Castle, as one of its principal commanders at the time of its surrender, though comprised in the articles granted by Fairfax to its defenders, yet had his estates included, by vote of the House of Commons, 26 Oct. 1652, in the bill for the sale of lands forfeited to the Commonwealth for treason.

In the list of gentry of Cornwall, annexed to the Britannia, at the later period of 1674, are the names of George Sprye, Esq. of Blisland; Arthur Spry, Esq. of Place; and Nicholas Spry, Esq. of St. Kew.

The last of the family who inherited the manor-house of Blisland, which was formerly the residence of the lords of the manor, and is now occupied by labourers, its ancient magnificence having departed with the owners of this name, was Lieut.-Gen. Horatio Spry, who d. in Oct. 1811, aged 82, and as such, his name is among those given in that virulent party tract of the period, "Flagellum Parliamentarium," professing to record the different motives which induced nearly two hundred members of that parliament to become the mere instruments of the crown, in the exercise of their senatorial duties. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Richard Gayer, who d. 4 May, 1656, and was buried in Anthony church. He m. 2ndly, a dau. of — Hele, and dying in 1685, was buried in the church of Anthony, where is a stately monument to his memory, having a bust placed between two sorrowing female figures, intended to represent his two wives, and bearing the arms of Sprye, Gayer, and Hele. He left a son and successor,

GEORGE SPRY, Esq. of Place House, a magistrate for Cornwall at the death of GEORGE I. He m. a dau. and co-heir of — Bullock, and had issue,

ARTHUR, his heir.

RICHARD (Sir), Knt., successor to his brother.

Lucy.

Mary, who m. Thomas Davy, Esq., and had two sons and one dau. Of the eldest son,

THOMAS DAVY, who eventually inherited the estates of Spry, more presently.

Charity.

George Spry d. in 1730, (on the 10 Nov. of which year letters of administration were granted in London, and was buried in Anthony church,) and was s. by his son,

ARTHUR SPRY, Esq. of Place House, at whose decease unm., in 1756, the estates devolved on his brother,

SIR RICHARD SPRY, Knt. of Place House, a distinguished admiral, who accompanied Boscawen in several of his enterprising expeditions, greatly assisted in the reduction of Louisburgh, and in the capture of many of the enemy's ships. In 1760, he was appointed to the Oxford, and displayed much watchful activity against those vessels of the enemy that escaped the defeat of Confians. These and many other important services were graciously noticed by the Sovereign, to whom he was specially introduced, 15 March, 1761, at St. James's. In 1766, he was made commodore, and commander of a squadron stationed in the Mediterranean, having his broad pendant on board the Jersey. In 1769, he returned to England, and in the following year was made rear-admiral of the Blue, and soon after of the White. In 1775, he held a command in the fleet assembled at Portsmouth, which was reviewed by the king, who then, on the quarter-deck of his ship, conferred the honour of knighthood upon Admiral Spry. Sir Richard subsequently attained the rank of rear-admiral of the Red, and served as commander-in-chief on the coast of America, and in the Mediterranean, and as port-admiral at Plymouth; and was also appointed envoy to the Emperor of Morocco. He d. unm., at Place House, 1 Dec. 1775, was buried in Anthony church, and succeeded by the eldest son of his sister Mary, his nephew.

ADMIRAL THOMAS DAVY, who, 13 April, 1779, took, by royal licence and authority, the surname and arms of SPRY only. This officer also distinguished himself in the American war, and held the rank of admiral for the long period of thirty-two years. Retiring from active service, he resided chiefly at Place House, acting as a magistrate for the co. He m. 9 Feb. 1796, Anna-Maria, sister and sole heiress of Samuel Thomas, Esq. of Tregolls, in Cornwall, high-sheriff of that co.,* and by her had issue, two sons and two daus., in Hampshire, at the residence of his son-in-law, Rear-Adm. Falkner, who had there died two years previously, aged 50. This Rear-Admiral Falkner was eldest son and heir of Adm. Falkner, whose family claims a pre-eminence in the naval history of the British isles; for from the close of the 17th century, and even previously to that time, it uniformly adorned the list of our Admiralty Board. One of Admiral Falkner's ancestors had the honour of receiving the flag of the renowned czar, PETER of Russia, when serving under Sir John Norris, in the Baltic, in 1715. Rear-Admiral Falkner was advanced to post rank in 1782, and promoted to his flag in 1804. He left issue by his wife, the dau. of Gen. Horatio Spry, to whom he was m. at Titchfield, 5 March, 1789, three children, the eldest of whom, Jonathan, had just entered the royal navy, at the time of his father's death, when he was serving as a midshipman with Admiral Purvis, in the Mediterranean. It is to his memory that the national monument in St. Paul's Cathedral was erected.

* The Barton of Tregolls, in the parish of St. Clements, in the deanery of Powder, and west division of that hundred, two miles from Truro, was many years in the family of

- I. SAMUEL-THOMAS (Sir), his heir.
- II. Richard, of Tintagel and Worthy Vale, both in Cornwall, a deputy-lieut. and magistrate for that co.
- I. Anna-Maria, m. to Edward Carlyon, Esq. of Greenway, near Totnes in Devon, a lieutenant-col. in the army, and a magistrate for that co., as well as for Cornwall.
- II. Mary.

Admiral Spry d. 27 Nov. 1828, aged 74, was buried in Anthony church, and s. by his son, the present SIR SAMUEL-THOMAS SPRY, of Place and Tregolls, M.P. for Bodmin.

Susan-Amelia-Georgina.

This gentleman s. his father in Oct. 1834, and his kinsman, Frank Hall-Standish, Esq. of Duxbury Park, in 1841, whereupon he took the surname and arms of STANDISH, in lieu of those of CARR. He is a magistrate for the counties of Lancaster and Durham, and a deputy-lieutenant for the former, for which shire he was high-sheriff in 1845-6.

Tineage.

The Standishes of Duxbury, a family of antiquity and note, derived from a common ancestor with the Standishes of Standish.

RALPH STANDISH, (son of Thurston de Standish, living in 1221,) had two sons,

JORDAN, heir to his father, living in 1271, ancestor of the Standishes of Standish, now represented by CHARLES STANDISH, Esq., M.P., of Standish. (See that name.)

HUGH, from whom the Standishes of Duxbury.

The second son,

HUGH STANDISH, m. (34 EDWARD I.) Alice, dau. of Sir Richard Molyneux, of Sefton, in Lancashire, and had two sons, William Standish, who d. young; and

RICHARD STANDISH, of Duxbury, living 9 EDWARD III.; he was father of two sons, HUGH and JOHN. The elder,

HUGH STANDISH, of Duxbury, m. in 1369, his kinswoman, Alice, dau. of Henry Standish, of Standish, and had three sons and a dau., viz., William, Alexander, CHRISTOPHER, and Clemence. The only son to survive youth, Charles-Edward, b. in March, 1829.

Mr. Standish s. his father, Thomas Strickland-Standish, Esq., 4 Dec. 1813. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for co. Lancaster.

Lineage.

The following pedigree is compiled from an abstract of the charters and muniments at Standish, drawn up by the late Rev. Thomas West, domestic chaplain of the Strickland family, author of the History of Furness Abbey, &c., who deplored the wanton destruction of a chest containing a collection of ancient charters, anterior to 6 HENRY III., anno 1221. In which year he found that

—DE STANDISH, who had m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Robert de Hulton, became, in her right, possessor of the manor of Shevington, and that he was s. by his son,

THURSTON DE STANDISH, who, 4 Feb., 6 HENRY III., anno 1221, levied a fine of lands in Shevington, which he inherited from his mother, Margerie, dau. and co-heir of Robert de Hulton. He was living in the 20th of the same reign, A.D. 1235-36, and had a son,

RALPH DE STANDISH, who had two sons, viz., JORDAN, his successor; and Hugh, ancestor of the STANDISHES of Duxbury. The elder son,

JORDAN DE STANDISH, who s. his father, is witness to a deed of Emma de Shotyworth, 1 EDWARD I., A.D. 1271. He was s. by his son,

WILLIAM DE STANDISH, first witness to a grant from Robert de Nortonlegh, dated 2 EDWARD I., A.D. 1273. In 12 EDWARD II., 1318, he tailed half the manor of Standish and Longtree, with the advowson of Standish, on his son, John de Standish, and Margaret, his wife. He had two wives, Alianor and Margaret, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE STANDISH, lord of Standish, who, 6 EDW. III., A.D., 1332, confirmed to his son, William, and Margaret, his wife, the eighth part of the manor of Shevington, with land in Standish, in fee tail. In the same year he is mentioned as being patron of the church of Standish. He is witness to a deed, 24 EDWARD III., 1350, the first writing in which mention is made of pit-coal being found at Standish. His issue were,

i. WILLIAM, who m. in 1332, Margaret, dau. of Adam Holcroft, of Holcroft, and d. issueless.

ii. HENRY, who s. his brother.

iii. Edmond, living in 1332, and d. s. p.

iv. RALPH (Sir), living in 1332. From numerous documents it appears that this Sir Ralph de Standish found means to keep his elder brother, HENRY, out of the possession of the estates, for after his death, in 1334, Henry is proved to have entered into agreements with Elizabeth, his wife, then re-married to Thomas Lampet, and John de Standish, his son, that they should deliver up to the said Henry the lands formerly possessed by the said Sir Ralph. Sir Ralph had m. twice, 1st, Mary, dau. of — de Ince, by whom he had,

JOHN (Sir), styled in all deeds, "LORD JOHN." * Eleanor.

Joan, m. to John Sansbraur.

* This Sir John de Standish is mentioned by Froissart and Hollingshed, as being in the service of RICHARD II., and attending in his suite at the memorable meeting of the king with the rebel, Wat Tyler, in the year 1381, the manner of whose death is thus narrated by the former. After depicting the bold propositions and insolent deportment of the blacksmith, he thus proceeds:—"Yes truly, quod the mayre, (William Walworth), thou false stynkyng knave, shalt thou speke thus in the presenee of the kyng, my natural lorde? I commytte never to lyve without thou shalt derely abyge it; and with those wordes, the mayre drewe out his swerde and strake Tyler so great a stroke on the heed that he fell downe at the feet of his horse, and as he was fallen they envyroned him all aboute, whereby he was not sene of his company. Then a squyer of the kynges alyted, called John Standyssehe, and he drewe out his swerde, and put into Wat Tyler's belye, and so he dyed." On this occasion, Walworth, the lord-mayor, several citizens, and John Standyssehe, were knighted.

His second wife was named Elizabeth, who, as already stated, re-married Thomas Lampet. She was living in the year 1406. By this lady he had two other sons, Nicholas.

Ralph, upon whom, and his wife Joan, his father settled considerable estates.

Sir Ralph de Standish had a grant of free pardon under the privy seal, for all offences and breaches of the peace, dated 10 April, 1352.

v. Robert.

vi. John.

vii. Gilbert, clerik, who was rector of Standish, from 33 EDWARD III. to 22 RICHARD II., (1359 to 1398.)

The second son,

HENRY DE STANDISH, on the death of his younger brother, Sir Ralph, about the year 1384, recovered the family estates. By Joan, his wife, who survived him, he had (with a dau. Alice, who m. in 1369, Hugh Standish, of Duxbury) a son, his successor, in 1396,

RALPH DE STANDISH, of Standish, who, 15 RICH. II., (1392,) was sheriff of Lancashire,* and in six years afterwards (1398) had grant of free pardon from the crown. By Cecilia, his wife, he had, i. LAWRENCE, his successor; ii. Alexander, inducted into the rectory of Standish, to which he was presented by his father, Ralph, on the death of Gilbert de Standish, in 1398; iii. Gilbert, living 30 Sept. 1411, (13 HENRY IV.); iv. John, a military man, and one of the heroes of the battle of Agincourt, 25 Oct. 1415; i. Elizabeth, m. by dispensation granted 5 HENRY IV., 1403, to Richard, son of Gilbert de Longtree; ii. Isabel. Ralph and his wife were both living in 1411, and he in 1414. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

LAWRENCE DE STANDISH, of Standish, who m. in 1398, Lora, dau. of Sir Roger de Pilkington, and had (with a dau., contracted, 7 HENRY V., 1419, to marry John de Birkenhead) a son, his successor at his decease, in 1432,

SIR ALEXANDER DE STANDISH, Knt. of Standish. This gentleman, 2 HENRY VI., had a grant of twenty marks per annum for his good services, to be paid out of the duchy of Lancaster. In the previous reign, 9 HEN. V., 1421, he contracted to marry Constance, dau. of John Gerard, of Bryn. He d. in 1445, and was s. by his eldest son,

RALPH DE STANDISH, of Standish, who, having probably taken part with the house of York, had two general pardons from HENRY VI., in the thirty-first year of that monarch's reign. He m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Sir Richard Radcliffe, of Chadderton, by the dau. and heir of Chadderton, of Chadderton, co. Lancaster, and he made a division of that manor, in 1404, with Robert Radcliffe. Ralph Standish d. in 1460, about which time the "De" is omitted before the family name. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR ALEXANDER STANDISH, of Standish, not then a knight, but raised to that honour for his services at the battle of Hutton-Field, Scotland, in 1482. He m. 1 Jan. 1461, Sibilla, dau. of Henry Bold, of Bold, and had one son and three daus. Sir Alexander d. in 1507, and was s. by his son,

RALPH STANDISH, of Standish, who had a general pardon from the crown 1 HENRY VII., 1485. He m. (contract dated 16 Aug. 1497) Alice, one of the daus. and co-heirs of Sir James Harrington, Knt. of Wolfrage, eo. Northampton, which manor the lady had in dower. By her he had issue,

ALEXANDER, his successor.

Anne, m. to Sir John Holcroft, Knt. of Holcroft.

Agnes, m. to Thomas Ashton, of Croston.

Jane, m. to James Bradshaw, of the Haigh, in the county of Lancashire.

He d. at the advanced age of 80, in 1538, having made his will 18 Oct. 1534, and was s. by his son,

ALEXANDER STANDISH, of Standish, who m. in 1518, Ann, dau. of Sir William Molyneux, Knt. of Sefton, and was father of,

i. RALPH, who d. issueless, and was s. by his brother.

ii. EDWARD, who inherited from Ralph.

iii. Jane, m. to Roger Bradshaw, of the Haigh.

iv. Alice, m. to Hugh Anderton.

v. Agnes.

vi. Isabel, m. to Thomas Lathom, of Parbold.

* In 1384, we find a Robert de Standish was sheriff of the same county.

vii. Eleanor, m. to William Warton, of Warton, co. Lancaster.

viii. Margaret, m. to Lambert Tyldesley, of Gerrett, in Lancashire.

The second son, and eventual representative of the family,

EDWARD STANDISH, Esq. of Standish, had livery of seizin, of the manors of Standish &c., 7 EDWARD VI., anno 1553, for which he paid £21 10s. to the court of wards and liveries. He m. Ellen, dau. of Sir William Ratchiffe, Knt. of Ordsall, co. Lancaster, and had four sons, viz., ALEXANDER, his heir; Ralph; Edward, who d. 1 June, 1633; and Thomas, who d. 27 July, in the same year. He d. in 1603, (having erected Standish Hall in 1574,) and was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER STANDISH, Esq. of Standish, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Adam Hawarden, Esq. of Wolston, in Lancashire, (settlement dated 20 Aug. 1574) by which alliance Wolston came to the Standish family. He d. in 1624, leaving issue, RALPH, his successor; John; Thomas, d. unm.; Alexander, living 25 Oct. 1583, d. unm.; Margaret, m. to Thomas, second son and eventual heir of Robert Hesketh, Esq. of Rufford, co. Lancaster; Ellen, who was the third wife of Henry Banaster, Esq. of The Banke, co. Lancaster. The eldest son,

RALPH STANDISH, Esq. of Standish, m. Bridget, dau. of Sir Richard Molyneux, Knt. of Sefton, sister of Richard, first Viscount Molyneux, and had two sons and two daus., viz.,

EDWARD, his heir.

Alexander, col. of horse in the service of King CHARLES I. Frances, m. to Sir Thomas Tyldesley, Knt. of Morley, major-gen. under the Earl of Derby. He was killed at the battle of Wigan, 25 Aug. 1651.

Elizabeth, d. unm.

Mr. Standish d. in 1656, and was s. by his elder son,

EDWARD STANDISH, Esq. of Standish, who m. 11 Nov. 1632, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Francis Howard, of Corby Castle, Cumberland, and left at his decease,*

WILLIAM, his successor.

Mary, m. to — Daniel, of Heton Place, near Sudbury, Suffolk.

Elizabeth, m. to John Witham, Esq. of Cliffe, co. York.

The son and heir,

WILLIAM STANDISH, Esq. of Standish, was 26 years of age at the visitation in 1664. He m. Cecilia, dau. and sole heir of Sir Robert Bindlosse, Bart. of Borwick Hall, co. Lancaster, by whom (who d. 19 Jan. 1729-30) he had, RALPH, his successor; with Mary and Cecilia, who both d. unm. He d. 8 June, 1705, and was s. by his son,

RALPH STANDISH, Esq. of Standish. This gentleman m. Lady Philippa Howard, dau. of Henry, Duke of Norfolk, by his second duchess, Jane, dau. of Robert Bickerton, Esq., by whom (who d. 5 April, 1731) he had issue, I. Ralph-Howard, who m. 4 June, 1730, Mary, eldest dau. of George Butler, Esq. of Ballyragget, in Ireland, and had two sons, Ralph and Edward, who both d. in infancy: he d. himself at Kilkenny, in April, 1735, his father then living; II. George-Howard, d. unm.; and, I. CECILIA, of whom presently. Ralph Standish was living in 1752, at the advanced age of 82. His dau. and eventually sole heiress,

CECILIA STANDISH, m. William Towneley, Esq. of Towneley, Lancaster, by whom (who d. at Bath, 2 Feb. 1741, aged 28, and was buried in the church of Bath Weston) she had issue,

I. CHARLES TOWNELEY, Esq., b. 1 Oct. 1737. This gentleman possessed the Towneley estates, and was, according to Whittaker's History of Whalley Abbey, 29th in descent from Spartlingas, dean of Whalley. He was distinguished for his exquisite taste in the fine arts, and formed the splendid collection of marbles, now in the British Museum, called the Towneley Marbles. He d. unm. 3 Jan. 1805, and was s. by his younger brother, EDWARD.

II. RALPH TOWNELEY-STANDISH, Esq., who, on the death of his father and mother, inherited the estates of Standish and Borwick Hall. He was b. 18 June, 1739, and m. to Henrietta, ninth dau. of Roger Strickland, Esq. of Catterick, co. York, but d. s. p., when the estates passed to his brother, EDWARD.

STANLEY OF DALEGARTH.

STANLEY, EDWARD, Esq. of Dalegarth and Ponsonby, co. Cumberland, M.P. for that shire, b. in 1790; m. in Dec. 1821, Mary, dau. of William Douglas, Esq. one of the Judges in the East Indies, and had, with three daus., three sons, viz.,

EDWARD, b. in Sept. 1822, d. in 1825.

William, b. 14 Sept. 1829.

George-Edward, b. 21 Nov. 1831.

Mr. Stanley s. his father, 17 Nov. 1806. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. of co. Cumberland, and was sheriff of that shire in 1823.

Lineage.

The Stanleys rank amongst the most ancient and influential families in the kingdom. They were of consequence, says Camden, half a century before the Conquest, and they have invariably held an eminent place in history. The branch of which we are more immediately about to treat has been located in the north for several centuries, and the most ancient of their estates in Cumberland have descended through an unbroken succession of father and son, over a period of not less than five hundred years, to the present proprietor.

JOHN STANLEIGH, second son of John Stanleigh, lord of Stanley and Stourton, and younger brother of Sir William Stanley, ancestor of the noble house of Derby, purchased lands at Greswithen, in Cumberland, and represented the city of Carlisle in parliament, 20th EDWARD III. His son and heir,

JOHN STANLEIGH, of Greswithen, living temp. EDWARD III., bought lands in Embleton and Bracken-thwaite, in Cumberland, in 1335, and was s. at his decease by his son, NICHOLAS STANLEIGH, of Greswithen, who marrying Constance, dau. and heiress of Thomas de Awstthwaite, lord of Awstthwaite, acquired that manor, (now denominated Dalegarth,) as appears by deed dated anno 1345. The lordship of Awstthwaite was granted by Arthur Boyvill, in 1102, to Adam de Awstthwaite, in whose family it continued for 225 years, until the heiress married with the Stanleys.

In 1388, Nicholas Stanleigh obtained, by purchase, the manor and demesne of Ponsonby. He was s. by his son, THOMAS STANLEIGH, lord of Awstthwaite, (in the records, called Stanlaw,) living in the reign of HENRY VI., who represented the city of Carlisle in parliament.

NICHOLAS STANLEIGH, Esq., lord of Awstthwaite, his son and heir, was father of

THOMAS STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, who marrying Ann, dau. of Sir Richard Hudleston, Knt., acquired, by her, lands called Hyton, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM STANLEY, Esq. of Awstthwaite and Dalegarth, living 17th HENRY VII., who m. Alice, dau. of Sir Richard Duckett, Knt., and had a son,

THOMAS STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, who m. Margaret, dau. of John Fleming, Esq., and had issue, JOHN, his successor; and Thomas, of Greswithen, appointed master of the Mint in 1570; his only dau. and heiress, MARY, m. Sir Edward Herbert, afterwards created Earl of Powis. The eldest son,

JOHN STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, m. Margaret, dau. of Thomas Senhouse, Esq., and was s. by his son,

THOMAS STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, who purchased, in 1577, the manor of Birkby, in Cumberland, from his cousin-german, the Countess of Powis. He m. Isabel, dau. of John Leake, Esq. of Edmonton, and was s. by his son,

EDWARD STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, who m. Ann, dau. and co-heiress of Thomas Briggs, Esq. of Cawmire, in Westmorland, and had a son,

JOHN STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth. This gentleman, an active and zealous royalist, was heavily fined by parliament; but the penalty was subsequently mitigated. He obtained a grant from the crown of the fair and weekly market of Ravenglass, and likewise purchased the manor of Birker. Mr. Stanley m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Thomas Stanley, Esq. of Lee, in Sussex; and 2ndly, Dorothy, dau. of Henry Featherstonhaugh, of Featherstonhaugh, in Northumberland. He was s. at his decease by his son,

EDWARD STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, who m. Isabel, eldest dau. of Thomas Curwen, Esq. of Sella Park. This gentleman was high-sheriff for co. Cumberland at the Revolution, and proclaimed King WILLIAM. His son and successor,

JOHN STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, bought the rectory of Ponsonby, and the tithes and church lands thereunto belonging, with many other valuable estates in that parish. On his marriage, he built Ponsonby Hall, to which seat he removed, in 1687, from Dalegarth, the ancient residence of the family. He m. Dorothy, co-heiress of Edward Holt, Esq. of Wigan, co. Lancaster and had three sons,

EDWARD, his successor.

John, in holy orders, rector of Workington, who m. Clara, dau. of John Philipson, Esq. of Calgarth, in the co. Westmorland, and had a son, Edward, who m. Julia, dau. of John Christian, Esq. of Unerigg, by whom she had several children.

Holt, a lieutenant in Brigadier-General Wentworth's regt. of foot, d. unm. in the expedition against Porto Bello.

The eldest son,

EDWARD STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth, m. Mildred, youngest dau. of Sir George Fleming, Bart., Lord Bishop of Carlisle, by whom he had (with four daus. beside, who all d. unm.)

GEORGE-EDWARD, his successor, b. in March, 1748.

Dorothy, m. to Lieut. Joseph Dacre, and d. the year after marriage.

Edward Stanley d. in 1751, and was s. by his only son,

GEORGE-EDWARD STANLEY, Esq. of Ponsonby and Dalegarth, who m. 1st, in 1774, Dorothy, youngest dau. of Sir William Fleming, Bart., of Rydal, by whom (who d. in 1786) he had two daus., Mildred and Elizabeth. He m. 2ndly, in 1789, Elizabeth, dau. of Morris Evans, Esq. of Middlesex, and had further issue,

EDWARD, present proprietor.

George, b. in 1791.

Jane.

Mr. Stanley, who served the office of sheriff of Cumberland in 1774, was s. at his decease by his elder son, EDWARD STANLEY, Esq. of Dalegarth and Ponsonby, now representative of the family, and twenty-fourth in direct lineal descent from HENRY STANLEIGH, of Stoneley.

IV. Sarah,

Mr. Stansfeld died, seised of the manor of Armley, in Nov. 1818. The following tribute to his memory appeared in the public obituary which announced his death:—"Unsullied integrity of conduct, proceeding from guileless purity of heart; benevolence, that excluded no creature of God, whether it hoasted the human form or not, from its kind and considerate regard; gentleness of spirit, that would not provoke hostility, or immediately disarmed it; generosity, that was ever quicksighted to the virtues; and candour, that always extenuated the failings of others; and, to crown all, piety, which, whilst it delighted to offer mercy, never willingly withheld sacrifice, but paid a regular attention to the forms of religion at the same time that its spirit was prized above all price: such were the modest and unostentatious, but solid and valuable virtues of this truly excellent man." His eldest son and heir is the present THOMAS-WOLRICH STANSFELD, Esq. of Burley Wood and Jersey. Mrs. Stansfeld d. in 1824.

Family of Wolrich.

This family derives its origin, in a direct and uninterrupted male line, from Ordgar, Duke and Earl of Devonshire and Cornwall, father of Elfrida, Edgar's queen, and Edulph, his second son, who m. Elfvin, only child and heiress of Ethelred, last Duke of Mercia, by Ethelfleda, the heroic dau. of ALFRED the Great, and had by her, Leofwine, Earl of Mercia, who m. Alwara, dau. of Athelstan Mannesson, a Danish duke of East Angles, by a dau. of Athelstan, an Anglo-Saxon duke, and "Half king of all England," and had issue,

I. Wulfic-Spot, Earl of Mercia, founder of Burton Abbey, slain at the battle of Ipswich in 1010, s. p.

II. Aelfhelm, Earl of Northampton, by whose dau., Algiva, CANUTE the Great had SWEYN, King of Norway, and HAROLD I., King of England.

III. Norman, slain at the battle of Assandun, in Essex, 1016.

IV. Leofric, Earl of Mercia, who m. the celebrated Lady Godiva, and had issue, Algar, Earl of Cornwall and Mercia, who, by Alvea, dau. of William Mallet, a Norman companion of the Conqueror, had, I. Edwin, Earl of Mercia; and, 2. Morcar, Earl of Northumberland, who both d. s. p.; I. Aldith, m. 1st, to GRIFFIN, King of Wales, by whom she had two daus., I. Nesta, m. to Fflewce, son of Banquo, from whom by her descended the Royal Stuarts of Scotland; and, 2. Agnes, m. to Bernard Newmarch, Lord of Brecknock, or Brecon, ancestress of the Bohuns, Earls of Hereford, one of the main lines of which family was represented by HENRY V., and terminated in his high-spirited grandson, Edward, Prince of Wales, who was murdered by the Yorkist party at the battle of Tewkesbury. The descendants and representatives of another line were the Staffords, Dukes of Buckingham, from whom derives the present Baron Stafford. Aldith m. 2ndly, HAROLD II., King of England, and by him had a dau., m. to WOLODOMIR, Czar of Muscovy, and their dau. m. WALDEMAR, King of Denmark. The sixth son and eventual heir, GODWIN, m. Golda, or Goda,* dau. of RICHARD II., the good Duke of Normandy, by Estritha, dau. of SWEYN, King of Denmark and England, and sister of CANUTE the Great. She was first cousin as well of the Conqueror, as of the Confessor, and, by a second marriage, ancestress of the BALIOLS, Kings of Scotland. The issue of her marriage with Godwin was,

i. WOLFRIC.

ii. Aylwin, Lord of Worthy, near Winchester.

iii. Sward, lineal ancestor of the Sherards, Earls of Harborough.

i. A dau., m. to Vluet, or Wolfaith, who held, previously to the Conquest, numerous manors in different parts of England, and from whom descended the Hattons, Lords Hatton, George Finch-Hatton, the present Earl of Winchelsea, and Sir Robert Hatton, mentioned hereafter.

ii. Seeldeware, m. to Godric, the Dane.

The eldest son,

WOLFRIC, Lord of Aldithley and many other manors in Staffordshire and Cheshire, and, before the Conquest, in other counties in England, is the only warden of Royal forests mentioned in Domesday Book. He resided in the latter part of his life at the Lodge at Thornhill, in the Dorsetshire part of the New Forest. He m. Aldith, widow of GRIFFIN, King of Wales, and of HAROLD II., King of England, as before mentioned, and by her was father of,

i. GAMEL, of whom presently.

ii. Waltheus, Lord of Etchells, Bredbury, and Brinnington, co. Chester, the patriarch of many Cheshire families. (See "Ormerod's Cheshire.") Amongst his direct descendants were the Barons of Stockport, whose last representative was the Viscountess Bulkeley; and the Stopfords, Earls of Courtown, have the same lineal origin. From Lidulph de Croxton, his second son, derives, in a direct male line, the present Earl of Powis; and his dau., Margery, m. Gilbert Venables, Baron of Kinderton, ancestor of the present Archbishop of York, and of Lord Vernon, who is now in possession of the barony.

The eldest son,

GAMEL, a thane of the king's, Lord of Aldithley, Talk, and Balterley, co. Stafford, and of Cedde and Mottram Andrew, co. Chester, at the time of the Domesday survey, had issue, ADAM DE ALDITHLEY, whose two sons were the founders of the noble families of Audley and Stanley, viz.,

i. LIDULPH.

ii. Adam, father of William, Lord of Stanley, co. Stafford, who took the name of Stanley, and from whom is descended the present Earl of Derby.

LIDULPH, son and heir, sheriff of Cheshire, temp. King STEPHEN, had issue, ADAM, son and heir, living temp. HENRY II., father of HENRY, Lord of Audley, sheriff of Staffordshire, 7 HENRY III., who had issue, iii. ADAM.

The third son,

SIR ADAM FITZ-WOLFRIC, or WOLRYCHE, Knt. of Wenlock and Wickshall, co. Salop, was living 39 HENRY III. He had by his wife, Editha, four sons and one dau. The eldest son,

ROGER WOLRYCHE, of Wenlock, living temp. EDW. I. was father of

RICHARD WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Wenlock, who m. a dau. of — Lenthall, Esq., and had a son,

JOHN WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Wenlock, who m. a dau. of — Bethe, Esq., and had issue,

ROGER WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Wenlock, who m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of — Upton, Esq. of Upton, co. Salop, and their son and heir,

WILLIAM WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Wenlock, m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Hugh de Dodmaston, Esq. of Dodmaston, co. Salop, living in 1308, and had issue,

ANDREW WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Dodmaston, who m. Margaret, sister of Boicus Hampton, Esquire of the body to HENRY VI. Several pedigrees in the Harleian MSS. 1174, pp. 123 and 158, and in other volumes, introduce here an intermediate descent of Robert, m. to a dau. of Gray, Marquess of Dorset, but this is not to be found in more authentic pedigrees. His son and successor,

THOMAS WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Dodmaston, m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of William Rowley, Esq. of Staffordshire, and had issue,

i. Humphrey, who m. Ellen, dau. of Sir Hugh Pershall, Knt., of Knightley, and had issue,

1. Roger, who m. Katherine, sister of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, s. p.

2. John, ancestor of the Wolryches, Barts., now represented by Baron Ward.

3. Edward, of Dymore, co. Hereford, from whom are descended John Woolryeh, Esq., of the Ordnance Office, and Humphry-William Woolryeh, Esq. of Croxley House, co. Hereford, (see WOOLRYCH or CROXLEY.)

ii. WILLIAM.

The second son,

SIR WILLIAM WOLRICH, Knt. of Ludlow, co. Salop, came into Suffolk with the Earl of Kent, and m. Isabel, dau. and heir of — Cullinge, Esq. of Wiekombroke, in that co., and had a son,

JOHN WOLRICH, Esq. of Wiekombroke, who m. Joane, dau. of — Barnes, Esq. of Soham, co. Cambridge, and had issue,

i. John, his heir, of Cowling and Wiekombroke, who m. Catherine, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Moyning, Esq., and had issue,

1. Charles, who m. Honora, dau. of Thomas Wolrich, Esq. of Aleonbury.

2. Arthur, of Ipswich, who m. a dau. of — Wood, Esq. of Groby, co. Leicester, leaving Robert Wolrich, Esq., a Benchor of Gray's Inn, who m. a dau. of — Mott, Esq.; and their only child, Sarah Wolrich, m. Sir John Hewley, Knt. of York, M.P., and surviving her husband and two children, made over before her death, Hay Park, and other paternal estates in Yorkshire, now yielding about £3000 per annum, to trustees for the benefit of "poor and godly preachers of Christ's holy Gospel." The construction of this trust was for many years the subject of litigation in the Court of Chancery, and the decision was ultimately given in the House of Lords against the Unitarians, and in favour of other classes of Dissenters.

3. William, who m. Anne, dau. of Thomas, second Lord Wharton, of Helaugh Park, co. York.

ii. William, who m. Anne, dau. of John Poley, Esq. of Boxted, co. Suffolk, (see page 1052,) leaving issue, Mary, m. to William Allington, Esq.

iii. THOMAS, of Aleonbury, co. Huntingdon.

The third son,

THOMAS WOLRICH, Esq. of Aleonbury, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Wingfield, K.G., of Kimbolton Castle, co. Huntingdon, (see WINGFIELD pedigree,) second cousin of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, who was grandfather, by Mary, sister of HENRY VIII., and widow of LOUIS XII., King of France, of Lady Jane Grey. Sir Richard was great-grandson of Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Richard Fitzalan, Earl of Arundel, (great-grandson of Edmund

* Her nephew, Nicholas, was abbot of St. Ouen, at Rouen, during a period of above fifty years, and commenced, and principally contributed to the erection of the abbey, that beautiful specimen of Gothic architecture.

Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, son of HENRY III.,) by Elizabeth, dau. of William de Bohun, Earl of Northumberland, grandson of EDWARD I., and, through Matilda of Flanders, the Conqueror's queen, traced his descent through the different races of French kings, from Charlemagne and Pharamond. He m. 1st, Catherine, (sister of Elizabeth Woodville, queen of EDWARD IV.,) widow of Jasper Tudor, Duke of Bedford, and of Henry Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, but by her had no issue. By his second wife, Bridget, dau. and heir of Sir John Wiltshire, Knt. of Stone Castle, co. Kent, he had the above-mentioned Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Wolrich. Sir Richard Wingfield was nearly allied in blood to HENRY V., the Sidneys, from whom Sir Philip and Algernon Sidney, and Lady Jane Grey; thus bequeathing to his descendants the honour of consanguinity with individuals who were rendered more illustrious by their talents and their virtues than by their high birth. He was chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster; and d. at Madrid, whilst ambassador at the court of Spain. Mr. Wolrich left issue,

i. FRANCIS, his heir.

ii. Christopher, m. Lady Stafford, widow of Sir Humphry Stafford, Knt., leaving two daus.

The eldest son and successor,

FRANCIS WOLRICH, Esq. of Aleonbury, m. Lore, dau. of Robert Higham, Esq. of Branches Park, co. Suffolk, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WOLRICH, Esq. of Aleonbury, who m. Frances, dau. of William Wickham,* Bishop of Winchester, by Autouina, dau. of William Barlow, Bishop of Chichester, and sister of Anne, wife of Herbert Westphaling, Bishop of Hereford; Elizabeth, wife of William Day, Bishop of Winchester; Margaret, wife of William Overton, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry; and Frances, m. 1st, to Matthew, son of Matthew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury; 2ndly, to Toby Matthew,† Archbishop of York, from a branch of whose family descended the celebrated Father Mathew. Mr. Wolrich left a son and successor,

SIR TOBY WOLRICH, Knt., LL.D., of Bishopsbourne, co. Kent, and Cowling, co. Suffolk, who m. Jane, dau., and eventual heir of Sir Robert Hatton, Knt., M.P., by Mary, dau. of Sir Robert Legh, Knt. of Baggiley, co. Chester. Sir Robert Hatton was brother of Sir Thomas Hatton, Bart., and of Sir Christopher Hatton, K.B., father of Lord Hatton, and ancestor of George Finch-Hatton, Earl of Winchelsea. His lineal ancestor, Wolfaith, m. a dau. of Godwin and Golda, before mentioned; and he derived through the Holdenhs of Holdenby, co. Northampton, (whose estates came by an heiress into the Hatton family,) from the Scottish Bruces and the Lords Grey de Ruthyn. Sir Toby Wolrich is stated, in an inscription on an ancient monument in Mill Hill Chapel, Leeds, to have, as well as his brother, Henry Wolrich, captain of horse to CHARLES I., sacrificed his fortune and hazarded his life in defence of that monarch and the constitution. His son and heir, HATTON WOLRICH, Esq. of Kingston-on-Thames, m. Penelope, widow of — Dale, and d. leaving an only child,

PENELOPE-HATTON WOLRICH, m. to Toby, eldest son of Thomas Wolrich, vicar of Brotherton, co. York, (eldest son of the above-named Capt. Henry Wolrich,) and brother of Thomas Wolrich, Esq. of Leeds, who was brought up by Lady Hewley, in the expectation of inheriting her property, some part of which she did bequeath to him. Mr. Wolrich left issue,

THOMAS WOLRICH, Esq. of Armley House, co. York, who m. Peggy, dau. of Samuel Hamer, Esq. of Hamer, co. Lancaster, by Mary, sister of Sir Henry Ibbetson, Bart., and of Samuel Ibbetson, Esq. of Denton Park, whose only dau. and heir m. Admiral Edward Vernon, Earl of Shipbroke. He left an only dau. and heir, SARAH WOLRICH, m. to David Stausfeld, Esq. of Leeds, who d. in Nov. 1818: for their issue, see page 1285.

* Of founder's kin to William of Wykeham, the celebrated Bishop of Winchester, which gives her descendants claim to scholarships at the College at Winchester, and to fellowships of New College, Oxford, on the declaration of Richard Cook, Clarencieux—See Harleian MSS., vol. 1110, p. 24.

† Mrs. Matthew, his widow, bequeathed 200*l.* to found two scholarships at Peter House, Cambridge; and directed that her nephew, Tobias Wolrich, should have the benefit of one of them.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, sa., three goats trippant, ar., for STANSFELD: 2nd and 3rd, az., a chev. between three swans, wings elevated, for WOLRICH.

Crests—1st, A demi-lion, rampnt., ar., for STANSFELD; 2nd, on a wreath of laurel, vert, a dexter cubit arm, in armour, ppr., garnished or, gules, cinctured with a bracelet, sa., holding a Danish battle-axe, proper, shafted gules, garnished or, for WOLRICH.

Mottos—"Nosce teipsum," for STANSFELD. "Virtus post funera vivit," for WOLRICH.

The quarterings of WOLRICH are numerous. Swans, the bearings of the simple shield, have not been deemed unworthy of assumption as heraldic insignia by the highest in the land; but in all instances in which they occur in the English and Scottish Peerage books of the present period, the families are respectively descended from ALDITH, namely, those of Audley, Beauchamp, and Barons Stafford, in England; of Cawdor, in Wales; of Ailsa, Wemyss, and Sinclair, in Scotland; with two exceptions, the Grevvilles, Earls of Warwick, who inherited from the Beauchamps the title without the name, and their motto is not an inappropriate one—"Vix ea nostra voco;" and Leycester, Lord de Tabley, whose ancestor, when the symbol appears to have been first adopted in his family, became indirectly connected by marriage with the heiress of Audley. HENRY IV., a representative of the Bohuns, had a swan for his dexter supporter; both the supporters of HENRY V., when Prince of Wales, were swans, and he had a swan for one of his banners; his grandson, Edward, Prince of Wales, distributed small silver swans amongst the Lancastrian troops, indicative, probably, of a descent from the Kings of Wales, of which the House of York did not partake; and in the Exchequer issues, 6 HENRY V., a payment was made of fifty-two shillings for carving divers swans in the king's chamber in his palace at Shene. The Staffords, Dukes of Buckingham, represented two main lines of Aldith's descendants, one by GRIFFIN, King of Wales, the other, as already shown, by WOLFRIC: to this may be attributed their crest as Lords of Brecon. (See BURKE's General Armory.) The (in heraldic language) ducal coronet, or ancient regal crown, from which the swan issues, being per pale, sable and gules, the raven being the standard of the Danish Kings, and gules the armorial field of the Kings of Wales in Aldith's lifetime. The sinister supporter of the Staffords is a swan (also per pale), ducally gorged and chained, or; probably referable to her position after the battle of Hastings. In the Wolrich crest, the halberd-form of the axe used by the Danes, the bracelet, possessing a peculiar sanctity, for they formerly swore by it, the sable colour, the laurel wreath, and the gilt garniture, seem appropriate to her third husband, WOLFRIC, the great-grandson of the royal Dane who conquered England; and in the double descent through her, deduced antecedently, on the one hand from ALFRED the Great, on the other from RODERIC the Great, King of all Wales, that branch of the Wolrich family of which we are now treating, participates. The arms of the Earls of Derby, who also derive from the Bohuns, show the same double descent, but in a different manner from the Staffords; the two supporters, a griffin and a buck, both regally decorated, being referable to ALDITH's two husbands, the King of Wales, and WOLFRIC, Warden of the King's forest, and the descendant of a King of Denmark.

Many circumstances combine to prove that the "Edgiva Swanneshals" (or swan's neck) assumed by an interpolator of an ancient MS. account of the benefactors to the Abbey of St. Benet Hulme, in Norfolk, to have been a concubine of Harold's, who sought his body on the battle-field of Hastings, was no other than ALDITH (synonymous with Edgiva) his own queen, whose extraordinary beauty, the theme of even Norman panegyric, may have given rise at once to her Anglo-Saxon cognomen and the armorial insignia of her descendants. To that abbey, which was founded by CANUTE the Great and his Queen, EMMA of Normandy, WOLFRIC, who was nearly allied to both, and she herself, contributed. The abbacy was a mitred one, the Abbot having a seat in the House of Lords. It had been given with all its privileges, by HENRY VIII., to the see of Norwich, in exchange for some territorial property, before the dissolution of the monasteries, and has never been deprived of its baronial dignity. By an extraordinary coincidence, the Right Reverend Dr. Stanley, a lineal descendant of a sister of one of the royal founders and of a brother of the other, and the Clerk of the Queen's Closet, is the present Bishop of Norwich, and Lord Abbot of St. Benet's Hulme.

The arms of ALDITH, as co-heiress of Leofric, Earl of Mercia, were a double eagle displayed, the same as on the Imperial shield of Russia. WOLODOMIR, the third Czar of Muscovy, married one of her daughters by HAROLD II., King of England. Whether the bearings on the Russian shield were assumed or not in consequence of the union with an English princess, is left for more profound antiquarians to determine. The St. George and Dragon, in the centre of the shield, is probably of more recent origin.

Estate—Burley Wood, near Leeds.

Residence—Savile House, Jersey.

STANSFIELD OF ESHOLT HALL.

CROMPTON-STANSFIELD, WILLIAM-ROOKES, Esq. of Esholt Hall, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, M.P., b. 3 Aug. 1790; m. 17 June, 1824, Emma, eldest dau. of William Markham, Esq. of Becca Hall, son of Archbishop Markham. This gentleman, whose patronymic is CROMPTON, inheriting, 13 Feb. 1832, upon the demise of his father, Joshua Crompton, Esq., his mother's estates, assumed, in compliance with her testamentary injunction, the additional surname and arms of STANSFIELD. Mr. Crompton-Stansfield is a Master of Arts of Jesus College, Cambridge, and a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the North and West Ridings of Yorkshire.

Lincage.

The family of Stansfield, or Stansfeld of Stansfeld, as anciently writtē, trace their descent from one of the companions-in-arms of WILLIAM the Conqueror, who obtained the grant of the lordship of that name. His descendants have remained ever since enjoying high respectability in the county of York, and their ancient residence, Stansfield Hall, is still to be seen in the once beautiful valley of Todmorden. In 1613, Richard Evelyn, Esq. of Wotton, co. Surrey, m. Eleanor, dau. and heir of John Stansfield, Esq. of Lewes, co. Sussex, descended from a branch of the Yorkshire family, and was, by her, father of JOHN EVELYN, the author of "Sylva."

JORDAN DE STANSFELD, son of Wyons Maryons, lord of Stansfeld at the Conquest, m. a dau. of Sir John Towneley, of Towneley, and had, with three younger sons, (Thomas, Robert, and Oliver, constable of Pontefract Castle,) a successor,

JOHN STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, father, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Thomas Entwistle, of a dau., Jane, the wife of Rafe Copley, of Copley, and of a son,

RICHARD STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, living temp. HENRY I., who m. Alice, dau. of Sir Thomas Toustal, Knt. of Thurland Castle, and had four sons, EDMUND, Robert, Hugh, and Roger. The eldest,

EDMUND STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, m. Agnes, dau. of Thomas de Midgley, and was father of

RALPH STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, who m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Copley, of Copley, and had three sons, HENRY, Ralph, and William, and a dau., Joan. The eldest son and heir,

HENRY STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, m. Dionis, dau. of Bryan Thornhill, of Thornhill, in Yorkshire, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, who m. Joane, dau. of Sir John Burton, Kut. of Kinslow, in Yorkshire, and was father of

THOMAS STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, living at the close of the fourteenth century, who is supposed, from the circumstance of the arms over the mantelpiece being placed along with those of Lascells, to have built the old mansion of Stansfeld Hall, situated in a very beautiful part of the valley of Todmorden; it is within the parish of Halifax and township of Stansfeld, or, as it is now spelt, Stansfield. He m. Barbara, dau. of John Lascells, of Lascells Hall, co. York, and had a son and successor,

JOHN STANSFELD, Esq. of Stansfeld Hall, who m. in 1410, Mary, dau. of John Fleming, Esq. of Wathe, lineally descended from Sir Michael le Fleming, (kinsman to WILLIAM the Conqueror, and one of his commanders,) and had, with other issue, a dau., Anne, wife of Thomas Savile, ancestor of the Earls of Mexborough, and a son and heir,

THOMAS STANSFELD, Esq. of Stansfeld Hall, who, by Alice, his wife, dau. of John Savile, was father of

WILLIAM STANSFELD, Esq. of Stansfeld Hall, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Duckenfield, Esq. of Duckenfield, co. Chester, and had two sons, James, of Stansfeld Hall, living in 1536, in which year he removed to Hartshead.

THOMAS, whose line we have to detail.

The second son,

THOMAS STANSFELD, of Heptonstall, in Stansfeld, whose will was proved in 1508, m. a lady named Blanche, but of what family is not recorded, and had two sons, LAWRENCE, his heir; and Thomas, of Sowerby, who d. about the year 1537, leaving a silver chalice to Crossstone Chapl. The elder,

LAWRENCE STANSFELD, of Stansfeld, m. Isabell Horsfall, and dying about 1534, (his will was proved in that year,) was buried in Heptonstall Church, and s. by his son,

THOMAS STANSFELD, of Sowerby, who m. Alice, dau. of — Mitchell, of Heptonstall, and had three sons, Thomas, who appears to have d. unm.; LAWRENCE, successor to his father; and Nicholas, of Wadsworth Royd, whose will was proved in 1587. Thomas Stansfeld died possessed of lands in Stansfeld and Langfield, in 1564, and was s. by his son,

LAWRENCE STANSFELD, of Sowerby, who d. about the year 1591, leaving, by Elizabeth, whose maiden surname is unknown, a son and heir,

NICHOLAS STANSFELD, Esq. of Norland, who m. at Halifax, in 1591, Susan Hopkison, and left at his decease, in 1599, a son,

JOHN STANSFELD, Esq. of Sowerby, b. in 1592, who m. at Halifax, in 1612, Martha, dau. of — Bentley, and had four sons and one dau., of whom the second son, Joshua, commanded a company of militia during the civil wars, and fought, in 1642, at Atherton Moor, where Lord Fairfax was defeated by the Marquis of Newcastle. The eldest son,

JOSIAS STANSFELD, Esq. of Breck, in Sowerby, b. in 1619, d. in 1702, having had issue seven sons, viz.,

I. TIMOTHY, of Pond, (a house which tradition affirms the Stansfelds to have possessed ever since the Conquest,) who was ancestor of Timothy Stansfeld, Esq. of Neweross, Surrey, and of Robert Stansfeld, Esq. of Field House, near Sowerby.

II. Josbua, of Horton, near Bradford, who d. in 1732, leaving issue.

III. SAMUEL, of whom hereafter.

IV. James, of Bowood, in Sowerby, who d. in 1730. His dau., Martha, m. Joshua Tillotson, Esq., nephew to the archbishop.

V. Ely, M.A., vicar of Newark, who d. in 1719, leaving one son, who d. s. p.

VI. Josias, of Haugh End, in which house Archbishop Tillotson was born. Josias had one son, John, who d. s. p., and one dau., Sarah, m. to Martin Hotham, Esq. of York.

VII. John, of Sowerby, b. in 1657, who m. in 1681, Elizabeth, dau. of — Hirst, Esq. of Adswood Hall, in Cheshire, and d. in 1737, leaving issue, for which see p. 1285.

The third son,

SAMUEL STANSFELD, Esq. of Bradford, m. 12 April, 1675, Mary Clarkson, of Bradford, and d. in September, 1727, aged seventy-nine, leaving a son and successor,

ROBERT STANSFELD, Esq. of Bradford, b. in 1676, who m. 1st, in 1703, Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Sharp, M.A., of Little Horton, and by her, who d. in 1722, had to survive youth, an only dau.,

Faith, m. to Richard-Gilpin Sawry, Esq.

Mr. Stansfeld m. 2ndly, in 1723, Ann, dau. of William Busfield, Esq. of Rishworth, and had, with other issue who d. unm., one son and one dau., viz.,

ROBERT, his heir.

ANN, successor to her brother.

The only son and heir,

ROBERT STANSFELD, Esq. of Bradford, b. in 1727, who purchased, in 1755, Esholt Hall or Priory, in Yorkshire, m. Jane, eldest dau. of Richard Ferrand, Esq. of Harden Hall, by Mary, his wife, dau. of William Busfield, Esq. of Rishworth, but dying without issue, 14 Sept. 1772, was s. by his sister,

ANN STANSFELD, of Esholt Hall, b. 27 Aug. 1729, who m. 27 Aug. 1756, WILLIAM ROOKES, Esq. of Roydes Hall, senior bencher of Gray's Inn, and dying 12 Feb. 1798, was s. by her dau.,

ANNA-MARIA ROOKES, of Esholt Hall, who m. 28 Feb. 1786, JOSHUA CROMPTON, Esq. of York, third son of Samuel Crompton,* Esq. of Derby, and of Beal, in Yorkshire, and had issue,

I. WILLIAM ROOKES CROMPTON, her heir.

HENRY-MILES, b. 8 July, 1831.

Martin-Bryan, b. 23 Nov. 1832.

Mr. Stapylton s. his father.

Lineage.

On the south side of the river Tees stands an inconsiderable village called STAPYLTON, whence this ancient family hath obtained its surname.

In the reigns of the first EDWARDS, the STAPYLTONS took a distinguished part in the military events of the times, and had summons to parliament as Barons. The senior line is now represented, and the BARONY of STAPYLTON claimed, by JOHN-THOMAS DOLMAN, Esq. of York, as lineal descendant of the marriage of ELIZABETH DE STAPLETON (sister and heir of THOMAS DE STAPLETON, BARON STAPLETON) with SIR THOMAS METHAM, Knt. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

SIR GILBERT STAPYLTON, younger son of Sir Miles Stapylton, of Carlton, Baron Stapylton, m. Agnes, dau. and co-heir of Sir Brian Fitzalan, Knt. of Bedale, and by that lady acquired the lordship of Bedale, and had BRIAN (Sir), his heir; and Miles (Sir), of Norfolk, who

I. SAMUEL CROMPTON, Esq. of Wood End and Beal, in Yorkshire, b. in 1750, m. Sarah, dau. of Samuel Fox, Esq., and d. in 1810, leaving one son, Samuel, M.P. of Wood End, and one dau.

II. JOHN CROMPTON, Esq. of The Lilies, b. in 1753, mayor of the town and high-sheriff for the co. Derby in 1810. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Archibald Bell, Esq., and d. in 1834, leaving two sons and two daus

III. JOSHUA CROMPTON, Esq. of York, who m. as in the text, the heiress of Esholt Hall.

IV. GILBERT CROMPTON, Esq. of York, b. in 1755, m. Eliza, dau. of the Rev. George Johnson, rector of Loftus, in the North Riding of Yorkshire, and vicar of Norton, in the co. Durham, and dying in 1837, left issue.

I. ELIZABETH CROMPTON, b. in 1745, resided in Derby, and d. in 1835.

m. Joane, dau. and heir of Sir Oliver Ingham, Knt. The elder son,

SIR BRIAN STAPYLTON, Knt. of Carleton, living 49th EDWARD III., was one of the knights of the Garter, temp. RICHARD II., the 77th in numerical order, who bore an annulet of gold on the shoulder of his lion, as an armorial difference. This Sir Brian killed a Saracen in open battle, before the Kings of England, France, and Scotland, and therefrom assumed the Saracen's head for crest. He m. Agnes, dau. and heir of Sir John Philibert, Knt., and had two sons, BRIAN (Sir), ancestor of the STAPYLTONS of Carleton; and

SIR MILES STAPYLTON, Knt., who m. Joanna, dau. and co-heir of Sir Gerard Usflet, Knt. of Wighill, co. York, by whom he acquired the lordships of Wighill, Esedike, Swanlands, Hullbanke, and other lands. Sir Miles was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN STAPYLTON, Knt. of Wighill, who m. Margaret, dau. of Mr. Justice Norton, of Norton Conyers, near Ripon, and dying 33rd HENRY VI., left (with a dau., m. to Rafe Reresby, of Thirburgh,) a son and successor,

SIR WILLIAM STAPYLTON, Knt. of Wighill, who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir James Pickering, Knt., and was s. by his son,

SIR BRIAN STAPYLTON, Knt. of Wighill, living in 1505, who m. Jane, dau. of Sir Lancelot Thirkeld, Knt., and had issue, seven sons, and four daus., I. Elizabeth, m. to Robert Saltmarsh, Esq.; II. Jane, m. to Robert Conyers, Esq. of Hooton Bonville; III. Elinor, m. to Thomas Wharton, Esq. of Herley, near Tadcaster, afterwards LORD WHARTON; and, IV. Margaret, m. to John, Copley, Esq. of Hotham. Sir Brian Stapylton was s. by his eldest son,

STARKIE OF HUNTROYD.

STARKIE, LE-GENDRE-NICHOLAS, Esq. of Huntroyd, in the county palatine of Lancaster, a magistrate for that shire, m. Anne, dau. of — Chamberlain, Esq. of Kelston, co. York, and has issue,

LE-GENDRE-NICHOLAS.
John-Piers-Chamberlain. Anne.

Mr. Starkie s. his brother, Le-Gendre Starkie, Esq., sheriff of Lancashire in 1815.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient family of Starkie of Stretton, in Cheshire.*

RANDLE STARKIE, of Barnton, in that co., inherited lands from his brother Richard, in or before the year 1355. His son,

WILLIAM STARKIE, of Barnton, was father of

RALPH STARKIE, of Barnton, whose son,

WILLIAM STARKIE, was possessed of Barnton in 1453. By his wife, Margaret, who was living in 1497, he had two sons,

EDMUND, his heir. THOMAS, of Twiston, (see that family.)
The eldest son,

EDMUND STARKIE, Esq., m. in 1464, Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of John Simondstone, of Simondstone, co. Lancaster, by which alliance he gained considerable estates in Simondstone and Huntroyd. He d. 3 Aug. 1511, and was s. by his son,

JAMES STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, who m. in 1506, Jane, dau. of John Tempest, of Bracewell, co. York. He was s. by his son,

LAURENCE STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, who m. Florence, dau. of Reginald Atkinson, of Skipton, and by her (who re-married Roger Nowell, Esq. of Read) he left at his decease, in 1547, EDMUND, aged 14 years at his father's death.

Thomas. James.

The eldest son,

EDMUND STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, m. in 1560, Anne, dau. of Nicholas Hancock, of Pendle Forest, and had issue,

I. NICHOLAS, his heir.

II. William, m. Frances, dau. of John Whitacre, and had issue.

III. JOHN, (see STARKEY OF THORNTON LODGE.)

IV. Laurence.

I. Anne, m. Richard Hodgkinson, of Preston.

II. Helen. III. Florence.

The eldest son,

NICHOLAS STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, m. in 1578, Anne, dau. and sole heir of John Parr, Esq. of Rempnough and Cleworth, and relict of Thurstan Barton, Esq. of Smithells, and had (with a dau., Anne, m. to Thomas Dyke, of Westwick) a son,

JOHN STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, who m. in 1603, Margaret, dau. of Thomas Leighe, Esq., and had issue,

I. NICHOLAS, his heir.

II. Piers, a Dutch merchant, d. at Pendle Hall, 1689.

III. Edmund, d. in 1657.

I. Mary, m. Richard Banister, of Altham.

II. Elizabeth, m. Thomas Tildesley, of Garrat.

The eldest son,

NICHOLAS STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, m. 1st, Katherine, dau. of Lambert Tyldesley, Esq., and by her had an only dau., Anne, who d. an infant. He m. 2ndly, Grace, dau. of James Murgatroyd, of Murgatroyd, co. York, and by her had two sons,

* From the Starkies of Nether Hall, in Stretton, were derived the Starkies of Oulton, by the marriage of Peter Starkie, second son of Thomas Starkie, of Nether Hall, with the dau. and co-heiress of John de Oulton, of Oulton, Erds-wick, and Wrenbury. From these were descended Sir Humphrey Starkie, appointed chief-baron of the Exchequer, by patents, dated 1 EDWARD V. and 1 RICHARD III.; Hugh Starkie, of Oulton, gentleman-usher to HENRY VIII.; and Oliver Starkie, a Knight of Malta, and afterwards Grand Prior of the order.—See ORMEROD'S History of Cheshire, vol. ii. p. 103. The name is spelt in this history, Starkey, Starky, and Starkie. The manor of Oulton continued in possession of this family until the close of the 17th century, when this branch became extinct.

I. JOHN, of whom presently.

II. Edmund, of Riddlesden, co. York, m. Mary, dau. and heiress of R. Hammond, of Crawshaw, but d. s. p.

Mr. Starkie served in the parliamentary army, in 1643, and was dispatched from Preston after the surrender of that place, to take Hoghton Tower, the seat of Sir Gilbert Hoghton. "Having discharged a shot against the walls, a parley was obtained, which terminated in the surrender of the place. Capt. Starkie and his company then marched into the garrison, where they found three large pieces of ordnance, with a good supply of arms and ammunition; but while they were congratulating themselves on their easy conquest, the tower blew up, and the captain, with sixty of his men, either perished, or were dreadfully maimed by the explosion."* He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, who m. in 1654, Alice, dau. of Alexander Nerres, of Tonge-cum-Haulgh, and had issue,

I. JOHN, of whom hereafter.

II. Nicholas, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Col. Gunter, of Anbury, co. Wilts, who, with Mr. Bourdell, saved King CHARLES II.'s life, after the battle of Worcester, by sailing from Brighton to France, in a hired boat, and had issue,

1. Edmund, barrister-at-law, and representative for Preston in ten succeeding parliaments, d. s. p.

2. Nicholas, of Riddlesden, co. York, m. Sarah, dau. and co-heir of Valentine Farrington, M.D., of Preston, and had issue,

LE-GENDRE, of whom hereafter, as eventual successor to Huntroyd.

Betty, m. William Dixon, Esq. of Sutton.

3. John, in holy orders, rector of Halneker, co. Sussex, d. s. p.

4. Thomas, solicitor at Preston, m., but d. s. p.

5. William, merchant of Manchester, m. and had, with other issue, a son, Thomas Starkie, Esq. of Frenchwood, who m. Catherine, dau. of Edward Downes, Esq. of Sprigley, and was s. by his son, NICHOLAS STARKIE, Esq. of Frenchwood, co. Lancaster, and Riddlesden Hall, co. York, whose dau. and co-heir, Elizabeth-Susannah, m. in 1815, HENRY BENICE BENICE, Esq. of Thorington Hall, co. Suffolk.

III. Alexander.

I. Anne.

II. Mary.

III. Alice.

Mr. Starkie, who served the office of sheriff of Lancashire in 1656, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, b. in 1638, who m. Anne, dau. of William Hulton, Esq. of Hulton Park, and had issue,

I. PIERS, his heir.

II. John, in the Exchequer, d. s. p.

I. Alice, m. the Hon. Horace Townsend.

II. Mary, m. Peter Worthington, Esq. of West Houghton.

He d. in 1676. His eldest son,

PIERS STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, d. s. p. aged 74, when Huntroyd devolved upon his kinsman,

LE-GENDRE STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, (son of Nicholas Starkie, of Riddlesden, cousin to Piers Starkie.) He m. Frances, dau. of Walter Hawkesworth, Esq. of Hawkesworth, co. York, and was s. by his son,

LE-GENDRE-PIERS STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, who served the office of sheriff in 1806. He m. Charlotte, dau. of Benjamin Preedy, D.D., rector of Brington, co. Northampton, and had,

I. LE-GENDRE, his heir.

II. Le-Gendre-Piers.

III. LE-GENDRE-NICHOLAS, now of Huntroyd.

I. Frances-Le-Gendre, d. an infant.

II. Charlotte-Le-Gendre, m. Col. Henry Armitage, of the Coldstream-guards, second son of the late Sir George Armitage, Bart.

Mr. Starkie d. in 1807, and was s. by his son,

LE-GENDRE STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard-Atherton Gwilym, Esq. of Bewsey. He served the office of sheriff of Lancashire in 1815, but dying without issue, was s. by his brother, the present LE-GENDRE-NICHOLAS STARKIE, Esq. of Huntroyd.

Starkie of Twiston.

THOMAS STARKIE, of Twiston, next brother of Edmund Starkie, first of Huntroyd, m. Alice, youngest dau. and co-heir of Richard Worsley, Esq., and, by inquest,

* BAINES' Hist. Lanc., ii. 21.

holden after the death of the last Worsley, about the year 1465, he was found to be seised of one-third of the manor of Merley, and one-half of the manor of Twiston, which last was held in socage of John de Dyneley, and continued in Alice's posterity, of which was

THOMAS STARKIE, of Twiston, b. in 1580, who m. Miss Miles, and d. in 1678, leaving a son,

JAMES STARKIE, who appears to have s. to the Twiston estate the year of his father's death. He d. himself in 1708, having been four times married, aged 103, or 105; for in the register of his burial the figure is indistinct. His widow survived him sixty years, and thus a period of 160 years must have elapsed between the birth of the husband and the death of the wife. It is equally remarkable that his first marriage was late in life, and that he had issue by his fourth, when nearly 100 years old. By Sarah, his first wife, dau. of the Rev. Richard Coore, of Tong, co. York, Mr. Starkie left a son,

THOMAS STARKIE, who m. Elizabeth Varley, of Laund, and was father of

JAMES STARKIE, who m. Alice Lawson, of Langeliffe, and had three sons, THOMAS; Richard-Lawson; and John, who m. Miss Paley, of Settle, and had issue, (with four daus., Alice, m. to Mr. Bradbury, of Manchester; Anne, m. to Mr. Scott, of Settle; Mary, m. to Mr. Burn; and Eliza, deceased,) five sons, viz., John, deceased; James, of the Strand, London, (who m. in 1822, Miss Green, and has issue;) Thomas, deceased; Richard, m.; and William-Paley. The eldest son of James Starkie, and Alice, his wife,

THE REV. THOMAS STARKIE, fellow of St. John's College, and sometime vicar of Blackburn, m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Yatman, and had two sons and two daus., THOMAS, Matbew, Cecilia, and Anne. The elder son is the present

THOMAS STARKIE, Esq., Queen's counsel, who m. Lucy, dau. of the Rev. Thomas-Dunham Whitaker, of The Holme, vicar of Whalley, (one of the best of our local historians,) and has had issue,

THOMAS-WHITAKER, deceased.

Edmund-William, d. in infancy.

LUCY-ANNE, m. to Alfred Power, Esq.

Mary-Charlotte, d. in infancy.

KATHERINE-BLANCHE, twin with Mary-Charlotte, m. 23 Feb. 1846, to the Rev. Lowry Guthrie, rector of Cranley.

STARKEY OF THORNTON LODGE.

STARKEY, JOHN, Esq. of Thornton Lodge, co. York, b. 7 April, 1792; m. 14 Jan. 1835, Sarah-Ann, dau. of Joseph Armitage, Esq. of Milnsbridge House, near Huddersfield, and has had issue, LEWIS-RANDLE, b. 13 March, 1836.

Charles-Henry, b. 3 Feb. 1838, d. in Jan. following.

John-Frederick, b. 11 April, 1839.

STARKEY, JOHN-BAYNTUN, Esq. of Bromham, co. Wilts, b. 30 May, 1834; s. his father, 12 Jan. 1843.

Lineage.

Sidney, in his Treatise on Government, affirms that, in antiquity of possession and name, few of the nobility equal the family of Bayntun. From a very curious pedigree preserved in the Museum, it appears that, in the time of HENRY II., the Bayntuns were knights of St. John of Jerusalem. Sir Henry Bayntun was knight-marshal to the king, an office of high authority in those days, and his second son, Henry, a knight of St. John, was slain in Bretagne, in 1201. Temp. HENRY IV., Sir Henry Bayntun, taking part with the Earl of Northumberland, was beheaded at Berwick; and in 1471, Sir Robert Bayntun fought against the king at Tewkesbury, was made prisoner, and attainted. The Bayntuns were long settled at Falston, in Wiltshire; but upon the demise of Richard Beauchamp, Lord St. Amand,

JOHN BAYNTUN, Esq., (son of the attainted Sir Robert Bayntun,) who was his cousin and heir, removed to Bromham, anciently the seat of the Roches. This John Bayntun, who was restored in blood, 19 HENRY VII., m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Digges, Esq. of Chilham, in Kent. and had issue. He d. 31 Oct. 1516, was buried in Bromham church, and s. by his son,

SIR EDWARD BAYNTUN, Knt. of Bromham, who rose high in favour with HENRY VIII., and was vice-chamberlain to three of his queens. By King HENRY, Sir Edward was deputed to use his private friendship with Cardinal Pole, his cousin, to bring over the prelate to his Majesty's views, but all his endeavours proved unavailing. He attended his royal master in his expeditions to France, and is supposed to have died there. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Sulliard, Knt., chief justice of the Common Pleas, and had, by her, two sons and four daus. Sir Edward m. 2ndly, Isabel, sister of Sir John Alley, of Stockwell, in Surrey, and had by that lady, who survived him, two sons and a dau. Sir Edward d. in 1545, and was s. by his son.

SIR EDWARD BAYNTUN, Knt. of Bromham, who d. in 1593, leaving by Agnes, his wife, dau. of Griffith Rice, of Carew Castle, in Pembrokeshire (son of Sir Rice ap Thomas,* Knight of the Garter temp. HENRY VII.,) a dau., Anne, m. to Sir William Eyre, Knt. of Wilts, and a son and successor,

SIR HENRY BAYNTUN, Knt. of Bromham, who m. Lucy, dau. of Sir John Danvers, Knt. of Dantsey, in Wiltshire, and d. 24 Sept. 1616, leaving (besides, a dau., Elizabeth, m. in 1619, to John Dutton, Esq. of Sherborne) a son,

SIR EDWARD BAYNTUN, Knt. of Bromham, bapt. at Bremhill, 5 Sept. 1593, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Henry Maynard, of Eston, in Essex, and by her, who d. 30 March, 1635, had with other issue, EDWARD (Sir), his heir. Sir Edward m. 2ndly, Mary Bowell, and had issue, two sons and a dau. Sir Edward d. in 1657, and was s. by his son,

SIR EDWARD BAYNTUN, of Bromham, bapt. 2 Dec. 1618, who took an active part in the troubled times in which he lived, and acted as commissioner of the parliament, residing in the Scots army. At the Restoration he was created Knight of the Bath. He m. Stuarda, dau. of Sir Thomas Thynne, ancestor of Thomas Thynne, Esq. of Longleat, by whom he had issue,

HENRY, his heir.

Thomas, of Little Chalfield, in Wiltshire, m. and had issue.

His dau., Rachel, was mother of the Duke of Kingston.

Lucy, m. her cousin, Edward Bayntun, Esq., and had issue.

Sir Edward d. suddenly, 26 July, 1679, and was s. by his son,

HENRY BAYNTUN, Esq. of Bromham, bapt. 17 Nov. 1664, who m. Anne, eldest dau. and co-heir of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, by his wife, the heiress of the ancient family of Mallet of Enmòre, and by her (who m. 2ndly, the Hon. Francis Greville, father of Francis, Lord Brooke) had issue, JOHN, his heir; and ANNE, successor to her brother. Mr. Bayntun d. in 1691, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BAYNTUN, Esq. of Bromham, who m. Catherine Brouncker, but dying s. p. in 1716, was s. by his sister,

ANNE BAYNTUN, who m. 1st, Edward Rolt, Esq., M.P., of Sacomb Park, Herts, son and heir of Sir Thomas Rolt, Knt., and by him, who d. in Dec. 1722, had issue,

Thomas Rolt, of Sacomb, who m. Ann, dau. of Felix Calvert, Esq. of Nine Ashes, in Hunsdon, and d. in 1754, leaving a son and two daus., viz.,

STAUNTON OF STAUNTON.

STAUNTON, THE REV. J., of Staunton Hall, co. Nottingham, LL.D., b. in May, 1765; m. in May, 1793, Elizabeth, dau. of Job Brough, Esq., and has issue,

* Dr. Starky was of the ancient Lancashire and Cheshire family of Starky.

JOHN STARKY, of Heywood, in the former co., m. Mrs. Hindley, a widow, dau. of Gregg, of Hopwood, and had a son, SAMUEL STARKY, who m. Jane Wells, and had two sons and a dau., viz., Samuel, in holy orders; John, the late Dr. Starky, of Spy Park; and Mary-Anne.

WILLIAM-JOB-CHARLTON, in holy orders, m. Isabella, only dau. of the Very Rev. Dr. Gordon, Dean of Lincoln.

Elizabeth-Katherine, m. to George, eldest son of Dr. Gordon.

Mary-Anne.

This gentleman, whose patronymic was ASPINSHAW, assumed, together with his wife and children, in 1807, by sign-manual, the surname and arms of STAUNTON of STAUNTON, only. Dr. Staunton is rector of Elton-super-montem, and of Staunton-cum-Kelvington.

Lineage.

The family of Staunton,* which is of great antiquity, can be regularly traced from the time of the CONQUEROR, and though the name has not been ennobled, the Stauntons have ever maintained the station, scarcely less enviable, of respected country gentlemen.

Many of the branches have honourably served the state in parliament, on the bench, in the church, and in the army.

GALFRIDUS DE STAUNTON (son of Malgerus, temp. WILLIAM the Conqueror) gave lands in Kelum to the monastery of Rufford, which King STEPHEN confirmed. He m. Beatrice de Muschamp, and was grandfather of

SIR WILLIAM DE STAUNTON, Knt., who granted freedom to Hugh Travers, and all his progeny, for the reason that the said Hugh had assumed the cross for him, and proceeded to Jerusalem. Sir William m. Athelina, dau. and co-heir of John de Musters, Lord of Bosingham, in Lincolnshire, and thereby acquired part of that estate. Sir William was s. by his son,

SIR GEOFFERY DE STAUNTON, Knt., father of

SIR WILLIAM DE STAUNTON, Knt., who gave to Sir Theobald de Trickingham, Knt., in frank marriage with Margaret, his sister, and to their heirs, his rent in Scarthorpe and Silkeby; and the seal now appended to this deed exhibits two chevrons and "S. Willi. De Stavnton Militis," in the circumference. Sir William m. Isabel, sister of Sir Ralph de Kirketon, Knt., and dying in 1326, was s. by his grandson,

SIR GEOFFERY DE STAUNTON, sheriff of Nottingham and Derby, temp. EDWARD III., who m. Joan, dau. of Sir — de Loudham, Knt., and had three sons, viz.,

WILLIAM (Sir), who m. twice, and left at his decease, in 1371, an only dau., Elizabeth, the wife of William Hamstrell, Esq.

Thomas (Sir), who d. s. p. RALPH.

Sir Geoffery d. in 1369, and the estates eventually devolved upon the third son,

RALPH STAUNTON, of Staunton, who m. twice, but had issue only by his second wife, Constantia de Sutton. His son and heir,

THOMAS DE STAUNTON, of Staunton, who d. in 1446, was grandfather of

THOMAS DE STAUNTON, of Staunton, who m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Pourment, and was s. at his decease, in 1517, by his son,

ANTHONY STAUNTON, of Staunton, who m. Sith, dau. of Robert Nevill, of Ragnell, and had several children. He d. in 1560, when the estates devolved on his son,

ROBERT STAUNTON, Esq. of Staunton, "a very pious good man," who m. Bridget, dau. and co-heiress of Gabriel Barwick, Esq., lord of Buleote, in Notts, and was s. at his death in 1582, by his son,

WILLIAM STAUNTON, Esq. of Staunton. This gentleman disposed of his share in the estate of Buleote, to his cousin, Gabriel Odingsells, for £1500. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Daniel Deisney, Esq. of Norton Deisney, co. Lincoln, by whom he left at his demise, in 1602, a son and heir,

ANTHONY STAUNTON, Esq. of Staunton, under age, and in ward to the Earl of Rutland. The tradition is that "Sir Matthew Palmer, of Southwell, won him at howls of Robert Dallington, servant to Earl Roger, who

* There is a kind of rhyming bard-like pedigree of this family, made by one Robert Cade, who wrote a similar one for the Skeffingtons. It is of considerable length, containing nearly 150 stanzas, and transcribing all the epitaphs from the church.

gave him to that gentleman in 1604, and when he, the said Sir Matthew, had him, he married him to his sister Frances." By this lady (who m. for her second husband Robert Waring, of Wilford), he had a son and successor,

WILLIAM STAUNTON, Esq., of Staunton, who m. Anne, dau. of Edmund Waring, Esq. of Leycroft, co. Stafford. This gentleman joined in 1642, the Royal standard, at Nottingham, and thence attending his majesty CHARLES I. to Shrewsbury and Edge-Hill, obtained from his ill-fated master, a colonel's commission. He subsequently raised a regiment of foot, and provided for it at his own expense. This heavy outlay, with sequestration and composition money, reduced and eventually quite ruined his estate, for which he never afterwards obtained any return. Col. Staunton's second but eldest surviving son,

HARVEY STAUNTON, Esq. of Staunton, inherited the remnant of his father's possessions, and was last heir male of this ancient family, after a continued male succession of upwards of 500 years. He d. s. p. m., and left his estates to his eldest dau.,

ANNE STAUNTON, who m. Gilbert Charlton, Esq., son of Sir Joh Charlton, Bart. of Ludford, speaker of the House of Commons, temp. JAMES II., and had issue,

JOB STAUNTON, her heir.

Gilbert, in holy orders, rector of Staunton, who m. the relict of — Hall, Esq., and had two daus., who both d. in infancy.

Emma, m. to George Loddington, Esq. of Bracebridge, in the co. Lincoln.

Anne, m. Richard Brough, Esq. of Thoroton, in the co. Nottingham, and had issue,

1. George-Staunton Brough, in holy orders, rector of Staunton and Wollaton.

2. Richard Brough, a military officer.

3. Job Brough, who m. and had two sons, who both d. unm., and two daus., viz.,

Emma, m. to the Rev. Charles Fynes, rector of Cromwell, in Notts, and prebendary of Westminster, LL.D.

ELIZABETH, of whom hereafter, as inheritor of the Staunton estates. She m. the Rev. Dr. Aspinshaw, rector of St. Peter's, Nottingham, the present Dr. STAUNTON, of Staunton.

4. Francis Brough, R.N.

The elder son,

JOB STAUNTON CHARLTON, Esq., inherited the Staunton estates. He m. Mary, youngest dau. of Dr. Greenwood, M.D., of Northampton, and had, with three younger daus., Emma, Mary, and Elizabeth, who all d. unm.,

ANNE CHARLTON, who survived her three sisters for many years, and bequeathed, at her decease, her estate at Staunton, besides other manors, to her cousin, ELIZABETH, second dau. of Joh Brough, Esq., and wife of the Rev. Dr. Aspinshaw.

 There is an ancient custom, when any of the royal family honour Belvoir Castle with their presence, for the chief of the Staunton family personally to appear and present the key of the stronghold of the castle (called Staunton's Tower) to the royal visitors. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Staunton, in virtue of his tenure of the manor of "Staunton," commonly called "Castle Guard," with an appropriate speech to the Prince Regent (GEORGE IV.), when his royal highness honoured the Duke of Rutland with his presence at the christening of the Marquess of Granby, January, 1814. Dr. Staunton's son, the Rev. William-Job Charlton Staunton, in consequence of his father's illness, performed the same ceremony to H. R. H. the Duke of Gloucester, with an appropriate oration, when that prince paid a visit to Belvoir Castle in 1833.

STAUNTON OF LONGBRIDGE.

STAUNTON, WILLIAM, Esq., LL.B., of Longbridge, co. Warwick, b. 4 Aug. 1765; m. 10 Feb. 1798, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of the late Osborne Standert, Esq. of London, and granddaughter of William Standert, Esq., (by Susanna, one of the co-heirs of Charles Perrott,* Esq. of North Leigh, in Oxfordshire) by whom he has issue,

* The ancient family of Perrott (the founder of which Caroline.

Mr. Staunton s. his father in 1811. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. of the co. Warwick, and was formerly captain in the 1st regiment of Life-guards.

Lineage.

This family, which appears to have come originally from Nottinghamshire, was settled at Longbridge, co. Warwick, previously to the year 1450, where it has ever since remained in a direct male succession. The name occurs differently written at different periods, and has been indiscriminately used, Stanton, Staunton, and sometimes Staneton, and Staunton. The Stauntons of Staunton, in Nottinghamshire, were seated there in the time of EDWARD the Confessor, and the connexion of this family with that is thus stated in THOMAS'S edit. of DUGDALE'S Warwickshire, vol. ii. p. 665: "A branch of the family of Staunton, of Stannton, in Nottinghamshire. They gave for their arms, Arg. two chevrons, sable; and those of Warwickshire the same, with the addition of a border. This coat they took from Albany, lord of Belvoir, who bore for his arms, Or, two chevrons, and a border, gules; as holding lands by the tenure of Castle-guard, by keeping and defending a tower in the castle of Belvoir, which is to this day called the Stannton Tower."

THOMAS STAUNTON, of Longbridge, and Margery, his wife, by a deed in possession of the family, bearing date of 1461, and lands released to them in Longgebrugge, Hampton Curley, and Shirburne.

JOHN STAUNTON, of Longbridge, and Matilda, his wife, were admitted into the religious fraternity of the Guild of St. Anne, of Knolle,* co. Warwick, anno 1493.

THOMAS STAUNTON s. the above John, and is the first who appears in the visitation of the county of Warwick, in 1619. He was s. by his son,

JOHN STAUNTON, of Longbridge, who m. Elizabeth, dan. of Townesend, of Wales, and had issue,

I. THOMAS, his successor.

II. Thomas, bearing the same name as his elder brother, and is described as an "ancient captain in the Irish wars." He purchased, in the 18th ELIZABETH, the manor and advowson of Wolverton, in the co. Warwick. He m. 1st, Susanna, widow of Thomas Fisher, of the Priory, Warwick, and thus became possessed of the deanery there. He m. 2ndly, Mary, eldest dau. of George Padsey, of Langley Hall, in the co. Warwick, and by her left a son, Thomas, who m. a dau. of Walter Washington, of Radway, and had a son and dau., viz., Thomas, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Edward Cookes, of Pinley Abbey, in Warwickshire, and in his son this branch became extinct; and Alice, m. to John Wagstaffe, Esq. of Tachbrook, by whom she had a son, Sir Thomas Wagstaffe, Knt. of Tachbrook, whose only dau. and heirress, FRANCES WAGSTAFFE, m. Sir Edward Bagot, M.P. for Staffordshire, and was grandmother of the first Lord Bagot.

came out of Normandy with Duke WILLIAM, and whose son, Stephen, settled in Pembrokehire, and m. Eleanor, lady of Yestington, fourth in descent from Howel Dda, King of South Wales) became extinct in the last century, in the persons of four co-heiresses: 1. Elizabeth, m. to — Sparrow, Esq.; 2. Catherine, m. 1st, to R. Whitehall, Esq., and 2ndly, to John Parker, Esq.; 3. Susannah, m. to William Standert, Esq.; and 4. Jane, m. to the Rev. George Underwood, D.D.

* Amongst the entries in the original register of this Guild (which is now at Longbridge), 9th HENRY VII., the following occurs:—

"Johes Stawnton et Matilda ux. ej. Longhridge."

III. Richard, of Roxsall, in the co. Warwick, m. Isabell, dau. of — Ludford, and left issue, of whom there are now no representatives.

I. Margaret, d. s. p.

II. Elizabeth, m. to Simon Moy, of Stoke.

The eldest son and heir,

THOMAS STAUNTON, Esq. of Longbridge, left by Alice, his wife, one son and four daus., viz.,

HUMPHREY, his heir.

A dau., m. to Barnaby Holbache.

Elizabeth, m. to Edward Badger.

Judith, m. to Hammet Sadler, who appears to have been an intimate friend of Shakespeare, as he was godfather to the poet's only son, who was called after him, and his wife, Judith, godmother to the poet's youngest dau., named also after her. He was a subscribing witness to Shakespeare's will, and had a legacy of "twenty-six shillings and eightpence, to buy him a ring."

Margaret, m. to Thomas Masters, Esq.

This gentleman devised his estates to his son, under the proviso "that once every yeare on the feast of Pentecost, he and his heires for ever shall call together his sisters and their children, and generations for the time being, to Longbridge, to make merry with him and them." He was s. in 1610, by the said son,

HUMPHREY STAUNTON, Esq. of Longbridge, who, by Joane, his wife, left one son and five daus., viz., JOHN, Anne, Mary, Judith, Katherine, and Joane, wife of William Perkins, Esq. of Maston Jabet, co. Warwick. He d. in 1616, and was s. by his son,

JOHN STAUNTON, Esq. of Longbridge. The christian name of this gentleman's wife was Elizabeth, and he had issue, Humphrey, who d. young; JOHN, heir; Stephen; Thomas; Charles; Lettice, m. to Humphrey Greswolde, Esq. of Greet; and Abigail, m. to James Hales, of Foleshill, near Coventry. He d. in 1652, and was s. by his son,

JOHN STAUNTON, Esq. of Longbridge, who m. Elizabeth, third dau. of Sir Edward Master, of East Landon, in East Kent, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.

Edward, b. 2 Nov. 1658, M.A., d. at Oxford, in 1686.

Charles, b. 16 July, 1660.

Elizabeth, b. 10 July, 1654, m. to David Heywood, Esq.

Martha, b. 17 April, 1656.

Audery, twin with Edward.

Mr. Staunton received a commission in the Warwickshire militia, in 1660, under the Earl of Northampton. He d. in 1673, and was buried in St. Mary's, at Warwick, 25 Oct., in that year. He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN STAUNTON, Esq. of Longbridge, b. 10 March, 1656, m. Elizabeth, only dau. of Samuel Smalbroke, of Rowington, sister of the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, by whom he had a son, JOHN, his heir; and a dau., Elizabeth, b. 11 Dec. 1700. He was of St. Edmund's Hall, Oxford. He was buried at St. Mary's, Warwick, 29 Aug. 1705, and s. by his son,

JOHN STAUNTON, Esq. of Longbridge, b. 18 April, 1704, m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Grove, Esq. of Coventry, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Ellen-Gertrude-De Horne-Christy.

Emma-Isabella-De Horne-Christy

Mr. Steinman, whose patronymic was Smith, assumed his present surname, 19 Oct. 1832.

Lineage.

Two families of the name of Steinmann were settled so far back as the 14th century, in Switzerland, one at the town of St. Gall, and the other at Nieder-Urnen, (Canton of Glaris,) in both which places the name is yet to be met with; the Steinmanns of the latter claiming to be descended from the Steinmanns of the former. Another branch of the same stock settled in the 16th century, in the Canton of Zug, but they are only known to have resided there from 1513 to 1529. Of the Glaris branch, Conrad Steinmann was slain at the battle of Naefels, 9 Sept. 1388; and Hans, in the Suahian war, in 1499; Uli Steinmann, of Zug, at Navarra, 5 June, 1513; and Herman, of the same canton, at Marignan, 14 Sept. 1515. For notices of these, and of others of the name, see LEU'S Helvetic Lexicon, xvii. pp. 602, 603, and Supplement by HOLZABB, v. p. 635.

The Steinmanns of St. Gall were, till the 16th century, called by the additional surname of Bingasser, and it is of this line that we are about to treat.

ULRICH STEINMANN BINGASSER, of St. Gall, in Switzerland, living in 1392, d. in 1423, leaving two sons, HANS, of whom presently; and Ulrich, living in 1436, an impression of whose seal, containing, within a circle, inscribed STEINMANN GENANT BINGASSER, a heater-shaped shield, bearing a stag's horn in pale, is still preserved in the archives of St. Gall. The elder son,

HANS STEINMAN BINGASSER, Burgher of St. Gall, 1437, by Anglica, his wife, was father of Walti, living in 1490; Otmar, who m. Elsa von der Tanen, of the ancient family of that name, now extinct, but then seated at Hohentannen, near Bischoffzell, in Thurgovia, and d. 1492; and

RUSCHLI STEINMANN BINGASSER, of Tohel, in Thurgovia, living in 1490, whose son, Mathaus Steinman Bingasser, Burgher of St. Gall in 1510, Town judge (stadtrichter) and Eiller in 1527, d. in 1534, having had issue four sons, 1. Sebastian, slain at the battle of Cappel, 11 Oct. 1531; 2. Joachim, m. Elsbetha Muller, and had numerous issue; 3. Christian, m. 1st, Ursula Weser, and 2ndly, Mary Hogger, by both of whom he had issue; and

MICHAEL STEINMAN, who relinquished the surname of Bingasser. He was, in 1566, chief officer of a guild (zumft-meister) at St. Gall, and d. 18 April, 1571, leaving a son,

STEPHENS OF TREGENNA.

STEPHENS, HENRY-LEWIS, Esq. of Tregenna Castle, co. Cornwall, s. his father in 1834.

1297

Lineage.

This family has possessed estates in Cornwall for four centuries at least. In the reign of EDWARD IV., John Stephyn settled as a merchant in the borough of St. Ives, and acquired considerable possessions there, still enjoyed by his descendants. At a subsequent period, John Stephens, of St. Ives, in common with others holding a certain quantity of land, was summoned to the coronation of CHARLES I., there to receive knighthood, and pay the fees, but like many situated so remotely from the capital, he preferred to transmit the fine for refusal, amounting to £16, which was levied to recruit the exhausted treasury. The original receipt for the sum, signed by the treasurer, Godolphin, is still preserved in the family.

JOHN STEPHENS, Esq., who purchased the ancient manor of Killigrew, co. Cornwall, and d. in 1764, was the lineal descendant of John Stephyn, who first settled at St. Ives. He m. Mary, eldest dau. of Samuel Phillips, Esq. of Peudrea, co. Cornwall, and had several sons and daus., who all d. young, with the exception of a dau., Anne, and a son,

SAMUEL STEPHENS, Esq., M.P. for St. Ives, first returned in 1752, who m. in June, 1762, Anne, only child and heiress of Richard Seaborne, Esq. of Herefordshire, and had issue, John, SAMUEL, and Augustus. He d. in March, 1794, and was s. by his son,

SAMUEL STEPHENS, Esq. of Tregenna Castle, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Cornwall, and high-sheriff of that county in 1805. In 1806, he was first returned to parliament by St. Ives, and continued to represent that borough for several years. He m. 29 Nov. 1796, Betty, only child and heiress of Captain Samuel Wallis, of Tremaine, the celebrated circumnavigator, by Betty, his wife, dau. and co-heir of John Hearle, Esq. of Penryn, and had, besides the present HENRY-LEWIS STEPHENS, Esq. of Tregenna Castle, four other sons and one dau., viz.,

i. Samuel-Wallis, d. at Toulouse, in 1835.

ii. John-Augustus.

iii. Francis-Hearle, major 1st royal dragoons, m. 1st, Eliza Tuthill, who d. s. p. in 1836; and 2ndly, in 1839, Louisa-Sophia, dau. of R.-A. Prior, Esq.

STEUART OF DALGUISE.

STEUART, JOHN, Esq. of Dalguise, co. Perth, b. 7 Aug. 1799; m. 6 April, 1829, the Hon. Janet-Oliphant Murray, eldest dau. of Alexander, eighth Lord Elibank, by Janet, his wife, only dau. and heir of John Oliphant, of Bachilton and Pitheavlis, co. Perth, styled Lord Oliphant, and has issue, Margaret-Henrietta-Maria-Janet.

Charlotte-Amelia-Sophia.

Caroline-Jane. Amelia-Helcn.

Clara-Mary-Moutolieu.

Mr. Steuart s. to the estate of Dalguise, on the death of his father, in 1821. He is a deputy-lieut. and magistrate for the co. Perth, and has held, since 1829, the office of high-sheriff of the colony of the Cape of Good Hope.

Lineage.

SIR JOHN STEUART, of Arntullie and Cardneys, also designed of Dowallie, the youngest natural son of King ROBERT II. of Scotland, by Marion, or Mariota de Cardny, dau. of John de Cardny, of that ilk, and sister of Robert, Bishop of Dunkeld from 1396 to 1436,* was the lineal male ancestor of this family. He obtained from his father, in 1382, a charter of the lands of Arntullie, Tullybelty, and Little Dalmarnock, in the thanedom of Kinclaven, in Perthshire; also the lands of Dowallie and Rotonell, and from his brother, King ROBERT III., a charter of the two Cardneys, and Butterston, inter lacos, in the same county, dated there, 12 Feb. 1399. There was likewise granted to him a pension, "furth of the customs of Dundee." Sir John Steuart was knighted at the coronation of King James I., at Scoue, in 1424. He m. Jean Drummond, sister of Annabella Drummond, queen of ROBERT III., dau. of Sir John Drummond, of Drummond, by Mary Montifex, a co-heiress of Sir William Montifex, justiciary of Scotland. On the death of Sir John Steuart he was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN STEUART, who m. Janet Wyghtman, and was the father of the third laird of Arntullie, who m. a dau. of Sir James Liddell, of Halkerston, chamberlain of Scotland, and d. about the year 1520, leaving three sons,

- i. —, ancestor of the family of Arntullie and Cardneys, now MENZIES of CULDARES, whose present lineal and male representative, Ronald Steuart Menzies, Esq., is the grandson of John Steuart, Esq. of Cardneys, who took the name of MENZIES, on succeeding, as heir of entail, to Culdares and Meggernie Castle &c., the estates of his maternal uncle, Col. Menzies. The greater part of the former extensive possessions of this family in the co. Perth have now been disposed of. In 1657, the barony of Arntullie, obtained as above stated, in 1382, was sold by the laird of Arntullie to his brother-in-law, Sir Thomas Stewart, of Grandtully. The two Cardneys, and Butterston, were retained until near the end of the eighteenth century; they were then sold to David Steuart, Esq., lord-provost of Edinburgh, a younger son of John Steuart, Esq. of Dalguise, and by him, to his nephew, Charles Steuart, Esq. of Dalguise, by whom, at the beginning of the present century, they were re-sold to the late John, Duke of Atholl. The eldest son of the third laird of Arntullie, † m. a dau. of Ross of Craigie, by Elizabeth Lyon,

* This prelate was a great benefactor to the diocese over which he presided, as the eighteenth bishop, for forty years. His monument, with a recumbent statue, is in the south aisle of the cathedral, in a recess of the wall, under a canopy adorned with crochets. The figure of the bishop is represented in pontificalibus, wearing his mitre. The inscription on the stone plate is very much defaced, it runs thus: "Hic jacet Dns Robertus de Cardny, Eppis. Dunkeldensi qui —." Three words are here defaced, and the inscription on the plate to the back is partly broken off; what remains is, "ad incarnationem, Dni mcccxxx." Bishop Cardny was one of the hostages for the redemption of King JAMES I., then a prisoner in England. He d. in 1436.

† The connexion between the family of Arntullie, and that of Dalguise, its younger branch, several of the latter having been called to act in the capacity of guardian or tutor to the lairds of Arntullie, during minorities, at various periods during the last two centuries, renders the following brief notices appropriate. The order issued by government, at the Reformation, respecting the cathedral of Dunkeld, under the signature of the Regent Murray, and the Lords of Argyll and Ruthven, is as follows:—

"To our traist friendis, the Lairds of Arntilly and Kinvaid.

"Traist friends, after most hearty commendation, we pray you fail not to pass incontinent to the Kirk of Dunkeld, and tak down the hail images thereof, and bring them forth to the kirkyaird, and burn them openly. And siclyke cast down the alters and purge the kirk of all kind of idolatry. And this ze fail not to do, as ze will do us singular impleasure, and so commiteth you to the protection of God.

"From Edinburgh, the xii of August, 1560.

"ARGYLL,

"JAMES STEUART.

"WILLIAM RUTHVEN.

"Fail not but ye tak guid heyd that neither the desks, windochs, nor duiries, be any way hurt or broken, eyther glassin wark or iron wark."

The statistical account of Scotland, in reference to the manner in which this order was obeyed, states: "Tradition affirms, that what the lairds had left undestroyed, was demolished by the laird of Cardney (and Arntullie), among whose family papers the original order for the destruction is to be found. This laird unroofed the cathedral, although one of his ancestors had honourably presided in it as bishop, whose tomb was and still is one of its attractions, and from whom part of his power as laird had been derived."

It is probable that the laird of Arntullie was charged by government with the duty of removing these monuments from the cathedral, from his holding the office of bailie of the regality of Dunkeld, which continued for some time in his family. The statistical account remarks that, "in 1452, Bishop Lauder, on assuming the mitre, found his

dau. of John, sixth Lord Glamis, and had a son, George Steuart, of Arntullie, whose dau., Margaret, m., in 1591, Capt. Geo. Leslie, of Renrorie, commander of Blair Castle, and was the mother of Alexander, first Earl of Leven.

ii. JOHN, ancestor of the family of Steuart of Dalguise.

iii. THOMAS (Sir), vicar of Dowallie.

JOHN STEUART, second son of Steuart of Arntullie, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Alexander Stewart, of Grandtully, by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Murray, of Tullibardine. To him the lands of Dalguise were granted, in 1543, by George, Bishop of Dunkeld, (honorabili viro, Johanni Steuart, &c.) He d. in 1576, and was buried in the church of Little Dunkeld, leaving a son, ALEXANDER STEUART, second of Dalguise, who s. his father in 1576. He m. Beatrix Maenair, or Forbes, the dau. or niece of Sir Duncan Forbes, of the family of Craigievar, rector of Little Dunkeld; the lands of Ladyland, which were brought to the family by this marriage, remained for several generations in their possession. He likewise obtained the lands of Kinneraigie, in 1584, which were afterwards sold, and re-purchased by his grandson, the fourth laird, but again sold about the year 1667. Alexander Steuart d. about the year 1620, leaving, with other issue, an eldest son,

JOHN STEUART. He was eminent as a leader of the Athol Stewarts, who joined the standard of Montrose, during the civil wars, and having been chamberlain to the Bishops of Dunkeld, he possessed considerable influence in the neighbouring districts. He was usually styled, in the Gaelic language, Ian Mohr, Macalastair, or Great John, the son of Alexander. This laird m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Steuart, of Kinnaird, of the family of Rosythe. He d. in 1653, leaving issue,

i. ALEXANDER, who succeeded.

ii. WILLIAM, to whom, in 1630, his father granted the lands of Middle Dalguise. He m. a dau. of — Scryngeour, and had a son, JOHN STEUART, whose wife was a dau. of Menzies of Bolfracks, by whom he had an only dau., ISOBEL, who, in 1686, m. her cousin, John Steuart, of Dalguise.

iii. A son, from whom are descended several Stewarts, in Strathbraan. George Steuart, one of this branch, was an architect, in London: his son, Lieut.-Col. Robert Steuart, receiver-general of the Isle of Man, d. lately, without issue.

Also several daus., of whom,

i. Margaret, m. in 1624, Alexander, son of Robert Menzies, of Aherfeldy.

ii. Another, m. Maclaren of Easthaugh, whose descendant and representative was the mother of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Robert-Henry Dick, of Tullymett, K.C.B.

diocese plundered in every quarter, and was obliged to solicit the king's commission, as bailie. In virtue of this office, he imprisoned and hanged the most outrageous." It is not certain at what time the office was first granted to the lairds of Arntullie, in room of the bishop; the oldest commission now preserved is under the sign-manual of King JAMES VI., and bears the date of 1592; it appoints the laird (George Steuart, of Arntullie), to hold the office in the same manner "as his predecessors had bruiched (enjoyed) the same." The Duke of Atholl is now hereditary bailie of Dunkeld, in place of the bishop, to whom it afterwards reverted.

In the appendix to his History of Scotland, Tytler gives the letter from which the following extract is taken, as illustrative of the circumstances relating to the death of the Earl of Atholl, chancellor of Scotland, who was supposed to have been poisoned; it is addressed to Sir George Bowes, the English ambassador. "As I wrote to you of before, that the Earl of Atholl, his sickness, was thought to be mortal, so he now departed this present life, at Kincardine, the 25th of April, (1579,) not without great suspicion, and a crying out that he was poisoned. And yet I think with time, that bruit (report) will vanish, notwithstanding that the Lord of Arntully, whose name is Stewart, was by the Earl of Montrose and the remanent friends that was present when the corpse was opened, sent to the king's majesty, humbly requiring for trial and punishment. To whom his majesty answered, Giff that matter were true, it concerned himself, for divers respects; and yet, as it were a shame to him to leave the matter untried, and if need required, unpunished, so were it ane sin to slander any innocent personage, and therefore he would not fail, but to take trial, and thereafter to proceed to punishment. The whole friends of the dead are convened at Dunkeld, upon the 3rd of May, where the young Earls of Atholl and Montrose put in deliberation what were the best way to come by revenge of this heinous fact."

A stone mural monument was placed, early in the seventeenth century, over the cemetery of the Arntullie family, in the north aisle of Dunkeld cathedral, on which armorial bearings and quarterings are sculptured, and its inscription states it to be, "the place of buriall of the Honourabill Hous of Arntullie, descendit from ROBERT II., King of Scots," &c.

ALEXANDER STEUART, the eldest son, s. his father in 1653. In 1672, he was appointed tutor, or guardian, to the laird of Arntullie, a minor, as his nearest male relative on the father's side. He m. Christian, dau. of James Drummond, of Newton, second son of George Drummond, of Blair, or Blair-Drummond, by Catherine, dau. of Sir Patrick Hay, of Megginch,* and had issue,

ALEXANDER, younger of Dalguise, who d. before his father.

Alexander Steuart, of Dalguise, the elder, d. there, in 1675. His son, ALEXANDER STEUART, m. Giles, daughter of Robert Flemyng, of Moness, by a dau. of Sir John Campbell, of Glenlyon, of the Breadalbane family. He d. in 1669, during the lifetime of his father, and left, besides other issue,† a son,

JOHN STEUART, who s. his grandfather, being then a minor. There is an act of curatory, dated 1678, in favour of John Steuart, of Dalguise, whereby James Stewart, in Dalmarnock, and John Steuart, of Middle Dalguise, are declared nearest relatives on the father's side, and William Stewart, of Drumcharie, and John Steuart, of Cannif, on the mother's side. This gentleman married, as above stated, in 1686, his second cousin, Isobel Stewart: he was a commissioner of supply for the county of Perth, and took a part in many of the military and political transactions of the time. John Steuart, Esq. of Dalguise, d. in 1706, leaving issue,

- I. JOHN, his successor.
- II. Thomas, who d. in London, unm.
- III. Charles, drowned in the river Tay, at Dalguise, at the age of 18.
- I. Isobel, m. — Neil, second son of Steuart of Bonsheid, and left issue. One of her posterity was grandmother of Sir John Stewart Richardson, Bart. of Pitfour.

JOHN STEUART, seventh laird, b. in 1689, s. his father in 1706, and possessed his estate during the long period of seventy years. He was engaged in the rebellion of 1715, participated, as an officer of cavalry, in the battle of Sheriffmuir, and suffered fine and imprisonment. He built the house of Dalguise, which was commenced shortly before the rising of 1715, but bears the date of 1716. He was a magistrate and commissioner of supply for the county of Perth. He m. twice, viz., 1st, in 1710, Katherine, dau. of Mungo Murray, of Kincairney, (whose father was younger brother of Sir Patrick Murray, first Bart. of Ochertyre,) by Anne, dau. of Alexander Robertson, of Lude,‡ by which marriage he had,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. Thomas, treasurer of the Bank of Scotland, m. his cousin, Isobel Murray, (who d. in 1775,) dau. of Mungo Murray, Esq. of Kincairney, and d. at Edinburgh, without issue, in 1792.

By his second wife, Margaret Finlay, sister of Robert Finlay, Esq. of Walliford and Drummore, co. Haddington, who d. in 1774, Dalguise had,

- III. James, who d. unm.
- IV. Hew, governor of Bencoolen, in Sumatra, who d. at sea, unm., in 1782.
- V. David, a merchant and banker in Edinburgh, lord-provost of that city about the year 1778. He was, with the Hon. Henry Erskine, guardian of the late Steuart Menzies, Esq. of Culdares, father of the present representative of the Steuarts of Arntullie and Cardneys. He m. in 1776, Anne, dau. of Robert Fordyce, Esq. of Broadford, and niece of Sir William Fordyce, F.R.S., lord-rector of Marischal College and University, and of Dr. James Fordyce: by her he had issue,
- I. John-Robert, F.R.S.

* She was sister of the father of James, first Earl of Carlisle, K.G., and George, first Earl of Kinnoull.

† From a younger son of this laird was probably descended the late Charles Stuart, Esq., M.D., who d. in 1770, aged 88: his father was a clergyman of the Scottish episcopal church; and his mother, a dau. of Durie of Craighuscar, co. Fife. He left a large fortune to his relative by the mother's side, the Rev. J. Menteath, rector of Barrowby, in Lincolnshire, who purchased the estate of Closeburn, co. Dumfries, now possessed by his respected son, Sir Charles Stuart Menteath, Bart.

‡ And Catherine, dau. of Sir John Campbell, of Glenorchy, (father of the first Earl of Breadalbane,) by Lady Mary Graham, dau. of William, Earl of Strathorne, Menteith, and Airth.

2. Hew, post-capt. R.N., on whom the Emperor of Russia conferred the order of St. Vladimir, for his gallant conduct in the Baltic. He m., and d. in 1837, leaving a son, who is settled in Ceylon, and two daus.
3. Thomas-David, col. of Bengal cavalry, m. Miss Pinkerton, of Glasgow, and d. in 1838, leaving David. Charles. Frederick. Caroline.
4. Claude-Scott, formerly of Bombay, now residing at Dalguise House.
1. Anne, m. Hugh Mair, Esq. of Wysebie, co. Dumfries, and had an only dau., Anne, wife of Lieut.-Col. Graham, of Mossknow, co. Dumfries.
2. Harriet, m. Robert Anderson, Esq. of Eskbank, near Edinburgh.
3. Mary-Sophia, m. John Robertson, Esq. of Foveran, co. Aberdeen, d. in 1838, leaving issue, Andrew-Robertson, Esq. of Foveran, Lieut. 14th light-dragoons. David-Steuart. John. Julia, m. David Sandeman, Esq.

- I. Anne, m. John Duncan, Esq., and d. in 1758, without issue.
- II. Christian, b. in 1730, m. the Rev. John Steele, of Gadgirth, (widower of the heiress of the ancient family of Chalmers of Gadgirth,* on whose death, without issue, the estate devolved upon her surviving husband,) by whom she had two daus.,
1. Julia, m. Francis Redfearn, Esq. of Langton, co. York.
2. Margaret, m. Lieut.-Col. Burnett, of Gadgirth, and has issue.

On the death of John Steuart, Esq. of Dalguise, 25 Sept. 1776, aged 87, he was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN STEUART, Esq., b. in 1712. He m. in 1740, Christian, only dau. of Samuel Graham, Esq. of Stoneyhill, descended of the Gartmore family. He was a magistrate and commissioner of supply for Perthshire: the children of the above marriage were,

- I. John, who d. at Dunkeld, aged 13.
- II. James, } d. young.
- III. John, }
- IV. James, }
- V. CHARLES, on whom the succession devolved.
- VI. Thomas, capt. in the 77th, or Royal Atholl Highlanders, in which corps he raised his company, in 1777, but afterwards exchanged to the 63rd regt. of foot. He d. at sea, at the age of thirty, and was interred at Bridlington, in Yorkshire. By his marriage with Susan, only dau. of William Dick, Esq. of Tullymett, he had two daus.,
1. Agnes-Donaldson.
2. Christian-Helen, who m. John Stewart, Esq. of Persey, and left issue.

John Steuart, Esq. of Dalguise, d. at Edinburgh, in 1785, aged 73, and was buried in the Greyfriars Churchyard, in that city; to him succeeded his fifth but eldest surviving son,

CHARLES STEUART, Esq., b. in 1756. On the death of his father, in 1785, he s. to the estate of Dalguise &c. He m. 1st, in 1786, Grace, eldest dau. of Robert Steuart, Esq. of Ballechin, by Isabella Hope, granddau. of Sir Thomas Hope, Bart. of Rankeilior and Craighall: she d. without surviving issue, in 1787. Mr. Steuart m. 2ndly, in 1794, Amelia-Anne-Sophia, (who d. in 1808,) second dau. of Laurence Oliphant, Esq. of Gask, by Margaret, only dau. of Duncan Robertson, Esq. of Strowan.† He was appointed

* Sir George Chalmers was the early friend and supporter of Knox: the reformer preached in the hall of the Castle of Gadgirth, in 1566.

† The Hon. Marjory Nairne, wife of Duncan Robertson, Esq. of Strowan, and the Hon. Amelia Nairne, wife of Laurence Oliphant, Esq. of Gask, were daus. of Lord William Murray, second LORD NAIRNE, (brother of the first Duke of Atholl, and the first Earl of Dunmore,) who was the son of John, Marquis of Atholl, by Lady Amelia-Sophia Stanley, dau. of James, seventh Earl of Derby, K.G., and Lady Charlotte de la Tremouille, dau. of the Duc de Thouars and Prince de Talmont, in France. The mother of Lady Charlotte de la Tremouille was a dau. of the first Prince of Orange, whose wife was of the Montpensier branch of the royal family of France. The gallant defence of Lathom House, by the Countess of Derby, after her husband had been beheaded at Bolton, is recorded in history. James, Earl of Derby, the most distinguished of the race of the Stanleys, was the son of the sixth earl, by Lady Elizabeth de Vere, dau. and co-heir of Edward, seventeenth and last Earl of Oxford, K.G.: his grandmother, Lady Margaret Clifford, of Cumberland, was a deputy-lieutenant for Perthshire, on the first institution of that office for Scotland, in 1794; he was also a magistrate and commissioner of supply for the county; he purchased from his uncle, David Steuart, Esq., a part of the estate of Cardneys, containing the site and remains of the ancient residence of the Steuarts of Arntullie, at which is dated, in 1399, the original charter of those lands, by King ROBERT III., to the ancestor of the family; this estate was, however, afterwards sold. Mr. Steuart d. at Dalguise, 27 Oct. 1821, aged 65; by his second marriage he had issue,

- I. JOHN, who succeeded.
- II. Laurence-Oliphant, who d. young.
- III. Charles, b. in 1803, ensign in the 42nd, or Royal Highland regt., d. of the malignant fever, at Gibraltar, 3 Nov. 1828, unm.
- I. Margaret-Henrietta-Maria.

On the death of Charles Steuart, Esq. of Dalguise, in 1821, his eldest son inherited his estate, and is the present and tenth laird.

STEUART OF BALLECHIN.

STEUART, ROBERT, Esq. of Ballechin, co. Perth, s. his father, Hope Steuart, Esq., in Jan. 1834.

Lineage.

This is an illegitimate branch of the royal house of Stewart, springing from

SIR JOHN STEUART, natural son of King JAMES II. of Scotland, who purchased the lands of Sticks &c., in Glenquach, from Patrick Cardney, of that ilk. Of those lands he got a charter from JAMES III., dated Dec. 1486, wherein he is designated, Honorabilis Vir Dominus Joannes Steuart frater bastardus supremi Domini nostri Regis. And in another charter, of August, 1494, in King James IV.'s reign, he is designed, Honorabilis Vir Dominus Joannes Steuart, frater b. — quondam supremi Domini nostri Regis. He m. —, and had three sons, WILLIAM, JOHN, and PATRICK, by the eldest of whom,

WILLIAM STEUART, of Sticks, he was succeeded. This gentleman dying s. p., was followed by his brother,

JOHN STEUART, of Sticks, whom Matilda Johnston, Lady Rattray, but d. without legitimate issue, at Ballechin, in 1559, having settled several of his lands upon his natural sons, John and Alexander, as appears by his charters to them, dated at Ballechin, in 1543 and 1550. He d. at an advanced age, in 1559, having previously obtained from Queen MARY (in 1543) licence to absent himself from the wars in consequence of his age. He was s. by his brother,

PATRICK STEUART, of Ballechin, co. Perth. This gentleman m. Elizabeth Buttar, dau. of Buttar of Gormack, by whom (who m. 2ndly, Patrick Ogilvie, of Inchmarton) he had three sons,

- I. JAMES, his heir.

- II. George.

DOUGLAS, in the Peerage of Scotland, mentions another dau., Anne, m. to George Leslie, captain of the garrison of Blair Castle, temp. JAMES VI., progenitor of the Earl of Leven.

He was s. by the eldest,

SIR JAMES STEUART, Knt. of Ballechin, who sold the lands of Sticks to Sir Duncan Campbell, of Glenorchy. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Sir Robert Crichton, of Ellick and Cluny, and sister of the “Admirable Crichton,” (contract of marriage dated at Blair, in Athol, 2 Feb. 1586, to which John, Earl of Athol, James, Lord Doun, designed the lady's uncles, and James, Earl of Murray, are undertakers of sureties for the dower.) By this lady he had a son, ROBERT, his successor; and a dau., Elizabeth, m. to Duncan Robertson, Esq. of Dalcabon, ancestor of the Earl of Portmore. Sir James m. 2ndly, in 1597, Elizabeth, dau. of James, and sister of Sir Andrew Rollo, of Duncrub, progenitor of Lord Rollo, and had two other sons, viz.,

John, of Killichassie, whose great-grandson,

James Steuart, Esq., an eminent banker in Edinburgh, settled at Stewartfield, near that city.

George, ancestor of Steuart, of Loch of Clunie.

Sir James Steuart was s. by his eldest son,

STEWART OF ST. FORT.

STEWART, HENRY, Esq. of St. Fort, co. Fife, b. in 1796; s. to the estates at the death of his brother, Archibald-Campbell Stewart, Esq.; m. Jane, dau. of James Fraser, Esq. of Culduthell, co. Inverness, and has issue,

ROBERT-BALFOUR. James-Affleck.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the royal house of Stewart. JOHN STEWART, the first of Urrard, son of Robert Stewart, of Fincastle, was lineally descended from John Stewart, progenitor of the Athol Stewarts, fourth son of Alexander, Lord Badenoch, Earl of Buchan, fourth son of King ROBERT II., by his first marriage with Elizabeth Mure, of Rowallan, (see BROWN'S Tree of the Stewarts.) He n. a dau. of McGrigor, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT STEWART, of Urrard, who m. a dau. of Robertson of Faskally, and had issue, ALEXANDER, his heir; and George, of Balloan. Tradition affirms that this Robert being on a foray with the Marquess of Athol, and returning home on verbal leave, his lands of Urrard were seized as those of a vassal who had deserted his lord superior. Craig Urrard is situated behind Blair Castle, and the site of the old mansion of the family is still pointed out in the park of Blair. The son and successor,

ALEXANDER STEWART, m. Christian, dau. and heiress of Leslie of Renrory, (from this time called Urrard,) governor of the castle of Blair, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT STEWART, of Urrard, who m. Margaret, dau. of the celebrated Charles Robertson, of Auchleeks, commonly called Fearlach n'en l'ed, and had two sons,

JOHN, his heir.
 WILLIAM, of whom presently.

The elder son,

JOHN STEWART, of Urrard, m. 1st, a dau. of Menzies of Rotmills, by whom he had, amongst other issue, JAMES, his heir; and a son, who d. in childhood of fright, during the battle of Killcrankie, fought near the mansion-house of Urrard, in 1689: he m. 2ndly, Jean, dau. of James Stewart, of Fincastle. He was s. by his son,

JAMES STEWART, of Urrard, who m. 1st, Ann, dau. of Campbell of Balgershoo, by whom he had, amongst other issue, Jean, called Minay n'm léan, m. to Niel McGlashan, of Clune. This lady acted a distinguished part in Stirling Castle, after the battle in 1715. James Stewart m. 2ndly, a dau. of Robert Menzies, of Weem, by whom he had no issue. He was s. by his son,

JOHN STEWART, of Urrard, who m. Susan, dau. of Lord Niel Campbell, of Ardmadie, governor of Dumbarton Castle, (second son of Archibald, Marquess of Argyll, beheaded at Edinburgh, 27 May, 1661,) and had a son,

JAMES STEWART, of Urrard, an officer in the Black Watch, who m. 1st, Grace, dau. of Robertson of Faskally, by whom he had no issue; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Robertson of Tullybelton, by whom he had,

JOHN STEWART, of Urrard, his heir, and other sons, who leaving no issue, the male representation of the family reverted to the descendants of

WILLIAM STEWART, of Loinmaristock, second son of Robert Stewart, of Urrard, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of Charles Robertson, of Auchleeks: he m. Grizel, dau. of Ferguson of Pitfourie, and was father of

ROBERT STEWART, of Loinmaristock, who m. Janet, dau. of Stewart of Croftmore, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM STEWART, Provost of Perth, who m. Christian, only child of Patrick Cree, also Provost of that city, and had issue,

ROBERT, his heir.

 Barbara, d. unm. Mary.

The eldest son,

ROBERT STEWART, b. in 1746, entered the military service of the East India Company, and attained the rank of captain, serving on the staff of General Clavering, in that country. On his return, he purchased the estates of Castle Stewart, in Wigtonshire, and St. Fort, in Fifeshire, the former of which was afterwards sold. He m. Ann Stewart, dau. of Henry Balfour, of Dinbory, and had issue,

ARCHIBALD-CAMPBELL, his heir, d. unm.

HENRY, successor to his brother.

William, an officer in the Coldstream-guards, assumed the surname of Balfour, in addition to that of Stewart, in conformity with the will of his maternal uncle, Lieut.-Gen. Nisbet Balfour.

Christian, d. unm.

II. JOHN-HENRY-FRASER, b. 2 Feb. 1821, a lieut. in her Majesty's 52nd regt. of foot.

I. Anne-Forbes.

II. Jamesina-Joyce-Ellen, m. 25 July, 1839, to Henry L'Estrange Styleman Le Strange, Esq. of Hunstanton Hall, co. Norfolk, (see that family.)

Mr. Stewart is a magistrate for the counties of Banff and Inverness, and a deputy-lieut. for the former. He was one of the representatives for the borough of Beverley in the last parliament of GEORGE IV.

Lineage.

The Stewarts of Drumin, in Banffshire, to which branch of the family Mr. Stewart belongs, trace their descent from ROBERT, second son of WALTER, the high-steward, and Princess Marjory, dau. of King ROBERT BRUCE, who succeeded to the crown of Scotland in 1371. His fourth son, ALEXANDER STEWART, Lord of Badenock and Earl of Buchan, was father of SIR WALTER STEWART, of Strathaven, knighted for his services at the battle of Harlaw, in 1411. His son, SIR WALTER STEWART, purchased the lands of Drumin, in 1471, and was father of THOMAS STEWART, of Kilmachly, whose son, THOMAS STEWART, m. twice: by his first wife he was father of John Stewart, of Kilmachly; and by his second wife, a dau. of Forbes, Lord Pitsligo, was father of THOMAS STEWART, of Drumin, whose son and heir, THOMAS, m. Isabel, dau. of Gordon of Bucky, and had two sons. The elder, John, d. unm.; the younger and successor, THOMAS STEWART, of Drumin, m. Lillias, dau. of Grant of Auchernack, and was father of JOHN STEWART, of Drumin, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Forbes of Skellater, by whom he had two sons, Charles, the elder, d. s. p.; and

STEWART OF BINNY.

STEWART, JOHN, Esq. of Binny, co. Linlithgow, b. 4 March, 1776; m. 9 Feb. 1809, Janet 1304

Houstoun, dau. of James Dundas, son of Dundas, of Philipstone, Linlithgowshire. Mr. Stewart is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. of the county, and was formerly a captain in the Hon. E. I. Co.'s maritime service. He s. his elder brother, Robert, in 1802, and is convener of the county of Linlithgow.

Lineage.

The cadets or branches of the great house of Stewart may properly be divided into two classes—the first consisting of such as diverged from the family before its accession to the crown of Scotland; and the other, of those who came off after its royal elevation. The line whose genealogy is here to be given is of the first-named class, and deduces its origin from

WALTER, the third designed of Dundonald, and third lord high steward of Scotland, made justiciary of Scotland by King ALEXANDER II., 24 Aug. 1230, who went as ambassador to France, to negotiate the king's marriage with his second wife. He m. Beatrix, dau. of Gilchrist, commonly designed Earl of Angus, and by her had issue,

I. ALEXANDER, his successor.

II. ROBERT (Sir), of whose line we treat.

III. John, killed in the holy war, at the siege of Damietta, in Egypt, 1249.

IV. Walter, Earl of Menteith, in right of his wife, heiress of Walter Cumyn, Earl of Menteith.

V. William, ancestor of the Ruthven family.

I. Elizabeth, or according to Simpson, Beatrix, said to have m. Maldwin, Earl of Lennox, son of Alwin, second Earl of Lennox, grandson of Alwin MacArkil, first Earl of Lennox.

II. Christian, m. to Patrick, Earl of Dunbar.

III. Margaret, m. to Niel de Galloway, alias Carrick, Earl of Carrick.

Walter Stewart, who was the first that settled the surname of Stewart upon his posterity, d. about 1246, having bestowed numerous donations to religious houses and bishops' sees. His second son,

SIR ROBERT STEWART, of Torbolton and Cruickstoun, was father of ALEXANDER STEWART, of Torbane and Raiss, who got a charter from Nicol Graham, Lord Torbolton, dated at Torbolton, the Feast of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, in 1284. He was s. by his son, ALEXANDER STEWART, of Raiss, whose son and heir,

HECTOR STEWART, of Raiss, was s. by ALEXANDER STEWART, of Raiss, who had a charter from John, Lord Darnley, Earl of Lennox, his kinsman, of the lands of Raiss and Halrig, dated the penult. of March, 1484. He was father of

JOHN STEWART, of Raiss, as is shown by a precept of sasine by John, Earl of Lennox, to him, as son and heir of his father, Alexander, dated 1550. He was s. by

WILLIAM STEWART, of Halrig, who was knighted when Henry, Lord Darnley, was created Earl of Ross. He or his father sold the lands of Raiss, co. Renfrew. In Halrig, he was s. by his son,

JOHN STEWART, of Halrig, who had a sasine upon a precept out of the chancery, 10 May, 1570. He was father of

JOHN STEWART, of Halrig, who s. about 1587: his son,

WILLIAM STEWART, had three sons, I. William, of Halrig, who sold that estate, and d. s. p.; II. JOHN, of whom we treat; and, III. James of Drumlay, whose representative had an office about Queen ANNE's household. The second son,

JOHN STEWART, of Shawood, m. 1st, Margaret Cathcart, and by her had (with three daus., viz., I. Janet, m. (contract dated 22 Jan. 1662) to Hugh Crawford, of Smedieshaw; II. Jane, m. 26 May, 1669, to John Wallace, of Holmston; and, III. Marion, m. to (contract dated 19 April, 1671) James Ritchie, of Sandiford) two sons, William, his heir, of Shawood, who possessed also the lands of Hiseside. He m. Julian, dau. of Macgilvane, of Gremmet, and had several children, all of whom d. s. p. The estate of Shawood was sold about this period.

ROBERT, of whom presently.

Mr. Stewart m. 2ndly, Lillias, dau. of Bortwick of Halherind, and by her had one son, JOHN, of East Binny, of whom hereafter; and one dau., Anne, m. to the Rev. Archibald Campbell, of Weem. The second son,

ROBERT STEWART, an advocate of some eminence, purchased the lands of East Binny, and all the heirs male of John Stewart, of Shawood, being dead, he appeared to have been the representative. He disposed his lands to his half-brother,

JOHN STEWART, of Binny, who m. Jean, dau. of Muirhead of Lachop, and had (with several daus., of whom the second, Peggy, m. McBuncle; the third, m. Dallars of St. Martin's; and the youngest, Lillias, m. Mr. Moir, of Auchterloch) three sons,

ROBERT, his heir.

John, who purchased the lands of Easterurgs, co. Edinburgh; he was deputy-governor of Blackness Castle. He m. Janet Macvey, and had issue,

John. George. Charles.

Anne. Jean-Lillie.

James, surgeon in the 3rd or Queen's Own Dragoons, m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Dunhar, Esq. of Leuchold.

The eldest son and heir,

ROBERT STEWART, of Binny, m. Magdalen, dau. of Sir James Dalziel, Bart. of Binns, and by her had two sons, ROBERT, his heir; and JOHN; and five daus., Helen; Jane, m. to David Falconar, of Caolowne, co. Linlithgow, and had issue; Mary; Magdalen; and Anne. He purchased the lands of Woodside, co. Linlithgow, which he disposed to his second son, John, and dying 7 April, 1786, was s. by his elder son, ROBERT STEWART, of Binny, who d. in 1802, and was s. by his brother, the present JOHN STEWART, Esq. of Binny.

STEWART OF LESMURDIE.

STEWART, JAMES, Esq. of Lesmurdie and New Milne, a retired captain in the army, b. 15 April, 1797; s. his father, 24 April, 1824. He is a deputy-lieut. for Banffshire.

Lineage.

An illegitimate branch of the Stewarts of the clan Allau, derived from the Earls of Athol, or Badenock, settled in Strathdown, Aberdeenshire, and from this line the Lesmurdie family descended.

JAMES STEWART, first of Lesmurdie, m. Elizabeth Strachan, granddau. of Alexander Strachan, of Lesmurdie, and appears to have acquired these lands by disposition from Elizabeth, Margaret, and Helen Strachan, and husbands, dated 8 Sept. 1664: he (by his wife, Elizabeth Strachan) had a son, ALEXANDER STEWART, who was served and retoured heir to his father, 10 Dec. 1695. He m. Margaret Crighton, and seems to have had a son, John: he disposed the estate to James Stewart, of Auchorachan, (probably a brother,) in life-rent, and Alexander Stewart, his eldest son, in fee, 29 April, 1697.

JAMES STEWART, of Auchorachan, thereafter of Lesmurdie, appears to have m. Margaret, eldest dau. of Alexander Duff, of Keithmore, and by her had, ALEXANDER STEWART, his son, and others, and a dau., m. to Mr. Syme, minister at Mortlach. The son, ALEXANDER STEWART, m. 1st. Elizabeth Gordon, dau. of Francis Gordon, of Craig, and 2ndly, Helen Chalmers, and had by these ladies,

FRANCIS, his heir.

William, of Auchorachan.

Patrick, of Tininver.

Alexander, minister of Leslie.

Helen, wife of James Leslie, of Kininvie.

Elizabeth, wife of Robert Reid, of Newmill.

Helen Chalmers d. 13 Jan. 1759, having survived her husband, who seems to have d. in the preceding year. The eldest son,

FRANCIS STEWART, of Lesmurdie, s. his father: he m. Elspeth Gordon, dau. of William Gordon, of Farskine, as appears by contract of marriage between them, dated 21 April, 1726, and by her he had,

ALEXANDER.

William, wine-merchant in Gottenburgh.

Helen, m. to Alexander Grant, of Mundole.

Elizabeth, m. to Alexander Innes, of Dorladders.

Jean, m. to Archibald Duff, sheriff-clerk of Moray.

Francis Stewart sold the estate of Lesmurdie to William Stewart, his second son, and d. about the year 1772. The second son,

WILLIAM STEWART, m. Barbara, dau. of William King, of Newmill, (contract of marriage, dated 4 Feb. 1763,) and by her had,

FRANCIS (Major-Gen.), of Lesmurdie.

Alexander. William (Major-Gen.)

STODART OF KAILZIE AND ORMISTON.

STODART, GEORGE, b. in 1789; s. to the representation of the family at the death of his brother Robert, in 1837. He m. in 1817, Janet, only child of his relative, James Stodart, Esq., F.R.S.L.

Lineage.

Concerning the origin of the name of Stodart there is the following tradition:—The first of the family came over with WILLIAM the Conqueror, as standard-bearer to the Vicomte de Pulesdon, a noble Norman, who bore for arms, three silver stars on a sable ground. The name is derived from the office of standard-bearer, and was anciently written De la Standarde. This office conferred a high rank on its occupant, and was generally given to a near relation, in whose family it frequently became hereditary.

When the family emigrated to Scotland is not known, but they have possessed estates in Selkirkshire and elsewhere for above three hundred years.

JOHN STODART, of Loanhead, was a cadet of this long-descended line. He m. Marion Haig, and had issue, of which the youngest son,

ROBERT STODART, was b. in 1749. After having been sometime in the West Indies, he settled in London, and was, by the command of King GEORGE III., offered a baronetcy by Mr. Pitt; but being more ambitious of leading a retired life than of being elevated to an hereditary dignity, Mr. Stodart declined it. He shortly afterwards left London, and acquired the estates of Kailzie, Peebleshire, and Ormiston, Mid-Lothian, both of which have been alienated. He m. in 1784, Aliee, eldest dau. and co-heiress of James Turnbull, Esq., the last male representative in the direct line of a branch of the ancient family of Turnbull, which is said to have possessed property in Roxburghshire for eight hundred years. On the death of her only sister, Mrs. Riddle, without issue, Mrs. Stodart became sole heiress of this old family. Mr. Stodart d. in 1831, and his widow in 1833. They had issue,

- I. ROBERT, b. in 1786, s. in 1831, and d. unm. in 1837.
- II. James, b. in 1788, d. s. p. in 1827.

STOKES OF STANSHAWES COURT.

STOKES, ADRIAN, Esq. of Stanshawes, co. Gloucester, a magistrate for the shire.

Lineage.

This family is of Norman origin, and claims to be a branch of the ancient and illustrious house of Montespodon, now believed to be extinct in Normandy. From old documents, it appears that its ancestors must have come to England after the Conquest, when honour and possessions were assigned to them; their history, however, is not uninterruptedly traced until the time of EDWARD II., 1312, when we find, by records in the Tower, that SIR ADAM DE STOKKE was seised of the manors of Stokke and Rutishall, co. Wilts. THOMAS, his eldest son, held the manor of Sende, with other lands in Wiltshire; and Roger, his second son, the manors of Wolshall, Savarnage, and Hungerford, in the same co. The latter, (Roger) with his father, Sir Adam, were interred in the church of Great Bedwin, to which they had been benefactors, where their monuments and effigies are still to be seen. JOHN, a descendant of Thomas, represented the co. in parliament, in the time of CHARLES II. In the reign of ELIZABETH we find JOHN STOKYS, (the first change which took place in the orthography of the name,) erected the chapel or church of Sende, and lies there interred. In the 15th century, CHRISTOPHER STOKES (when the name finally changed) held the manor of Stanshawes, with other lands in Gloucestershire. EDWARD STOKES held part of the manor of Fetherton, and lands at Langley-Burrell, in Gloucestershire. Later, JOHN STOKES held the manors of Stanshawes and Codrington, with other lands in the same co.; and about 1700, RICHARD STOKES, of Calve Castle, Wilts, held considerable possessions in the counties of Gloucester and Berks. Some of the family enjoyed lands in Sussex and Kent; and within the last fifty years, possessed considerable property in the counties of Wilts, Gloucester, and Warwick. The family is now represented by the above-mentioned ADRIAN STOKES, Esq., who inherits Stanshawes and some portion of the ancestral property.

FRANCIS LOWE, Esq., who accordingly inherited Brightwell at the decease of Mrs. Stone, in 1738.

The family of Lowe, originally De Loup, came into England at the Conquest, and were settled in Bedfordshire, in the reign of HENRY VII. Francis Lowe was descended from THOMAS LOWE, Esq., who had m. Aliee, eldest dau. and co-heir of Richard Reynes, Esq. of Clifton, co. Bucks, (which place, to the present day, bears the name of Clifton-Reynes, the said Richard Reynes being lord of the manor,) by Maud, dau. of John Booth, Esq. of Durham-Massey, co. Chester. This Reynes obtained Clifton, partly by purchase, and partly by inheritance. Thomas Lowe, before mentioned, obtained Clifton, as the share of his wife, on the division of the property among the co-heiresses. Richard Reynes d. in 1556, leaving two daus. The above Thomas Lowe, esquire of the body and captain of the guard of HENRY VIII., was grandson of THOMAS LOWE, who had been settled at Wavendon, co. Bedford, about fifty years. On the death of his father-in-law, he fixed his residence at Clifton, in right of his wife, Aliee, and presented to the church of Clifton in 1573. He d. soon after, leaving an only son, FRANCIS, heir to Clifton. This property continued in the family of Lowe for several generations, until James Lowe, Esq., who s. in 1637 to the estate of his father, Reynes Lowe, (the second of that name,) who m. the dau. of James Mayne, Esq. of Bovingdon, Herts. This James m., and by his wife, Elizabeth, had several children; but being of expensive habits and engaged in lawsuits, was obliged to sell his manor and estate at Clifton, called Clifton-Reynes, in 1672, to Sir John Maynard, serjeant-at-law. The family of Lowe afterwards became settled at Ridgmont, in Bedfordshire. Francis Lowe m. Elizabeth or Frances, dau. of John Corrahee, Esq. of Parham, and sister of Clemence Corrahee, Esq., M.P. for Oxford, and d. in June, 1754, having had issue,

John, who d. unm., and was buried in the chancel at Brightwell, where a monument is erected to him.

Charles-William.

Lineage.

This family derived its name from STOCHE, or STOEKE, in Surrey, and TUN, a word signifying "enclosure." At the period of the CONQUEST, Godwin de Stockton resided at Stockton, and in the 3rd EDWARD III., Henry de Stockton had royal licence to empark there certain acres of land. In the early part of the sixteenth century, the family became divided into two branches; the elder division continued at Stoughton, and obtained a baronetcy, 29 Jan. 1660-1, which, in 1691-2, became extinct, at the death of Sir Lawrence Stoughton, of Stoughton. The second branch, seating itself at St. John's, Warwick, a large and ancient mansion, originally the hospital of St. John the Baptist, remained there in direct descent for a long series of years, until the male line expired with George Stoughton, Esq. of St. John's, whose eldest dau. and co-heir, Eugenia, m. Lieut.-Col. Money, of Pitsford; and thus the representation of the Stoughtons of St. John's has devolved on that gallant officer's grandson, the present REV. WILLIAM MONEY-KYRLE, of Hom House, Much Marele, co. Hereford, (see p. 684.)

A younger son of the English family settled in Ireland, and founded the respectable branches of the name still resident there. The great-great-great grandfather of the present representative,

ANTHONY STOUGHTON, Esq. of Rattoo, clerk of the Court of Castle-chamber, living in 1624, m. Honora, sister of Murrough O'Brien, Earl of Inchiquin, and had (with four daus., Margaret, m. 1st, to William Sandes, Esq. of Carraigafolle, and 2ndly, to Edward Payne, Esq.; Elizabeth, m. to Col. Roger Moore, of Johnstown; Ellen, m. to Thomas Blennerhassett, Esq.; and the fourth, m. to Mr. Harding, of Cork) two sons: the younger, William, d. unm.; the elder,

HENRY STOUGHTON, Esq. of Rattoo, m. 1st, Mary, 2nd dau. of John Ponsonby, Esq. of Crotto, and had by her an only dau., Honora, m. to Edward Shewell, of Ardfer. He m. 2ndly, Sarah, dau. of Sir Thomas Crosbie, and had two sons, ANTHONY, his heir; and Thomas, who m. Dorothy, dau. of the Rev. Archdeacon Bland, and had issue. The elder son,

HENRY STRANGWISH, of Strangwish Hall, Manchester, the common ancestor of the various families of the name married, and had, with other issue,

JAMES, his heir.

ROGER, who m. Alice, dau. of Robert Orrell, Esq., and his eldest son, THOMAS, m. ALANOR, dau. of Walter Talboys, and was s. by his son, HENRY, who m. 1st, — dau. of Sir John Wadham, and had an only dau., Elizabeth, who m. Thomas Trenchard, of Dorsetshire. He m. 2ndly, Dorothy, dau. of Sir John Arundell, of Lanherne, and was s. by his son, SIR GILES STRANGWISH, of Melberrie Sampford, co. Dorset, from whom we pass to his descendant and representative, GILES STRANGWAYES, Esq. of Melberrie Sampford. This gentleman was representative in parliament for Dorsetshire, and one of the privy council to King CHARLES II. In the time of the civil war, he had the command of a regt. in that division of the royal army which acted under Prince MAURICE in the west. In 1645, he was imprisoned in the Tower, for his active loyalty, where he endured confinement for more than two years and a half. There is a fine medallion struck of Mr. Strangwayes upon this occasion, on the reverse of which is represented that part of the Tower which is called Cæsar's, with this inscription:

"Decusque adversa dederunt."

When Charles fled into the west in disguise, after the battle of Worcester, Mr. Strangwayes sent his majesty three hundred broad pieces, which were perhaps the most seasonable present the royal fugitive ever received. This was, however, but a small portion of the sum which is to be placed to the account of his loyalty, as the house of Strangwayes paid no less than £35,000 for its fidelity to the crown. This gallant cavalier m. Susanna, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Edwards, of London, merchant, and had, with other children, all of whom d. s. p., his successor, THOMAS STRANGWAYES, Esq. of Melberrie Sampford, who m. Susan, dau. and heir of John Ridout, Esq. of Bristol, and had five sons and four daus., of whom one dau. only left issue, namely, SUSANNA, who m. Thomas Strangwayes-Horner, Esq., and had an only dau., ELIZABETH, who m. in 1736, Stephen Fox, EARL of ILCHESTER, who, in pursuance of a deed of settlement, assumed the name and arms of STRANGWAYES.

Lineage.

STRELLEY, auciently STRELLEGH, co. Nottingham, gave name and residence to the knightly family of the Strelleys, one of the oldest and most famous in the county, where it held for many centuries extensive possessions, as well as in the counties of Derby and York.

In the ninth parliament of HENRY IV., assembled at Gloucester, ROBERT DE STRELLEY sat as M.P. for Derbyshire, and in HENRY V.'s reign, JOHN DE STRELLEY represented the same county in the parliament held at Westminster. Several members of the family have served as high-sheriffs of Derbyshire, viz., ROBERT STRELLEY, Esq., in 1446; ROBERT STRELLEY, Esq., in 1452; SIR ROBERT STRELLEY, Knt., in 1464; NICHOLAS STRELLEY, Esq., in 1529; and SIR NICHOLAS STRELLEY, Knt., in 1538.

SIR PHILIP STRELLEY, Knt., a collateral kinsman of the last-named Sir Nicholas Strelley, lord of the manor and demesne lands of Oakerthorpe, co. Derby, devised by his will, dated 1603, the manor of Oakerthorpe to the company of goldsmiths of London, upon trust to permit the next of kin of his name and family to hold the same for ever. He was s. by his kinsman,

STRICKLAND OF SIZERGH.

STRICKLAND, WALTER, Esq. of Sizergh, co. Westmorland, b. at Paris, 5 Sept. 1825. Mr. Strickland inherited the estates upon the demise of his father.

Lineage.

We shall begin the detail of this ancient family with an extract from Nicholson and Burn's History of the Antiquities of Westmorland and Cumberland.

"In Helsington there hath been a family at Sizergh Hall, much more ancient than any of the names of Bindlow or Pellingham, as lords of the manor. Which family came from Strickland, (or rather Stirkland,) which was the pasture ground of the young cattle (called stirks or steers) in the parish of Morland, in this county, in which, part they had considerable possessions, as well as at Sizergh and other adjaecut places, generally holden under the harons of Kendal. It is somewhat extraordinary, that amongst the pedigrees of almost all the other ancient families in this county we have met with no satisfactory account of this family; but by the indilgence of the late worthy owner of Sizergh Hall, Charles Strickland, Esq., we have been enabled to make out a regular and authentic deduction of this family from the clearest and most undeniable evidence—viz., the family writings."

The first of the name of Strickland met with is in the reign of King JOHN, when Gilbert Fitz Reinfrid having been compelled, on account of his involvement with the rebellious barons, to give hostages for his future conduct, which hostages were the sons, dans., and heirs of the priniepal mesne lords holding under the barons of Kendal, amongst whom was the son and heir of SIR WALTER DE STIRKLAND. In the time of Hugh, Bishop of Carlisle, who came to the see towards the beginning of the reign of King HENRY III., this Sir Walter had license to keep a domestic chaplain in his family, within the parish of Morland, so as it should be of no prejudice to the mother church. Sir Walter Stirkland granted to the church of St. Mary's, York, and to the prior and monks of Wedeshal (which was a cell of the said abbey) four acres of land in the territory of Stirkland, moulter free. The son of this Sir Walter was

ADAM DE STIRKLAND, whose son,

SIR ROBERT DE STIRKLAND, granted by deed, dated at his manor of Great Stirkland, on the Eve of St. John the Baptist, 23 HENRY III., to William, his son, and Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Ralph Deineourt, Knt., on their marriage, his whole manor of Great Strickland. This Sir Ralph Deineourt had an only son, Ralph, at whose decease, without issue, the inheritance devolved upon the above Elizabeth Strickland. Sir Robert was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM DE STRICKLAND, who, in the 4th EDWARD I., was under-sheriff of the co. Westmorland. He confirmed, in the 20th EDWARD I., the grant made by his great-grandfather, to the abbot of St. Mary's, York, and the monks of Wedeshal, and was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR WALTER DE STRICKLAND, who in the 28th EDWARD I. was with the king at the siege of Carlaverok, and in the 1st and 6th of EDWARD II., was knight of the shire for Westmorland. In the 15th of the same reign, he was appointed sheriff of the co. Westmorland. In two years afterwards, he was again knight of the same shire. In the 9th of EDWARD III., Sir Walter obtained a grant to inclose his wood and demesne lands at Sizergh, and to make a park there, and to hold the same so inclosed to him and his heirs for ever. This Sir Walter, on the marriage of his son, Thomas, with Cecilia, dau. of Robert de Wells, settled the manor of Haekthorp and his lands in Overwinder &c., on the issue of that marriage, with remainder to John and Ralph, his other two sons. He appears to have had issue,

THOMAS, his successor.

John, who was knight of the shire for Westmorland, 1 EDWARD III., and to whom Sir Walter granted, 7th of the same reign, all his lands of Whenfell, with remainder to his son, Thomas.

Ralph.

In the 17th EDWARD III., Sir Walter again represented the county in parliament, and was s., upon his demise, by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS STRICKLAND, who in the 35th EDWARD III., obtained a patent empowering him to impark his woods at Helsington, Levesnes, and Hackerthorp, containing three hundred acres, for his good services done in France. In the same year, Katharine de Ross, dau. of Sir Thomas Strickland, and widow of John de Ross, of Kendal Castle, assigns over to her father (Sir Thomas) the ward and marriage of her dau., Elizabeth de Ross, who was afterwards married, in the 8th RICHARD II., to Sir William del Parr.

In the 36th EDWARD III., there is an indenture of covenant between Sir Thomas Strickland and Ranulph de Dacre, lord of Gillesland, concerning the marriage of Walter, his son and heir, with Margaret de Latham, niece of Ranulph. In four years after, Sir Thomas made a settlement of lands at Siggeswick and Levens upon his younger sons, John, Peter, and Thomas, for life, with remainder to his own right heirs. Sir Thomas had a fifth son, William, who was consecrated Bishop of Carlisle, 24 Aug. 1400, and who d. at Rome, in 1419. Sir Thomas d. in 1377, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WALTER DE STRICKLAND. This gentleman had no issue by his first wife, Margaret de Latham. He m. 2ndly, Isabella, dau. of John de Olney, which John, in the 5th of RICHARD II., settled upon the issue of that marriage a tenement in London, known by the name of Great Place, situate in the parish of St. Mary-at-Hill. In the 14th of RICHARD II., Sir Walter was escheator for the king on the inquisition, post mortem, of Thomas de Ross, and, in four years after, was a knight of the shire for Westmorland. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS DE STRICKLAND, who entered into agreement with HENRY V., dated 29 April, 1415, to serve the king in his wars in France during one year, and to him was confided the distinguished honour of hearing the hammer of St. George at the ever-memorable battle of

Azincourt, (see NICOLAS' Azincourt, 115-171.) In the fifth year of HENRY VI., Sir Thomas entered into articles of agreement with Nicholas de Crofte, Esq., wherein both parties became bound, under the penalty of 400*l.*, for the solemnization of a marriage between Walter Strickland, Sir Thomas's son and heir, with Douce, dau. of the said Nicholas, when he, the said Walter, should attain his fourteenth year. In the 7th year of HENRY VI., Sir Thomas represented the co. Westmorland in parliament. In the 9th year of the same reign, Sir Thomas went to London, and joined the solemn cavalcade that was to attend the young king to Paris, in order to his coronation. In the 10th HENRY VI., Pope EUGENIUS IV. granted to Sir Thomas, and Mabel, his wife, licence for a domestic chapel and portable altar, which bull is yet extant, with the seal of lead very fair, about the breadth and somewhat more than double the thickness of half-a-crown, with a cross on one side, and underneath EUGENIVS, PP. III. On the reverse, two faces of venerable old men, and above, the letters SPASPE. Sir Thomas was s. by his son,

WALTER STRICKLAND, Esq. In the 15th HENRY VI., this gentleman had a grant of the office of keeper of the park of Calgarth. In the next year, the king appointed him receiver-general of all his rents in and about Kendal, with a fee of 10*l.* per annum, and 2*s.* per day when upon duty. And afterwards, in lieu of these, the king granted to him the pannager and herbage of the said park, the tithing of Windermere, and all his lands and tenements in the hamlets of Appletwhaite and Undermelbeck, for term of life, he paying to the king five marks yearly. In the 18th of HENRY VI., this Walter released to the king the demand of one thousand marks, due to the said Walter, from the crown, for taking of Henry Talbot, a most notorious traitor of our Lord HENRY V., late king of England, by virtue of the proclamation of the said late king, in consideration of the king's granting to him the office of master of the king's dogs called Heirers. Walter Strickland appears to have been a zealous Lancastrian, and of the forces he was enabled to raise, with their proper habiliments, we have a muster-roll yet extant, which seems to have been made out chiefly in respect of the border service. In the 20th HENRY VI., he was knight of the shire for Westmorland, and in seven years afterwards, according to the usage of those times, he was retained by Richard, Earl of Salisbury, to serve him in peace and war. Upon the triumph of the house of York, by the accession of EDWARD IV., we find him obtaining a charter of pardon. This Walter Strickland had issue,

THOMAS, m. to Agnes Parre, dau. of William Parre, son of Sir Thomas Parre, and his wife, Elizabeth, one of the three sisters and co-heirs of Henry, Lord Fitz-Hugh. John, knight of the shire for Westmorland, 12 EDWARD IV. Margaret, m. to William, son of Richard Redman, for which marriage a dispensation was obtained from Vincent Clement, the pope's nuncio.

Walter was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR THOMAS STRICKLAND, Knt., who was s. by his son, WALTER STRICKLAND, Esq., who, in the 15th of HENRY VII., had a dispensation to marry Elizabeth Falkeld, and was s. by his son,

Mr. Strode, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Devon, served as high-sheriff of the co. in 1825.

Lineage.

This family (formerly of Strode, in the parish of Ermington; of Newnham, Loughtor, Newnham Park, and Chaddlewood, in the parish of Plympton St. Mary; of Kerswell, in the parish of Holbiton; of Dittisham; of Meavy Church; of Tavistock; of Ugborough; and of Boterford, in the parish of North Huish, all in Devon) we may confidently state to be, in its antiquity, alliances, possessions, and position in parliamentary and county history, one of the most distinguished of the many distinguished British families on whom hereditary honour has never been conferred. It was seated, at a date beyond record, on its manor of Strode, while occupying which, it yielded eminent warrior-knights to Kings HENRY III. and EDWARD I.; in the last of which reigns, Adam Strode, of Strode, was among the Western chiefs, summoned by herald to attend his sovereign with men-at-arms into Scotland. After continuing many descents at Strode, the family removed to the neighbouring seat of Newnham, which estate was acquired by the marriage, temp. HENRY IV., of Sir John Strode, of Strode, with the co-heiress of Newnham. Their descendant and heir, SIR WILLIAM STRODE, of Newnham, Knt., m. Elizabeth Courtenay, sole child, by his wife, Joan, dau. of Sir Richard Fowhill, of Fowhillseombe, in Devon, of Sir Philip Courtenay, of Loughtor, descendant of the first Sir Philip Courtenay, of Powderham, younger son of Hugh Courtenay, second Earl of Devon. His descendant and heir, SIR WILLIAM STRODE, of Newnham, Knt., celebrated in Prince's Devonshire Worthies, as "a person of great honour, worth, and esteeme in his county, who died a little before the evil war began," had, with numerous daus., "all very worshipfully married," three sons, I. SIR RICHARD STRODE, Knt. of Newnham and of Chalmington, in Dorset, M.P. for Plympton, in the parliament of 1640, and continuator of the line at Newnham; II. William Strode, Esq. of Meavy Church, who was "burgess for Beeralston in the parliament, third year of King CHARLES I., and then, 1629, by the said king, was committed to the Tower of London, with John Eliot and other members, where they continued to the parliament 1640, when the said William Strode sat again as a member for Beeralston, and was in that parliament impeached by the king as one of the five members;" and, III. John Strode, Esq. of Tavistock, "a great favourite of the nobility and gentry, who spent much of his time about London, and was counted the best bowler in all England." The direct senior line of Strode terminated with the great-great-grandson of Sir William, M.P. in 1640, William Strode, Esq. of Newnham Park, who d. 27 Aug. 1767, when Newnham Park and estates passed to the heir male,

RICHARD STRODE, Esq. of Boterford, son of William Strode, Esq., by his wife, Mary-Anne Cholwich, of Oldstone House, and grandson and heir of George Strode, Esq. thereof, son and heir of John Strode, Esq. of London, second son of William Strode, Esq. of Ugborough, son and heir of Sampson Strode, rector of Dittisham, who d. in 1631, tenth son of William Strode, of Newnham, and Elizabeth Courtenay. This Richard Strode, Esq. of Boterford and Newnham Park, m. Admonition, dau. of Thomas Lear, Esq. of Sandwell, Devon, and had issue,

- I. WILLIAM, his heir.
- II. RICHARD, successor to his brother.
- III. GEORGE, present possessor.

Beatrice-Charlotte-Eleanor.

Gertrude-Pollexfen.

Mabel-Fiennes.

Lineage.

The name of Strong, formerly written Stronge, is a corruption from Straunge or Storage: branches of which family were at an early period seated in various counties of England. In the Calendar. Inquis. post mortem, we find Hugo Straunge, 1 HENRY V., having estates near York; Baldwin Straunge, in the co. of Stafford, temp. HENRY VI.; and Johannes Straunge, Armiger, in the cos. of Norfolk and Suffolk, 15th of the same reign. GAGE'S History of Suffolk contains an account of John Straunge bequeathing certain lands in that county a century earlier, A.D. 1378. The will of Johannes Stronge, of Coventre, bears date 1522. But Nether Stronge, in Somersetshire, seems to have been the "eumabula geutis," the name occurring frequently in the records of that and the adjoining counties, after this date.

THE REV. WILLIAM STRONG, rector of More Critchel, in Dorsetshire, afterwards a famous preacher at Westminster Abbey, buried there, 4 July, 1654, (see Bibl. Brit.) was probably of the Nether Stronge family.

MELANCTHON STRONGE, of Nether Stronge, living in 1650, m., and had (with two daus., Mary, wife of — Gosforth; and Elizabeth, b. in 1687, who m. Samuel Sandeforth, Esq., and had a dau., Anne, m. 12 April, 1742, to Robert Streatfeild, Esq.) a son,

MELANCTHON STRONGE, who, according to an entry in the books of the Haberdashers' Company, July, 1694, was apprenticed for seven years to William Rypm, citizen of London. He subsequently settled at Garratt, near Wandsworth, in Surrey, and d. 28 March, 1750, leaving a son, MELANCTHON STRONGE, b. in 1706, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Thomas Sanders, Esq. of Hookwood, in Charlwood, (of the ancient family of Sanders of Sanderstead,*) and had issue.

STUART OF INCHBRECK.

STUART, ALEXANDER, Esq. of Laithers, co. Aberdeen, head and present representative of the families of Stuart of Inchbreck and Sibbald of Kair, b. 1 Jan. 1795; m. 1 Oct. 1828, Isabella, second dau. of the late John Lawson, Esq., Capt. R.N., by Catherine, his wife, dau. of Dr. Badenoch, of Whiteriggs, co. Kincardine, and Anna, his wife, eldest dau. of William Graham, Esq. of Morphie, and has had issue,

I. JOHN, who d. in his ninth year.

II. ALEXANDER.

III. Walter-Lawson.

I. Mary.

Mr. Stuart, who s. his brother, 16 June, 1844, is a justice of the peace for the counties of Aberdeen, Banff, and Kincardine, and a deputy-lieut. of the first.

Lineage.

ROBERT II., King of Scots, and the first of the Stuart dynasty, 1371, was father (by Elizabeth Mure, of Rowallan) of

ROBERT STUART, Duke of Albany and governor of Scotland, whose son, (by Margaret, Countess of Menteith,) MURDOCH STUART, Duke of Albany, &c. &c., had by Isabel, dau. of Duncan, Earl of Lennox, several sons, the fourth of whom,

SIR JAMES STUART, of Athol, was father (by a dau. of McDonald, Earl of Antrim) of WALTER STUART, of Morphie in the Mcarns, whose son,

ANDREW STUART, of Johnston, or Laurencekirk, in the Mcarns, was father of DAVID STUART, first of Inchbreck, (1547,) who m. Ægidia, dau. of John Strathachin, of Dallivaird, a branch of the ancient family of Thornton in the Mcarns, and had one son,

JOHN STUART, of Inchbreck, who m. Isabella, dau. of Walter Spark, of Kirkside, by whom he had, ROBERT,

David, and other children, and having d. about 1612, was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT STUART, of Inchbreck, who m. 1st, Nichola, dau. of Alexander Keith, of Phaisdo, and Over Dysart, of which marriage there was only one dau., Mary Stuart, who became co-heiress of her grandfather, in his great estates in the Mearns, of Phaisdo, Benholm, Knox, Forgie, Brotherton, Guirdon, Arbirnie, Pitnamoon, Auchairny, Johnshaven, Muirton, Redheugh, &c. &c. She was m. to William Keith, of Brotherton, her cousin, and nephew of Earl Marischal. Robert Stuart m. 2ndly, Sarah, dau. of Andrew Arbuthnott, of Fiddes, (brother-german to the Baron of Arbuthnott,) by Jean, dau. of Burnett of Craignyle, and sister of Robert, called Tutor of Leys. By this last marriage he had two sons, DAVID, and Francis. Their father having d. about 1640, he was s. by his eldest son,

DAVID STUART, of Inchbreck, who m. Margaret, dau. of Robert Lyall, of Canterland, and widow of John Cowie, Wadsetter of Redmire, by whom he had no surviving child but his son and successor,

WILLIAM STUART, of Inchbreck, who m. Margaret, eldest dau. and heiress of David Guthrie, of Kair, and of Margaret, dau. of the Hon. Alexander Arbuthnott, of Pitcarles; the estate of Kair, Castletown, &c., superiority of Mondynes, all in the Mearns, were acquired by Guthrie of Halkerton, in Forfarshire, having m. Margaret, the heiress and last of the ancient and illustrious family of the Sibbalds of Kair, whose ancestor was styled, in the reign of WILLIAM the Lion, 1170, "Dominus Sybaldus Miles de Mearnis." The above William Stuart, by marriage with Margaret Guthrie, acquired the lands of Castletown and superiority of Mondynes; the estate of Kair, and the other lands of the once great estate of the Sibbalds, having been sold for debts incurred in supporting the royal cause during the civil wars. William Stuart, who thus became the representative of the Sibbalds of Kair, left two sons, JOHN and James: the latter, after serving with the army in Holland, joined Prince Charles-Edward, in the civil war in Scotland, in 1745-46, and fled, after Culloden, to France, where he entered the French service, and d. at St. Omer, in 1776, a knight of the order of St. Louis. William Stuart was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN STUART, of Inchbreck, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Lawson, of Mill of Garvoek, by whom he had five sons, and one dau., who was m. to Captain James Leslie, of the 15th regt. of foot. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, sister of James Leith, of Whiteriggs, but by her left no issue. He was s. by his grandson, the eldest son, David, having d. before his father,

JOHN STUART, of Inchbreck, who m. his cousin, Isabella Wright, granddau. of Harie Guthrie, (Halkerton,) and left but one child, a dau., Isabella, who d. unm. He was then s. by his uncle,

JOHN STUART, of Inchbreck, professor of Greek in Marischal College, Aberdeen, who m. Margaret Mowat, dau. of George Mowat, merchant in Aberdeen, a cadet of the ancient family of Mowat of Ardoch and Logie, in Aberdeenshire, and had three sons, GEORGE-ANDREW, Alexander, and Charles, of Quebec; and two daus., Marjory; and Mary, widow of Alexander Glennie, of Maybank, Aberdeen. John Stuart was s. in 1827, by his eldest son,

GEORGE-ANDREW STUART, of Inchbreck, who m. Jane, dau. of the late Alexander Dingwall, of Ranniestone, co. Aberdeen, but d. s. p. (aged 51) 16 June, 1844, when he was s. by his brother, ALEXANDER STUART, Esq. of Laithers, and now of Inchbreck.

Sibbalds of Kair.

This family, which appears to have been one of the most ancient and illustrious in the Mearns, were proprietors of the lands of Kair, Castletown, Mondynes, Balfour, Mergie, &c., all in that county, and is now represented by Alexander Stuart, of Inchbreck and Laithers, through the female line, the male line having been extinct since 1683.

The Sibbalds of Kair seem to have been lineally descended from "Dominus Sybaldus, Miles de Mearnis," in the reign of WILLIAM the Lion, 1170, whose posterity, "Walterus filius Sybaldi," Mathæus Sybald, (1342,) and various others, are frequently mentioned as witnesses in the royal charters of WILLIAM's and the succeeding reigns.

The earliest mention of the name is found in the charter of Arbroath, which says that Galfrid de Malville was justiciar of Scotland, under MALCOLM IV., anno circa 1150, and that a son of his settled in the Mearns, and m. Eva, dau. of Walter, son of Sybald, with whom he got the lands of Monethyn, (now Mondynes,) on the Bervie river, and that out of these lands they made a donation to the monks of Arbroath, of a farm, (still called Abbeystown.) Philip, grandson of this Galfrid, was sheriff of the Mearns about 1230, and joint justiciary of Scotland in 1241, along with Richard de Montealto, (or Mowat.) From this Philip were descended the Melvilles of Glenbervie, who possessed these lands until about 1440, and were hereditary sheriffs of the county until one of them was murdered about this time.

In a charter dated early in the 14th century, on certain lands in the Mearns, they are described as lying "juxta aquam de Ferethy prope terras Sybaldorum"—that is, the water of Forth or Fothy, which falls into the Bervie, just opposite to Mondynes. On these lands, then called Monethyn, a stone pillar was erected in commemoration of the death of King DUNCAN II., who was killed there a mernensibus anno circiter 1096.

The first of this family found mentioned in later times, is

GEORGE SIBBALD, of Kair, who m. Janet, dau. of Andrew Lundie, of Balgownie, and d. about 1556. He was s. by his brother,

ANDREW SIBBALD, of Kair, who m. Margaret, dau. of the Baron of Arbuthnott, and d. about 1570, and by her left several sons, I. JOHN, who succeeded him; II. Abraham, who was prebendary of Deer; III. James, who was rector of Benholm, whose dau. m. Robert Douglas, then minister of Conveth, or Laurencekirk, and afterwards Bishop of Dunblane, who was ancestor to Sylvester, Lord Glenbervie. Andrew was s. by his son,

JOHN SIBBALD, of Kair, who m. Mary, dau. of Archibald Douglas, by whom he had three children, DAVID, who succeeded him; John; and Mary, whose fortunes are not known. John having d. about 1600, was s. by his son,

DR. DAVID SIBBALD, of Kair. He became a very eminent scholar, and having been educated in England, was appointed preceptor to the Duke of Gloucester, third son of King CHARLES I. He was of course strongly attached to the royal party during the civil wars, in which he suffered very severely in person and fortune, but lived to see the restoration of that family, having died immediately after, in 1660. He m. Jean, dau. of Sir David Auchmutie, of that ilk, in Fife, by whom he had a son, JAMES, and one dau., MARGARET, m. to Harry Guthrie, younger, of Halkerton, near Forfar. He d. in 1660, and was s. by his son,

JAMES SIBBALD, of Kair, who being weak and sickly, died soon after his father, in 1662, at his house of Dillivaird. He m. Anna Douglas, by whom he had an only son, ALEXANDER, who d. before his majority, and being but six months old at the time of his father's death, tutors were appointed to him, 18 Dec. 1661. On the death of James Sibbald, of Kair, his father, in 1662, he was s. in his lands by his infant son, ALEXANDER SIBBALD, of Kair, the gift of whose ward and marriage was obtained from the crown by Sir Alexander Falconer, of Gleufarquhar, in the Mearns, which continued until his pupilarity, when he chose as his sole curator, Sir Alexander Carnegie, of Pittarrow. This young man, however, having d. before majority, was s. by his father's sister,

MARGARET SIBBALD, wife of Harry Guthrie, of Halkerton, near Forfar, to whom she had been married 3 Nov. 1657. Their children were, DAVID, who s. him, b. in 1658; and Gideon, b. in 1663. Harry Guthrie having d. in 1685, was s. by his son,

DAVID GUTHRIE, of Kair, who m. 19 July, 1683, Margaret, dau. of the Hon. Alexander Arbuthnott, of Pitcarles, second son of the viscount of that name, and father of Alexander Arbuthnott, of Caterline. Their children were, a son, Alexander, who d. in infancy; and a dau., MARGARET, b. 22 March, 1684, who was m. to WILLIAM STUART, of Inchbreck, in 1710, great-grandfather of ALEXANDER STUART, of Laithers, the head and present representative of the families of Inchbreck and Kair, together with two other daus., Ann and Mary, who both d. unm. In the year 1686 they disposed of the lands of Kair to James Burnett, of Monboddie, retaining only, of the great estate of the Sibbalds, the lands of Castletown, and superiority of Mondynes, such ruin had the civil war entailed on this family. David Guthrie was therefore s. by his son-in-law.

WILLIAM STUART, of Inchbreck, who had m. his eldest dau., and inherited by her all the remains of the family estate. The superiority of Mondynes he sold, about 1740, with consent of his eldest son, to George Skene, of Skene; and Castletown he added to his other lands of Inchbreck and Redmire, all in the Mearns. He had, by this marriage, two sons, JOHN, the eldest, who having studied medicine at Leyden, under Boerhaave, and afterwards at Paris, received his degrees at Rheims, in 1735; and James, who having served in Holland, and afterwards in the civil war in Scotland, in 1745-46, entered the French service, where he was created a Knight of the Order of St. Louis, and d. at St. Omer in 1776. There were also four daus., who all d. unm. William Stuart having d. in 1744, was s. by his eldest son,

DR. JOHN STUART, of Inchbreck, whose descendants and lineage will be found in the account of the family of Stuart of Inchbreck, now represented by ALEXANDER STUART, of Inchbreck and Laithers, his grandson, the present head and representative of the families of Inchbreck and Kair.

Lineage.

The Studderts are of great antiquity in the counties of York and Suffolk: one of the family accompanied Richard de Clare, Earl of Pembroke, (Strongbow,) to Ireland, in 1171. The castle of Bunratty was afterwards built by Sir Thomas de Clare, son of the Earl of Gloucester, and has been for many years the residence of the elder branch of the family. In 1669,—

THE REV. GEORGE STUDDERT, a junior member of this family, and son to a judge of that name residing in Cumberland, settled in Ireland. He had been chaplain to King WILLIAM, and was appointed rector of the livings of Kilpeacon and Rathkeal, and made chancellor of the diocese of Limerick. Mr. Studdert preached before the King in the camp near Limerick, in 1690, from the 45th Psalm, 4th and 5th verses. (The sermon is still in preservation.) His fearless and resolute conduct during those troublesome times was noticed by that monarch. He obtained grants of lands to a large amount, and settled on his estate of Almond, co. Limerick, which property has devolved and is now in the possession of Thomas Studdert, Esq. of Bunratty Castle. He m. in 1695, Millicent, sister of the Right Hon. Henry Rose, chief justice of the King's Bench who was M.P. for Ardferit, in 1703 and 1713, and had (with a dau., Elizabeth, m. 1st, to — Freeman, Esq., and 2ndly, to — Lankford, Esq. of co. Limerick) four sons,

STYLEMAN LE STRANGE OF HUNSTANTON.

STYLEMAN LE STRANGE, HENRY L'ESTRANGE, Esq. of Hunstanton, co. Norfolk, b. 25 Jan. 1815; m. 25 July, 1839; Jamesina-Joyce-Ellen, dau. of John Stewart, Esq. of Belladrum, co. Inverness, (see that family.) and has issue, HAMON, b. 25 Nov. 1840.

Jamesina. Alice.

Mr. Styleman Le Strange is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for co. Norfolk. Previously to the termination of the abeyances, he was declared by the House of Lords to be one of the co-heirs of the BARONY OF CAMOYS, and also of the BARONY OF HASTINGS.

Tineage.

Of this family, (in Latin called Extraneus,) Sir William Dugdale, in his Baronage of England, says, "At a great iust or tournament held at Castle Peveler, in the Peak of Derbyshire, where, among divers other persons of note, Owen, Prince of Wales, and a son of the King of the Scots, were present; there were also two sons of the Duke of Bretagne, and that the youngest of them being named Guy, was called Guy L'Estrange, from whom the several families of the L'Estranges do descend." They are also lineally descended from William de Albini, lord of Arundel Castle, Sussex, who m. Adela, Queen-dowager of King HENRY I., the male line of which great family failed on the death of Hugh de Albini, Earl of Arundel, in 1243; and, on the partition then made of his vast possessions between his four co-heiresses, his eldest sister, Isabel Fitzalan, (the ancestor of the Dukes of Norfolk,) took Arundel Castle, and Joan le Strange, (the dau. of Nicolai de Somerie, the second sister of the last earl,) the ancestor of Mr. Styleman le Strange, took Hunstanton.

SIR HAMON L'ESTRANGE, Knt., (second son of John Le Strange, Lord Strange of Knoekin, by Maud, his wife, dau. and heir of Roger Deivill, of Warwickshire, and grandson, by Joan de Somery, co-heiress of her mother, Nieha, eldest dau. of William de Albini, Earl of Arundel, of John, Lord Strange of Knoekin, fourth in descent from Guy Le Strange, the patriarch of the house,) was enfeoffed of HUNSTANTON, 3 EDWARD II., by his brother John, 6th Lord Strange of Knockin. He m. Margaret, dau. of Ralph Vernon, and heiress of Richard Vernon, descended from the Lords Vernon, of Shipbrook, co. Chester, and left a son and successor,

HAMON L'ESTRANGE, Esq. of Hunstanton, who m. Katherine, dau. and heir of Lord Camoys, and dying temp. RICHARD II., was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, living in 1381, who m. Eleanor, dau. and heir of Sir Richard Walfare, Knt., and d. 6 HENRY V., leaving a son and heir,

JOHN L'ESTRANGE, Esq. of Hunstanton, who m. Alice, dau. and heir of Nicholas Beaumont, Esq., and was father of

SIR HENRY L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, whose will bears date 29 Nov. 1485. He m. Katherine, dau. of Roger Drury, Esq. of Halsted, co. Suffolk, and was s. by his son,

SIR ROGER L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, esquire of the body to HENRY VII., who m. Anne, dau. of Sir Christopher Heydon, Knt., and dying s. p. in 1506, was s. by his brother,

SIR ROBERT L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, who m. Ann, dau. and co-heir of Thomas, son of Sir Thomas L'Estrange, of Wellisburn, co. Warwick, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Sir Edward Knyvet) left at his decease, 3 HENRY VIII., a son and successor,

SIR THOMAS L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, b. in 1494, high-sheriff of Norfolk in 1532, who m. Ann, dau. of Thomas, Lord Vaux, and by her (who was fifth in descent from John of Gaunt, fourth son of King EDWARD III.) had sixteen children, of whom one of the younger sons, Richard, settled in Ireland, and was ancestor of the L'ESTRANGES of that kingdom. (See page 723-4.) Sir Thomas d. 17 Jan. 1544, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR NICHOLAS L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, high-sheriff of Norfolk in 1547, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir William Fitzwilliams, and d. 20 Feb. 1579, leaving a son and successor,

SIR HAMON L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, high-sheriff of Norfolk in 1573, who m. Elizabeth,* dau. and co-heir of SIR HUGH HASTINGS, of Elsing, in that co., the lineal descendant and representative of John, Lord Hastings, one of the competitors for the throne of Scotland in 1285, (being the grandson and heir of Ada, the youngest of the three daus. of David, Earl of Huntingdon; Baliol, being the grandson of the eldest dau., and Bruce being the son of the second dau.,) who was summoned to parliament from 1290 to 1313. By this lady, Sir Hamon, who d. 20 Feb. 1579, left a son and successor,

SIR NICHOLAS L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, M.P. for Norfolk, 1 EDWARD VI., who m. Mary, dau. of Sir Robert Bell, chief baron of the Exchequer, and was s. at his decease, 22 Dec. 1592, by his son,

SIR HAMON L'ESTRANGE, Knt. of Hunstanton, who m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of Richard Stubbs, Esq. of Sedgeford, and had three sons, NICHOLAS, his heir; Hamon, of Pakenham, in Suffolk; and ROGER (Sir) the celebrated writer in the time of the Commonwealth. Sir Hamon d. in June, 1654, aged 71, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR NICHOLAS L'ESTRANGE, of Hunstanton, created a Baronet 1 June, 1629. He m. Ann, dau. and heir of Sir Edward Lewknor, Knt. of Denham, fourth in descent from the marriage of Nicholas Lewknor, Esq., with Isabella Radmylde, dau. and eventually co-heir (with her sister, Margaret,† wife of John Goring, of Burton) of Ralph Radmylde, Esq. of the co. of Sussex, by Margaret his wife, sister and co-heir of HUGH DE CAMOYS, BARON CAMOYS, as proved in the House of Lords in 1839. By Anne, his wife, who d. in July, 1663, aged 51, Sir Nicholas left at his decease, 24 July, 1656, aged 52, a son and successor,

SIR NICHOLAS L'ESTRANGE, 2nd bart. of Hunstanton, who m. Mary, dau. and eventual heir of John Coke, Esq. of Holkham, by his wife, Muriel Wheatly, heiress of Holkham, and grauddau. of Sir Edward Coke, the chief justice.

* As one of the co-heirs of this Elizabeth Hastings, Henry L'Estrange Styleman Le Strange, in 1841, proved in the House of Lords his claim, as one of the co-heirs, to the Barony of Hastings, created in 1264, but the Crown exercised its prerogative in favour of Sir Jacob Astley, the youngest co-heir.

† From Margaret derives Thomas Stonor, present Lord Camoys.

By this lady he had a son and heir, NICHOLAS. Sir Nicholas m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Justinian Isham, Bart., and by her had, with two sons, who d. s. p., two daus., the elder of whom, Elizabeth, m. Robert Tash, Esq. (See TOWER OF WEALD HALL.) Sir Nicholas d. in Dec. 1669, and was s. by his son and successor,

| v. Fanny-Jane. | vi. Elizabeth-Cranfield. |

This gentleman, formerly of Pembroke College, Cambridge, and now a magistrate for Norfolk, s. his uncle, Lieut. Maurice-William Suckling, in 1820, and assumed, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his maternal grandfather, the surname and arms of SUCKLING, instead of his patronymic, Fox.

Lineage.

THOMAS SUCKLING, who was admitted in the year 1348 to a messuage, and several acres of laud held of the manor of Woodton-cum-Langhall, in Norfolk, was father of

JOHN SUCKLING, living in 1353, whose grandson, (it is presumed),

PHILIP SUCKLING, possessed the messuage and lands above alluded to, and in 1430, leaving, by Johanna, his wife, a son and successor,

STEPHEN SUCKLING, living in 1479, whose son,

JOHN SUCKLING, was father of

JOHN SUCKLING, who was appointed trustee to certain church lands in Woodton. He was the first of the family who bore the surname of SUCKLING only; previously they had called themselves SUCKLING alias ESTHAWE. He m. a lady named Alice, but of what family is not recorded, and dying about the year 1515, was buried at Woodton, and s. by his son,

ROBERT SUCKLING, who d. in 1539, and was interred at Norwich. He left three sons, RICHARD, John, and Nicholas; the eldest of whom,

RICHARD SUCKLING, succeeded him. He m. Jane, dau. of Swaney, of co. York, and had issue, ROBERT, his heir; John; Johanna, m. to Ling, of Norwich; Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Rochester; Cicely; and Fanny, the wife of Markes, of Burford. He d. in 1551, was buried at Norwich, and s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT SUCKLING, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of William Barwick, Esq. of Westhorpe, by whom he had issue,

- i. EDMOND, D.D., dean of Norwich, who gave the communion plate to the cathedral of that city. They bear the arms of SUCKLING, impaling the deanery, with a Latin inscription. By Amie, his wife, he left two daus.: one m. to the Rev. Thomas Spendlove, prebendary of Norwich Cathedral; and the other, Lucy Suckling, to Thomas Marsham, of Stratton Strawless.

- ii. Robert, of Campana.

- iii. JOHN (Sir), of whom presently.

- i. Anne, m. to Thomas Layer, Esq. of Norwich.

- ii. Mary, m. to — Hassel, Esq. of London.

- iii. Elizabeth, m. to Charles Cardinal, Esq. of Dedham, in Essex.

- iv. Maud, m. to Sir Peter Gleane, Knt.

Robert Suckling m. 2ndly, Johanna, dau. of William Cardinal, Esq. of Bromley, and by her had,

- i. CHARLES, of whom hereafter, as successor to the representation of the family, upon the demise of Sir John Suckling, the poet.
- ii. Christopher, of Wix, in Essex.

Mr. Suckling served as representative in parliament for the city of Norwich in the years 1570 and 1585. He was a member of the company of Merchant Adventurers, and his arms, impaled with those of that community, are still in the spandrels of the Old Hall at Woodton, which he erected, having purchased the manor and advowson thereof from Sir Christopher Haydon for about £300. He possessed, previously, almost all the land in the parish, but, as the manor was only then acquired, Blomfield, the historian of Norfolk, commences with this gentleman, thus accounting for the mistake Nelson's biographers have all committed, in saying that "his lordship's maternal ancestors, the Sucklings, have been resident at Woodton for three centuries," whereas five would be nearer the truth. Robert Suckling's third son, but eldest to leave male issue,

SIR JOHN SUCKLING, Knt., privy councillor to JAMES I., m. 1st, Martha, sister to Lionel Cranfield, Earl of Middlesex, and lord-treasurer, and 2ndly, a dau. of — Reeve, of Bury St. Edmunds, co. Suffolk. By the first only he had issue, viz.,

- I. JOHN (Sir), his heir.
- II. Lionel, d. s. p.
- I. Anne, m. to Sir John Davis, of Pangbourne, and d. in 1659.
- II. Mary, d. unm. in 1658.

Sir John d. in 1627, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN SUCKLING, the celebrated poet, b. in 1610, who d. issueless, 7 May, 1641, when the representation of the family passed to his uncle,

CHARLES SUCKLING, Esq. of Woodton, who m. 1st, Mary, dau. and co-heir of Stephen Drury, Esq. of Aylsham, and by her had an only son, ROBERT, his heir: he m. 2ndly, Dorothy, dau. of Anthony Drury, Esq. of Beesthorpe, and had, with other issue, a son, Charles, of Bracendale, who m. Maria Aldrich, of Mangreen Hall, and d. in 1666. Mr. Suckling d. himself in 1644, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT SUCKLING, Esq. of Woodton, high-sheriff for Norfolk in 1664, who m. 1st, Anne, third dau. of Sir Thomas Wodehouse, Bart., M.P., of Kimberley, by Blanch, his wife, dau. of John, Lord Hunsdon, and had a son, ROBERT, his heir. He m. 2ndly, Margaret, second dau. of Sir William Doyley, Bart. of Shottisham, by whom he had,

- I. Horatio.
- II. William.
- I. Elizabeth, m. to Abraham Castell, Esq. of Yarmouth.

Mr. Suckling d. in 1690, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT SUCKLING, Esq. of Woodton, who m. Sarah, dau. of Maurice Shelton, Esq. of Shelton, and dying in 1708, left two sons and one dau., viz.,

- I. ROBERT, his heir.
- II. Maurice, D.D., prebendary of Westminster, who m. Anne, elder dau. of Sir Charles Turner, Bart. of Warham, by Mary, his wife, sister of the celebrated Sir Robert Walpole, K.G., and had issue, Maurice, capt. R.N., who m. Mary Walpole, niece of the first Earl of Orford, but d. s. p. This gentleman the early patron of Nelson, fought, on the 21st Oct. 1757, a gallant naval action, off Cape François: with three ships, carrying 184 guns, and 1232 men, he defeated a French squadron of much heavier metal, bearing 366 guns, and 3440 men. He was subsequently returned to parliament for Portsmouth, made comptroller of the Navy, and one of the elder brethren of the Trinity House. It is not a little singular that the great action of Trafalgar was fought on the same day of the month, the 21st October, and to the circumstance Nelson alluded at the commencement of that memorable engagement.

William, of the Custom House, m. 26 Oct. 1786, Miss Rumsey, of Hampstead, and d. 14 Dec. 1798, aged 69, without legitimate issue.

Catherine, b. 9 May, 1725, m. 11 May, 1749, the Rev. Edmund Nelson, M.A., rector of Burnham Thorpe, in Norfolk, and had issue, Maurice Nelson, b. in 1753, d. s. p. in 1801.

WILLIAM NELSON, first Earl Nelson.

HORATIO NELSON, Viscount Nelson, the hero of Trafalgar.

Susannah Nelson, b. in June, 1755, m. Thomas Bolton, Esq., and their son, Thomas, succeeded as second Earl Nelson, and was father of the present peer.

Anne Nelson, d. unm.

Catherine Nelson, m. George Matcham, Esq. of Ashfold Lodge, Sussex.

- I. Lucy, m. to Thomas Stone, Esq. of Bedingham, and d. s. p.

Mr. Suckling was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT SUCKLING, Esq. of Woodton, who m. Dorothy, dau. of John Berney, Esq., and dying in 1734, left issue,

- I. Denzil, who m. Hannah Tabby, and left at his demise, in 1744, a son, Robert, who d. issueless.
- II. Robert, in holy orders, who d. s. p.
- III. RICHARD, of whom presently.
- IV. Horace, in holy orders, who d. without issue.
- I. Mary, m. to Roger Howman, Esq.

The third son,

RICHARD SUCKLING, Esq., m. Ann Kibert, and was father of

ROBERT SUCKLING, Esq. of Woodton, captain in the West Norfolk militia, who m. Susannah Webb, a descendant of Inigo Jones, and had issue,

- I. Robert-George, captain R.A., d. issueless, in the West Indies.
- II. MAURICE-WILLIAM, his heir.
- III. John-Thomas, m. Mary-Anne, dau. of — French, Esq. of Broome, in Suffolk, and had issue.
- I. Anna-Maria, who m. at St. Peter's Church, Norwich, about 1794, Alexander Fox, Esq., and had an only son, ALFRED-INGO Fox, successor to his uncle.
- II. Emily-Susanna, m. to Nicholas Cheesman, Esq. of the co. York, and has, with other issue, a son, Robert-Suckling Cheesman.

The entail having been cut off, Captain Suckling settled the estate on his son, MAURICE-WILLIAM, and, failure of his issue, on the son of his eldest dau. He d. in 1812, and was s. accordingly by MAURICE-WILLIAM SUCKLING, Esq., lieut. R.N., who m. 1st, Catharine, dau. of — Framlingham, M.D., and 2ndly, Caroline, dau. of — Ramell, Esq., but dying issueless, 1 Dec. 1820, the estates passed under the settlement to his nephew, Alfred-Inigo Fox, who, having assumed the surname and arms of SUCKLING, is the present REV. ALFRED-INGO SUCKLING.

SURTEES OF DINSDALE.

SURTEES, HENRY-GEORGE, Esq., B.A., the devisee of a large personal property from his paternal grandfather, purchased Dinsdale, in the co. of Durham.

Lineage.

Two ancient families, together with the little female convent of Nesham, possessed, in feudal times, a rich and picturesque peninsula in the county of Durham, formed by the circling sweep of the Tees. Here, in the Norman era, the family of Sur-Tees, receiving its name from the banks of the river* on which it settled, acquired the estate of Dinsdale in tenure of chivalry from the lords of Barnard Castle, and established its moated hall; while here also, about the same period, the House of Conyers became aggrandized by the grant of Sockburn from the see of Durham.

Contiguous in residence and allied in blood, these two families are characterized by a remarkable similarity in their fluctuating fortunes. Both were of knightly degree; both are said to have enjoyed the rank of barons of the palatinate of Durham; both had extended influence and possessions beyond that county—the one in Northumberland, the other in Yorkshire; both saw their ancient patrimonies carried by female heirs to the hearers of other surnames, and mourned over the decline of the male representatives of their lines, who, shorn of the inheritance of their forefathers, slowly gravitated towards the ranks of the yeomanry; and both, under happier auspices, shot forth, from their superannuated stocks, scions which gradually enriched by commerce, by the professions, and by alliances, and, in the latter family, adorned by literature, overshadowed with a fresh foliage, and concealed, their decay.

RICHARD, a contemporary of the sons of the CONQUEROR, was called Sur le Tayse, from the position of his seat of Dinsdale. He held in capite by grant of King HENRY I., the harony of Gosforth, in Northumberland; and is alleged by Camden, in his Britannia, to have "flourished in great honor" under that monarch.

SIWARD† is the next of the family who has been traced.

WILLIAM-FITZ-SIWARD, his son, also called Sur le Tayse,‡ and De Tesia,§ was seated at Dinsdale, and held Gosforth and Mileton by the feoffment of his ancestor. He was assessed for scutage 7 HEN. II., and dying, left two sons, of whom

RICHARD FITZ-WILLIAM, otherwise called Sur le Tayse, or in Latin writings, Super-Teisam, who was assessed in scutage for the ransom of RICHARD Cœur de Lion, in the seventh year of that monarch's reign, was heir to his father, and

RALPH, surnamed indifferently Fitz-William,|| de Dittensale (Dinsdale,) or Super-Teysam, s. his brother, and gave the churches of Dinsdale and Rungeton to the convent of Durham. Ralph was the father of

RICHARD SURTEYSE, of Dinsdale, his heir, who had issue, two sons, RALPH SURTEYSE, of Dinsdale, who d. s. p. circa 1255; and

* "Riuers also haue imposed names to some men, as they haue to townes situate on them, as the old baron *Sur Tey*s, that is on the riuier *Tey*s running between Yorkshire and the Bishopricke of Dunesme—as some at Rome were called Tiberii, Anieni, Aufidii, &c., because they were borne neere the Tibris, Anien, Aufidus, as Julius Paris noteth."—Supplement to DUGDALE'S Ancient Usage of Arms, containing the origin of surnames, by William Camden.

† This is probably the Syward quoted in Dr. Burton's East-Riding Pedigrees, (vol. 8,) as having in the time of King STEPHEN witnessed the deed of exchange of Melsa for Bewick, between Sir John Melsa and William le Gros, Earl of Albemarle.—See POULSON'S History of Holderness, vol. ii. p. 325.

WALTER SURTEYSE, father of WILLIAM* SURTEYE, whose son,

NICHOLAS SURTEYS, of Dinsdale, was aged 8 years 2 EDW. I., and d. 12 EDW. II. He is presumed to have served EDWARD I. in his wars, as the arms, together with the name of Surtees, appear in a roll of the Yorkshire gentry who bore a part in his Scotch and other military expeditions.† He had two sons,

SIR THOMAS. Goceline, who d. s. p.

The elder son,

SIR THOMAS SURTEYS, or Sourtays, ‡ Knt. of Dinsdale, received an accession to his estates from the forfeitures incurred by the partisans of ROBERT THE BRUCE, and in the time of Bishop Bury was seneschal, or high-steward, of the palatinate of Durham. He was father of another

SIR THOMAS SURTIES, or Surtis, (FULLER'S Worthies.) of Dinsdale, sheriff of Northumberland 47 EDWARD III. and 2 RICHARD II., and M.P. for Northumberland in the parliaments of 34, 36, and 46 of EDWARD III., and heir of the large § possessions of both his father and his uncle. He had a son and heir,

SIR ALEXANDER SURTEYS, of Dinsdale, whose son and heir,

SIR THOMAS SURTIS, (FULLER'S Worthies.) of Dinsdale, was sheriff of Northumberland 8 and 9 HENRY V., and, marrying Isabella, dau. of Sir Ralph Eure, of Wotton Castle, had issue,

THOMAS SURTEYS, Esq. of Dinsdale, who m. twice, and by his first wife, was father of

* It is not improbable that a brother of this William was the "Sir Raphe Surties, at Bytensal at Dinsdale," mentioned in the transcription of an old document in the hand-writing of Richard Hegge, headed, "These are the names of the knights that dwelt in the Bishopbrigg of Durham between the Tyne and Teese, in the time of Kyng Henry, son of Kyng John, at the battell of Lewis that was betwixt the Kinge and Sir Symonde of Montfordre, Earl of Leyeester, and many other, A.D. 1264," a copy of which was in the possession of the Rev. John Hodgson, historian of Northumberland.

† Harl. MSS. No. 1415, fol. 253, and No. 1487, fol. 40. As early as the reign of EDWARD I. this family appears to have ramified, for in 1295, Hugh de Carlioll was mayor, and John Surtees and William Ogle were bailiffs of Newcastle-on-Tyne.

‡ This latter spelling is taken from the impression of one of his seals; but his name was spelt in various modes. "Rex confirmavit Thomæ Surteyse in feoda manerium de Feling in Episcopatu Dunolm nuper Walteri Selby adheren. Robto le Brus enimio Regis."—5 EDWARD III., Calendarium Rot. Pat. Turri. Lond. His name appears written, as a witness to a release of lands in Ufferton, from Hugh, son of Sir William Basset to Robert de Denum, thus, "Dno Thoma Surtays tunc seneseall Dunolm."—Archæologia æliana, vol. ii. pp. 283-4.

§ At this period the property of the family was the most extensive, comprising, besides lands in Northumberland, numerous manors and other estates in the county of Durham, scattered from the Tees on the south, to the Darwent, on the north-west, and to the Tyne on the north-east. The possessions, however, of the elder line soon began to dwindle, while in several of their neighbourhoods cadet branches of the family sprung up. Hutchinson, (in vol. iii. p. 145, of his History of Durham.) speaking of the time when Dinsdale passed by the marriage of an heiress of the Surtees to the family of Place, says, "various branches of the family of Surtees survived this period, and had divers possessions in the county." Of these may be mentioned Surtees of Ravensworth, who entered a short pedigree, with the ancient arms of Surtees, in the visitation of 1615; and (with Surtees of Newcastle, sheriff of that town in 1558, whose father, Edward, is known, from the seal on his will, dated 14 Dec. 1548, to have used the Surtees shield) Surtees of Broad-Oak on the north, and Surtees of Medomsley on the south, side of the Darwent; both of which families will be noticed afterwards—the former in this article, the latter under the heading of SURTEES OF HAMSTERLEY HALL.

|| This was not the only alliance of Surtees with Conyers, as appears by a pedigree of the latter family in the Harl. MSS. No. 2118, in the British Museum. In the same volume mar-

RICHARD SURTEYS, or Suretice, citizen of Durham, is mentioned in a copy of the visitation of 1615, in the possession of Mr. Mundy; and also in a MS. in the Heralds' College. He was probably in trade in Durham, as he is mentioned in the books of the Drapers' Company there, as in 1626 having in custody some of their money, which was to be applied to the election of representatives in the English parliament, if the palatinate could then obtain the privilege of returning them. He m. 21 Nov. 1596, at St. Nicholas, Durham, Thomasine, dau. of Richard Martyn, of Durham, and had issue,

ROBERT SURTEIS, is mentioned in both the previously named MSS. with his father and brother. He was bapt. 17 Aug. 1602, at St. Nicholas, Durham, and became a "barber-chirurgcon of London." His will, dated 20 March, 1640, and proved at Doctors' Commons, 16 Oct. 1645, by his widow Grace, states that, at the time of making it, he riages with Surtees will be found in the pedigrees of Hedworth, Hilton of Hilton, and Tailboys of Thornton; and the Landsdown MSS. 205, marriages with Surtees appear in the pedigrees of Fenton of Crak, and of Fairfax.

* The estate of Dinsdale now soon passed, partly by grant and partly purchase, from the blood of Surtees to the male relations of this lady's husband, the Places. After some other changes in its proprietors, it was purchased in 1770, by Gen. Lambton: by the trustees of whose descendant, the 2nd Earl of Durham, then a minor, it was sold to its present proprietor, Henry-George Surtees, Esq.

† On his monument in St. George's Porch, St. Nicholas' Church, Newcastle, is a shield bearing the arms of Surtees, quartered with those of Gray, with supporters, Dexter, a mermaid; sinister, a wild man, both proper; and, for a crest, an ermine, statant, proper.

was "bound to East India, surcion in the good ship London;" and adds, "my bodye I committ to christian burial as the convenience of the place where I Dye, by sea or by land, will afford," and mentions one daughter,

SARAH, of whom nothing further is ascertained.

To Robert Surteis,

ROBERT SURTIES, Sureties, or Suerties, a merchant of Durham, would appear to have been related, and by no means remotely, for the latter in his will mentions Robert Suerties, the son of his cousin Richard.* He was the alderman of Durham in 1586, 1590, and 1599; and, afterwards, on the appointment of mayors, he was the mayor, in 1606. The summonses sent round to the gentry at the Heralds' visitation of Durham in 1606, included him; but in common with a considerable proportion of those summoned, who then began to regard the visitations as merely burthensome, he did not attend. The shield of Surtees, Ermine, on a canton, an orb; with a crest, consisting of three feathers rising out of a wreath surmounting a helmet, was carved in the front wall of his house, at the top of the market-place in Durham; and is now preserved there, having, on the rebuilding of the house, been let into its back wall. He was buried at St. Nicholas, Durham, 8 Jan. 1617: his will, dated the 27th of the preceding Nov., mentions, besides other relations, his sister,

ANN COULSON, (she had m. John Coulson, Gent. of Durham,) and her daughter,

MARGARET COULSON, the executor and principal devisee as well as eventual heiress of her uncle, Alderman Robert Surties. She afterwards m. Edward Suerties, Gent. of Broad-Oak, in the township of Hedley-Woodside, and parish of Ovingham, co. Northumberland, who was admitted at the court of the manor of Whickham, co. Durham, 13 June, 1620, on acquiring some lands there. His will, dated 17 July, 1654, and proved in London, 23 May, 1655, by his widow Margaret, mentions his lands at Hedley, Ovington, Wylam, co. Northumberland, and lands in Durham. He had issue by her, three surviving sons and two daughters,

* See Quarterly Review, No. CXLII., p. 395.

† The modern spelling of Surtees, into which the name has at length settled, has been followed throughout the text of this article.

‡ It may be mentioned here, that in 1379, Sir Thomas Surteys, of Dinsdale, co. Durham, sheriff of Northumberland in the time of EDWARD III., d. seised of the manor of Knytheley, in the chapelry of Medomsley; and, at a later period, others of the family of Surtees had a connexion with that neighbourhood; for Robert Surtees, alderman of Durham in 1586, (see the pedigree of SURTEES of DINSDALE,) says in his will, dated 27 Nov. 1617, "It'm, I doe give unto my cosine, John Surtees, of Ebchester (the adjoining chapelry to Medomsley,) and to his children, xs. for a token;" and also make a bequest to the poor of Ebchester, as well as to the poor of Wittonstall and to the poor of all the parishes in the city of Durham.

- i. ROBERT, bis heir.
- ii. Anthony, of Newhouses, near Milkwell-Burn, who m. twice, and had issue, two daus.

Dorothy, eventually heiress to her brother Robert, and wife of — Wilson, of Corbridge), an only son and heir,

Anthony, of Newbiggin, who d. unm. 20 July, 1803, aged 60, and of whom, on his decease, the following character was given by a contemporary pen:—"He was major of the Northumberland militia, of which he had the command at the time of Lord George Gordon's riots in London, where the services of the corps are well known.† He refused the honour of knighthood, and 'made no Joan a lady.' I may now be allowed to pay a tribute of respectful remembrance to the memory of a man who united to the most determined courage and the highest sense of honour, the most uncommon modesty and humility of disposition, who, if generosity, humanity, and disinterested friendship have a claim to remembrance, will not soon be forgotten."

ROBERT SURTEES, Esq., who s. his father at Milkwell-Burn, m. Catherine Bartram, and d. 12 April, 1759, aged xty-two, having had issue (with three daus., of whom iary, m. Charles-Dalston Purvis, Esq. of Earsdon, see 1087,) two sons,

ANTHONY SURTEES, Esq., who s. his father in the property of Milkwell-Burn, and was the devisee of considerable property from Colonel Surtees, of Ackworth, purchased Byerside Hall, lying between Hamsterly Hall and s. paternal estate of Milkwell-Burn, and then became purchaser of Hamsterly Hall, in the chapelry of Ledonsley, the seat of Henry Swinburne, Esq.‡ He was the commission of the peace of the co. Durham. He d. March, 1838, leaving by his wife, Alice, sister of Christopher Blacket, Esq. of Wylam, M.P. for Northumberland, (which lady was m. 14 March, 1801, and d. in 1827,) sue, several children, of whom,

Anthony, the eldest son, d. unm. at Malta, 24 March, 1831; and ROBERT-SMITH, succeeding his father, is the present Mr. SURTEES, of Hamsterly Hall.

* It is not here ventured to append the Surteeses of Stokesfield, which is in the parish of Bywell St. Peter's, co. Northumberland, to any of the foregoing lines of Surtees, but they are believed to have been an offshoot from the family of Surtees of Broad-Oak and Headley-Woodhead. Mr. Walker Surtees appears to have had, besides the dau. mentioned in the text, two sons, one of whom was called Robert.

† See the Gentleman's Magazine and Annual Register for 1800. The services of the Northumbrian soldiers are also commemorated in some rude verses to the tune of "Boyne Water:"

"Full fifty thousand stout and bold
Were assembled in this riot;
Five hundred of Northumberland boys
Made all these thousands quiet."

‡ This gentleman was "a country squire of the old school, as a great sportsman, and kept a capital pack of hounds. Captain Smith, of the Riding, on the Tyne, used frequently to join him in the chase, and left him a considerable fortune, for the love of hunting, for he was no relation."—RYAN'S History of Shotley Spa, p. 31.

§ Mr. Henry Swinburne was the third son of Sir John Swinburne, of Capheaton, Bart., and author of Travels in Spain and Italy, and of Letters from the Courts of Paris and Naples. Many of the walks at Hamsterly Hall, which is beautifully situated, a little to the south of the river Derwent, were designed by this accomplished tourist.—RYAN'S Shotley Spa, pp. 15—20.

Arms—Erm., on a gules, an orb, or, otherwise, an escutcheon, arg.

SWANN OF FAIRFIELD,

SWANN, DOROTHY, of Fairfield, co. Derby, b. 4 Dec. 1771. Miss Swann s. to the estates on the death of her brother, Rowland Swann, Esq., the last male representative of this ancient family, in 1840.

Lineage.

The Swanns have been possessed of landed property in the county of Derby since the Conquest, when we find, from the Domesday survey, that they held the manor of Cowley. We shall commence the pedigree, however, only with the first of the family who was seated at Fairfield, viz.,

EDWARD SWANN, de Fairfield. He was b. 13 Aug. 1548, and d. about the close of that century, leaving issue, by Mary, his wife, (who was, it is believed, a co-heiress of the family of Rowland, or Roland, of the co. Derby,) a son,

ROWLAND SWANN, of Fairfield, b. circa 1570, who, by Joan, his wife, had a numerous family. His eldest son and heir was

EDWARD SWANN, Esq. of Fairfield, who m. Maria, dau. of — Edensor,* of Hartington, co. Derby, and had, with other issue,

- I. ROWLAND, his heir.
- II. Samuel, ancestor of the branch seated for several generations at Hurdlow, in Hartington. He acquired that estate by his marriage with the dau. and co-heiress of Brereton.† He was possessed also of Lea Hall, in Derbyshire, which he purchased from the Ferrers family. This

* The family of Edensor ranked amongst the most respectable in the co. of Derby. The estates at Hartington descended to Sir John Edensor Heathcote, Knt. of Longton Hall, Staffordshire.

† Three descents of this family, at Hurdlow, are given in Dugdale's Visitation.

line terminated in an heiress, who m. John Sanders, Esq. of Basford, Notts. The Hurdlow estate passed by marriage to the family of Bullock.

III. Anthony, who founded and endowed a charity school at Fairfield, in 1662, "for the daily maintenance and bringing up of ten of the poorest children of the chapelry." He was buried at Fairfield.

ROWLAND SWANN, Esq. of Fairfield, eldest son and heir of Edward, greatly augmented the charity founded by his brother. He d. in 1693, and left issue a son,

EDWARD SWANN, Esq. of Fairfield, who m. Mary, dau. of — Bagshawe, Esq. of Wormhill Hall, co. Derby, (see that family, p. 44.) and had issue a son,

ROWLAND SWANN, Esq. of Fairfield, b. 10 July, 1670. He m. Rebekah, dau. of the Rev. Mr. Morewood, of Wormhill, (of the family of the Morewoods of Alfreton,) by whom he had issue,

EDWARD SWANN, Esq. of Fairfield, b. 17 Sept. 1698. He m. Dorothy, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Edmund Warrington, Esq. of Whaley, co. Chester, by Hannah, his wife, dau. of Legh, of Iligh Legh, and by that lady had, with other issue, Legh, who d. unm., 9 June, 1805.

Edward, d. unm.

Rowland, m. Miss Anne Fox, but d. without issue.

SAMUEL, eventually his heir.

Hannah, m. John Beech, Esq. of Tideswell, afterwards of Shaw, co. Stafford, from whom is descended the present James Beech, Esq. of Shaw, and of Brandon Hall, co. Warwick.

SAMUEL SWANN, Esq., fourth son, but eventually heir of Edward, was b. 22 Oct. 1738, and s. to the family estates on the death of his elder brother, Rowland. He m. Sarah, dau. of Buckton, and widow of Mr. Bagnall, of Chester, by whom he had issue,

ROWLAND, his heir.

DOROTHY, now the only surviving member of the family, and present owner of the estates at Fairfield, &c.

Mr. Swann d. 13 Oct. 1815, and was s. by his son,

ROWLAND SWANN, Esq. of Fairfield, b. in 1774. He resided during the latter years of his life at Christleton, near Chester, where he d. 2 Jan. 1840. His remains were interred with those of his ancestors at Fairfield, where a handsome marble monument has been erected to his memory by his sister, now the only survivor of the family.

SWETTENHAM OF SWETTENHAM.

SWETTENHAM THOMAS-JOHN-WYBAULT, Esq. of Swettenham Hall, co. Chester, b. 5 Oct. 1804; m. 27 June, 1829, Anna-Maria, dau. of the late Luke Alen, Esq. of Dublin, late lieut.-col. 55th regt., C.B., representative of the great house of Alen of St. Wolstans. Mr. Swettenham inherited the estates on the demise of his father, 9 April, 1825.

Lineage.

This very ancient family, which, according to tradition, was seated at Swettenham long antecedent to the Conquest, and had a confirmation of the estate, temp. WILLIAM RUFUS, to the then Saxon possessor, derives its surname from a compound of two Saxon words, Sweet, pleasant, or agreeable, and Ham, a dwelling-place or village; words that aptly describe the situation of the manor.

PETER, LORD OF SWETTENHAM, had, (with a younger son, Peter.)

RICHARD SWETTENHAM, Lord of Swettenham, living in the reign of HENRY III., father of

NICHOLAS DE SWETTENHAM, Lord of Swettenham, temp. EDWARD I., whose son,

RICHARD DE SWETTENHAM, Lord of Swettenham, was father of

RICHARD DE SWETTENHAM, whose son,

RICHARD DE SWETTENHAM, of Swettenham, had two sons, THOMAS, his heir; and William, who seated himself at Caryngham, and was ancestor of the SWETTENHAMS of that place. The elder son,

THOMAS DE SWETTENHAM, of Swettenham, living 12 EDWARD III., was s. by his son,

RANULPH DE SWETTENHAM, father of

THOMAS DE SWETTENHAM, Lord of Swettenham 3 RICHARD II. This gentleman was s. at his demise by his son,

THOMAS DE SWETTENHAM, living 1 RICHARD II. and 1 HENRY V. He was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE SWETTENHAM, father of

PETER DE SWETTENHAM, who flourished in the early part of the reign of HENRY VI., and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE SWETTENHAM (33 HENRY VI.), whose son, RICHARD DE SWETTENHAM, m. a lady named Helena, but of what family has not been ascertained; and dying in the reign of HENRY VIII., left a son and successor,

OLIVER SWETTENHAM, Esq. of Swettenham (20 HENRY VII.), father of

THOMAS SWETTENHAM, Esq. of Swettenham, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Swettenham, Esq. of Somerford Booths, co. Chester, and was s. at his demise by his son,

THOMAS SWETTENHAM, Esq., who was living at the visitation of 1566. He m. a lady named Katherine, by whom he had three sons, THOMAS, his heir; Lawrence, of Bradwall; and William. Mr. Swettenham d. in 1611, and was s. by the eldest son,

THOMAS SWETTENHAM, Esq. of Swettenham, who d. in 1615-16, leaving (with three daus., Ann, Katherine, and Elinor) a son and successor,

THOMAS SWETTENHAM, Esq. of Swettenham, who m. in 1602, Mary, dau. of John Birtles, Esq. of Birtles, and Ann, his wife. By this lady (who d. in 1621) he had four sons and three daus., viz., THOMAS, his heir; William, Laurence, (who left a son, Edward,) and George; Ann; Eleanor, m. to John Holford, Esq.; and Martha. The eldest son and heir,

THOMAS SWETTENHAM, Esq. of Swettenham, b. in 1604, m. and had (with a younger son, John, and a dau., Mary) his successor,

Mary-Jane. Frances-Emily.

Mr. Swift is a magistrate for Westmeath, and s. his father in Aug. 1834.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the Yorkshire family of Swift of Rotherham, derived from ROBERT SWYFT, to whom and his wife there is a splendid monument in Rotherham Church, erected in 1561. Their son, SIR ROBERT SWYFT, of Doncaster and Streetborpe, sheriff of Yorkshire 40 ELIZABETH, was ancestor of Barnham Swyft, created in 1627, VISCOUNT CARLINGFORD. Of the same family was

GODWIN SWIFT, who went to Ireland at the period of Ormonde's power, and acted as his attorney-general for the palatinate of Ormonde. He m. 1st, Miss Deane, of the Muskerry family, and by her had a son, GODWIN, whose descendants possess the Meath, Kilkenny, and Dublin estates. He m. 2ndly, Miss Meade, sister of Lord Clanwilliam, and by her was father of

MEADE SWIFT, Esq. of Lynn, J.P., m. 1st, Mary, dau. of John L'Estrange, Esq. of Keoltown, co. Westmeath, and by her had issue, JOHN, his heir; Thomas, b. in 1711; Meade, b. in 1713. He m. 2ndly, Frances, dau. of the Rev. Alexander Delgarno, of Moyliskee, co. Westmeath, and by her had a son, Alexander, b. in 1729. The eldest son and heir,

JOHN SWIFT, Esq. of Lynn, J.P., captain in the 56th regt. of foot, b. 21 Dec. 1709, m. Mary, dau. of Edward

* From the ancestor of the family, who was of Belgian extraction, and came to England about 700 years ago, and whose name, from the difficulty of pronunciation of "Swyfo" in England, was ultimately changed into Swyf, or Swyfte; hence came Swift.

L'Estrange, Esq. of Boardstown, co. Westmeath, and was father of JOHN SWIFT, Esq. of Lynn, J.P., b. 5 Nov. 1752, who m. in 1776, Hannab-Maria, dau. of Willoby Swift, Esq. of Herefordshire, and had issue, RICHARD, now of Lynn.

John, surgeon in the army, m. in Oct. 1821, Susanna, dau. of John L'Estrange, Esq. of Keoltown, co. Westmeath, and d. in Jan. 1830, leaving a son and dau., viz., John, b. in June, 1822; and Eliza.

Catherine, m. in 1812, to Charles Joly, Esq. of Dublin, comptroller-general of Taxes.

Mary, m. in 1820, to Godwin Swift, Esq. of Dublin.

Mr. Swift d. in August, 1834.

Motto—Festina lente.

Seat—Lynn, near Mullingar, co. Westmeath.

Lineage.

The very ancient family of Swinburne, of Capheaton, co. Northumberland, of which that before is a branch, derives its name from Swinburne Castle, in Northumberland, which it possessed from so remote a period that (although Sir William Dugdale notes them not as such) the Swinburnes of Swinburne Castle have been esteemed feudal lords. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

SIR JOHN SWINBURNE, of Capheaton, who was created a baronet, 26 Sept. 1660, and is called in the patent "Virum patrimonio censu, et morum probitate spectabilem," m. Isabel, only dau. and sole heiress of Henry Lawson, Esq. of Brough, co. York, by Catherine, his wife only dau. and heiress of Sir William Fenwick, Knt. of Melton, co. Northumberland, and dying 19 June, 1706, was s. by his son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM SWINBURNE, the second bart. of Capheaton, who m. in 1697, Mary, dau. of Anthony Englefield, Esq. of White Knights, co. Berks, and had issue.

JOHN (Sir), third bart., and grandfather of the present SIR JOHN SWINBURNE, Bart. (See the Peerage and Baronetage.)

Matthew, b. in 1700, m. in 1738, Eleanora, dau. and heiress of William Thirlwall, Esq. of Thirlwall Castle, co. Northumberland, but d. s. p.

THOMAS, of whom we treat.

Mary, d. young.

The third son,

THOMAS SWINBURNE, Esq., m. Mary, dau. and co-heiress of Anthony Meaburne, Esq. of Pontop Hall, co. Durham, and relict of Thomas Thornton, Esq. of Netber Witton, (by whom she had a dau. and heiress, m. to William Salvin, Esq. of Croxdale.) By this lady (who d. in 1772) Mr. Swinhurne had one son, THOMAS, of whom presently; and a dau., Mary, who d. unm. in 1786. The former, THOMAS SWINBURNE, Esq. of Pontop Hall, co. Durham, inherited that estate from his mother, as one of the co-heirs of Meahurne. He m. in 1781, Charlotte, dau. and co-heir of Robert Spearman, Esq. of Old Acres, co. Durham, and had issue,

THOMAS-ROBERT, present representative.

Charlotte.

Amelia, m. to Thomas Oswald, Esq. of Sedgfield, co. Durham, M.D., and d. 4 Jan. 1841.

Mr. Swinhurne d. in Oct. 1825, and was s. by his only son, the present LIEUT.-COLONEL THOMAS-ROBERT SWINBURNE, of Pontop Hall and Marcus Lodge.

SWINNERTON OF BUTTERTON.

The late THOMAS SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, co. Stafford, barrister-at-law, of the Inner Temple, and recorder of Stafford, m. 27 April, 1793, Mary, dau. and heir of Charles Milborne, Esq. of Wonaston and of the Priory of Aber-gavenny, by Lady Martha Harley, his wife, dau. of Edward, third Earl of Oxford, and by her (who d. in Wimpole-street, London, May, 1795) had issue, MARTHA, twin with Mary, m. 28 Dec. 1820, to her cousin, William Bagot, Esq., nephew of the 1st Lord Bagot.

MARY, m. Sir William Pilkington, Bart. of Chevet, in Yorkshire, and has issue.

ELIZABETH, m. Charles-John Kemeys-Tynte, Esq., M.P., eldest son of Charles Kemeys-Tynte, Esq. of Halswell, and had issue.

Mr. Swinnerton, who s. his father, 12 Oct. 1790, was in the commission of the peace, and served as high-sheriff of Staffordshire in 1795.

Lineage.

This family (one of great antiquity in the county of Stafford) derived its surname from the lordship of Swyn-nerton, and was, at a very early period, of knightly and baronial degree.

JOHN DE SWINNERTON, lord of Swinnerton, was twice sheriff of Staffordshire. He was father of

SIR THOMAS SWINNERTON, Knt. of Swinnerton, who m. Matilda, dau. of Sir Robert de Holland, and had two sons, viz.,

- i. ROGER (Sir), Knt.-Banneret, of Swinnerton, ancestor of the SWINNERTONS of Swinnerton, whose last male heir, SIR ROBERT DE SWINNERTON, Knt. of Swinnerton, had an only dau., Matilda, m. 1st, to John Savage, and 2ndly, to Richard Peshall.

- ii. JOHN (Sir), of whose line we have to treat.

The second son,

SIR JOHN DE SWINNERTON, Knt., who d. 14 EDW. III., A.D. 1340, m. Anne, dau. of Philip de Montgomery, the seneschal, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, seneschal of Cannock, 16 EDWARD III., ancestor of HUMPHREY SWINNERTON, of Swinnerton, d. in 1562, leaving by Cassandra, his wife, dau. of Sir John Gifford, Knt., two daus., his co-heirs, viz., MARGARET, m. to Henry Vernon, Esq. of Sudbury, and conveyed to her husband the estate of Hilton, in Staffordshire; and ELIZABETH, m. 1st, in 1552, to William, fourth son of Anthony Fitzherbert, of Norbury, the celebrated judge, of the reign of HENRY VIII., and thus conveyed the manor of Swinnerton to the Fitzherberts, by whom it is still possessed; and 2ndly, to Francis Gatacre, Esq. of Gatacre.

- ii. THOMAS.

The second son,

THOMAS SWINNERTON, was of Butters-ton, co. Stafford.

He m. Matilda, widow of Sir John Latimer, Knt., and left a son and successor,

JOHN SWINNERTON, of Butters-ton, living in 1384, father of

ROGER SWINNERTON, of Butters-ton, living in 1438, whose son,

THOMAS SWINNERTON, of Butters-ton, living 11 EDW. IV., m. Margaret, sister and heir of Hugh Clayton, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM SWINNERTON, of Butters-ton, to whom s. his son,

THOMAS SWINNERTON, of Butters-ton. This Thomas, by Ellen, his wife, (who m. 2ndly, William Rowley,) had, besides WILLIAM, his eldest son, Hugh, John, Grace, (m. to Morris,) and Johanna, as may appear by his will, dated 14 June, 1552, by which, inter alia, he orders his body to be buried at Madeley, and leaves the ward and marriage of his son, William, to Randall Leigh, Gent. The said son and successor,

WILLIAM SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, was living in 1584, and left at his decease a son and successor,

THOMAS SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, who m. Mary, dau. of Hugh Hollines, Esq. of Mosley, and dying in 1634, was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, who m. Jane, dau. of Michael Nicholl, of Fenton, in Staffordshire, and had issue four sons and four daus. The eldest son,

THOMAS SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Bentley, of Whitehurst, in Staffordshire, and had issue four sons and a dau. The eldest son,

WILLIAM SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, hapt. 20 Oct. 1647, m. Eliza, dau. of James Bayley, Esq. of Madeley, in Staffordshire, and by her (who d. 6 Aug. 1710, aged 55) had issue two sons, and three daus., Eliza, m. to Richard Beech, Esq. of Newhouse; Jane, m. to Thomas Whitehurst, Esq. of Hanchurch; and Mary, who d. unm. in 1724. Mr. Swinnerton d. in 1724, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, hapt. 13 Feb. 1677, who m. 26 Dec. 1712, Mary, only dan. of William Ahnet, Esq. of Burston Hall, in Sandon, Staffordshire, and had (with two daus., Eliza, who d. unm.; and Mary, the wife of — Vaughan, Esq. of London) a son and successor,

WILLIAM SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton, b. 5, and hapt. 13 Oct. 1717, of the Inner Temple, barrister-at-law, vice-chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and recorder of Stafford and Newcastle. He m. 1st, Margaret, only dau. and heir of Blest Colclough, Esq. of Eccleshall, in Staffordshire, younger brother of Caesar Colclough, Esq. of Delph House, in Cheadle, and had (with three daus., of whom the youngest, Anne, m. in 1773, the Rev. Walter Bagot) one son, THOMAS, his heir. Mr. Swinnerton m. 2ndly, the relict of — Crewe, Esq. of Crewe Hall, M.P. for Cheshire, but by her had no issue. He d. 12 Oct. 1790, was buried at Trentham, and s. by his only son, the late THOMAS SWINNERTON, Esq. of Butters-ton.

Mr. Swinton s. to the representation of the ancient family of Swinton of that ilk, at the decease of his brother in 1829.

Lineage.

This family, originally Saxon, took its surname from the harony of Swinton, in Berwickshire.

EDULF DE SWINTON, of Swinton, who appears to have flourished in the reigns of MACBETH and MALCOLM CAN-

MORE, left a son, LIULPH or LIULF, living in the beginning of King EDGAR, (whose reign terminated in 1107,) and was father of UPARD, sheriff of co. Berwick, temp. ALEXANDER I., who was s. by HERNULF or A'LNULF, who obtained a charter from DAVID I., in which the three preceding proprietors of the lands and barony are named. He d. temp. MALCOLM IV., and was s. by

SIR ALAN DE SWINTON, who got a charter of the barony of Swinton from Bertram, Prior of Coldingham, superior thereof in the reign of King WILLIAM the Lion. He d. about the year 1200, and was interred in the church of Swinton, where his name and arms are over a stone image upon his tomb, and was s. by

SIR ADAM DE SWINTON, who d. before the year 1229, and was s. by

SIR ALAN DE SWINTON, of whom there are many documents in the reign of King ALEXANDER II. He was s. by

ALAN DE SWINTON, of Swinton, anno 1273. He was s. by

HENRY DE SWINTON, cotemporary with whom was WILLIAM DE SWINTON, probably a son of the family, who in Ragman's roll is designated "Vicaire de l'Eglise de Swinton, anno 1296."

HENRY DE SWINTON (Alan's successor) was, with many others of his countrymen, compelled to submit to King EDWARD I. of England, when he had overrun Scotland, anno 1296. This Henry was s. by

HENRY DE SWINTON, who was s. by

SIR JOHN SWINTON, a distinguished soldier and statesman, and high in favour with the Second and Third ROBERTS. His military achievements are recorded by the ancient Scottish writers. At the battle of Otterburn, 31 July, 1388, he had a chief command, and to his intrepidity the Scots were indebted for the great victory obtained over the English (although with the loss of Douglas) on that memorable field. It is related of Sir John, that in the wars with the English, he visited the enemy's camp, and gave a general challenge to fight any of their army. He was appointed one of the ambassadors-extraordinary by King ROBERT III., to negotiate a treaty with the court of England, for which they got a safe-conduct from King RICHARD II., for themselves and sixty knights in their retinue, 4 July, 1392. He was afterwards employed upon another negotiation, and obtained a safe-conduct from King HENRY IV., to go to England, with twenty horsemen in his retinue, 7 July, 1400. The gallant bearing and heroic death of the lord of Swinton, at the fatal battle of Homildon, have afforded a subject for the poetic genius of Scott, and are the materials on which he founded the drama of "Halidon Hill." He m. 1st, Margaret, Countess of Douglas and Marr, widow of William, first Earl of Douglas, but by that lady had no issue; and 2ndly, Lady Margaret Stewart, dau. of King ROBERT II., by whom he had a son,

SIR JOHN SWINTON, of that ilk, who s. him, a man of singular merit, and a soldier of as undaunted valour. At the battle of Beaugé, in France, in 1420, Swinton unhorsed the Duke of Clarence, the English general, brother of King HENRY V., whom he distinguished by a coronet set with precious stones, which the duke wore around his helmet, and wounded him so grievously in the face with his lance that he immediately expired.* Sir John afterwards fell at the battle of Vernuil, where the Scots' auxiliaries were commanded by the gallant Earl of Buchan, constable of France, son of Robert, Duke of Albany, governor of Scotland, anno 1424. Swinton m. 1st, Lady Marjory Dunbar, dau. of George, Earl of March; but she d. without issue. He m. 2ndly, his cousin-german, Lady Marjory Stewart, dau. of Robert, Duke of Albany. He was s. by his son,

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient family of Millington, originally of the co. Salop. Anthony Wood, in his work, has "Syngé, alias Millington." Mr. Harris says: "I find, on inquiry, the name was changed into Syngé, on account of the sweetness of voice and skill in vocal music the Millingtons were possessed of." Tradition records that a member of the then much respected house, MILLINGTON, was member of the choir in the chapel-royal, temp. ELIZABETH, and that the queen desired the name might be changed, from the exceeding sweetness of his voice. The alteration has ever since been cherished in this family, in memory of the royal recommendation.

EDMUND DE PENTHENY-O'KELLY, Esq., hereditary Lord of Tara, derives in direct line from Sir Robert de Repentenye, a Norman knight of noble family, who accompanied the CONQUEROR to England, and founded the Priory of Pentney, in Norfolk, A.D. 1066. *Et seq. (Vide DUGDALE'S Monasticon.)

Tincage.

The chiefs of this family have been Lords of Tara, lineally, since A.D. 1327, at least. In that year Sir Philip de Repentenye, Lord of Tara, m. the dau. and heir of Sir James de Stanley. (See Pedigree, Heraldic Illustrations.)

WILLIAM DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Dromear and Tara, eldest son and heir of the preceeding, became Lord of Dromcar, on failure of issue to his kinsman, William, son of Hugh de Repentenye. Peter de Repentenye, his son and heir, sheriff of Louth, d. s. p. A.D. 1366.

JOHN DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Kintale and Tara, and heir to his maternal grandfather, Sir James de Stanley, m. Isolda de Passowye, heiress of Molary, A.D. 1373, and had issue, PETER DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Kintale and Tara, sheriff of Louth, living A.D. 1384—1412.

RICHARD DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Tara, son and heir of the preceeding, living A.D. 1431—1460.

CHRISTOPHER DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Tara, son and heir of the preceeding, living A.D. 1520.

CHRISTOPHER DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Tara, eldest son of the preceeding, d. unm. His brother,

RICHARD DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Cabra and Tara, unjustly attainted,† and executed for high treason in the

* "By the deed of foundation, set out at full in DUGDALE'S Monasticon, he gave to the church of the Blessed Mary Magdalen of Pentney, the whole island of Eyce, and the whole town of Pentney. It lay to the S. W. of Lynne, co. Norfolk. In the year A. D. 1316, the Prior of Pentney paid a fine of ten marks to King EDWARD II., pro licentia ingrediendi laicum feod in Abylon et advoc ecclesie ejusdem ville hend."—Extract' Grossor' finium, 9 EDWARD II., R. 21. This priory was suppressed in the reign of Henry VIII.

† "Richard, on the demise of his father entered into possession of his estates, which he enjoyed for a long series of years, until his old age, when he was most unjustly accused of uttering treasonable expressions against Queen ELIZABETH. On this charge he was arraigned soon after A.N. 1585, and when nearly 70 years of age, was tried, condemned, and executed for high treason."—HARDIMAN'S Memoirs.

reign of Queen ELIZABETH, m. Mary, dau. of Bellew of Bellew, and had

EDWARD DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Cahra and Tara, restored by King JAMES I. to his father's estates and rank, who was declared to have been wrongfully attainted and executed; "and this is all the retribution that was made to this ancient, honourable, and loyal family of the English pale, settled in Ireland since the year A.D. 1252, deriving from SIR ROBERT DE REPENTHENYE, of Pentney, in Norfolk, at the time of the Conquest, and Lords of Tara in uninterrupted succession for nearly four centuries." (See HARDIMAN'S Memoirs of this family, pp. 16, 17.) Edward m. Catharine, dau. of Michael Barmwell, Esq. of Athronan, co. Meath, a younger branch of the house of Crickstown, and had

MATTHEW DE REPENTHENYE, Lord of Cahra and Tara; speaking of whose family, Hardiman says, "CROMWELL completed the carnage, and in the general ruin, Matthew and the immediate family of Cahra and Tara fell, as did also James, his fourth brother," A.D. 1641.

GILBERT, Lord of Cahra and Tara, and living A.D. 1641., d. unm., and was s. by his brother,

FRANCIS DE PENTHENY, as the name now appears written, who survived to be chief of his name, and Lord of Tara, lived to see his estates alienated during the reign of terror under CROMWELL. "Cabra and Tara were surveyed in 1657, with the rest of the forfeited possessions in Ireland; and after the restoration of CHARLES II., were, by letters patent, under the act of settlement, hearing date 5 Feb. 1669, granted to James, Duke of York, the king's brother, afterwards JAMES II. From him they passed to Lord Tyrconnel, who in his turn forfeited. In the year 1702 they were purchased, with other lands, by the Governor and Company for making sword-blades in England, who soon after disposed of their interest to Thomas Meredith, of Dublin, and thus passed away the ancient estate of the Penthenys, Lords of Tara, which was not so remarkable for extent or value, as for being in their possession for a period of nearly four hundred years."* A part of the estate of Tara was re-purchased by the late Augustine de Pentheny, Esq., uncle of the present representative. Francis m. Elizabeth, dau. of Luke de Bathe, Esq., and had

LUKE DE PENTHENY, chief of his name, and hereditary Lord of Tara, who m. Margaretta, dau. of Ashe, of Ashfield, co. Meath, chief of his name, and deriving from the ancient family of Esse, in Devonshire, at the time of the Conquest, whose present representative is Lieut.-Col. William Wellesley Ashe, of Ashfield.

LUKE DE PENTHENY, chief of his name, and hereditary Lord of Tara, eldest son of the preceding, d. young, leaving no issue, and was s. by his brother,

CHRISTOPHER DE PENTHENY, chief of his name, and hereditary Lord of Tara, who d. A.D. 1768, great-grandfather of the present representative. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of James Gaynor, Esq. of Black Castel, co. Meath, and had

JOHN DE PENTHENY, chief of his name, and hereditary Lord of Tara, who m. Mary, dau. of Michael Dease, Esq., and had issue, PETER, Michael, James, Elizabeth, and Catherine, who all d. s. p. John's brother,

PETER DE PENTHENY, chief of his name, and hereditary Lord of Tara, grandfather of the present representative, was educated and matriculated in the foreign university of St. Omer's, where he took a very high degree, the honours of our universities at home being then closed to members of the Roman-catholic religion. He was one of the most accomplished men of his day. To great natural abilities he united the advantages of a highly liberal education, and was acquainted with most of the living languages of Europe. Of him it was said by a learned Jesuit, that, to the wit of his countryman Swift, he united the learning of Buchanan, and that he spoke Latin with the purity of a Cicero. He wrote several poetical pieces, and also an able answer to Swift's allegorical 'Tale of a Tub,' in which he defended the catholic religion against the attacks of that celebrated satirist. Although he was solicited by several of his friends to publish this latter tract, it does not appear that it or any other of his productions was ever printed." (HARDIMAN'S Memoirs.) He m. Mary, relict of Charles O'Malley, of Castle Mally, Esq., and had,

i. Elizabeth, who d. young.

ii. MARIA, his heir, m. to GEORGE-BOURKE-KELLY O'KELLY, Esq.,* of whom the present representative is the eldest son and heir, and hereditary Lord of Tara.

TARDREW, WILLIAM, Esq. of Annery House, Monkleigh, co. Devon, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Devon, m. 31 Aug. 1818, Louisa, sister of Henry Hole, Esq. of Ebberly House, near Great Torington.

Seat—Annery House, near Bideford.

TATE OF BURLEIGH PARK.

TATE, MARY, of Burleigh Park, co. Leicester, and of Langdown, Hants. Miss Tate s. her father in 1822.

Ciueage.

This family is mentioned in deeds relating to Coventry, as early as the reign of HENRY III.; and in the church of St. Michael, in that city, was a chantry, founded by one of them, called Tate's Chantry, the priest of which was paid yearly by the company of Dyers, in London.

JOHN TATE,† of Coventry, held lands, in the reign of RICHARD II., at Whitley, near that town, which continued with his descendants for many generations. He was s. by his son,

JOHN TATE, of Coventry, who had also lands near Coleshill, in Warwickshire. He left, by Margaret, his wife, two sons, THOMAS, his heir; John (Sir), Knt., sheriff of London in 1464, and lord-mayor in 1473. The elder son,

THOMAS TATE, was styled of Calais, merchant of the Staple. He left two sons,

- i. ROBERT (Sir), Knt., sheriff of London, in 1481, and lord-mayor in 1488, who held the manor of Stockbury, in Kent, and founded a chantry at Allhallows Barking, where he was buried. He m. Margery, dau. of Richard Wood, mayor of Coventry, (by Margery, his wife, who m. 2ndly, Sir William Taylor,‡ Knt., lord-mayor of London,) and by her (who d. in 1511, and was interred at Allhallows Barking) left issue, 1. JOHN, his heir, whose son, John, d. in 1521; 2. Richard (Sir), Knt., ambassador from HENRY VIII., who d. s. p. in 1554; 3. Robert, d. s. p. in 1508; 1. Margery; 2. Bridget, m. to John Pauncefort, Esq. of Hasfield, co. Gloucester; 3. Elizabeth, m. to John Beaufoy, Esq. of Edmonscote, in Warwickshire.
- ii. JOHN (Sir), of whose line we are about to treat.

The second son,

SIR JOHN TATE, Knt., sheriff of London in 1485, and lord-mayor in 1496, was knighted, by HENRY VII., at the foot of London bridge, for service done against the rebels at Blackheath. He m. Magdalen, dau. of — Harpen, of Wales, and by her (who d. in 1517) had issue, i. Thomas,

* O'Kelly, of A'rd-Cöll. The house of A'rd-Cöll obtained from MacEdmond of Gaillé, in the 14th century, and forfeited to the crown at the restoration of CHARLES II. In the following reign of JAMES II., EDMOND, chief of A'rd-Cöll, in right of his descent from the first MacEdmond of Gaillé, grandson of Donough, chief of Y'Maine, who d. in 1307, (see O'KELLY, Clan-Colla, Sereene, and Gállah,) m. a dau. of the chief of Rath-Cöll, whose son, Edmond, m. the dau. and heir of Kavenagh of Durlas, and had Edmond, who m. Anne, dau. of Bourke of Ardref, whose only son, George-Bourke, m. Maria, dau. and heir of PENTHENY OF TARA, of whom EDMUND DE PENTHENY-O'KELLY, uniting the representation of A'rd-Cöll and Tara, is the eldest son and heir. He m. Blanche Arundell, niece of the ninth Lord Arundell of Wardour, and has, 1. Blanche; 2. Augustus-Edmond; 3. Emily; 4. Clan-Eugene-Arundell; 5. Pentheny; 6. Raymond-Edmund.—See BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.

† This pedigree is principally compiled from a MS. volume, begun by MAWSON, Portcullis, and continued by WARBURTON, Somerset Herald, at whose death it was probably sold.

HARRIET-ANNE, present BARONESS DE LA ZOUCHE. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

- II. MARY, b. in 1701, m. 19 Sept. 1723, at the chapel of Somerset House, to Samuel Long, Esq., eldest son of Charles Long, Esq. of Hurts Hall, from whom descends the present

HENRY LAWES LONG, Esq. of Hampton Lodge.

- III. Susannah, b. in 1703, and d. in 1725, unm.

Bartholomew Tate d. in 1704, and was s. by his son,

BARTHOLOMEW TATE, Esq. of De la Pré Abbey, b. in 1699, who m. 1st, Arundel, dau. and heir of Henry Strarford, Esq. of Overston, co. Northampton, and 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Colonel Moyser, by whom (who survived him, and d. in 1788) he had no issue. By the former he had one son and two daus., viz.,

Bartholomew, b. and d. in 1726.

Mary, b. in 1725, m. to Admiral Sir Charles Hardy, but d. s. p. in 1750.*

Frances, b. in 1727, and d. in 1728.

Mr. Tate d. without surviving issue, in 1776, at Bath, having disposed of De la Pré Abbey, &c. during his lifetime, and leaving the descendants of his two sisters, Catharine and Mary, his co-heirs.

Tate of Burleigh.

ANTHONY TATE, Esq. of Hoby, co. Leicester, and of Stretton-super-Dunsmore, in Warwickshire, second son of Sir Bartholomew Tate, of De la Pré Abbey, and Anne Saunders, his wife, m. Margaret, third dau. of John Digby, Esq. of Welby, co. Leicester, great-grandson of Sir Everard Digby, killed at the battle of Towton, in 1461. By this lady (who m. 2ndly, Richard Stanley, Esq. of Sutton Bonnington, Notts, and d. in 1581) he had a son and dau.

GEORGE, his heir.

Sanders, m. to Richard Butler, Esq. of Preston Capes.

Anthony Tate d. 2 April, 1659, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE TATE, Esq. of Stretton-super-Dunsmore, and of Sutton Bonnington, b. in 1575, who m. Barbara, dau. of Richard Stanley, Esq., before mentioned, and had issue. The eldest son and successor,

ANTHONY TATE, Esq., b. in 1628, m. Bridget, dau. of Henry Kilby, Esq. of the Hut, co. Leicester,† and had issue,

I. George, d. young.

II. HENRY, his heir.

III. WILLIAM.

IV. Anthony.

V. George, b. in 1667.

I. Anne.

II. Barbara.

III. Mary, m. in 1703, Edward Butler, LL.D., president of Magdalen College, Oxford.

IV. Catharine.

* "On the demise of this lady (which happened in childhood) the estate of De la Pré was sold to Mr. Bouverie."—NICHOLLS'S Leicestershire, vol. ii. p. 288.

† There would appear to be some confusion in this part of the descent. Warburton's book makes Bridget Tate the widow of Joshua Sacheverell, the father of the well-known Dr. Sacheverell. Now, as Henry Tate, of Burleigh, was b. in 1653, and Dr. Sacheverell in 1672, that is impossible. It will be seen from the following monumental inscription, in the nave of Salisbury Cathedral, to be equally unlikely, that Bridget Tate re-married Sacheverell's father:—

Mrs. Susanna Tate, widow, died 1722, aged 72, wife to the Rev. Mr. Sacheverell, of St. Peters, Marlborough, Prebendary of Sarum, afterwards wife to the Rev.
Mr. Tate, minister of Preshot, in this county.

Arms—SACHEVERELL and TATE, impaling a lion, rampant.

Joshua Sacheverell d. in 1648, and an Anthony Tate was inducted to the living of Preshot, near Marlborough, in 1685, and d. in 1689. It is obvious that Mrs. Susanna Tate was not the mother of Henry Tate, of Burleigh, both from the dates and the coat of arms, which is not that of Kilby, and we are not aware that the father of Henry Tate was in the church. If he was, Mrs. Susanna Tate must have been his second wife.

HENRY TATE, Esq. of Burleigh Park, co. Leicester, b. in 1653, high-sheriff for that shire, in 1711, who m. Lucy, dau. of Francis Hacker, Esq. of London, and by her (who d. 17 June, 1722) left at his decease, 3 Dec., in the same year, an only son,

WILLIAM TATE, Esq., b. in 1692, at whose decease, unm., 17 Dec. 1722, Burleigh passed to his aunt, Mary, wife of Edward Butler, LL.D., while the representation of this branch of the family devolved upon his uncle,

WILLIAM TATE, Esq., b. in 1666, who m. Anne, dau. of Richard Hammond, Esq. of London, and by her (who d. in 1718) had issue. William Tate d. in 1727. His sixth son,

BENJAMIN TATE, Esq. of Burleigh Park, jure uxoris, m. 1st, in 1742, Martha, dau. of — Allcroft, Esq. of Mitcham; and 2ndly, in 1765, Mary, dau. and heir of Edward Butler, LL.D., before mentioned, and relict of Philip Herbert, Esq. of Kingsey, co. Oxford, M.P. for Oxford. He had issue only by his first wife. Benjamin Tate d. in 1790, and was s. by his son, GEORGE TATE, Esq. of Burleigh Park, and of Langdown, in Hants, to whom his cousin and stepmother bequeathed the former estate at her decease, in 1798. He m. in 1776, or 1777, Bridget, dau. of Richard Ford, Esq. of Chertsey, and relict of Blunden Moore, Esq. of Byfleet, in Surrey, by whom he left (at his decease, in 1822) an only dau. and heiress, Miss TATE, of Burleigh Park and Langdown.

Arms—Party, per fesse, or and gu., a pale, counterchanged, three Cornish choughs, ppr.

Crest—Of the family. An arm, embowed and couped at the shoulder, vested, per pale, gu. and or, holding in the hand, ppr., a pine-branch, of the second.

TATLOCK OF KIRKBY.

The late REV. HENRY TATLOCK, of Kirkby, co. Lancaster, b. in 1810; m. in April, 1835, Mary, dau. of John Johnson, Esq. of Arley Hall, in the same shire, by Anne, his wife, only child of the Rev. John Chisenhall,* M.A. of Arley, and niece and heir of Daniel Chisenhall, Esq., barrister-at-law. Mr. Tatlock, who was M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, is lately deceased, leaving his widow to succeed him in the possession of the family estates.

Lineage.

The family of Tatlock possessed freehold property in the township of Kirkby since the time of King JOHN, as is satisfactorily established by the title-deeds to their estate. Memorials of two of the earlier members appear at Wellesing Chapel. From one of these, John Tatlock, Gent. of Bank, was descended

THE REV. HENRY TATLOCK, who inherited the Kirkby estate. He was of Peter House College, Cambridge, where he graduated in 1758, and subsequently filled the duties for many years of curate of Walton-on-the-Hill, and incumbent of West Derby. He m. Nancy, only child and heiress of John Johnson, Esq. of Everton, by whom he had issue,

JOHNSON, his heir.

Elizabeth, d. young.

Mr. Tatlock was buried at Walton-on-the-Hill. His only son and heir,

THE REV. JOHNSON TATLOCK, of Kirkby, b. in 1768, entered at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, in 1786, and graduated there successively, B.A. in 1789, and M.A. in 1792. He m. Catharine, dau. of James Brownbill, Gent., and widow of — Seddon, Esq., by whom he had issue an only child, the late Rev. Henry Tatlock, with whom the male line of this family expired. Mr. Tatlock was for many years incumbent and almoner of Lathom. He d. in 1818.

Arms—Az., a bend, cotised, or, in chief a dolphin, naiant, ar.

Crest—A demi-lion, rampant, or.

Seat—Kirkby, near Liverpool.

TATTERSHALL, OR TATTERSALL, OF LINCOLNSHIRE, ESSEX, KENT, AND SURREY.

TATTERSHALL, FRANCES, only surviving dau. of the late Rev. John Tattershall, rector of Howe, co. Norfolk, chaplain to GEORGE III., &c., and present representative of the Surrey branch of the great house of Tattershall, m. her cousin, the REV. JOHN BAKER, rector of Thorp Arch, co. York, and of Westbourne, co. Sussex, second son of John Baker, Esq., M.P. for Canterbury, and has had issue,

GEORGE-GRANVILLE, an officer in the 35th regt.

Sibylla-Jane, m. in 1843, George-Bulkeley Tattershall, Esq., capt. Ceylon Rifles, and d. s. p. 19 June, 1844.

Lineage.

At the period of the Conquest, WILLIAM bestowed the lordship of Tateshall, co. Lincoln, with many other estates, on EUDO and PINSON, two of his Norman nobles, who di-

* A descendant of the ancient and knightly family of "Chisenhall of Chisenhall," amongst whose members was the renowned "Sir Edward Chisenhall, Knight." The present male representative of the family is Mrs. Tatlock's brother, Chisenhall Chisenhall, Esq. of Arley Hall, who assumed the surname of Chisenhall, in lieu of his patronymic, Johnson.

vided the grant, Eudo taking Tateshall. He was succeeded in that lordship by his son, HUGH FITZ EUDO, who founded, in 1139, an abbey for Cistercian monks at Kirkstead, near Tateshall. To him followed in regular descent, ROBERT, PHILIP, and ROBERT, the last of whom procured, in 1201, a grant from King JOHN for the inhabitants of Tateshall to hold a weekly market. This Robert d. about 15 King JOHN, and left, by Isold, his wife, dau. and heir of William Pantolph, brother of Hugh, Baron of Wemme, a son and heir,

ROBERT DE TATESHALL, Baron de Tatshall, who in 10 HENRY III. had custody of Bolesover Castle, and in the following year was governor of that of Lincoln. He m. 1st, Amabill, eldest dau. and co-heir of William de Albini, fourth Earl of Arundel and Sussex, by Amabil, his wife, sister and co-heir of Ralph, Earl of Chester, and with this lady acquired the castle and manor of Buckenham, co. Norfolk. He m. 2ndly, a dau. of John de Grey, Lord of Shaldeburn, co. Berks, and had with her the manor of Shaldeburn. This fensual lord d. 33 HENRY III., and was s. by his son, (by his first wife.)

ROBERT DE TATESHALL, b. in 1223, a participator in the wars of HENRY III., and subsequently in those of EDWARD I.: was summoned to parliament as BARON TATESHALL, from 24 June, 1295, to 26 Aug. 1296. He m. Joan, second dau. and co-heir of Ralph Fitz Ranulph, Lord of Middleham, co. York, with whom he acquired a considerable accession of property. His lordship d. in 1272, leaving a son and successor,

ROBERT DE TATESHALL, second baron, (see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage), and it is supposed, on strong presumptive evidence, a younger son,

JOHN DE TATESHALL, living 21 EDWARD I., who, by Catherine, his wife, was father of

ROGER TATESHALL, living 47 EDWARD III., who sat in parliament for Lincolnshire. His son,

ROBERT TATTERSHALL, of Wanstede and Little Waltham, "parcel of the barony of Tateshall," co. Essex, the former of which he held by knight's service of the Bishop of London of his castle of Stortford. This Robert, who was buried at St. Swithin's, Walbrook, London, in 1429, had, by Anne, his wife, two sons,

John, of Wanstede and Little Waltham, co. Essex, and Well Hall and Woolwich, co. Kent, who m. Agnes, dau. of John Chichele, Chamberlain of London, and grandniece of Archbishop Chichele, and d. in 1446, leaving two daus., his co-heirs, viz.,

ANNE, of Wanstede and Little Waltham, m. Sir Ralph de Hastings, third son of Leonard, Lord Hastings, and brother of Lord Willoughby and Welles, and had issue.

Margery, of Well Hall and Eltham, lady of the bed-chamber to Queen CATHERINE, m. John Roper, of Swcliffe, Kent, and had issue.

RICHARD, of whose line we treat.

The latter,

RICHARD TATTERSHALL, d. in 1449, and was buried at Rotherhithe. He was father of

ROBERT TATTERSHALL, who purchased the estate of Hilden, near Tunbridge, 10 HENRY VII., held by knight's service of the Duke of Northumberland, and subsequently (1510) had the estate of Minchen Court from HEN. VIII., to hold with his manor of Greenwich. Minchen Court he sold to Sir E. Wotton. His son and heir,

JOHN TATTERSHALL, of Hilden, held by knight's service of the Duke of Northumberland, d. in 1553, leaving a son,

JOHN TATTERSHALL, of Hilden, who sold that estate to Humphrey Dixon. He was father of

GEORGE TATTERSHALL, of Stapleford, co. Wilts, who purchased the estate of Finchampsted, co. Berks. He m. Catherine, dau. of Francis Perkins, of Upton, Berks, and had (besides two daus., Constance, m. to William Smith; and Elizabeth, m. to John Doncastle, of Binfield, Berks) a son and heir,

GEORGE TATTERSHALL, of Finchampsted, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Biggs, of Stapleford, had, by her, a son and heir,

GEORGE, of Finchampsted, aged 61, 8 May, 1665, who m. Mary, dau. of Henry Astell, of Basledon, co. Berks, and left by her two daus. and co-heirs,

MARY, m. Charles Howard, fourth son of the Earl of Arundel and Surrey, and grandson of the Duke of Norfolk, and conveyed the manor of Finchampsted to the Howards.

Katherine, m. Bernard Howard, eighth son of the Earl of Arundel and Surrey, and from this marriage descends the ducal house of Norfolk.

Mr. Tattershall, by a second wife, Anne, had another son,

JOHN TATTERSHALL, who held property in Herts: his wife gave to a charity in 1680. Their son,

THE REV. JOHN TATTERSHALL, M.A., of Chipsted, co. Surrey, rector and lord of the manor, d. in 1740, leaving by Frances, his wife, besides two younger sons, both d. s. p.

JOHN, his heir.

JAMES, successor to his brother.

The elder son,

THE REV. JOHN TATTERSHALL, b. in 1711, possessed Upper and Lower Gatton, with estates in Surrey, Sussex, Essex, and London. He m. 1st, Rachel, sister and heir of Paul Humphrey, Esq. of Gatton, M.P., and 2ndly, Mary, only child and heir of James Maud, Esq. of Chelsfield Court, co. Kent, but dying without issue of either marriage, in 1769, was s. by his brother,

THE REV. JAMES TATTERSHALL, M.A., rector of Streatlam, Surrey, and of St. Paul's, Covent-garden, b. in 1712, who m. Dorothy, dau. of the Rev. E. de Chair, A.M., chaplain to his majesty, (and sister of Dr. John de Chair, who m. Julia, third dau. of Sir William Wentworth, Bart.,) and by her had issue,

JOHN, of whom presently.

James, in holy orders, M.A., rector of Tewkesbury, d. unm. in 1791.

William de Chair, in holy orders, chaplain in ordinary to his majesty GEORGE III., rector of Westbourne, co. Sussex, and of Wotton-under-Edge, co. Gloucester, m. Mary, dau. of George Ward, Esq. of Wandsworth Hall, co. Surrey, high-sheriff of that co. in 1776, and d. in 1829, leaving issue, James, m. Louisa, dau. of — Justamond, Esq., and widow of Lieut.-Col. Taylor.

George, in holy orders, m. Charlotte, dau. of Colonel Johnstone, 63rd regt., son of Captain Joshua Johnstone, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Cadwallader, seventh Lord Blayney, and left, with a dau., Mary-Anne, one son, George-Bulkeley, capt. in the Ceylon rifles, who m. in 1843, his cousin, Sibylla-Jane, dau. of the Rev. John Baker, of Thorp Arch, co. York, &c., which lady d. 19 June, 1844.

John, m. Charlotte, dau. of George Cooper, Esq., and has issue, John, m. Arabella, dau. of the Rev. Mr. Cantley; William, in holy orders, rector of Howe, co. Norfolk; James; and Mary.

Jane, m. Granville-Hastings Wheler, Esq. of Otterden Place, Kent, and Ledstone Hall, co. York, and d. in 1842.

Jane, m. John Baker, Esq. of Hawkhurst, co. Kent, M.P. for Canterbury, and had two sons and two daus.

Dorothy, m. to the Rev. Thomas Rackett, M.A., F.R.S., &c. &c., rector of Spilsbury, co. Dorset.

Frances, m. Sir John-Brewer Davis, Knt. of Hawkhurst, in Kent, and of Albemarle-street, London, and had a son, HORATIO DAVIS, Esq., who m. Frances, dau. of Sir Walter James, Bart., by Jane, his wife, dau. of John, Marquess Camden.

The Rev. James Tattershall had, by a second wife, another son, Thomas-William, who d. unm. in 1792. His eldest son,

THE REV. JOHN TATTERSHALL, of Christ Church, Oxford, b. in 1750, chaplain-in-ordinary to GEORGE III., rector of Howe, co. Norfolk, vicar of Harewood and of Ledsham, co. York, m. Sibylla-Christian, eldest dau. of Admiral Robert Haswell, R.N., and widow of Granville Wheler, Esq. of Otterden Place, Kent, and by her (who d. in 1837) had issue, John-Cecil, educated at Harrow, and afterwards at Christ Church, Oxford, mentioned in MOORE'S "Memoirs of Byron" as having saved his lordship's life. He d. unm. in 1812.

TATTON OF WITHENSHAW.

TATTON, THOMAS-WILLIAM, Esq. of Withenshaw, co. Chester, b. 2 June, 1816; s. his father in 1827; m. 25 Jan. 1843, Harriet-Susan, eldest dau. of Robert-Townley Parker, Esq. of Cuerden Hall, co. Lancaster.

Lineage.

The Tattons of Kenworthy, from whom the family before us derives, were a branch of the ancient house of Tatton of Tatton, which was allied to the barons of Dunham Massey.

ROBERT TATTON, of Kenworthy, by his marriage with Alice, dau. and heiress of William de Massey, of Withenshaw, in Cheshire, acquired that estate, and was direct ancestor of

ROBERT TATTON, of Withenshaw, who m. Alice, sister of William Massie, of Coddington, living 3 EDWARD IV., and dau. of Hugh Massie, by Agnes, his wife, dau. and heiress of Nicholas Bold, great-great-grandson of Sir Richard Bold, of Bold. By Alice Massie, Robert left four sons, viz.,

- I. WILLIAM, who m. a dau. of William Davenport, of Bramall, but d. s. p.
- II. Robert, a priest, who of course d. unm.
- III. JOHN, of whom presently.
- IV. Bartholomew.

The third son,

JOHN TATTON, m. Margaret, dau. of Ralph Davenport, of Chester, a younger son of Ralph Davenport, of Henbury, and left (with a dau., Elizabeth, m. 1st, to — Bradborne, and 2ndly, to Thomas Ashley, of Shepley,) a son and successor,

ROBERT TATTON, of Withenshaw, who m. Dorothy, fourth dau. of George Booth, Esq. of Dunham, and by her (who d. in 1688) had issue, I. WILLIAM, his heir; II. John; III. Robert, of the Parsonage at Northenden, d. in 1610; IV. Edward, of Etchells, m. Margaret Corke, and d. in 1632; V. Nicholas, m. in 1596, Dorothy Linney; I. Elizabeth, m. in 1570, to John Ward, of Capesthorpe; II. Dorothy, m. in 1582, to James Bradshawe, Esq. of the Haugh, co. Chester. Robert Tatton d. in June, 1579, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, who m. Mary, dau. of Sir Edward Fitton, Knt. of Gawsorth, and by her (who d. in 1614) left at his decease, 19 May, 1611, a son and successor,

ROBERT TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, who m. Eleanor, third dau. of John Warren, Esq. of Poynton, and had issue five sons and three daus., of whom the eldest, Elizabeth, b. in 1587, m. 1st, John Latham, Esq. of Wilmslow, and 2ndly, George Mainwaring, Esq., second son of Sir Randal Mainwaring, of Peover. Robert Tatton d. at Southwark, near London, in 1623, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, b. in 1581, who m. in 1602, Katherine, eldest dau. of Sir George Leycester, Bart. of Toft, and by her (who m. 2ndly, the Rev. W. Nicolls, D.D., and d. in 1665) left at his demise, in 1616, (with three daus., Anne, who d. in infancy; Margaret, the wife of Richard Twyford, Esq. of Diddesbury; and Eleanor, b. in 1612,) a son and successor,

ROBERT TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, b. 14 May, 1606, who served the office of sheriff for Cheshire in 1645. During the civil wars, this gentleman was a staunch supporter of the royal cause, and sustained a siege at Withenshaw against the parliamentary forces. It is thus noticed in Burghall's diary: "February 25, 1643-44, Mr. Tatton's house at Withenshaw was taken by the parliament, who had laid a long siege to it. There were in it only Mr. Tatton, some gentlemen, and but a few soldiers, who had quarter for life. The ammunition was but little." Colonel Duckenfield conducted the attack, and finally effected the reduction of the mansion by bringing two pieces of ordnance from Manchester. In the last century, six skeletons were found in the garden at Withenshaw, lying close together, who were supposed to be soldiers buried during the siege in the house, which was then much larger than it is at present. There is a tradition that one of the parliament officers exposed himself by sitting on a wall, and that Mrs. Tatton begged for a musket, to try if "she could bring him down," and succeeded. Mr. Watson supposes this officer to have been "Captayne Adams, slayne at Withenshaw," on Sunday, the 25th, who was buried at Stockport, 25 Feb. 1643-44. Mr. Tatton compounded for his estate at £707 13s. 4d., and appears to have been oppressed by other vexatious charges, in consequence of which he appealed against his portion of subsequent parliament levies. These disastrous consequences of loyalty must have been severely felt, as Webb, writing in 1622, speaks of the Tattons as being "much eclipsed," and "hy troubles and encumbrances, whereunto greatest estates are oft subject, obscured," and "places the chiefest hope of raising the house on that grandchild," upon whom these calamities subsequently fell. Mr. Tatton m. in 1628, Anne, third dau. and co-heiress of William Brereton, Esq. of Ashley, and by her (who d. in 1670) had four sons and two daus., viz.,

- I. WILLIAM, his heir.
- II. Robert, of Stockport, b. in 1639, who m. Anne, dau. of William Davenport, Esq. of Bramall, and d. in 1685, leaving issue, WILLIAM, successor to his cousin Robert; Thomas, of Stockport; and Anne.
- III. Richard.
- IV. Thomas, of Peel, co. Chester, m. Mary, dau. of Edward Pegge, Esq. of Beauchief, and had two daus., Anne and Eleanor.
- I. Mary, b. in 1629.
- II. Anne, b. in 1632, m. in 1664, to Sir Amos Meredith, Bart.

Robert Tatton d. in 1669, was buried at Northenden, and s. by his son,

WILLIAM TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, b. in 1636, who m. Anne, only surviving child of Rowland Eyre, Esq. of Bradway, co. Derby, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Robert Radcliffe, Esq., second son of Sir Alexander Radcliffe, of Ordeshall) had a dau., Anne, m. to John Greenhalgh, Esq. of Brandlesome, and a son,

ROBERT TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, b. in 1668, who m. Frances, dau. of Peter Legh, Esq. of Lyme, but by her (who m. 2ndly, Sir Gilbert Clarke, and 3rdly, Dr. Shippen) having no issue, was s. at his decease by his cousin,

WILLIAM TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, b. at Bramall, 5 Aug. 1674, who m. in 1698, Hannah, dau. and heiress of Peter Wright, Esq. of Macclesfield, and had,

- I. WILLIAM, his heir.
- II. Thomas, of Heaton Norris, who m. 1st, Penelope, youngest dau. of Matthew, Lord Ducie; and 2ndly, Catherine, dau. of Hugh Foulkes, Esq. of Polesbey, in Denbighshire, but d. s. p. in 1775.
- I. Anne, b. in 1702, m. Samuel Kirke, Esq. of Whitehough, and had a dau., Catherine Kirke, the wife of the Rev. William Plumbe.
- II. Frances, d. unm. in 1776, aged 70.
- III. Barbara, of Macclesfield, also d. unm. in 1776.
- IV. Mary, d. unm.
- V. Lucy, m. to John Stafford, Esq.

Lineage.

GALFRID LE TAYLEUR, and Agatha, his wife, possessed the manor of Rodington in 1271, and in 1313, John, son of Galfrid, is mentioned as confirming a grant, made by Clarice, widow of Sir Roger de Apelegh, Knt., of the rent of Rodington Mill to the canons of Haughmond. In 1516, Jeffrye, ahhot of Lilleshall, demised the Grange of Longden upon Tern to

WILLIAM TAYLEUR, for the term of eighty-one years. His great-grandson,

CRESWELL TAYLEUR, being then styled of Meeson, obtained a lease of Rodington from John Gregory, the heir of an ancient family whose ancestor settled there in consequence of his marriage with the dau. and heiress of George Onslow. Creswell Tayleur was father of

JOHN TAYLEUR, Esq. of Rodington, b. at Longdon, in 1639, admitted of St. John's College, Cambridge, in 1656. He served the office of high-sheriff of Salop in 1691, and marrying one of the daus. and co-heirs of Thomas Skrymshire, Esq. of Aqualate, left at his decease a son and successor,

WILLIAM TAYLEUR, Esq. of Rodington, high-sheriff of Salop in 1713, who m. Dorothy, only child of Thomas Mackworth, Esq. of Betton Strange, by his second wife, the dau. of General Mytton, and left at his decease (with two daus. Sarah and Mary-Ann) a son and successor,

WILLIAM GROSVENOR, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Wood, Esq. of the Old Hall, Salop, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT GROSVENOR, Esq. of Ongar's Heath, parish of Ashley, in the co. Stafford, who m. 1st, Miss Hannah Stubbs, of Gousley Green, Cheshire, and had a son, STEPHEN, sub-treasurer of Christchurch, Oxford, baptized in 1707, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Rev. Mr. Tottie, vicar of Eccleshall, (in SHAW's Staffordshire, a pedigree shows the connexion of Elizabeth Tottie with the families of Scott, Croxall, Sadler, and Jordan.) By this lady Mr. Grosvenor had issue,

- i. JOHN, of Oxford, surgeon.

- ii. Sarah.

- iii. FRANCES, m. to SIR WILLIAM-ELIAS TAUNTON, as above.

- iv. Elizabeth.

Robert Grosvenor m. 2ndly, Mrs. Mary Allen, and had, with three daus., (the eldest dau., Mary, m. to Mr. Manning,) a son, William, father of John, of Market Drayton, Salop, and of a dau., m. to Mr. Pemberton, whose dau. is the present Mrs. Ryland, of Sherborne.

TAYLOR OF PENNINGTON.

TAYLOR, PRINGLE, Esq. of Pennington House, co. Southampton, a Lieutenant-Colonel in the army, and a Knight of the Royal Guelphic Order; b. 25 Jan. 1796; m. at St. Marylebone, London, 12 July, 1827, Adelaide-Frances, eldest dau. of Colonel John Shedden, formerly of the 15th Hussars, of Eastonton, near Andover, and of Efford, near Lymington, Hants, (refer to SHEDDEN of KNOCK-MARNOCK and PAULERSPURY PARK,) by Sophia-Elizabeth, his wife, dau. (by Fanny-Maria, dau. of Sir Robert Sewell, Bart.) of Matthew Lewis, Esq., Deputy Secretary at War, and sister and co-heiress with Maria, wife of Sir Henry Lushington, Bart., of Matthew-Gregory Lewis, Esq., M.P. By this marriage Col. Fringle Taylor has had issue, JOHN-CORTLANDT-SKINNER, b. 4 Sept. 1828.

Lewis-William-Mulcaster, b. 28 Feb. 1830, d. 9 Sept. 1838, and buried at Milford, Hants.

Moriath-Conrad-Eustace, b. 22 Sept. 1831, d. 19 April, 1832, and buried at Boldre.

Isahel-Sophia-Eliza.

Colonel Taylor proceeded, in 1811, to join the 22nd Light Dragoons in the East Indies, where he served until their return to Europe and disbandment, 25 Oct. 1820. He was in the field in 1815 and 1816, and during the whole of the Mahratta war in 1817, 1818, and 1819. The published official records shew that his conduct was conspicuous in the brigade cavalry actions of Bucktowlie and of Nagnore (1817), and of Ashta (20 Feb. 1818), when he incurred, as Brigade-Major, the responsibility of countermanding the retreat, and of ordering measures which saved the brigade, and terminated in the entire defeat of the Peishwa, the death of the gallant Gokla, and the rescue of the Rajah of Sattarah and his family, the most influential events in terminating the war. At the siege of Copaul-droog he commanded a battery; at the storm (13 May, 1819) he blew open the first gate with a galloper-gun of the 22nd Dragoons, and heading the forlorn hope, he stormed in succession the five distinct circles of fortification, every officer and man of his party being either killed or wounded. He received on the summit of that strong hill fort, at the moment of success in its capture, one bullet through his lungs and body, which killed the grenadier behind him, and another from which he was not relieved till 1841. He was specially recommended for favourable consideration for his services by the Governor-General of India. In 1823 and 1824 he was employed in the Cape cavalry against the Caffres; in 1826, as major of the 95th regt. at Malta; in 1827 he was ordered home to the command of the depot, then in a state of mutiny, which he speedily quelled, but was shot three times by the mutineers. For this service he received the expression of his Majesty's approbation. In 1833 and 1834 he was employed in command of the depot of the 61st regt.

Lineage.

The name of this family has not been exempted from the corruption in spelling which is to be traced in the records of many other houses.

Their ancestor was the Norman BARON TAILLEFER who accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror in his invasion of Great Britain, and of whom, Wace, the Anglo-Norman poet, speaks, in describing the battle of Hastings, which took place on Saturday, 14 Oct. 1066—

“Taillefer qui moult bien chantoit
Sur un cheval qui tot alloit
Devant eux alloit chantant
De Kalemagne et de Roland
Et D'Oliver et des Vassals
Qui moururent a Ronscevalles.”

HANGER TAYLEFER, his descendant, held lands in the tenure of Ospringe, co. Kent, 39 HENRY III. (A.D. 1256) from him we come to,

JOHN TAYLOR, of the Homestall, in Shadochurst, co. Kent, living in the time of EDWARD III.: he left sons,

New Jersey. A deed bearing date 19 Nov. 1681, conveys from certain Indians therein named, to the Lady (Elizabeth) Carteret, in trust for Mathew Taylor, of New York, a tract of land on the Rariton River, beginning at a place called Aqueckson, and running to Tuckaramochachinge, in depth on both sides of the river four miles. Mathew Taylor, by his will dated at New York in 1687, bequeathed ten guineas to his friend, J. Manning, of New York, to buy a mourning ring, and all the rest of his property to his brother, Edward, then residing in London, with reversion to Edward's son, George Taylor.

EDWARD, of whose line we treat.

This

EDWARD TAYLOR, succeeding to his brother Mathew's property, purchased a thousand acres of land at Middletown, New Jersey, in 1692, and by a deed dated in 1710, licence was granted to George Taylor to administer to the estate of his late father, Edward Taylor, of Middletown. This

GEORGE TAYLOR s. his father, having, by special licence from the governor of New York, dated in March, 1708, m. Helena Johnstone, of South Hampton, Long Island, by whom he left issue,

- i. George.
- ii. Edward, b. 20 Aug. 1712.
- iii. JOHN, of whom presently.

The third son,

JOHN TAYLOR, b. at Middletown in 1715, m. Susan, sister and heiress of Gen. Heard, of the army employed in the East Indies. John Taylor was Sheriff of New Jersey, and for many years one of the Justices and one of the Judges of his Majesty's court at Monmouth in that colony. On Lord Howe going out as Commissioner and Commander-in-chief for the American colonies, Judge Taylor was appointed (1776) his Majesty's Lord High Commissioner for New Jersey. The conscientious discharge of his duty to his sovereign, and the adhesion of his children to the royal cause, rendered him obnoxious to the revolutionary party. The Colonial Association, in 1778, declared the supporters of the British cause guilty of high treason; and having secured the person of Judge Taylor, he was imprisoned, tried for, and convicted of high treason. His property was confiscated and appropriated to the use of the revolted state; and he was subsequently obliged to receive for his estate, sold to the greatest disadvantage, the bills of Congress, when those bills were scarcely worth anything. Judge Taylor d. at Perth Amboy, New Jersey, 23 Nov. 1798, aged 82, leaving issue,

- i. John, b. at Middletown about 1744; m. at New York, Miss Winthrop, and by her left issue three sons: one m. Miss Clinton; another, m. Miss Ludlow; and a third m. Miss Winthrop; of his daus., one m. Mr. De Lancy; and another, a son of Mr. Winthrop, His Majesty's governor of one of the Eastern states.
- ii. WILLIAM, of whom presently.
- iii. Joseph, b. at Middletown, about 1748; m. Harriett Waddell, and left two daus.
- i. Mary, b. at Middletown, about 1745; m. to Dr. Bainbridge, and had issue,
 1. JOHN, who m. Cornelia Ogden, the maternal aunt of his uncle, William Taylor's wife.
 2. William, a Commodore in the American navy, and Commissioner of the naval arsenal and dock-yard at Boston, a distinguished officer; he captured His Majesty's frigate, the Java, during the 2nd American war, when conveying to the East Indies Lieut.-Gen. Sir Thomas Hyslop, Bart., G.C.B., as commander-in-chief.
 3. Joseph, a Capt. in the American navy, d. unm.
 1. Mary, m. to Dr. Maclean, President of Princetown College, whose son succeeded to that office.

The second son,

WILLIAM TAYLOR, a Barrister and King's Counsel, was born at Middletown, on 17 March, 1746. The part he took in support of the king's government was so prominent, that in 1776 General Washington detached a regiment under Colonel David Foreman, to secure the person of Mr. Taylor, who, in consequence, sought refuge within the British lines, abandoning his property to the amount of 12,000*l.* sterling; and beside the large emoluments of his profession, incurring the loss of a lucrative situation under government,—losses proved subsequently before His Majesty's commissioners for American claims. Sir Guy Carleton, who succeeded Lord Howe as commissioner and commander-in-chief in America, recommended Mr. Taylor, in a letter dated 23

Oct. 1783, "as very deserving of the consideration and liberality of government." He was subsequently appointed Lord-chief-justice of Jamaica, which office he relinquished upon his marriage. He married, 6 May, 1791, at Cowley House, near Cheltenham, in Gloucestershire, Eliza, dau. of Col. Philip Van Cortlandt, (see family of VAN CORTLANDT at foot), and having, after the war, repurchased his estate at Perth Amboy, New Jersey, he d. there on the 16 Aug. 1806, aged 60 years. By Eliza Van Cortlandt, who d. 22 July, 1816, Lord Chief-Justice Taylor, whose will was proved in 1809, had issue,

- i. John-William, b. at Halifax, in 1792; d. in the military service of the East India Company, in command of the Dacca Provisional Battalion, s. p.
- ii. PRINGLE, the present LIEUT.-COLONEL PRINGLE TAYLOR, of Pennington.

Family of Van Cortlandt.

The Van Cortlandts are descended from one of the most noble families in Holland, to which country their ancestors migrated when deprived of the sovereignty of Courland.†

THE RIGHT HON. OLIVER-STEPHEN VAN CORTLANDT, a privy councillor, accompanied in 1629, as secretary to government, the first Dutch governor, sent out by the States-general of Holland, to the colony now called New York, which had been settled some time before. As a compensation to him for large sums of money he advanced to the government of Holland, he obtained a grant of two manors, of great extent and fertility, on the North river, not far from New York; one called the manor of Yonkers, and the other the manor of Cortlandt, which have continued ever since in the possession of his descendants. In 1662, the colony capitulated to the British, and his signature was attached to the articles of capitulation. He m. in 1642, Anne, dau. of — Lockermaun, and d. in the year 1699, leaving issue,

Lineage.

The family of Taylor came originally from Lyme, in Dorsetshire.

HECTOR TAYLOR, was residing at Lyme, in 1685. His son,

JOSEPH TAYLOR, Esq. of the royal navy, was captain of the flag-ship stationed at Plymouth at the time of Queen ANNE's death. He purchased the estate of Denbury, in Devonshire, and his monument is to be seen in the parish church. He was s. by his son, (see CHARNOCK'S Biographia Navalis, vol. iii.)

JOSEPH TAYLOR, Esq., who purchased the manor of Denbury, and represented the borough of Ashburton in parliament. He m. Rebecca, dau. and heiress of — Whitrow, of Dartmouth, by Mary, sister of Richard Reynell, Esq. of Oghwell, who dying without issue in 1735, left his estates at East and West Oghwell, to his niece, Mrs. Taylor, and her husband. The picture of this lady, taken when she was eighty years of age, is preserved at Oghwell House. By her Mr. Taylor left issue,

THOMAS, his successor.

Joseph, in holy orders, rector of Bridford and of West Oghwell, who d. unm. in 1772, aged 39.

Elizabeth, m. to Arthur Holdsworth, Esq. of Dartmouth.

The elder son,

THOMAS TAYLOR, Esq. of Oghwell and Deubury, a magistrate for Devon, m. Elizabeth, dan. and heiress of Adam Pierce, Esq., and had a son and successor,

PIERCE-JOSEPH TAYLOR, Esq. of Oghwell and Denbury, b. in 1754, who m. Charlotte, fifth dau. of the Rev. William Cooke, deau of Ely, and provost of King's College, Cambridge, and had issue, Family of Reynell.*

Of this powerful Western family, once so renowned, several branches still exist, though their numerous and vast possessions in the counties of Cambridge, York, Warwick, Somerset, Devon, and Cornwall, have passed with heiresses into other families, or been otherwise alienated. The present male representative of "this right ancient and eminent family," as it is called by Prince, is Lieut.-Gen. Sir Thomas Reynell, K.C.B., sixth Irish baronet, of the creation of 1678. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

The first of the family on record is

SIR RICHARD REYNELL, of Pyttney, or Peteneya, co. Somerset, who flourished in the reigns of HENRY II. and RICHARD I., and who during the absence of King RICHARD in the Holy Land, had the custody of the castles of Exeter and Launceston delivered into his hands, 1191. These castles he stoutly defended against John, Earl of Moreton, the king's brother, who, in the monarch's absence, endeavoured to usurp the sovereign power. On the death of RICHARD, and the accession of JOHN, the latter, remembering the part which this Richard Reynell had taken against him, deprived him of his estates at Pyttney. Sir Richard Reynell was sheriff of Devonshire from 1191 to 1194. He was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD REYNELL, Knt. of Pyttney, to whom King JOHN restored the lands of which his father had been deprived, on condition that he should serve him with horse and armour for one year, as appears by his deed dated at Bined, 27th July, 1214, a copy of which is in the Harleian MSS., No. 1195. He left a son and successor,

* See PRINCE'S Worthies of Devon; POLWHELE'S, POLE'S, and LYSONS' Histories of Devonshire; also RISDON'S Survey of Devon, &c. &c.

WALTER REYNELL, of Pyttney, who lived in the reign of HENRY III., 1216 to 1272. He was seised of his father's estates, and was s. by his son,

WALTER REYNELL, Esq. of Pyttney, who in addition to the lands of his inheritance, possessed large estates in Cambridgeshire, acquired by his marriage with Maud, dau. and heiress of Everard de Trumpington, of that county. By her he left two sons,

I. JOHN, his successor.

II. Hugh (Sir), Knt., grand-master and governor of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, 1275. There is a small harbour in Malta still called by his name, (Renelle.)

The son and heir,

JOHN REYNELL, Esq. of Trumpington, Cambridgeshire, m. Maud, dau. of Giles de Fulbourne, of that co. He was possessed of estates in Warwickshire, and represented Cambridgeshire in parliament, 25 EDWARD III. He left issue,

WALTER REYNELL, Esq. of Trumpington and Badlingham, both in the co. Cambridge, 4 RICHARD II., 1381. He m. in 1392, Joan, eldest dau. and eventually sole heir of John Basinghourn, of Badlingham and Fencottes, co. Cambridge, by his wife, Joan, eldest dau. and co-heir of Alan le Fraunceis, to whom and his heirs for ever King HENRY III. had granted the right of free warren in his lordships and lands at Badlingham, (where this Walter Reynell sometimes dwelt,) and in all his lands in Yorkshire. A seal of this Walter, affixed to a deed in the reign of RICHARD II., anno 1381, is now in possession of the present Sir Thomas Reynell, Bart. It bears the family arms, and the legend, Sigillum Walteri Reynell. He d. leaving issue, I. WALTER, his successor; II. Joan, m. — Sackville; and III. Maud, m. — Pyne, of Upton Pynes.

The son and successor,

SIR WALTER REYNELL, Knt. of Trumpington and of Badlingham, in Cambridgeshire, and of East Ogwell, in Devonshire, m. Margaret, eldest dau. and eventually sole heir of William Stigbuhl, alias Style, by his first wife, Constance, or Elizabeth, eldest of the three daus. and co-heirs of Robert de Malston, co. Devon, by his wife, Muriel, dau. and heir of Thomas Thorber. Upon this marriage, the Reynells removed altogether out of Cambridgeshire, and settled permanently in Devon, and first at East Ogwell, where the ruins of their old mansion-house are to be seen near the church. Sir Walter Reynell had issue, three sons and two daus.,*

I. John, who d. before his father. He served with distinction at the memorable battle of Agincourt, and at the siege of Harfleur. He m. Agnes, dau. of — Chichester, Esq., and d. s. p.

II. WALTER, s. his father. III. Robert, d. unm.

I. Alicia, m. in 1396, — Trevillian.

II. Eleanor, m. William Fouhel, Esq. of Fouhels-Coombe, in the parish of Ugborough, co. Devon, M.P. for Totnes, 33 KING HENRY VI., 1455.

The second but eldest surviving son,

WALTER REYNELL, of East Ogwell, accompanied King HENRY V. in all his French wars, and served at Agincourt and Harfleur with his own men-at-arms, not hesitating to sacrifice his own possessions,† in order to sustain the honour of his country. For his valour and fidelity he was made governor of Calais and the Marches. He also represented the county of Devon in parliament, 33 HENRY VI. He m. Joanna, dau. of William Walrond, Esq. of Bradfield, in Devon, and by her had issue,

I. ROBERT, m. Thomasine, dau. of — Hatch. He was Lord of Malston, and captain of the hundred of Coleridge, in Devonshire. He d. before his father, leaving issue,

JOHN, who s. his grandfather.

II. WALTER, who s. his nephew, John.

I. Jane, m. John Stretchley, Esq. of Stretchley, in Devon.

II. Margaret, or Elizabeth, m. Richard Champenowne, Esq. of Huusbaw, in Church-Horwood, in Devon.

* Here, according to Sir William Pole, a descent is wanting.

† "The inheritance of the Reynells," says Prince, "has decreased by their long following the French wars; and their liberality to their retinue and soldiers, exhausted a great part, viz., the lands which came by Alan le Fraunceis."

He was s. at his death in 1475, by his grandson,

JOHN REYNELL, Esq. of Malston and East Ogwell, who m. Jane, dau. (by his wife, Blanch, dau. and co-heir of Hayes, of Devon,) of Sir Richard Fowell, of Fowellscombe,* and dying in 1478, s. p. m., was s. by his uncle,

WALTER REYNELL, Esq. of Malston and East Ogwell, m. 1st, Jane, dau. of Robert Whiting, Esq., and 2ndly, Radigunda, dau., by his wife, Anne, dau. and heir of John Bonville, Esq., only brother of the Lord Bonville, of Shute, in Devon,) of Philip Coplestone, Esq. of Coplestone in that county. By his second marriage he had issue,

I. JOHN, his successor.

II. THOMAS, to whom his father left Malston. For his posterity, see REYNELL OF MALSTON.

III. Nicholas.

IV. Edmond.

II. Margaret, m. Richard Lake, Esq. of Brixton, co. Devon, yeoman of the guard.

II. Joan, m. 1st, to William Huckmore, Esq. of Devon; and 2ndly, to — Pryce, Esq. of Horwell, in Colbrook, in Devon.

The eldest son,

JOHN REYNELL, Esq. of East Ogwell, b. in 1486, m. Margaret, dau. of William Fortescue, Esq. of Wood, co. Devon, by whom he had issue,

I. Walter, who d. s. p.

II. RICHARD, his successor.

III. Roger.

IV. John, of Newton Abbot. For him and his posterity, see REYNELL OF NEWTON ABBOT.

I. Alice, m. William Soper, Esq. of Woodland, in Devon.

II. Elizabeth, m. William Wylvill, Esq. of Crediton, in Devon.

The eldest surviving son,

RICHARD REYNELL, Esq. of East Ogwell, was a distinguished man, of whom, and his eminent sons, a pretty full account is given by Prince, in his "Worthies of Devon." He was b. in 1519. This Richard Reynell also represented the borough of Ashburton in parliament. He added to his large possessions, by purchase from the Courtenays, the manor and parish of West Ogwell, which, like East Ogwell, to which it is contiguous, was, in the reign of HENRY II., held by Hugh Pictavensis, to whom s. Robert Peytevin. From his family it came to the Courtenays, Earls of Devon, who sold it, as before stated. This Richard m. Agnes, dau. of John Southcote, Esq. of Indiho, in the parish of Bovey Tracey, in Devon, and dying when in the office of high-sheriff, 29 July, 1585, was buried among his ancestors, in East Ogwell Church, in the old family vault. His portrait is to be seen in the hall of West Ogwell House.† He left issue,

I. THOMAS (Sir), his successor.

II. Josias, who inherited the lands of Pennicross, and Weston Peverill, and d. s. p.

III. Richard† (Sir), of Ford House, near Newton Abbot, in the parish of Woolborough. This gentleman was bred to the bar in the Middle Temple, and was autumn reader of that society, 12 JAMES I., 1614. He had an office in the Exchequer, and amassing great wealth, purchased the manor of Ford, and built thereon a mansion.§ "Unto this house," says Prince, "King CHARLES I., of gracious memory, came, attended on by the Duke of Buckingham, and other great lords, 15 Sept. 1625, and was pleased to take up his lodging there. The next day, his majesty conferred the honour of knighthood, in the dining room of that house, on Richard Reynell, of West Ogwell, and

* An antique gold ring, having engraved on it the arms of Fowell and Reynell, was sometime since found in a field in the parish of Marlborough, South Devon, and is in the possession of Colonel Taylor.

† "On the south side of the church of East Ogwell, in a recess, was a seat of the Reynells," says POLWHELE, in his History of Devonshire, "where is erected a monument to their memory. There, too, is the dormitory of the Reynell family," in which there are upwards of thirty leaden coffins, containing the ashes of members of that family. "Close adjoining to the church are the ivy-grown ruins of the mansion-house of the Reynells, inhabited by large flocks of pigeons." This house was abandoned after the building of West Ogwell House.

‡ Arms—REYNELL arms, with a molet for difference.

§ The manor of Woolborough, to which Ford belongs, after Sir Richard's death, was the possession of his only dau., and her husband, Sir William Waller. King WILLIAM III., after landing at Torbay, in 1688, was received by them here, and here he resided for a few days. The Rev. John Reynell, then clergyman of the parish, read his proclamation in the adjoining town of Newton Abbot, on a stone still shown. Margaret, only child of Sir William and Lady Waller, brought Ford to the Courtenays, and the present Earl of Devon is the proprietor.

on Thomas Reynell, his brother, who at that time was his majesty's servant, and sewer in ordinary to his person, in presence of their wives, and divers lords and ladies, saying to them, "God give you joy!" After that he went to Plymouth, and returning to Ford the 24th of that same month; and the Sunday following his majesty went to Woolborough Church. For an account of the entertainment given by Sir Richard Reynell to CHARLES I., see LYSONS' Magna Britannia, Devonshire. Sir Richard m. Lucy, dau. of Robert Brandon, Esq., chamberlain of the city of London; a lady remarkable for her virtues, and especially for her munificence to the poor. A hospital founded by her for poor clergymen's widows, still exists at Woolborough. Over the door is this inscription:—

"The widow's house, 1638."

"Is it strange a prophet's widow poor should be?
If strange, then is the scripture strange to thee."

The portraits of Sir Richard and his lady now hang in the hall of West Ogwell House; and his arms are on one of the windows of Middle Temple Hall. He d. 24 Jan. 1633, aged 77, and she d. 18 April, 1652, aged 74. They had an only dau. and heir,

James, m. to Sir William Waller, the famous parliamentary general. She d. 18 May, 1633, at Bath, and was buried in the Abbey Church, leaving an only dau., and eventual heiress,

Margaret Waller, m. to Sir William Courtenay, Bart., fourth Earl of Devon, de jure; and their great-great-grandson is the present Earl of Devon. (See BURKE'S Peerage.)

- IV. George (Sir), Marshal of the King's Bench, who m. and had issue.* For him and his posterity, see REYNELL OF LONDON.

* Reynell of London.

This SIR GEORGE REYNELL, marshal of the King's Bench, was knighted at Whitehall, 23 July, 1603. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Valentine Browne, of Croft, in Lincolnshire, and relict of Edward Tirell, Esq., warden of the Fleet, and by her had one son, CAREW, his heir. He m. 2ndly, Etheldred, dau. and sole heir of Sir Edward Peacock, Knt. of Finchley, co. Middlesex, and of Redbourne, co. Herts, and had issue, three sons, George, John, and Richard, and three daus., Elizabeth, Mary, and Lucy. He d. 12 July, 1628, and was s. by his son, CAREW REYNELL, Esq. of Rivershill, in the parish of Binestead, Hants, also marshal of the King's Bench. He d. Aug. 1657, having m. Mary, dau. of Marcel Rivers, Esq. of Rivershill, and left issue.

- I. CAREW, his successor.
- II. George, in holy orders, fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, M.A. in 1650, B.D. in 1669, D.D. in 1680. He d. s. p., and was buried at Corpus Christi College.—See WOOD'S Athenæ Oxoniensis.
- I. Lucy.

The eldest son,

CAREW REYNELL, Esq. of Rivershill and London, was gentleman-commoner of Wadham College, Oxford, 1652, and went to the inns of court. In 1674, he published a work which excited considerable attention, entitled, "The true English Interest, &c. &c.," for an account of which see vol. ix. of Philosophical Transactions. See also GRANGER'S Biography, and Athenæ Oxoniensis. There is a picture of him by Faithorne. He m. 1st, Anne, widow of — Metcalfe, Esq.; and 2ndly, the widow of Ralph Took, Esq. of Took's-court, by whom he had only one child, Anne. He d. in 1690, leaving issue by his first lady, besides other children, a son,

CAREW REYNELL, Esq., who m. a dau. of — Shippey, Esq. of London, and d. in 1714, leaving,

The son and heir,

SIR THOMAS REYNELL, Knt. of West Ogwell, was knighted at the coronation of King JAMES I. He built West Ogwell House in 1589. The men employed in the erection were chiefly Spanish prisoners, made by the defeat of the Spanish Armada; and it is a remarkable circumstance, that when, at a subsequent period, the mansion was remodelled and repaired by the father of the present proprietor, Colonel Taylor, it was done chiefly by French prisoners, from the dépôt at Ashburton, taken in the action of the 1st of June, 1794. A chair of Sir Thomas, with the arms and crest of the Reynells, now stands in the entrance-hall of West Ogwell House, with T. R., 1586, on it. Henrietta, m. Cornwallis Ricketts, Esq., commander R.N., eldest son of Sir R.-T. Ricketts, Bart., and d. at Florence, in 1838, leaving an only child, Robert-Tempest Ricketts.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is PLUMBE, assumed, by sign-manual, in 1824, the additional surname and arms of "TEMPEST."

Lineage.

The family of TEMPEST has maintained a leading position in the county of York from a remote period, and many of its members held places of great trust upon the Scottish Border, in the reigns of the EDWARDS and the HENRIES.

ROGER TEMPEST, lord of the manor of Bracewell, b. in the last year of WILLIAM the Conqueror, was living temp. HENRY I., and witnessed (with his brother Richard) several charters cited in the Monasticon. His son,

RICHARD TEMPEST, whose name is attached to the charter of Silsden Mill, 18 King STEPHEN, was s. by his son,

ROGER TEMPEST, who paid, 14 HENRY II., half a mark into the treasury, as appears by the pipe-roll of that date. This Roger was father of

RICHARD TEMPEST, of Bracewell, who gave, in 1223, the advowson of the church of that place to the Abbot of Kirkstall. His son,

JOHN TEMPEST, was father of

SIR ROGER TEMPEST, Knt. of Bracewell, living temp. EDWARD I., who m. Alice, dau. and heiress of Walter de Waddington, Lord of Waddington, and was s. by his son, RICHARD TEMPEST, of Bracewell, who d. in 1303, leaving two sons,

JOHN, his heir.

Richard (Sir), Knt., governor of Berwick-upon-Tweed, in the reign of EDWARD III. Sir Richard m. Johanna, dau. and heiress of Thomas de Hertford.

The elder son,

JOHN TEMPEST, Lord of Bracewell and Waddington, was one of the partisans of Thomas Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, in removing Piers Gaveston from the councils of EDWARD II. He m. Maria, dau. of Sir Hugh Clitheroe, Knt., and had two sons,

I. JOHN (Sir), his heir.

II. Richard (Sir), who m. Isabel, only dau. and heiress of Sir John Graas, of Studley, and relict of Sir Hugh Clitheroe, and had a son,

SIR WILLIAM TEMPEST, of Studley, M.P. for the co. York, in 2 HENRY IV. He m. Elcanor, dau. and sole heiress of Sir William Washington, Knt. of Washington, by whom (who d. in 1451) he had two sons,

1. WILLIAM, of Studley, who, dying in 1444, left two daus., his co-heirs, namely,

ISABELLA, m. to Richard Norton, of Norton Conyers, in Yorkshire.

DIONYSIA, m. to William Mallorie, to whom she conveyed the manor of Studley; and from this marriage the late Mrs. LAWRENCE, of Studley, derived.

2. Rowland (Sir), of Holmeside, which he acquired by gift of Sir Robert Umfraville; and in 18 HENRY VI. he also obtained lands from his brother. He m. Isabella, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Elmdon, Knt., by Elizabeth, sister and co-heir of Gilbert Umfraville, (great-grandson of Robert Umfraville, Earl of Angus.) From this Sir Rowland Tempest descended the TEMPESTS OF HOLMESIDE, STELLA, BRANCEFET, WYNARD, &c., co. Durham, and the TEMPESTS OF CRANBROOK, in Kent.

John Tempest d. in 1351, and was s. by his elder son,

SIR JOHN TEMPEST, of Bracewell, who had a military summons, 17 EDWARD II. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Robert Holand, Knt., and sister of Thomas Holand, Earl of Kent, K.G. (the husband of JOAN PLANTAGENET, the celebrated "Fair Maid of Kent," who m. subsequently, the Black Prince) and had issue.

RICHARD (Sir), his successor.

Margaret, m. to Sir James Radcliffe, ancestor of the Ratcliffes, Viscounts Fitz Walter and Earls of Sussex.

Sir John was s. by his only son,

SIR RICHARD TEMPEST, Knt. of Bracewell, living temp. RICHARD II., who m. Isabel, dau. and heiress of Sir John Legard, Knt., and widow of John Le Graas, of Gemelyne, and had issue,

I. PIERS (Sir), his heir,

II. Roger, who m. Catherine, dau. of Sir Piers Gilliott, Lord of Broughton, Burnsall, and Thorp, and from this marriage descend the TEMPESTS OF BROUGHTON, now the only male branch of the family remaining.

III. Peter. IV. Robert (Sir).

He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR PIERS TEMPEST, of Bracewell, who accompanied HENRY V. into France, and shared in the glories of Azincourt, upon which celebrated field he received the honour of knighthood. He m. the dau. and heiress of Sir Nicholas Hebdon, of Hebdon, (by his wife, the heiress of the ancient family of Ric.) and had (with two daus., Elizabeth, wife of Sir Thomas Holland; and Margaret, of Richard Banks, of Bank Newton, in Yorkshire) a son and successor,

SIR JOHN TEMPEST, Knt. of Bracewell, who served the office of sheriff for the county of York, 18 and 37 HENRY VI., and of Lincolnshire 34th of the same reign. Sir John, who was zealously devoted to the house of Lancaster, afforded a place of concealment at one period to its royal chief, the unfortunate King HENRY, at Bracewell. He m. Alice, dau. of Sir Robert Sherburne, of Stonyhurst, in Lancashire, and had, inter alios,

NICHOLAS, his successor.

Thomas (Sir), who received the honour of knighthood, 22 EDWARD IV. He had a dau.,

MARGARET, m. to Sir Thomas Tempest, of Bracewell.

Alice, m. to Sir Thomas Talbot de Bashall, Knt. co. York, and was mother of EDMUND TALBOT, Esq. of Bashall, ancestor of the TALBOTS DE BASHALL. (See that descent, under LLOYD of PLYMOC.)

Anne, m. to Sir Thomas Metham.
 Agnes, m. to William Calverley, Esq.
 Maria, m. to John Sherburne, Esq.
 Isabel, m. to L. Hamerton, Esq. of Wigglesworth.
 Jane, m. to William Ratcliffe, Esq. of Rillstone.

Sir John was s. by his elder surviving son,

NICHOLAS TEMPEST, Esq. of Bracewell, who m. Margaret, dau. of John Pilkington, Esq., and was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD TEMPEST, Knt. of Bracewell, who had a command (and fought gallantly) under the Earl of Surrey, at Flodden-field. He m. Rosamond, dau. and heir of Tristram Bolling, Esq. of Bolling Hall, co. York, and acquired thereby that estate. He had issue,

THOMAS (Sir), sheriff of Yorkshire, 34 HENRY VIII. He served under the Earl of Surrey, and burnt Jedburgh. Sir Thomas was also one of the council of the north, in the same reign. He m. 1st, Margaret, dau. and heiress of William Bosville, Esq. of Chevit; and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of his great-uncle, Sir Thomas Tempest, Knt., but d. s. p.

JOHN (Sir), who inherited Bracewell. This gentleman was sheriff of Yorkshire in 1546. He m. Anne, dau. of Mr. Speaker Lenthall, but d. issueless.

NICHOLAS, of Bracewell and Bolling. This gentleman was involved with Lord D'Arcy, in the Pilgrimage of Grace, temp. HENRY VIII. He m. Beatrice, dau. and heiress of John Bradford, Esq. of Bradford, and had issue, Richard, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of T. Wentworth, Esq. of North Empsal, but d. s. p. 23 ELIZABETH.

ROBERT, m. Anne, dau. of Richard Pigot, Esq. of co. Derby, and had an only son,

RICHARD (Sir), of Bracewell and Bolling, sheriff of Yorkshire, temp. JAMES I. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Francis Rodes, Knt., one of the judges of the Common Pleas, and had (with two daus., TROTH, wife of Sir Thomas Tempest, Bart. of Stella; and FRANCES, wife, first, of John Osbaldeston, Esq. of Osbaldeston, and afterwards of John Ward, M.D.) a son and successor,

RICHARD, of Bracewell and Bolling, who commanded a regt. of horse in the service of King CHARLES I. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Gervase Clifton, and granddau. of Francis, Earl of Cumberland, and left at his decease, 30 Nov. 1657, an only dau. and heiress, ELIZABETH, m. to John South, Esq.

Tristram, m. to Joan Methley, an heiress, and had issue.

HENRY, of whose line we are about to treat.

Elizabeth, m. to Sir Peter Fretchville, Knt.

Jane, m. to Sir Thomas Waterton, Knt. of Walton, in Yorkshire.

Anne, m. to John Lacy, Esq.

Beatrice, m. to William Gascoigne, Esq.

The youngest son,

HENRY TEMPEST, Esq., m. Ellinor, dau. and heiress of Christopher Mirfield, Esq. of Tong Hall,* by whom he acquired that estate, and dying in 1591, was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD TEMPEST, Esq. of Tong Hall, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Savile, Esq. of Overthorpe, and was s. at his decease in 1607, by his only son,

RICHARD TEMPEST, Esq. of Tong Hall. This gentleman m. Alice, dau. of William Mauliverer, Esq. of Arncliffe, and had JOHN, his heir, and two other sons who had large families, greatly reduced in the civil wars. Dying in 1613, he was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN TEMPEST, Esq. of Tong Hall, who m. Katherine, dau. of Robert Duckenfield, Esq. of Duckenfield, co. Chester, by whom (who m. after Mr. Tempest's death, Henry Fairfax, Esq. of Bolton Percy) he left at his decease in 1623, a son and successor, HENRY TEMPEST, Esq. of Tong Hall, bapt. in Sept.

* RICHARD DE TONG, son of ESHOLF DE TONGE, held the manor of TONGE, in 1194, of Hugh Neville, of Brearly, as lord of the fee, and it continued in his family until the reign of HENRY VI., when HUGH DE TONG left an only dau. and heiress, MARGARET, who conveyed the lordship of TONG to her husband, Robert, son and heir of William Mirfield, Esq. of Houley Hall, co. York. The great-great-grandson of this marriage,

CHRISTOPHER MIRFIELD, Esq. of Tong Hall, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Arthur Pilkington, Esq. of Bradley, and dying in 1557, left an only dau. and heiress, ELLINOR MIRFIELD, the lady mentioned in the text.

1621, elected knight of the shire for the county of York, in 1654 and 1656. He m. Mary, dau. of Nicholas Bushall, Esq. of Bagdall Hall, and dying in 1657, was s. by his son,

THOMAS TENISON, consecrated Bishop of Lincoln in 1691, and advanced to the archiepiscopal see of Canterbury in 1694. This distinguished prelate held the primacy with moderation, firmness, and ability, for a period of twenty years, till his death, in Dec. 1715. To his munificence St. Martin's parish is indebted for a parochial school and library. The late representative of this branch of the family,

THOMAS TENISON, Esq. of Castle Tenison, m. 1st, in 1803, Lady Frances-Anne King, dau. of Edward, Earl of Kingston, and by her had issue, THOMAS, who succeeded him.

EDWARD-KING, successor to his brother.

He m. 2ndly, Mary-Anne, dau. of Lieut.-Col. Coore, of Scruton, Yorkshire, and by her had an only dau.,

Thomasine-Sophia, m. in 1837, to Robert Saunderson, Esq. of Drumkeen, co. Cavan.

He d. in 1835, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS TENISON, Esq. of Castle Tenison, who d. unm. at Florence, 5 Nov. 1843, and was s. by his brother, the present EDWARD-KING TENISON, Esq. of Kilronan Castle.

Arms, &c.—see BURKE's Heraldic Illustrations.

Seat—Kilronan Castle, Keadue, co. Roscommon.

TENISON OF PORT NELLIGAN.

TENISON, THOMAS-JOSEPH, Esq. of Port Nelligan, co. Armagh, barrister-at-law, a magistrate for Armagh; m. in Nov. 1831, Margaret, dau. of Alexander Cross, Esq., and has one surviving son, WILLIAM-CROSS, b. in March, 1836.

Lineage.

Mr. D'ALTON, in his History of Ireland and Annals of Boyle, vol. i. p. 154, states that the family "of Tenison or Tennyson, derives its origin from England, where, at a very remote period, it is traceable in the records and history of the country. So early as in the reign of EDWARD I., it was represented in Oxfordshire, in the persons of Henry, John, and William 'Tynesende,' mentioned in the hundred rolls of that time. Passing thence eastward, the name was subsequently established in Cambridgeshire and Norfolk."

About the year 1586, was born in the Isle of Ely,

DR. PHILIP TENISON, who became a graduate of Cambridge, and d., archdeacon of Norwich, in 1660. He having intermarried with a lady of noble Norman lineage, had issue, two sons, Thomas Tenison, a major in the army; and JOHN TENISON, who, in 1642, was appointed rector of Topcroft. He m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Dawson, lord of the manor of Cottenham, in Cambridgeshire, and had (with two daus., Margaret, m. to Mr. Serle, a justice of the quorum in that co.; and Anne, m. to Sir George Page, a military officer) two sons,

- I. WILLIAM, of whom presently.

II. THOMAS, b. 29 Sept. 1636. This eminent divine graduated at Corpus Christi College, obtained a fellowship, and took holy orders in 1657; but whilst the fanatical government lasted, applied himself to the study of physic, which, during the plague of 1665, enabled him to act in the double capacity of clergyman and physician; his conduct at this period being so charitable and humane, that a valuable service of silver plate was presented to him by the inhabitants of Great St. Andrew's, Cambridge, a portion of which, viz., a cup, tankard, and massive salver, was, in the year 1811, in the possession of the family of the Rev. Joseph Tenison. In 1667, he was rector of Holywell and Nedington, and in that year he m. Anne, dau. of the Rev. Richard Love, D.D., head of Bennett College, Cambridge. In 1660, he became rector of East Carlton; in 1674, was chosen minister of Masecroft; and in 1680, presented by CHARLES II. to the vicarage of St. Martin's-in-the-fields, as an acknowledgment, though small, of his unshaken attachment to the royal cause and reformed religion during the protectorate of CROMWELL. In 1689, he was appointed archdeacon of London and a commissioner to prepare matters to be laid before the Convocation. In 1691, he succeeded to the see of Lincoln, and on his refusal of the archbishopric of Dublin, was translated to the metropolitan seat of Canterbury in 1694. In 1702, he administered the last sacrament to WILLIAM III., as he had previously to his queen, MARY. During the interregnum which followed the death of ANNE and preceded the arrival of GEORGE I., Dr. Tenison acted as one of the lords justices. All his biographers describe him as a prelate of unostentatious piety, profound learning, and active benevolence. His works are voluminous. He d. without issue in 1715, bequeathing the greater portion of his large property to charitable purposes; at the same time, he was most liberal to his relations and friends.

The elder son of the Rev. John Tenison,

THE REV. WILLIAM TENISON, held the office of register of the diocese, but afterwards became archdeacon of Norwich, and was a great sufferer for his loyalty. He m. the sister of Lady Dorothea Browne, wife of the famous physician and writer, Sir Thomas Browne, whose memory Dr. Johnson honoured by writing his life. The surviving issue of this marriage was,

THE REV. EDWARD TENISON, b. in Norfolk, in 1673, who having gone through his college course at Cambridge, was ordained deacon and priest in 1697, and collated to the rectory of Willinsham by his cousin, the Rev. George Page. He was also minister of Ludwick, and rector of Chiddingston and Sundrich, a canon of Canterbury, domestic chaplain to GEORGE II., when Prince of Wales, and archdeacon of Carmarthen. Having accompanied the Duke of Dorset to Ireland, on his appointment to the lieutenancy of that country, he was by his excellency promoted to the see of Ossory, in 1731, where he d. in 1735, and was interred in St. Mary's Church, Dublin. This excellent prelate m. his first cousin, Anne Searle, and by her had one son, THOMAS, and five daus., all of whom d. unm., with the exception of Henrietta, who m. Mr. St. Eloy, of Canterbury. His only son,

THE REV. THOMAS TENISON, was b. in 1700. Having graduated at Cambridge in 1721, he took orders, and in 1730 his father resigned to him the archdeaconry of Kent and benefice of Chiddingston. In 1734, he was appointed chancellor of the diocese of Oxford. In 1739, he got a prebendal stall in Canterbury Cathedral, besides having several ecclesiastical preferments in Kent and Wales. The same year he declined the offer of an Irish bishopric. He d. in 1742. His first wife was dau. of Dr. Potter, then Bishop of Oxford, and afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury; she d. in childbirth. In 1738, the archdeacon m. his second wife, Margaret Smith, of Nottingham, an heiress of great wealth. By this lady he left one son, THOMAS, and one dau., Henrietta St. Eloy, who d. unm. His only son,

THOMAS TENISON, Esq., was b. in Canterbury, in 1739, and at an early age entered the army as a cornet. Subsequently he passed through the university, and was called to the bar in 1770. In 1762, he settled in Ireland, at Kilkeary—a locality still in the possession of his descendants—for whose religious instruction Dr. Edward Tenison had appropriated such ample endowments, in his public bequests for the promotion of religion and education. Thomas m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Hayden, Esq. of Croan, J.P., by the dau. of the Rev. Charles Alley, rector of Castlecomer and Gowran, and granddau. of Dr. Alley, Archbishop of York. He left at his death, in 1788, (with three daus., Anne, m. to William Lane, LL.D., subsequently vicar-general of the diocese of Lismore and Waterford, and who died recorder of the city of Waterford; Mary, m. to Joseph Cuffe, Esq. of Charleston, J.P., and 2ndly, to Joseph Hayden, Esq., J.P., of Greenville; and Margaret, who m. Trevor Lanigan, Esq. of Waterford,) two sons,

I. THOMAS, who m. Mary, dau. of Major Blackmore, and d. in 1823.

II. JOSEPH, of whose family we treat.

The second son,

THE REV. JOSEPH TENISON, resided at Donoughmore Glebe, and became a deputy-governor and justice of the peace for the county of Wicklow. During the disturbed period which followed the outbreak in 1803, he commanded, as captain, the Imaal light infantry, a corps which he had been instrumental in organizing, assisted by his wife's uncle, the Rev. Dr. Edward Ryan, author of several theological and controversial works. He m. in 1793, Mary, youngest dau. of the Rev. Martyn-Lucius O'Brien, D.D., and had surviving issue, seven daus., and one son, the present THOMAS-JOSEPH TENISON, Esq. of Port Nelligan.

Arms—Gu., a bend, engr., or, between three leopards' heads, jessant de lis.

Crest—A leopard's head, of the arms.

Seat—Port Nelligan, co. Armagh.

TENNANT OF CHAPEL HOUSE.

TENNANT, JOHN-ROBERT, Esq. of Chapel House, co. York, b. 17 Jan. 1818; m. his first cousin, Frances-May, dau. of Matthew Wilson, Esq. of Eshton Hall. He is a magistrate for the West Riding of co. York, and s. his father in 1831.

Lineage.

The family of Tennant has been settled at Chapel House since 25 Queen ELIZABETH, when Jeffry Tennant, of Bordley, purchased the estate from the Greshams, the grantees of Fountain's Abbey. Previously, the Tennants resided on their property at Bordley.

JOHN TENNANT-STANSFIELD, Esq., on succeeding to the estate of his uncle, took the name and arms of TENNANT only. He m. 27 Aug. 1811, Rebecca, dau. of the Rev. Henry Wilson, vicar of Otley, and by her (who d. 8 Dec. 1819, and was interred in Coniston Chapel) had one son, JOHN-ROBERT, and one dau., Margaret-Anne-Wilson. Mr. Tennant, who was a justice of the peace, and captain in the 3rd West York militia, d. 14 Aug. 1830, and was s. by his son, the present JOHN-ROBERT TENNANT, Esq. of Chapel House.

EMERSON-TENNENT OF TEMPO.

EMERSON-TENNENT, SIR JAMES, of Tempo, co. Fermanagh, b. 7 April, 1804; m. 24 June, 1831, LETITIA, only dau. of WILLIAM TENNENT, Esq. of Tempo House, and has issue, WILLIAM, b. 14 May, 1835.

Eleanor-Edith-Sarah.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is EMERSON, assumed, upon his marriage, the additional surname of TENNENT. He was member of parliament for Belfast, a justice of the peace for the counties of Down and Antrim, and a deputy-lieut. of Fermanagh and of Sligo. Sir James Emerson-Tennent has acquired reputation in the literary world, under his own name, EMERSON, as the author of several volumes of Travels in the Levant, and a History of Modern Greece. He is now Colonial Secretary at Ceylon.

Lineage.

The family of Emerson came originally from Foxton, co. Durham.

GEORGE EMERSON, Esq. of Ardmore, co. Armagh, was s. by his son,

WILLIAM EMERSON, Esq., a merchant at Belfast, who m. Sarah, youngest dau. of William Arbuthnot,* Esq. of Rockville, co. Down, (by his cousin, Miss Scott,) and had, besides the present SIR JAMES EMERSON-TENNENT, two other sons, George and Arbuthnot, and one dau., Eliza, m. to William Suffern, Esq. of Belfast.

The family of Tennent, originally Danand, or Tenand, is of respectability in Scotland, and the principal branch resides at Glasgow.

WILLIAM TENNENT, Esq. of Tempo House, a hanker at Belfast, d. 23 July, 1832, leaving an only dau. and heiress, LETITIA, who had m., as already stated, James Emerson, Esq., now SIR JAMES EMERSON-TENNENT.

Arms—For TENNENT: arg., a boar's head, erased, gules between three crescents, sa. For EMERSON: per fesse indented, vert and or, a bend, engrailed, arg., charged with three lions, passant, of the first, bezanté. On an escutcheon of pretence, the arms of TENNENT.

- I. Julia-Frances.
- II. Clara-Maria.
- III. Ellen-Elisabeth.

He superadded the name and arms of d'Eyncourt to those of Tennyson, by royal licence, dated 27 July, 1835, in compliance with a condition attached to the enjoyment of certain manors and estates, by a codicil to the will of his father, George Tennyson, Esq. of Bayons Manor, "in order to commemorate his descent from the ancient and noble family of d'Eyncourt, Barons d'Eyncourt of Blankney, and his representation in blood, as co-heir of the Earls of Scarsdale, Barons d'Eyncourt of Sutton."* Mr. Tennysond'Eyncourt has sat in nine successive parliaments. He represented the borough of Grimsby from 1818 to 1826, afterwards the borough of Blechingley from 1826 to 1831; from 1831 to the end of 1832, the borough of Stamford. He was elected in December of that year, first representative, under the Reform Act, for the metropolitan borough of Lambeth, and was re-elected in January 1835, in July 1837, and in June 1841.

* EDWARD III. = PHILIPPA OF HAINAULT.

Lineage.

The most compendious mode of stating, in the first instance, the lineage of this family, will be to set forth the allegations of a petition, prepared and verified at the Herald's College, and presented by Mr. Tennyson to King WILLIAM IV., in 1833, claiming the name and arms of d'Eyncourt. The first ground of claim was as follows:—"The petitioner stated that he was the only son and heir of Michael Tennyson, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter, and, at length, heir of George Clayton, Esq. of Grimsby, co. Lincoln, by Dorothy, his wife, daughter and co-heir of Christopher Hildeyard, Esq. of Kelstern, co. Lincoln. That this Christopher Hildeyard was grandson and heir of Henry Hildeyard, of Winestead, in Holderness, who intermarried with the Lady Anne, eldest daughter of Francis Leke, first Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, and sister of Nicholas, second Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, which dignities became extinct in the year 1736, upon the decease, without issue, of Nicholas, fourth Earl of Scarsdale, grandson of the aforesaid Nicholas, second Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton. That in consequence of the failure of all issue of the said George Clayton and Dorothy, his wife, except the issue of their said daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of Michael Tennyson, of whom Mr. Tennyson was the only son and heir, and in consequence of the total failure of issue of the said Nicholas, second Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, and of the heirs male of the body of the aforesaid Francis, first Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, the petitioner, Mr. Tennyson, in right of such descent, represented, as co-heir, the said Francis, first Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, and had always borne, quarterly, the arms of the said Francis, Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, in right of such his inheritance."

The second ground of claim was thus set forth:—"That Mr. Tennyson's ancestor, the aforesaid Christopher Hildeyard, intermarried with Jane, daughter of George Pitt, Esq. of Strathfieldsaye, co. Hants, by Jane, his wife, eldest daughter and co-heir of John Savage, Earl Rivers, by Catherine, his wife, daughter, and at length eldest co-heir of William, Baron Morley and Monteagle, who was the heir and representative of William Lovel, Baron Lovel de Morley, who was summoned to parliament in the reign of King EDWARD IV., and which William Lovel, Lord de Morley, was ultimately heir male of William, Lord Lovel of Tichmarsh, by Alice, his wife, Baroness d'Eyncourt, daughter of John, Baron d'Eyncourt of Blankney, and at length sole heiress of her said father, and of her brother, William, Baron d'Eyncourt of Blankney, the last heir male of that ancient and noble family." The petition concluded by stating—"That the ancient name of d'Eyncourt, inherited through a long and illustrious descent by Mr. Tennyson's ancestor, the said Alice d'Eyncourt, had become extinct, until revived as aforesaid in the person of Mr. Tennyson's said ancestor, in another line of descent, Francis, created Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, and afterwards Earl of Scarsdale, of which said Francis he represented the eldest daughter and co-heir, and, accordingly, in order to commemorate such his lineal descent from the said ancient and noble family of d'Eyncourt, Barons d'Eyncourt of Blankney, and his representation in blood, as co-heir of the Earls of Scarsdale, Barons d'Eyncourt of Sutton, which descents were united in his person, he prayed permission to take the name and arms of d'Eyncourt."

There appears to have been a peculiar propriety in renewing the name of d'Eyncourt in a descendant of that ancient house. Camden, in his "Britannia," (vol. i. p. 559,) after referring to this family, as having flourished in a continued succession, from the coming in of the Normans to the time of Henry VI., and then to have failed for want of an heir male of William, thirteenth Lord d'Eyncourt, adds, "I was the more willing to take notice of this family, that I might in some measure answer the desire of Edmund, Baron d'Eyncourt, who was so very earnest to preserve the memory of his name, that, having no issue male, he petitioned King EDWARD II. for liberty to make over his manors and arms to whomsoever he pleased; for he imagined that both his name and arms would go to the grave with him, and was very solicitous to have them survive and be remembered. Accordingly the king gave him a patent for that end. Yet this surname, for aught I can find, is now quite extinct, and would have been forgotten for ever, if the memory of it had not been preserved in books."

Camden does not quite correctly state the licence. It is extant, and may be found, printed at length, in Ryley's Plac. Parl., (p. 547.) It is dated 23 Feb., 7 EDWARD II., and enabled Edmund, Baron d'Eyncourt, as will be seen hereafter, to settle his lands upon his grandson, William second son of his eldest son, John d'Eyncourt, in exclusion of Isabel, the female heir, she being the only child of Edmund, eldest son (then deceased) of the said John d'Eyncourt, which Isabel afterwards died without issue; and this leads us to trace the family of d'Eyncourt, who were formerly barons by tenure, until summoned to parliament by writ, 22 EDWARD I.

WALTER DE AYN COURT,* de Eyncourt, or d'Eyncourt, a noble Norman, one of the distinguished companions in arms of the Conqueror, was cousin to Remigius, Bishop of Lincoln, who built the cathedral there, and obtained as his share of the spoil, sixty-seven lordships in several counties, of which many were in Lincolnshire, where Blankney was his chief seat, and the head of his feudal barony. By his wife, Matilda, he had two sons, William and Ralph. WILLIAM, probably the eldest, while receiving his education in the Court of King WILLIAM RUFUS, died there, as appears by an inscription on a plate of lead, found in the churchyard, near the west door of Lincoln Cathedral, before Dugdale published his baronage, which contains an engraving of the plate, still preserved in the library of that church. From this inscription it seems he was descended from the royal family, probably through his mother. The inscription runs as follows:—"Hic jacet Wilhelmus filius Walteri Aincuriensis, consanguinei Remigii Episcopi Lincolnensis, qui hanc ecclesiam fecit—Præfatus Wilhelmus, regis stirpe progenitus, dum in curia Wilhelmi filii magni Regis Wilhelmi qui Angliam conquirit aletur III. Kalend. Novemb. obiit."

RALPH D'EYN COURT, 2nd Baron, son of Walter, s. him. He founded Thurgarton Priory, co. Notts, and was s. by his son,

WALTER, 3rd Baron, who, with his son Oliver, fought on the side of King STEPHEN, in the battle of Lincoln, 1141, and he appears, upon his son's death, subsequently, to have given lands to Walter, a priest, who had saved his son from captivity and death in that battle, to pray for his soul. Walter was s. by his other son,

JOHN, 4th Baron, who m. Ann, dau. of Ralph Murdac, and was s. by his son,

OLIVER, 5th Baron, who, by his wife, Annabella, had a son,

OLIVER, 6th Baron, who m. Nicola, granddau. of Nicola de la Haye, a lady of large possessions in Lincolnshire, by her husband, William Fitzernest, and was s. by their son,

JOHN, 7th Baron, who m. Agnes de Neville, (whose first husband was Richard de Percy,) and was s. by their son, EDMUND, 8th Baron, who obtained that remarkable licence, above mentioned, from EDW. II. He signed, 12 Feb. 1301, 29 EDW. I., the celebrated letter sent by the barons, assembled in parliament at Lincoln, to Pope BONIFACE VIII., denying his jurisdiction in temporal affairs, and denying that Scotland was a fief of the Roman see. The duplicate of this letter exists amongst the public archives, and the seal of "Edmundus de Eyncourt" thereto appended, is in good preservation, and was engraved in 1729, in the 1st vol. of the Vetusta Monumenta. Baron Edmund was also present, 33 EDWARD I., when the king refused permission to the Bishop of Durham to present a foreign bishop, on the pope's recommendation, to the priory of Coldingham.

* The family came from Aincourt, in the Norman Vexin, between Mantes and Magny where the remains of their ancient castle still exist.

He had two sons, John and William, who were with the feudal army at Carlisle, 29 EDWARD I., in the place of their father, and figure in the Roll of Carlawerock, where John, it is said, "mult bien fist son devoir." He d. in his father's lifetime, and, subsequently, William, a commander of distinguished valour, was killed, 23 June, 1314, 7 EDWARD II., before the castle of Stirling, on the eve of the battle of Bannockburn, an event referred to by Sir Walter Scott, in his Lord of the Isles:

"Back to the host the Douglas rode,
And soon glad tidings are abroad,
That d'Eyncourt by stout Randolph slain,
His followers fled with loosen'd rein."

Baron Edmund's eldest son, John, left three sons, Edmund, who also d. in the Baron's lifetime; William (afterwards 9th Baron;) and John. Edmund, the grandson, left a dau., Isabel, and the object of the above-mentioned licence was, to vest the estates in her uncle, William, next brother of her father, Edmund, in order to prevent the barony descending to her, and thus passing, in case of her marriage, to another name and family. The youngest brother, John, represented Lincolnshire in parliament, 11 EDWARD III., and Nottinghamshire, 14 EDWARD III. Baron Edmund d. 20 EDWARD II., at a very advanced age. He had immense possessions, with great weight and authority: he was prominent in the chief events of his time, and attended his sovereigns on all important occasions of war or council. On his decease, his son, John, and his grandson, Edmund, being dead, and his great-granddau., Isabel, being also dead, without issue,

WILLIAM, 9TH LORD D'EYNCOURT, s. his grandfather, when twenty-six years of age, as heir by descent, as well as by virtue of the licensed entail. He was an eminent warrior and active servant of King EDWARD III. through the glorious period of his reign, participating in the immortal achievements of that era in France and Scotland, and on 17 Oct. 1346, he was one of the commanders in the famous battle of Neville's Cross, near Durham. He is particularly mentioned as an object of the king's gratitude, in his letter of thanks, dated 20 Oct., written on the occasion of that celebrated victory, when DAVID, King of Scotland, was taken prisoner. King EDWARD being then before Calais, his queen, PHILIPPA, is stated by some writers to have been present at the battle. At any rate it is clear she was in the field prior to its commencement, when she rode in front of the army on a white courser, and, in the words of the historian, "sweetly exhorted them." She was attended by Lord d'Eyncourt at the head of her guard, a post of honour and responsibility, which shows that he was deemed one of the first gentlemen of his day. This is further evidenced by the circumstance, that JOHN, King of France, taken prisoner at the battle of Poitiers—who, during his captivity in England, was treated with that respectful and generous courtesy which shed a lustre over those times—was consigned to Lord d'Eyncourt's custody, and so remained until the period when he was passed out of Lincolnshire, under Lord d'Eyncourt's charge, to the metropolis, and thence to France, King EDWARD himself conducting him to the sea-side, and the Black Prince attending him to Calais, having felt his durance so little personally irksome, that he afterwards returned on a visit to King EDWARD, and died in England before it was completed. On 14 May, 1347, Lord d'Eyncourt was commanded to attend the king before Calais, and was present at all the interesting scenes there enacted, and at the final surrender of the place, followed by the heroic self-devotion of six of the inhabitants, who, with Eustace St. Pierre at their head, were saved by the gentle, but urgent intercession of Queen PHILIPPA, who, after the battle of Durham, had joined her husband at Calais. Lord d'Eyncourt d. 2 June, 1364, aged sixty-four. He m. Millicent, dau. of William, Lord Roos of Hamlake. William, his eldest son, m. Margaret, dau. of Adam de Welle, and d. in his father's lifetime, leaving an only son, who s. his grandfather as

WILLIAM, 10TH LORD D'EYNCOURT. He m. Alice, dau. of John, Lord Neville, of Rahy and Brancepeth, co. Durham, by Maud, dau. of Henry, 2nd Lord Percy, which Alice was sister of Ralph Neville, 1st Earl of Westmoreland, who, having m. Joan, half-sister of King HENRY IV., and being, through their dau., Cecily, Duchess of York, grandfather of EDWARD IV. and RICHARD III., the d'Eyncourt family became intimately allied with both the lines of York and Lancaster, and the blood of those royal houses was afterwards brought to their posterity, as hereafter explained, by the marriage of Mr. Tennyson's ancestors, Catherine, co-heiress of Morley and Montegale, with John Savage, Earl Rivers, and Francis, Lord D'Eyncourt, Earl of Scarsdale, with Anne Cary, of which marriage Mr. Tennyson was eldest co-heir. William, 10th Baron, d. 5 RICHARD II., 1381, and was s. by his son, RALPH, 11TH LORD D'EYNCOURT, who, dying an infant, s. p., was s. by his brother,

JOHN, 12TH LORD D'EYNCOURT, who m. Johanna, dau. and sole heiress of Robert De Grey, 5th Baron Grey of Rotherfield, and d. 7 HENRY IV., leaving issue,

WILLIAM, 13TH LORD D'EYNCOURT, his son and heir, and two daus., ALICE and MARGARET. This nobleman, who was also in right of his mother, Baron Grey of Rotherfield, m. Elizabeth, sister of Viscount Beaumont, but d. s. p. in 1422, 1 HENRY VI., leaving Alice (Mr. Tennyson's ancestor,) aged eighteen, and Margaret, aged seventeen, his sisters and co-heirs. Margaret m. Ralph, 4th Lord Cromwell, of Tattershall, co. Lincoln, and d. s. p. 15 Sept. 1455, 33 HENRY VI., leaving her sister,

ALICE, BARONESS D'EYNCOURT, and Grey of Rotherfield, sole heiress of her father, mother, brother, and sister. She m. William, Baron Lovel (of Tichmarsh) and Holland, chief of the male line of the illustrious house of Yvery, in Normandy, named Lupellus, afterwards Lovel. In 24 HENRY VI., in consideration of his eminent services abroad to HENRY V. and HENRY VI., and his infirmity of body, he had exemption for life from attendance in parliament, and d. 13 June, 33 HENRY VI., leaving, by the said Alice d'Eyncourt, who survived him, JOHN, his successor, and WILLIAM, who ultimately became heir male of his said father and mother, William, Lord Lovel, and Alice, Lady d'Eyncourt, and was the ancestor of the present family of Tennyson-d'Eyncourt, as set forth in the above petition. Alice, Lady d'Eyncourt, afterwards m. Ralph, Lord Boteler of Sudeley, who d. 13 EDW. IV., and by him had one son, who d. an infant, and she d. 15 EDWARD IV. Her eldest son, JOHN, became Lord Lovel and Holland, but d. before his mother, 4 EDW. IV. By his wife, Joane, only dau. and heiress of John, Lord Beaumont, he had a son, FRANCIS, and two daus., Joane and Frideswide. The first m. Sir Bryan Stapleton, and her descendant has recently been summoned to parliament as Baron Beaumont, by descent from her; Frideswide m. Sir Edward Norris, and their unfortunate son was attainted and executed, with Queen ANNE BOLEYN, 28 HENRY VIII. On the death of John, Lord Lovel, he was s. by his only son,

FRANCIS, LORD LOVEL AND HOLLAND, who, on the death of his grandmother, Alice, became also LORD D'EYNCOURT, (fifteenth from the Conquest,) and Lord Grey of Rotherfield. He adhered to the house of York, was in high favour with RICHARD III., was his lord chamberlain, had the custody of the Honour of St. Waleries, (otherwise Yvery, which was the family honour at the Conquest,) was created Viscount Lovel, and K.G. He fought at Bosworth, and afterward, in 1487, at Stoke, where he escaped by swimming the Trent on horseback, and is said to have lain hid for many years in a cave or vault. Lord Bacon (Hist. HENRY VII.) mentions this report, and, in 1708, a skeleton, supposed to be that of Lord Lovel and d'Eyncourt, was discovered in a concealed room at his castle of Minster-Lovel, sitting at a table, with a book, paper, pen, &c., before him, and in another part of the room lay a cap, all much mouldered and decayed. Hence, it may be concluded that this once powerful but unhappy lord retired secretly to his own castle, and having entrusted himself to some friend or dependent, died either by treachery or neglect, or in consequence of some accident befalling that person. By attainder, 11 HENRY VII., the ancient barony of d'Eyncourt, with his other honours and vast estates were forfeited, and, amongst them, the manors of Bayons and Tevilhy, co. Lincoln, which became, by subsequent grant and repurchase, the property of the Tennyson family, and the former is now the stately residence of Mr. Tennyson-d'Eyncourt, who descends, as will be seen, from the heir male of this distinguished nobleman—namely, from William, second son of Alice, Baroness d'Eyncourt and Grey, which William was free from all corruption of blood, by reason of the said attainder, and m. Alianore, Baroness Morley, descended from EDWARD I., through his dau., Joane of Acres, and an illustrious line, being dau. and heiress of Robert, Lord

Morley, hereditary Lord Marshal of Ireland, Baron Marshal, Hengham, and Rhie, who was son of Thomas, Lord Morley, by Isabel, dau. and co-heir of Michael de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk.

Morley and Monteagle.

WILLIAM LOVEL, as husband of the same Alianore, was summoned to parliament, 9 EDWARD IV., 1468, by the title of William Lovel de Morley, Chivaler, and d. 16 EDWARD IV., and his wife dying in the same year, their only son s. as

HENRY, LORD MORLEY, who had no issue by his wife, Elizabeth de la Pole, dau. of John, Duke of Suffolk, by the Princess Elizabeth Plantagenet, sister of EDW. IV., and was killed at Dixmude, 4 HENRY VII., leaving his sister,

ALICE LOVEL, his sole heiress. She m. Sir William Parker, afterwards Lord Morley in her right. He was a privy councillor and standard-bearer to RICHARD III., and was imprisoned in the Tower till 2 HENRY VIII., 1510, when he d. a violent death. She d. in 1532, leaving her son and heir,

HENRY, LORD MORLEY, who m. Alice, dau. of Sir John St. John, of Bletso, and thus became nearly allied to HENRY VIII. He is mentioned amongst Walpole's Noble Authors. His dau. m. Lord Rochford, brother of Queen ANNE BOLEYN. His only son, Henry, d. in his lifetime, having married two wives: 1st, Grace, dau. and heiress of John Newport, of Brent-Pelham, co. Herts, and had by her a son, Henry, Lord Morley, of whom hereafter, and from whom the family of Tennyson-d'Eyncourt descend; 2ndly, Elizabeth Calthorp, by whom he had a son, Philip Parker, whose descendant, Catherine Long, m. John, 1st Earl of Egmont, and their son, John, 2nd Earl, was created, in 1762, Lord Lovel and Holland, two of the baronies extinguished by the attainder of Francis, Lord Lovel and d'Eyncourt, thus passing by the direct lineal descendants of the elder branch of the house of Lovel and Yvery, represented by the issue of the first marriage. The heir by the first marriage,

HENRY, LORD MORLEY, m. Lady Elizabeth Stanley, dau. of Edward, 3rd Earl of Derby. He was summoned to parliament from 1558 to 1572, and was s. by his son,

EDWARD, LORD MORLEY, summoned to parliament from 1581 to 1614. He m. Elizabeth Stanley, dau. and heiress of William, 3rd Lord Monteagle, and, in 1618, was s. by his son,

WILLIAM, LORD MORLEY, and, in right of his mother, LORD MONTEAGLE, by which title he had been previously summoned, on her death, and it was to him that, in 1605, was written that memorable anonymous letter, which led to the detection of the Gunpowder Plot. The letter, copied from the original, ran as follows:—

"My Lord, out of the Love i beare you To some of youere friends i have a cuer of your preservacion Therfor I would adryse youe as youe tender your luf to devys some excuse to shift of your attendance at This Parleament for God and man hathe concurred to punishe the wickednes of this Tyme and Thinke not slightye of this advertismint but retyere youere self into youre contri wheare youe maye expect the erent in safti for thoughe there be no apparence of anni stir yet i saye they shall receive a Terrible blowe This parleament and they shall not seie who hurts them This counsell is not to be contemned because it maye do youe good and can do youe no harme for the dangere is passed as soon as youe have burnt the letter and i hope god will give you The grace to mak good use of it To whose holy proteccion i comend youe."

(Addressed "To The ryght honorable on the hack") "The Lord Monteagle."

Lord Monteagle communicated this letter to the Government, and it gave rise to a search in the vaults beneath the House of Lords, where thirty barrels of gunpowder were discovered, and history has related the subsequent details. King JAMES I. made him a substantial grant for having thus saved the country from the most summary convulsion ever attempted. This was not the only service rendered by the family of Monteagle. His great-grandfather, Edward Stanley, son of Thomas, 1st Earl of Derby, by Eleanor, dau. of Richard, Earl of Salisbury, commanded the left wing at Flodden, in 1513, when JAMES IV. of Scotland, was killed, and for his gallantry on that occasion—to which the victory was chiefly attributed—he was created by HENRY VIII., Baron Monteagle, and K.G. In Scott's poem of Marmion he is thus beautifully apostrophized by the dying warrior:—

"The war that for a space did fail,
Now, trehly thundering, swell'd the gale,
And 'Stanley!' was the cry!
A light on Marmion's visage spread,
And fired his glazing eye:
With dying hand, above his head,
He shook the fragment of his blade,
And shouted, 'Victory!'
'Charge, Chester, charge! On, Stanley, on!'
Were the last words of Marmion."

This William, Lord Morley and Monteagle, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Tresham, and d. in 1622, leaving issue, of whom, Catherine, the eldest dau., m. to John Savage, Earl Rivers, and Elizabeth, m. to Edward Cranfield, Esq., ultimately, in 1686, became his co-heirs, as his son, Henry, and grandson, Thomas, successively Lords Morley and Monteagle, and two other sons, William and Charles, were then dead, without issue. The same Catherine, thus representing, as eldest co-heir, so many ancient and noble families, had issue by John, Earl Rivers, three sons, whose issue is extinct, and four daus., of whom, Jane, the eldest, and ultimately co-heir, m. 1st, George, Lord Chandos, her issue by whom is extinct, and afterwards George Pitt, of Strathfieldsaye, co. Hants, whose great-grandson, now dead, without male issue, claimed through her, as eldest co-heir, in 1776, the honours of Morley and Monteagle, and obtained by patent the title of Baron Rivers of Strathfieldsaye and of Sudeley Castle, which she had brought into the family. JANE,* the dau. of George Pitt and Lady Cbandos, in 1695, m. CHRISTOPHER HILDEYARD, of Kestern, co. Lincoln, and Mr. Tennyson was their great-grandson and co-heir, as in his petition, and hereafter explained.

D'Eyncourt of Sutton.

Having left the ancient line of d'Eyncourt of Blankney in Mr. Tennyson's great-grandmother, Jane Hildeyard, we now come to the second branch of lineage claimed by him, as co-heir of the Barons d'Eyncourt of Sutton, and Earls of Scarsdale.

SIR FRANCIS LEKE, of Sutton, in Derbyshire, descended from a very ancient and knightly family in the cos. of Nottingham and Derby, and a man of large possessions, was created a baronet, upon the institution of the Order, 9 JAMES I., 1611, he being sixth in precedence amongst those first raised to that dignity. The manor of Sutton-in-the-Dale, co. Derby, which became the chief seat of the family, was acquired by the marriage, temp. HENRY IV., of Sir John Leke with Alicia, dau. and heiress of John Hilary, Lord of Sutton, who d. 4 HENRY IV., having taken the name of Grey, being son and heir of Sir Edward

* Mr. Tennyson d'Eyncourt also inherits a very high descent through this Jane, the wife of Christopher Hildeyard, from her grandfather, John Savage, Earl Rivers.

SIR JOHN SAVAGE, knighted at the battle of Agincourt, was s. by his son and heir,

SIR JOHN SAVAGE, who commanded the left wing of HENRY VII.'s army at Bosworth, and was slain at the siege of Boulogne, in 1492. His dau. Elizabeth, m. Sir John Leke, of Sutton, ancestor of Lord D'Eyncourt of Sutton. His eldest son

SIR JOHN SAVAGE, K.G., of Frodsham, co. Chester, m. Lady Elizabeth Manners, dau. of Thomas, first Earl of Rutland, who was son and heir of George Manners, Lord Roos, by Anne, only dau. and heiress of the Princess Anne Plantagenet, Duchess of Exeter, by her husband, Sir Thomas St. Leger, which Princess Anne was the eldest sister of EDWARD IV. and RICHARD III., aunt of Queen ELIZABETH, consort of HENRY VII., and equally descended from the three elder sons of EDWARD III., being eldest dau. of Richard Plantagenet, Duke of York, (great-grandson and rightful heir of that king,) by Cecily Neville, dau. of Ralph, first Earl of Westmoreland, and Joane, of Beaufort, his wife, dau. of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster. Their son and heir,

SIR JOHN SAVAGE, m. Mary Alington. Their son and heir was,

SIR THOMAS SAVAGE, who m. the eldest dau. and co-heir of Thomas, Lord D'Arcy of Chiche, Viscount Colchester, and Earl Rivers, which last two honours reverted, by special limitation, to this Sir Thomas Savage, who thus became second Earl Rivers. He entertained, in 1617, King JAMES I. and his court, at Rocksavage, and 2 CHARLES I., 1625, was created Viscount Savage, and d. in 1735, leaving his son and heir,

JOHN, third Earl Rivers, &c., who, marrying the above-named Catherine, eldest dau. and co-heir of William, Lord Morley and Monteagle, they transmitted to their posterity, through Mr. Tennyson's great-grandmother, Jane Hildeyard, an illustrious descent from the houses of Plantagenet, Yvery, Clare, De Courcy, Aguilon, Bardolf, De Spenser, Neville, Stafford, Montacute, Stanley, Pole, Roos, Manners, Vere, &c.

Hilary,* by Alice, sole heiress of Sir William de Grey, of Sandiacre, co. Derby, who d. 43 EDWARD III., and was great-grandson and heir of Sir Richard Grey, whose father, Sir William Grey, of Sandiacre, and of Landford, co. Notts, was second son of Sir Henry Grey, of Codnor, temp. RICHARD I., by Isolda, dau. and heir of Hugh Bardolph, from which marriage the Lords Grey of Codnor also descended; which Sir Richard Grey obtained the said manor of Sutton, temp. HENRY III., in marriage with Lucy, dau. and heir of Robert de Hareston, Lord of Hareston and Sutton-in-the-Dale, and of Hicklings, co. Notts.

In 1624, (26 Oct., 22 JAMES I.), the same Sir Francis Leke, Bart., was elevated to the peerage by the title of BARON D'EYNCOURT of Sutton, a title assumed, as Thorotou supposes, (vol. i. p. 213,) because Morton and Parkhall, in Derbyshire, both formerly the property, and the latter an ancient residence of the d'Eyncourts, had become the possession and inheritance of the family of Leke, and "in memory," as he expresses it, "of that illustrious stock, otherwise almost forgotten." The first Lord d'Eyncourt of Sutton was devoted to the interest of CHARLES I., under whose banner two of his sons laid down their lives, at the battle of Lansdowne, (July 5, 1643.) Early in April, 1643, the co. of Derby being in great disturbance, Lord d'Eyncourt began to fortify and garrison his house at Sutton. Sir John Gell sent his brother, Col. Thomas Gell, with five hundred men, and three pieces of ordnance, to besiege it. Lord d'Eyncourt was summoned, but refused to surrender, and for some time resolutely defended himself. The house was at length taken, and he and his force made prisoners. The works were demolished, but Lord d'Eyncourt shortly obtained his liberty. His house was again attacked some time afterwards by the garrison of Bolsover, when that castle was in the hands of the parliament. In consideration of his energetic services, King CHARLES I. raised him to the dignity of Earl of Scarsdale, 11 Nov. 1645. These honours, however, naturally attended upon his ancient blood, long descended patrimony, and proud pedigree from the families of Grey, Hilary, Marmion, and other races of old nobility.

This distinguished nobleman was the son and heir of Sir Francis Leke, Knt., who d. in 1601, by his first wife, Frances, dau. and co-heir of Robert Swifte, of Bayton, and Ellena, his wife, dau. and heir of Nicholas Wickersley, co. York, which Sir Francis was son and heir of another Sir Francis, (who d. 1 Aug., 22 ELIZABETH,) by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Paston, Knt. of Paston, co. Norfolk, which last-mentioned Sir Francis was son and heir of Sir John Leke, (who d. in 1522, 14 HENRY VIII.,) by Jane, dau. of Sir Henry Foljambe, of Walton, co. Derby, which Sir John was son and heir of John Leke, of Sutton, (who d. in 1505,) by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Savage, who, as above mentioned, commanded the left wing of HENRY VII.'s army at Bosworth, which John Leke was son and heir of William Leke, of Sutton-in-the-Dale, (who d. about 37 HENRY VI.,) by Catherine, dau. of Sir Thomas Chaworth, which William was son and heir of Sir John Leke, who acquired, as aforesaid, the manors of Sutton-in-the-Dale, and also the manors of Landford, Sandiacre, and Kirkleatham, by his marriage above mentioned with Alicia, dau. and heir of John Hilary, who took the name of Grey. This Sir John Leke was son, and, ultimately, heir male of Sir John de Leke, of Cotham, co. Notts, temp. HENRY IV., by Isabel, dau. and co-heir of John Towers, of Somerhy, co. Lincoln, (living in 1352,) who was son and heir of Thomas Towers, of Somerhy, by Isabel, dau. and heir of Sir William Staveley, co. York, which Sir John Leke, of Cotham, was son of Sir John, who was son of another Sir John, who d. about 32 EDWARD III., and was seventh in descent from Alan de Leca, living in 1141, 7 STEPHEN. The same

FRANCIS LEKE, 1ST LORD D'EYNCOURT OF SUTTON AND EARL OF SCARSDALE, m. Anne, dau. of Sir Edward Cary, Knt. of Berkhamstead, co. Hertford, and sister of Henry, Viscount Falkland, lord-lieutenant of Ireland, (a lady claiming descent from John of Gannt, through the co-heiress of his grandson, Edmund Beaufort, Duke of Somerset,) and by her he had issue, Francis, slain in France; NICHOLAS, Lord d'Eyncourt, his successor; Edward and Charles, who were slain at the battle of Lansdowne; and Henry, who d. unm. Lady Anne, his eldest dau., m. Henry Hildeyard, Esq., of Winstead, co. York, from which marriage is descended the present family of Tennyson-d'Eyncourt; Catherine, m. Cuthbert Morley, Esq.; Frances, m. Viscount Gormanston, in Ireland; Penelope, m. Charles, Lord Lucas of Shenfield; Elizabeth and Muriel, d. unm. The earl having devoted himself, his family, and fortune, to the cause of the king and monarchy, became so much mortified at the fatal blow which deprived him of his royal master, that he apparelled himself in sackcloth, and causing his grave to be dug some years before his death, laid himself down in it every Friday, exercising himself frequently in divine meditations and prayers. He departed this life at his house at Sutton, in Scarsdale, 9 April, 1655, and was buried in the church there. His eldest son, the said

NICHOLAS, LORD D'EYNCOURT, s. as 2nd Earl of Scarsdale, and marrying Lady Frances Rich, dau. of Robert, Earl of Warwick, had issue a dau., Mary, who d. unm., and was buried at Sutton, 5 Oct. 1678, and two sons, ROBERT, Lord d'Eyncourt, and Richard. At his decease in 1680,

ROBERT, LORD D'EYNCOURT, became 3rd Earl of Scarsdale, and was lord-lieut. of the co. of Derby. During the reign of JAMES II., he was col. of a regt. of horse, and groom of the stole to Prince George of Denmark, but afterwards lost his appointments by refusing to comply with the court measures. He m. Mary, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Lewis, Bart. of Ledstone, co. York; but, having no issue, except a dau., who d. an infant, he was s. by his nephew, NICHOLAS, son of his younger brother, Richard, by Mary, his wife, dau. of Sir John Molyneux, Bart. of Taversall, co. Notts, by whom he had also another son, Robert, who d. young, and two daus., Frances and Lucy, who both d. unm. This

NICHOLAS was 4th and last Earl of Scarsdale, and he dying unm. in 1736, the barony of d'Eyncourt of Sutton and earldom of Scarsdale, having been limited to heirs male, became extinct; and in consequence of the extinction, as above, of all issue of these noblemen, except the issue of Lady Anne Hildeyard, (ancestor of the said George Tennyson,) who was eldest dau. of Francis, 1st Earl of Scarsdale and Baron d'Eyncourt of Sutton, and of two younger daus., the said George Tennyson acquired the representation of this distinguished family, as co-heir.

Hildeyard and Clapton.

HENRY HILDEYARD, of Winstead, co. York, and East Horsley, co. Surrey, who thus m. Lady Anne Leke, was chief of that very ancient family, and eldest brother of Sir Robert Hildeyard, created a baronet in 1660, from whom the baronets of that name have sprung. Henry was the eldest son and heir of Sir Christopher Hildeyard, Knt., by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. and sole heiress of Henry Welby, of Goxhill, co. Lincoln, who was a very remarkable person in his time.* The Hildeyard genealogy brings with it the representation of Hilton, Lascelles, De la Haye, De la See, Monceaux, Thwenge, Bruce, Fitzroger, Lancaster, &c. With his father-in-law, Lord Scarsdale, Henry Hildeyard suffered severely from his loyalty to CHARLES I. He had issue, by Lady Anne, several children, and was s. by their eldest son and heir,

HENRY HILDEYARD, who seated himself at Kelstern, co. Lincoln, having sold the ancient mansion and manor of Winstead to his father's younger brother, Sir Robert Hildeyard, Bart. He served under the Duke of Monmouth, at the siege of Maestricht, and afterwards raised and commanded a troop of horse for JAMES II., having embraced the Catholic religion. He m. two wives, 1st, Dorothy, dau. of Vincent Grantham, Esq. of Goltso, co. Lincoln, by whom he had an only son, CHRISTOPHER, who became in his turn the head of the Hildeyard family, and of whom hereafter. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of John Hilder, Esq., by whom he left several children. He was s. by his eldest son and heir, the above-named

CHRISTOPHER HILDEYARD, who, as before stated, m. Jane, dau. of George Pitt, Esq., in whom we left the descent of the ancient line of d'Eyncourt of Blankney. Of

* This Edward Hilary was the son and heir of Henry Hilary, by Joane, dau. and co-heiress of Philip de Marmion, of Tamworth and Scrivelsby. The office of champion went with the manor of Scrivelsby, co. Lincoln, to the family of Dymoke, who descend from this Joane de Marmion, by her marriage with Sir Thomas Ludlow; but the arms of Marmion are borne by Mr. Tennyson d'Eyncourt, in right of this his descent from the only son of the same Joane de Marmion, by her marriage with Henry Hilary.

this marriage Mr. Tennyson was the great-grandson and co-heir, and thus representing the Lords d'Eyncourt of Sutton, united in himself the two lines of d'Eyncourt of Blankney and d'Eyncourt of Sutton. Christopher Hildyard d. in 1719, leaving by his wife, Jane Pitt, four daus. and co-heirs, Elizabeth, d. unm.; Dorothy, m. to George Clayton; Anne, m. to Adrian Birch, Esq.; and Jane, m. to John Marshall, Esq. Our concern is with GEORGE CLAYTON, Esq. of Grimshy, co. Lincoln, who m. Dorothy Hildyard, the co-heir of her father, Christopher. He d. in 1734, leaving his wife surviving. She d. in 1781, having m. 2ndly, Ralph Tennyson, Esq., who d. in 1767, and had by him a dau., Dorothy, who d. in 1809, s. p. By her first husband, George Clayton, she had several children. Christopher, the eldest, became high steward of Grimshy in 1752, on the death of his uncle, Christopher, who had long held that office, and he d. in 1794, without issue, as did all his brothers and sisters, except ELIZABETH CLAYTON, who thus became sole heiress, and m.

MICHAEL TENNYSON, Esq. of Preston, co. York, and Stainton, co. Lincoln, brother of the said Ralph, and son and heir of Ralph Tennyson, Esq., (who d. in 1735,) by his wife, Dorothy, dau. of John Chapman, Esq. of Pickering, co. York, who, being a gentleman of considerable estate and fervent patriotism, raised, at his own charge, a troop of horse to support King WILLIAM III. Michael Tennyson d. in Oct. 1796, leaving, by his wife, Elizabeth Clayton, George Tennyson, the above-named petitioner; and Anne, m. to William Raiues, Esq. of Wyton, co. York, by whom she had a dau., Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. George Inman. Michael was s. by his son and heir, and the heir of the family of Clayton,

GEORGE TENNYSON, Esq. of Bayons Manor, and Usselly Hall, co. Lincoln, who, in 1794, inherited the Clayton estates from his maternal uncle, Christopher. In 1775, he m. Mary, dau., and ultimately heiress of John Turner, Esq. of Castor, co. Lincoln; she d. 20 Aug. 1825. He had issue by her, 1. George Clayton, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. Stephen Fytche, and leaving issue, Frederick; Charles, who has taken the name of Turner; Alfred, distinguished by his poetical writings; and other children, d. in his father's lifetime; 2. Charles; and two daus., Elizabeth and Mary. Mr. Tennyson was M.P. for Blethungley in the parliament elected in 1818, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the co. of Lincoln, and d. 4 July, 1835, aged 85, leaving to survive him, his son and daus.,

CHARLES TENNYSON-D'EYNCOURT, who was authorized by royal licence, as above mentioned, to superadd the name of d'Eyncourt.

Elizabeth, relict of Matthew Russell, Esq. of Brancepeth Castle, co. Durham, M.P., has issue, William, M.P. in three parliaments, for the co. Durham; and Emma-Maria, m. Hon. Gustavus-F. Hamilton, only son of Viscount Boyne, and has issue a son, Gustavus. Mary, m. to John Bourne, Esq. of Dalhy, co. Lincoln.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, azure, a fesse, dancettée, between ten billets, four and six, or, for D'EYNCOURT; 2nd and 3rd, gules, three leopards' faces, or, Jessant fleurs-de-lis, azure, over all a bend of the last, for TENNYSON. THACKWELL OF WYLTON PLACE.

THACKWELL, JOHN-CAM, Esq. of Wylton Place, co. Gloucester, Morton Court and Rye Court, co. Worcester, b. 18 Jan. 1807; m. 13 April, 1842, Charlotte-Eleanor-Polson, eldest dau. of the late Rev. John-Hugh Paisley, Prebendary of Exeter, and has issue, JOHN, b. 22 May, 1844. Mr. Thackwell s. his father in June, 1829.

Lineage.

The family of Thackwell has been seated in the cos. of Worcester, Oxford, and Gloucester, for several centuries. The name, at an early period, was variously written, as Thekell, Theikell, &c. The present orthography is first found in the sixteenth century, when WILLIAM THACKWELL, who was Marshal of the Admiralty, spelled his name as it is now written. He d. in 1565, having had several sons, two of whom were EDWARD and THOMAS. Edward had several children; the name of one of his sons was Thomas. This Thomas, or his uncle Thomas, had two sons, THOMAS and John. The elder,

THE REV. THOMAS THACKWELL, b. in 1579, matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, in 1598-99, and was vicar of Waterperry, co. Oxford, in 1607. THELWALL OF LLANBEDR.

THELWALL, THE REV. EDWARD, of Llanbedr, co. Denbigh, b. in March, 1781; m. in Nov. 1819, Sarah, dau. of Lewis Buckle, Esq. of Rogate Lodge, co. Sussex, and has issue,

I. EDWARD, b. in Aug. 1821.

II. John-Bulkeley, b. in April, 1826.

I. Frances-Anna. II. Isabella-Emma.

Mr. Thelwall is a magistrate for co. Denbigh.

Cinage.

The family of the Thelwalls is one of the oldest in North Wales, of English extraction, and was established by John Thelwall, who came to Ruthin in the service of Lord Grey de Ruthin very early in the fourteenth century, and derived his name from his native place in Cheshire, which is thus described by Leland, in 1545:—"Thelwall was sometime a havenet and little citey as it appearth by the kinges recordes, so caullid becawse it was wallid ahowte with great logges, or timber postes—it stondith two myles from Warington." This John here on his coat-armour, Gu., on a chev., arg., three trefoils, sa., between three hoars' heads, coupéd, of the second. To this coat was afterwards added the crest of a stag, proper, armed and unguled, or, upon a wreath of his colours, on a mount, proper, wounded with an arrow, or, feathered, arg., which is accounted for in the following words, by Sir John Wynn, of Gwydir, in his history of his own family:—"The Thelwalls of Ruthyn being antient gentlemen of that country, who came into it with the Lords Grey, on whose King EDWARD I. bestowed the country of Dyffryn Clwyd, were at contention with a septe of that country called the family of Gryffyd Gôch. These being more in number than the Thelwalls, (although the Thelwalls carried the whole offices of the country under the lord thereof, the Lord of Kent, then treasurer of England,) drave the Thelwalls to take the castle of Ruthyn for their defence, where they heseiged them until the seige was raysed by John ap Meredith, his sonnes and kindred,* to whom the Thelwalls sent for ayde, and in that employte Robert ap John ap Meredith was slain with an arrow in a wood called Coed Marchan." Upon which exploit, the Thelwalls assumed as their crest, a deer, pierced with an arrow, and from this conceit, so frequent in the annals of chivalry, that Meredith and his kindred having secluded himself in the wood and thickets of Coed Marchan, had acquired among the vulgar the denomination of the Outlying Deer.

This original John Thelwall m. Felice, dau. and heir of Walter Cooke, alias Ward, of Plâs-y-Ward, near Ruthin. His descendants continued there, connecting themselves with the best families of the principality, and, in turn, serving the office of sheriff of the county for three hundred years, when, finally, the estate went, through the marriage in 1689, of Jane, dau. and heir (by Sidney, his wife, dau. and heir of William Wynn, Esq., of the house of Gwydir) of Edward Thelwall, Esq. of Plâs-y-Ward, with Sir William Williams, Bart. of Llanforda, to Sir W.-W. Wynn, Bart., by whose family it is now enjoyed.

From the original stock of Plâs-y-Ward, branched off the Thelwalls of Bathafern and Blaen Iâl; the former, on the marriage of John Thelwall ap Euhule ap Simon ap David ap John Thelwall Hên, (or the original Thelwall,) about the beginning of the sixteenth century, with Anne, a dau. of Bacheirig, a house adjoining the lands of Bathafern, and the latter by the marriage of Owen Thelwall ap Symon ap Edward ap Edward, Lord Herbert's tutor, with Lloyd, heiress of Blaen Iâl, about a hundred and fifty years after. The above-mentioned Anne, of Bacheirig, was not the heiress of that place, nor did the lands of Bathafern come into the possession of her husband, but as those of the lords of Ruthin had become the property of the crown, it is probable that this John Thelwall was the tenant of Bathafern, (which belonged to Ruthin Castle as a deer park,) and resided on the estate. The Bathafern branch of the family is dated from this period, though it would be more correct to do so from the marriage of John Thelwall, the grandson of this marriage, who took to wife Elizabeth Wynne, the heiress of Bacheirig and Bryn-cynric about 1360, and obtained in the year 1600 a grant of Bathafern from the crown for the sum of £40, as appears by a copy of the same in the hands of the present possessor. The Bathafern family made an alteration in their armorial bearings, taking Gu., a fesse, arg., (instead of the chevron charged with three trefoils,) between three hoars' heads, coupéd, arg., tusked, or. This last-mentioned John Thelwall and some of his nine brothers, were very prosperous in the world, as the following account, copied from a family MS., will show:—

"JOHN THELWALL, Esq. of Bathaferne Park, first son of John Thelwall, Esq., the second of that name in the place above named, in his younger days was hred at court, groom of the stole, gentleman-usher to the Countess of Warwick, not only chief lady of honour to, but chief in favour with Queen ELIZABETH, in which employment he gained much reputation, the effects whereof did appear in the course of his life for many years, to the advantage of him and his posterity. He left service at the age of thirty-two, purposely to be married to Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Robert ap John Wynn, of Bacheirig and Bryn-cynric, by whom he had a numerous issue. By patent from King JAMES he was made steward of Ruthin during life. He lived to a great age, and d. aged 97, in the year of our Lord 1630, and at the time of his decease it appeared that his posterity was become of a number between twelve and thirteen score. He was a tall, comely man, of good judgment and elocution, very pious, charitable and good in every respect.

"RICHARD THELWALL, Gent. of Llanbedr, and the fourth son of John Thelwall, Esq., the second of that name, of Bathafern Park, was married to Margaret Lloyd, dau. and heir of Lloyd, of Llanbedr, by whom he attained to good possession of lands. By patent from King JAMES he was recorder of Ruthin Court during life. He m. his eldest son, Edward Thelwall, to an inheritance in Anglesey.* His second son, Symon Thelwall, Esq. of Gray's Inn, was philiser to the age of 80, and left £20 per annum for the maintenance of a Welsh lecture or sermon at Ruthin Church, upon every Sunday, in the afternoon, for ever, with several other legacies to pious uses,† besides what he gave to the heir of his house at Llanbedr, and many more of the family. The said Richard Thelwall in his lifetime did much improve his estate, which his heirs do still enjoy. He lived to above eighty years of age, and was buried at Llanbedr, A.D. 1630.

"SIR EUBULE THELWALL, Knt., the fifth son of John Thelwall, Esq., the second of the name, of Bathaferne Park, was hred at Westminster school, then was chosen scholar of Trinity College, Cambridge, where he continued in time to be master of arts, when by the persuasion of Mr. Points, a gentleman of quality, who had been his pupil, he left the university, and became student of Gray's Inn, where he profited well, and by the means of his said pupil he became much favoured by the Lord Chief Baron Percain, whose dau. Mr. Points had married. In process of time he became chief master of the Alienation Office, and one of the masters in ordinary in the High Court of Chancery; and there falling out a contest about the principality of Jesus College, in Oxford, between Dr. Williams and Dr. Mansell, the said Sir Euhule Thelwall was persuaded to stand, and, by the consent of all the society, was elected principal of the said college, to which house he had been very beneficial, not only out of his own estate, but by procuring the benevolences of several others. He bought an estate in Llanychan parish, wherein he built Plâs Côch, which in his lifetime he gave to John Thelwall, Esq., the heir of his eldest brother. Out of great kindness to his friends and relations, he resorted to this said house of Plâs Côch yearly at the time of the long vacation, when and where the best of the gentry of North Wales were wont to frequent in visit of him, and to stay some time with him. He was an upright man, very pious and charitable. He lived a bachelor, d. aged 68, and lies buried in Jesus College Chapel, in Oxford, which he had built upon his own charges, where also his tomb is set. There may be more known of him in the great book that treats of the antiquity of the university of Oxford. He is called the second founder of Jesus College.

"THOMAS THELWALL, Gent., the sixth son of John Thelwall, Esq., the second of that name, of Bathaferne Park, in Queen ELIZABETH'S time became a soldier in the Low Countries. After his return home he was married to a rich widow in Ruthin, by whom he had his sole dau., Dorothy Thelwall, to whom he gave his lands. She m. Robert Davies, of Ruthin, who left about £200 per annum lands to his only son, Peter Davies, besides considerable portions to his many daus., which son of his dying young and unn., the estate became obscured, being divided amongst his several sisters. The said Thomas Thelwall lived to be a very old man, surviving his nine brethren.

"SIMON THELWALL, Esq., the seventh son of John Thelwall, Esq., the second of that name, of Bathaferne Park, was bred a scholar, and for his good parts was first chosen to be chief clerk to Sir Daniel Dunne, doctor of laws, judge of the Prerogative Court, and one of the masters of Requests. The said Simon became an eminent proctor of the Arches, and registrar of Bangor. By the favour of the said Sir Daniel Dunne, he was m. to Sir Daniel's kinswoman, Mrs. Biggins, a good inheritrix, in Essex, by whom he had issue two sons and two daus. His eldest son, Daniel Thelwall, was councillor at law. His youngest son, William Thelwall, Clerk, was parson of Whitford, and prebendary of Meliden. His eldest dau. was m. to Evan Edwards, Esq. of Rhual, haron of the Exchequer of Chester. His youngest dau. was m. to William Parry, Esq. of Nantclwyd, but d. without issue. The said Simon lived to a great age, a very wise, sober man.

"AMBROSE THELWALL, Esq., ninth son of John Thelwall, Esq., the second of that name, of Bathaferne Park, first took service with Sir Francis Bacon, Knt., Lord Verulam, and lord high chancellor of England, from whom he went to the service of the Earl of Kelly, a Scotchman, captain of King JAMES'S guard in England, and a person of great favour with his then majesty. During his attendance on that earl he became so much in favour with him that he brought in several of his countrymen and friends to be yeomen of the guard. From the last said service he was preferred to be King JAMES'S yeoman of the robe, during whose reign, because of his wisdom and wit, he lived in a flourishing condition, improving his own estate, and bountiful to his friends. He was much beloved of all his acquaintance.

"SIR BEVIS THELWALL, Knt., eighth son of John Thelwall, Esq., the second of that name, of Bathaferne Park, was first bound apprentice to one Mr. Allen, the greatest mercer in Cheapside, and mercer to Queen ELIZABETH. After he had served out his time, his master thought so well of him that he bestowed his daughter in marriage to him, and took him to be his partner, during which time he kept correspondence with King JAMES when he lived in Scotland, which occasioned that king, after his access to the crown of England, to make this Sir Bevis, page of his hedchamber, and bestowed on him the clerkship of the great wardrobe. He was thrice well married: 1st, to Mr. Allen's dau., abovesaid, by whom he had issue. Margaret, his sole dau., m. to John Lloyd, Esq. of Bodidris, and mother to Sir Evan Lloyd, the first baronet of that family; 2ndly, he m. Mrs. Peryn, a rich widow in London, by whom he had no issue; and 3rdly, to Mrs. Champion, a rich citizen's widow in London, by whom he had several sons and daus., who at present live well and wealthy in and about London. He was a very handsome, proper man, discreet and honest, endowed with all the necessary qualities of a complete courtier. He lived to a great age."

The Bathafarn branch of the Thelwalls failed during the first half of the last century, by the marriage of the sole heiress with a younger son of the Prices of Rhiwllâs, in Merionethshire, the son of which marriage bequeathed the estate from the right heir, R.-H. Kenrick, Esq. of Nantclwyd, to the Rev. Robert Carter, of Northamptonshire, who took the name of THELWALL. His daughter carried the estate to her husband, Lord William Beauclerk, by whom it was sold to the Rev. Roger Clough.

The Blaen Iâl branch became extinguished a few years ago, by the decease of Simon Thelwall, Esq., his brother, Major Thelwall, of Pystill, near Holywell, and their sister, the mother of John Lloyd Salushury, Esq. of Galtfaenan. Blaen Iâl was bequeathed by Simon from the name.

From the Thelwalls of Bathafarn came those of Llanbedr and Nantclwyd, to which may be added the family of Cefu Côch, a house close adjoining on Bathafarn. This last-mentioned estate was given by John Thelwall, the first of the seven sons before recorded, to his youngest (but, as it is said, favourite) son, Amhros, with permission to cut timber for erecting the present antique house out of the Bathafarn woods. On the failure of his male issue, Cefu Côch went to his dau., Catherine, who m. one Peter Williams, and by the union of the sole offspring of this marriage with Maurice Jones, it came to the late John Jones, Esq., (father of Wilson Jones, Esq. of Gelligynan,) who sold it.

The Thelwalls of Nantclwyd originated in the marriage of Eubule Thelwall, third son of John, the nephew of Sir Eubule, with Mary, dau. and heir of William Parry, Esq. of Nantclwyd, about the middle of the seventeenth century. The name continued here for about sixty years, when an heiress of the house took the estate in marriage to the Kenricks of Chester.

THE THELWALLS OF LLANBEDR began about the year 1590, by the marriage of Richard, 4th son of John Thelwall, Esq. of Bathafarn, as already shown, with Margaret, dau. and heiress of Lloyd, of Plâs Llanbedr, and continued there till the estate was sold to Joseph Ahlett, Esq., by the late Rev. Edward Thelwall.

IX. Grace.

Mr. Thistlethwayte, who s. his father in 1800, is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Hampshire, and was high-sheriff in 1806. In the following year, he was returned to parliament by that county.

Lineage.

This family, of Saxon origin, first settled in Yorkshire, but removed thence in the time of HENRY VII. to Winterslow, co. Wilts, which property was sold by the present Mr. Thistlethwayte's grandfather to Lord Holland. For centuries, the Thistlethwaytes have ranked amongst the most influential landed proprietors in the South of England, and have allied with the most eminent houses.

ALEXANDER THISTLETHWAYTE, Esq., head of the family at the close of the sixteenth or the early part of the seventeenth century, m. Cecilia, dau. of Sir Anthony Hungerford, of Blackhurton, in Oxfordshire, by Sarah, his second wife, dau. and co-heir of John Crowch, of London, and was s. by his son, in the palatinate of Chester. Sir Edward Penruddock was the second son of George Penruddock, standard-bearer under the Earl of Pembroke, at the battle of St. Quintins, temp. Queen MARY, who engaged in single combat a nobleman of France, and gained great honour for his victory over him. Mr. Thistlethwayte was s. at his decease by his son, ALEXANDER THISTLETHWAYTE, Esq. of Winterslow, who m. Catherine, dau. and heir of Andrew Childecot, Esq. of Whitway, in the Isle of Purbeck, Dorsetshire, and was father of

By the co-heiress of Pelham, Mr. Thistlethwayte was father of

ALEXANDER THISTLETHWAYTE, Esq. of Winterslow, b. in 1786, who m. in 1717, Mary, dau. of Richard Whithed, Esq. of Norman Court, Hants, by his wife, the dau. of Richard Norton, Esq. of Southwick, in the same county, and had three sons, of whom

FRANCIS THISTLETHWAYTE, Esq. of Norman Court, b. in 1719, recovered as heir-at-law, after his uncle, Mr. Norton's decease, the Southwick estate, (which had been bequeathed, in an extraordinary will, to government,) and assumed the surname and arms of WHITHED. This gentleman, the intimate friend of Horace Walpole, was, it is said, to have been created Lord Carnarvon, but his death occurred previous to the intended elevation. Dying without issue, he was s. by his brother,

THE REV. ROBERT THISTLETHWAYTE, D.D., of Southwick, b. in 1720, who m. Selina, dau. of Peter Bathurst, Esq. of Clarendon Park, Wilts, by the Lady Selina Shirley, his wife, dau. of Robert, first Earl Ferrers, and had issue, Caroline-Sarah.

Louisa-Frances.

Mr. Thomas s. his father in 1821, and served the office of sheriff for Carmarthenshire in 1830.

Lineage.

The surname of this family was originally TREHEARN, of whom Sir Hugh Trebearn, Knt., was living temp. EDWARD III., and was one of the Welsh kings who accompanied EDWARD the Black Prince to the battle of Poitiers. By one of those changes, formerly common amongst the Welsh, it became, as now borne, THOMAS. Sir Hugh was the owner of an estate called Llettymwar, in the parish of Llanon, co. Carmarthen, possessed in 1579, by

TRAHERNE THOMAS, whose son,

REES TRAHERNE, of Llettymawr, m. in 1610, Helen Jobn, of Mydfwch, in Glamorganshire, and was s. by his son, THOMAS-REES TRAHERNE, Esq. of Llettymawr, b. in 1612, who m. Margaret Bowen, of Marchogllwyn, in the parish of Llanon, and left, with a dau., a son and successor,

REES THOMAS, Esq. of Llettymawr. This gentleman m. Sarah Powell, of Pentreardd, in the parish of Llanelly, Carmarthenshire, by whom (who d. in 1727) he had issue,

REES THOMAS, Esq. of Llettymawr, b. in 1680. He m. in 1709, Mary, dau. of William King, Esq. of Mansaint, near Kidwelly, and d. in 1759, leaving,

I. REES, of Llettymawr, b. in 1710, who d. s. p., 17 Nov. 1777.

II. DAVID, of Llwydcoed, in Llanon, b. in 1717, who m. Deborah, dau. of David Rees, Esq. of Brynnydd, and left issue,

JOHN THOMAS, Esq. of Llwydcoed, who m. Miss Anne Davies, and dying in 1812, left one son, who d. issueless, 7 Aug. 1821, and one dau.,

ANNE-DAVIES THOMAS, who m. in 1819, Thomas Lloyd, Esq. of Bronwydd, in Cardiganshire, possessor of the harony of Kemeys, co. Pembroke, and has issue.

III. MORGAN, of whom presently.

I. Elizabeth, who m. David Davies, Esq. of Swansea, and d. in 1788, leaving, (with an elder son, who d. in 1798,) Morgan Thomas Davies, b. 14 Feb. 1788, who m. in 1822, Miss Jane Hancorne, and has issue.

The third son,

MORGAN THOMAS, Esq., was b. at Llettymawr, in 1729. He m. in 1768, Frances, only child and heiress of HENRY GORING,* Esq. of Frodley Hall, co. Stafford, high-sheriff in 1723, (son of William Goring, Esq., by Sarah, only dau. and heiress of John Gilbert, Esq. of Frodley,) and had an only son,

REES-GORING.

Mr. Thomas having considerably augmented his property in Carmarthenshire, d. 20 May, 1800, and was s. by his son,

REES-GORING THOMAS, Esq., who added to his hereditary estates, by the purchase of property in Surrey, comprising the manor of Tooting Graveney, and an estate called Tooting Lodge. He m. Sarah, dau. of the late Mr. Richard Hovell, of Norfolk, and had issue,

REES-GORING, his heir.

Morgan, b. 7 Aug. 1803, m. in 1835, Louisa-Frances, only child of John Apsley Dalrymple, Esq. of Gate House, in the parish of Mayfield, Sussex, and has issue.

George, b. 4 Nov. 1809.

Sarah-Frances, who m. 22 Aug. 1832, William-Henry Patison, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, and of Witham, in Essex. This lady, with her husband, was unfortunately drowned on the 20 Sept. following her marriage, in the Lac de Guave, in the High Pyrenees.

Mr. Thomas, who centered in himself the representation of the ancient families of THOMAS, GILBERT, and GORING, d. 21 Sept. 1821, and was s. by his eldest son, the present REES-GORING THOMAS, Esq.

* This gentleman sold his estates in 1730, having much impoverished himself by his loyal devotion to the House of Hanover; for which he raised a troop of horse at his own expense, in 1715, and took the field against the CHEVALIER. TIGHE OF WOODSTOCK.

TIGHE, WILLIAM-FREDERICK-FOWNES, Esq. of Woodstock, co. Kilkenny, b. 17 March, 1794; m. 18 April, 1825, Lady Louisa - Madelina Lennox, fifth dau. of Charles, fourth Duke of Richmond, and had an only dau., Charlotte-Frances, who d. an infant in 1827. Mr. Tighe s. his father in 1816; he is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for co. Kilkenny, and was sheriff in 1823. He served also as sheriff of the co. of Carlow in 1837.

Lineage.

The name of TIGH, TEIGH, or as now written, TIGHE, was assumed from a village in Rutlandshire, the earliest abode of the family, whence, however, it departed at a remote period, and settled at Carby, co. Lincoln, where Leicester Tigh, the last of the English line, was residing temp. CHARLES II. In the previous reign, and before the rebellion of 1641,

RICHARD TIGH, (son of William Tigh, of Market Deeping, by Mary, his wife, dau. of Tobias, of Keltorpe, co. Rutland,) went over to Ireland, and settled there. He was sheriff of Dublin in 1649, colonel of the Dublin militia, mayor of Dublin in 1651, 1652, and 1655, and member for the same city in CROMWELL'S Union Parliament in 1656. He acquired considerable estates in the counties of Carlow, Dublin, and Westmeath, during the time of the two CHARLESSES, and marrying Mary, dau. of Newman Rooke, Esq. of London, left surviving issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Anne, m. 1st, to Theophilus Sandford, ancestor of Lord Mount Sandford; 2ndly, to John Preston, great-grandson of Jenico Preston, third Viscount Gormanston; and 3rdly, to Oliver Lambart, third son of Charles, first Earl of Cavan.

Rebecca, m. to Hugh Leeson, Esq., ancestor of the Earls of Miltown.

Mary, m. in 1670, to Francis Wheeler, ancestor of Sir Jonah-Denny Wheeler Cuffe, Bart. of Lyrath, in the co. Kilkenny.

Richard Tighe was s. by his youngest and only surviving son,

WILLIAM TIGHE, Esq., b. in 1657, who m. Anne, dau. of Christopher Lovat, Esq., and by her (who m. 2ndly, Thomas Coote, one of the judges of the King's Bench, ancestor of the Earls of Bellamont of the second creation) had one son and one dau., viz.,

RICHARD, his heir.

Mary, m. 1st, in 1694, to Captain Alexander Stewart, second son of William, first Viscount Mountjoy, by whom she had an only dau., Anne, who m. 1st, Luke Gardiner, Esq., ancestor of the late Earl of Blessington, and 2ndly, the Rev. John Hodder.

Mr. Tighe d. in 1679, and was s. by his only son,

THE RIGHT HON. RICHARD TIGHE, who was sworn of the privy council, temp. GEORGE I., and sat in parliament for Belturbet in 1703, for Newtown in 1715, and for Augher in 1727. He m. Barbara, dau. and heir of Christian Borr, Esq. of Drynogh, co. Wexford, by his wife, an heiress of the family of Hore, in the same county, and had, beside daus., a son and successor,

WILLIAM TIGHE, Esq. of Rossana, co. Wicklow, keeper of the records in Birmingham Tower, M.P. for Clonmines in 1733, and for Wicklow in 1761. This gentleman m. 1st, in March, 1736, Lady Mary Bligh, eldest dau. of John, first Earl of Darnley, by Lady Theodosia Hyde, Baroness Clifton, his wife, dau. and heir of Edward, Earl of Clarendon, and had three sons and one dau., viz.,

I. WILLIAM, his successor.

II. Edward, M.P. for Belturbet in 1763, and for Wicklow in 1790. Miss Jones, dau. of — Jones, Esq. of the co. Westmeath, and left one son, George-William, who m. Margaret, widow of Stephen, second Earl of Mountcashel, and dau. of Robert, Earl of Kingstown.

III. Richard-William, M.P. for Wicklow in 1768, m. Sarah, dau. of S. Richards, Esq. of the co. Wexford, and had, with other issue, who d. young, two surviving sons, Edward, who m. Lucy, dau. of — King, Esq.; and Robert.

I. Theodosia, m. to the Rev. William Blachford, and had one son, John Blachford, Esq. of Altadore, in the co. Wicklow, and one dau., Mary Blachford, the wife of her cousin, Henry Tighe, Esq.

Mr. Tighe m. 2ndly, the widow of Captain Theaker, of Wicklow, by whom he had a son, Thomas, who m. and had issue, and a dau., Barbara. He d. in 1766, and was s. by his son,

I. WILLIAM TIGHE, Esq. of Rossana, M.P. for Athboy in 1761, and subsequently for Wicklow, who m. in 1765, Sarah, only child of the Right Hon. Sir William Fownes, Bart. of Woodstock, co. Kilkenny, by Lady Elizabeth Ponsonby, dau. of Brabazon, Earl of Bessborough, and had issue,

- I. WILLIAM, his heir.

- v. Francis-Gartside, b. 5 Nov. 1820.
- i. Maria.

Mr. Tipping s. his father, 6 Jan. 1800.

Lineage.

The family of Tipping (anciently Typpynge) had its origin from a vill or hamlet of the same name, situate in the township of Clayton-le-Dale, co. Lancaster, and distant about five miles from the town of Blackburne. The mansion-house, called Tipping Hall, appears to have been possessed by a family bearing the local name certainly as early as temp. EDWARD III., but probably much earlier. The family became divided into two branches about the commencement of the sixteenth century, the elder of which about, or soon after that period left Tipping Hall, and became possessed of extensive estates in the counties of Bucks and Oxon. It was the parent stock of several families of wealth and rank, and was eventually dignified with a baronetcy, in the person of Sir Thomas Tipping, of Wheatfield, co. Oxon, who was so created A.D. 1698. One of the younger branches was seated at Draycot, in Oxfordshire, and another at Shabingdon and Chequers, Bucks, which became extinct in the male line at the latter end of the last century. The younger Lancashire branch settled at Preston, and afterwards removed to Manchester, where they became possessed of good estates.

RICHARD TIPPING was an alderman of Preston, co. Lancaster, temp. HENRY VII., and is recorded as such on the corporation rolls, A.D. 1500. He was s. by (most probably his son)

THOMAS TIPPING, alderman and mayor of Preston temp. HENRY VIII., who m. and had issue four sons, viz.,

- I. ROBERT, whose descendants remained at Preston.
- II. RICHARD, of whom hereafter.
- III. Evan,
- IV. Thomas, } living 34 HENRY VIII. 1542.

Thomas Tipping was the mayor of the guild at Preston, 34 HENRY VIII., when his four sons are recorded in the rolls as attending. His second son,

RICHARD TIPPING, Gent., of Manchester, gave to his mansion-house the name of Tipping Gates. He m., and had issue three sons and four daus.,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. SAMUEL, of Manchester, merchant, d. unm., and was buried at the Collegiate Church, 26 Nov. 1633. By deed of 1629, he conveyed his estates in trust to Sir Cecil Trafford, with remainder, first, to the heirs of his younger brother, George Tipping, and in default of issue, to the heirs of his elder brother, John Tipping.
- III. GEORGE, of Manchester, m. 7 Dec. 1591, Mary, dau. and heiress of Thomas Willott, Esq. of Manchester, by Ellen, dau. of Sir Edmund Trafford, Knt. of Trafford, co. Lancaster, who was buried at the Collegiate Church, 12 Oct. 1629. He was interred there, 29 Oct. following, having had issue by his wife,

1. Thomas, bapt. 25 Feb. 1592-3, buried 21 Nov. following.
2. Edmund, bapt. 24 Aug. 1604, d. v. p. unm. 18 Feb. 1628.
3. Samuel, of Manchester, heir to his father, bapt. 25 Dec. 1605, d. unm., and was buried 24 May, 1641, leaving his sisters his co-heirs.
4. George, bapt. 13 Nov., and buried 22 Dec. 1607.
1. Isabel, bapt. 8 Feb. 1595-6, d. unm.
2. Mary, co-heir to her brother, bapt. 20 May, 1597, m. 8 Sept. 1614, to Peter Legh, Esq. of the West Hall, in High Legh, co. Chester, and is now represented by her lineal descendant and heir, ECKTON LEGH, Esq. of High Legh and Twemlow, co. Chester.
3. Mildreda, bapt. 13 Feb. 1602-3, buried 17 April, following.
4. Elizabeth, co-heir to her brother, bapt. 20 Jan. 1609, m. to Richard Haworth, Esq. of Manchester, barrister-at-law, and d. in July, 1652. Her lineal descendant and eldest co-heir and representative is SIR RICHARD PULESTON, Bart. of Emral, co. Flint,

- I. Elizabeth, d. young, and buried 8 July, 1574.
- II. Cicely, m. 10 June, 1589, to Oswald Moseley, Esq. of Garratt, co. Lancaster.
- III. Ann, m. 1 Oct. 1594, to Thomas Puleston, merchant, of London.
- IV. Isabell, m. 27 July, 1595, to William Kendal, Gent. of Manchester.

Richard Tipping was interred at the Collegiate Church, Manchester, 10 Oct. 1592, and s. by his eldest son and heir,

JOHN TIPPING, Gent. of Tipping Gates, in Manchester, m. 14 Oct. 1588, Isabel, dau. of — Goldsmith, Esq. of Manchester, and by her had issue,

RICHARD, his heir.

Isabel, m. 11 June, 1610, to Francis Moseley, Esq. of Manchester, was most probably dau. of John Tipping, of Tipping Gates.

John Tipping was buried at the Collegiate Church, 16 July, 1592, and s. by his son and heir,

RICHARD TIPPING, Gent. of Tipping Gates, in Manchester, m. 17 April, 1614, Alice, dau. of — Diggles, Gent. of Booth Hall, near Manchester, and by her, who survived him, had issue,

- I. John, bapt. 27 Dec. 1616, d. s. p.
- II. GEORGE, surviving son and heir.
- I. Mary, buried at Middlewich, co. Chester, 15 Dec. 1621.
- II. Isabel, buried at the Collegiate Church, 9 April, 1623.

Richard Tipping resided at Middlewich, co. Chester, two or three years before his death, and was buried there, 5 Dec. 1621, being s. by his son and heir,

GEORGE TIPPING, Gent. of Tipping Gates, in Manchester, and of Cheetham Hill, bapt. 27 Nov. 1618, who had, by Jane, his wife, (who was buried at the Collegiate Church, 12 July, 1677,)

- I. SAMUEL, his heir.
- I. Mary.
- II. Elizabeth.

George Tipping was buried at the Collegiate Church, 13 March, 1684, and s. by his son and heir,

SAMUEL TIPPING, merchant, of Tipping Gates, in Manchester, and Cbeetham Hall, bapt. 23 Dec. 1649, who m. Constance, dau. (it is believed) of Adam Byrom, Esq. of Kersal, co. Lancaster, and by her (who was buried at the Collegiate Church, 24 Oct. 1697) had issue,

- I. George, bapt. 20 Nov. 1683, buried 29th same month.
- II. Samuel, bapt. 29 June, 1686, buried 23 July, 1687.
- III. John, bapt. 12 Jan. 1687-8, d. v. p., and was buried at the Collegiate Church, 23 Sept. 1721.
- IV. Edward, bapt. 4 Jan. 1688-9, d. young.
- V. THOMAS, eldest surviving son and heir.

TODD OF TRANBY PARK AND HALNABY.

TODD, JOHN, Esq. of Tranby Park, in the East Riding of the co. York, and of Halnaby, in the North Riding, b. 8 March, 1789; m. 27 March, 1827, Jane, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Thomas Rutherford, only son of Archibald Rutherford, Esq. of Jedburgh and Newcastle-on-Tyne, (a lineal descendant and the next representative of the Rutherfords, Earls of Teviot, and Barons Rutherford,) by Jane Atkinson, his wife, only sister of Ralph Atkinson, Esq. of Angerton, Northumberland, and Newcastle-on-Tyne, first cousin to the late Lords Stowell and Eldon, and aunt to Lady Gray of Kinfauns, &c.,—see HODGSON'S History of Northumberland. The issue of this marriage is one only dau., JANE-MARIAN-RUTHERFORD TODD. Mr. Todd is a magistrate for the East Riding of Yorkshire, and for the borough of Kingston-upon-Hull. To the estates of Tranby Park, he s., at the decease of his father, in 1837, and that of Halnaby he acquired, by purchase, from Sir John-P. Milbanke, Bart.

Lineage.

This family derives from THOMAS TODD, who was located at Swanland, near Hull, temp. JAMES I., who was summoned as a jurat in a cause, Ellerker v. Bacon, temp. CHARLES I., A.D. 1642, and who was named in an inquisition held on the death of Sir Ralph Ellerker, Knt. The grandfather of the present Mr. Todd, of Tranby Park and Halnaby, was THOMAS TODD, of Swanland, son of Robert Todd. He m. Elizabeth Watson, and left three sons and one dau., John, Robert, WILLIAM, and Elizabeth. William d. in 1837, and was s. by his son, JOHN TODD, Esq., now of Tranby Park and Halnaby.

Seat—Bunrana Castle, co. Donegal.

* An incident in the history of this family illustrates the unnatural position in which individuals were frequently placed during the last war with the United States. In 1770, John Patterson, brother of Daniel, of Fox Hall, accompanied as secretary, his brother Walter, to Prince Edward Island, of which colony he was governor for nearly 20 years. John, being subsequently appointed collector at Philadelphia, finally settled in the United States. In 1815, one of John's sons, Daniel-Todd Patterson, (a commodore in the United States' navy,) commanded the marine battery, at the battle of New Orleans; and it so happened that the late Sir William Thornton (then Col. T., commanding the light division of the British army) was selected to lead the attack upon this battery, and thus these two officers, although nearly connected, found themselves placed in direct hostility to each other.

TOKE OF GODINTON.

TOKE, THE REV. NICOLAS, of Godinton, co. Kent, b. 6 Oct. 1799; m. 4 July, 1837, Emma, second dau. of John Leslie, D.D., Bishop of Elphin, by Isabella, his wife, second dau. of the late Hon. and Right Rev. Thomas St. Lawrance, Bishop of Cork and Ross, and has issue, Isabella-Frances. Emma-Laura. Mary-Emily.

Mr. Toke, who is a magistrate for Kent, s. his uncle, Nicolas-Roundell Toke, Esq., 19 Feb. 1837.

Lineage.

The family of Toke, the name of whose patriarch appears on the roll of Battle Abbey, is stated, in THOROTON'S Notts. to have been settled in that county as early as the reign of WILLIAM RUFUS, and to have possessed large estates there at Kelham, Wakeringham, &c. The pedigree given by that historian has the name spelled in seventeen different ways. Of this family was Sir Bryan Toke, who was first, secretary to Cardinal Wolsey, afterwards, foreign secretary to HENRY VIII., then treasurer of the king's chamber and clerk of the signet, and sometime ambassador to France with Bishop Tunstall. He was a man of extensive learning, and highly commended by Leland for his wonderful eloquence in the English language: "Anglicæ linguæ eloquentiæ mirificus," and in his "Encomium illustrium virorum," he celebrates him, in eight distinct little Latin poems, as his benefactor, and as a patron of the Muses. Sir Bryan m. a dau. of Touchet, Lord Audley, and was ancestor of Sir Samuel Tuke, of Cressing Temple, co. Essex, who was created a Baronet in 1663-64, and was killed at the battle of the Boyne. Branches of the family were seated in the cos. of Derby, Nottingham, York, Kent, Cambridge, Herts, Dorset, Essex, &c. A considerable portion of their property was sacrificed to their loyalty, temp. CHARLES I.

TOLL OF PERRIDGE HOUSE.

TOLL, HENRY-LIMBREY, Esq. of Perridge House, Devon.

Lineage.

This name is of British origin. In Domesday Book we find that Toli, in the reign of EDWARD the Confessor, was the proprietor of the manor of Sheptuna, in Somersetshire, and also held Whitstone, in Devon, at the time of the Conquest.

This family also possessed considerable landed property in Hants, and were, for several generations, seated at Grewell St. Mary, in the parish of Odiham. Having, in the reign of HENRY VII., secreted in their house Sir James Windham, (ancestor of the Egremont family, who was attainted of high treason, and afterwards beheaded on Tower-hill,) a considerable part of their property, by fine and sequestration, as well as writings and documents of importance, were lost.

The immediate ancestor of the Tolls of Perridge, ASHBURNHAM TOLL, Esq. of Grewell, Hants, m. Anne, dau. of Richard Newman, Esq. of Evercrech Park, co. Somerset, and had several sons,

I. FREDERICK.

II. Edmond, rear-admiral R.N., d. at Wickham, in the year 1767, having m. and left issue, one son, Ashburnham-Newman Toll, Esq., capt. in the Berks militia, d. in 1800, at Reading, in Berkshire, unm.; and two daus., Jane, wife of John Aldridge, Esq.; and Mary, who m. John Bulley, Esq. of Reading, and was mother of John; Ashburnham, late of H. M. Exchequer, and other children.

III. Ashburnham, of Preston Deanery, co. Northampton, m. Mary, dau. of Lieut.-Col. Geary, and dying in 1771, left issue. A son of this gentleman s. to Thornbury Park, in Gloucestershire, and by sign-manual took the name and arms of NEWMAN, agreeably to the will of Frances Newman, sister and heiress of Sir Samuel Newman, Bart., (see page 924.)

IV. Charles, rector of Rewe, Devon, on the presentation of the Windham family, m., and d. without issue, in 1765. His widow d. at her house in Oxford, some years after.

The eldest son,

THE REV. FREDERICK TOLL, vicar of Odiham, and prebendary of Salisbury, m. in 1739, at Rewe, in Devon, Ann, dau. of Richard Limbrey, Esq., and d. in 1764-5, leaving one son,

THE REV. JOHN-FREDERICK TOLL, vicar of Kingsclere, b. at Upton Gray, Hants, who m. at Odiham, his cousin, Jane, dau. of Richard Limbrey, Esq., and left an only son,

RICHARD-LIMBREY TOLL, Esq. of Perridge House, Devon, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for that shire, b. at Kingsclere, Hants, who m. 1st, in 1813, Margaret, dau. of the Rev. Alexander Mackenzie, of Sharrowhead, co. York, but by her (who d. in 1821) he had no issue, and 2ndly, in 1823, Anne, eldest dau. of the late Walter Vavasour, Esq. of Heath, co. York, by whom he had one son and one dau.,

HENRY-LIMBREY, now of Perridge.

Mr. Tollemache, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Cheshire, served as high-sheriff of that co. in 1840, and represents the Southern division in parliament. He s. his father, the late Admiral Tollemache, in 1837.

Lineage.

The very ancient family of Tollemache claims Saxon descent, and the name is said to be a corruption of the word "tollmack," tolling of the bell: the Tollemaches having flourished with the greatest honour, in an uninterrupted male succession, in the county of Suffolk, since the first arrival of the Saxons in England, a period of more than thirteen centuries.

TOLLEMACHE, Lord of Bentley, in Suffolk, and Stoke-Tollemache, co. Oxford, lived in the sixth century, and upon the old manor-house at Bentley may still be seen the following inscription:—

"Before the Normans into England came,

Bentley was my seat, and Tollemache was my name."

HUGH DE TOLLEMACHE subscribed the charter, sans date, (about the reign of King STEPHEN,) made by John de St. John to Eve, the first Abbess of Godstow, in Oxfordshire. This Hugh, in his old age, assumed the cowl at Gloucester, and bestowed upon that monastery a moiety of the town of Hampton, which his son, Peter, confirmed, n the time of the Abbot Hamblin. From this Peter derived the TOLLEMACHES of Helmingham, Baronets, and afterwards EARLS OF DYSART, (see BURKE'S Peerage).

LIONEL, third Earl of Dysart, K.T., b. in June, 1707, n. 22 July, 1729, Lady Grace Carteret, eldest dau. of John, first Earl of Granville, (lord-lieut. of Ireland, and afterwards secretary of state to GEORGE II.,) by whom he had fifteen children, of whom the following survived infancy,

- LIONEL, 4th earl, d. s. p. in 1799.
WILBRAHAM, 5th earl, d. s. p. in 1821.

Major Tolson s. at the decease of his father, 12 June, 1815, and petitioned his Majesty, in 1830, for a writ of summons, as heir, through the SAVILES,* to the BARONY OF DARCY OF DARCY.

Lineage.

This family claims importance in the Saxon era of our history, and its founder,

HENRICUS, is said, in proof of his rank in Saxon times, to have been one of those great persons who, in the upper part of his hall, had a Dais to receive and entertain his guests, and at the lower end, a hower, or recess, wherein he might himself repose, with a streamlet flowing through the premises into the river Derwent, in which he is stated to have baptized his children, in the forest of Kokermouth, in Cumhri, in the district of Cumberland, being part of the Brigantes, and ancient kingdom of the Northumbers. The fifth in descent from Henricus, another

HENRICUS, assumed the surname of "DE TOLSON," and was s. by his son,

HENRICUS DE TOLSON, who was found guilty of high treason in the time of EDWARD I., but received a free pardon from that monarch. He held lands at Bridekirke, in Cumberland, appertaining to the monastery of Gysburne, co. York. His lineal descendant,

HENRY TOLSON, Esq., at the dissolution of the monastery of Gysburne, temp. HENRY VIII., obtained a grant, by patent from the crown, dated 29 July, in the 35th year of that king's reign, of the manor of Bridekirke, to himself and his heirs for ever. His son and successor,

HENRY TOLSON, Esq., was sheriff of co. Cumberland, 17 ELIZABETH, and was seised of the manor of Bridekirke in 1590. He had two sons,

RICHARD, his heir.

John, provost of Oriel College, Oxford.

TOOKER OF NORTON HALL.

WHALLEY-TOOKER, HYDE-SALMON, Esq. of Norton Hall, co. Somerset, and Hinton Lodge, co. Hants, b. 2 April, 1790; who at the death of Lucy Tooker, in 1835, became representative of the families of Hyde of Hinton and Tooker of Norton Hall, and assumed, by Royal licence, dated 5 Dec. 1835, in compliance with the will of his great-uncle, James Tooker, Esq., the name and arms of TOOKER in addition to those of WHALLEY. He m. 31 March, 1814, Elizabeth-Drage Merest, only dau. of James Merest, Esq. of The Moat, Soham, Cambridgeshire, and had issue,

- I. HYDE-WHALLEY, b. 26 Dec. 1825.

- I. Susanna, d. unm., 9 July, 1838.

- II. Caroline, m. 20 Aug. 1842, Henry Pearson, Esq., barrister-at-law, only child of Henry Pearson, Esq. of Carlisle, and grandson of Samuel Pearson, Esq. of Hawksdale Lodge, Cumberland, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for that county, and has issue.

Lineage.

As Mr. Whalley-Tooker represents the families of Hyde of Hinton, Whalley of Somersetshire, and Tooker of Somersetshire, we shall give an account of each of those families.

Hyde of Hinton Lodge, near Horn Dean, Hants.

LAWRENCE HYDE, Esq. of West Hatch, common ancestor of the Earls of Clarendon, Queen MARY and Queen ANNE, and the Hydes of Hinton, was, according to Dugdale's visitation of Cheshire in 1663, ninth in descent from Sir Robert Hyde, Knt. of Norbury, temp. HENRY III., A.D. 1265: he m. Anne, widow of Matthew Colthurst, Esq. of Clarenton, near Bath, and by her had issue, (besides four daus.—for an account of whom, see Lord Clarendon's Life, vol. i. p. 3.)

- I. ROBERT, m. Anne, dau. of — Castilian, Esq. of Benham, Bucks, and by her had several children, all whose descendants are believed to be extinct.

- II. Lawrence, afterwards Sir Lawrence Hyde, attorney-general to ANNE, queen of JAMES I., d. s. p.

- III. Henry, m. Mary, dau. of Edward Langford, Esq. of Trowbridge, and by her had four sons and five daus.; his third son, Edward, became the first and illustrious Earl of Clarendon, and was grandfather to Queen MARY and Queen ANNE.

- IV. NICHOLAS.

The fourth son,

NICHOLAS HYDE, b. in May, 1572, betaking himself to the study of the law, became treasurer of the Middle Temple, and having rendered great assistance to the Duke of Buckingham in preparing his answer to the impeachment of the Commons, was, through that nobleman's interest, appointed chief-justice of England in 1626, on the removal of Sir Randolph Crewe; according to the testimony of Whitelock, his political opponent, he demeaned himself in that high office "with uprightness and with great wisdom and temper, considering the ticklishness of the times, and was a man of great integrity, but reserved and not affable." (See RUSHWORTH'S Historical Collections, vol. i. pp. 111-120; vol. ii. p. 3; and WHITELOCK'S Memorials, p. 17.) He acquired, in 1606, the manor of the hundred of Finch-Dean, Hants, together with its sub-manors of Hinton-Daubeny, Hinton-Mereham, Hinton-Burrant, and Horneare, from his kinsman, Arthur Swayne, Esq., to whom it had been granted on the dissolution of the monastic establishment of St. Swithin, Winchester. He d. 26 Aug. 1631, and his monumental effigy, in black marble, still remains on his tomb, in the parish church of Catherington, Hants. Sir Nicholas Hyde left issue,

- I. ARTHUR, bapt. 13 Jan. 1606, who d. s. p., when he was s. in the estate by his brother.

- II. LAWRENCE, of whom we treat.

- III. Edward, living in 1652.

The second son,

LAWRENCE HYDE, after the fatal battle of Worcester, in 1652, actively assisted in the escape of CHARLES II. The king, in his memorable wanderings, was provided with a night's lodging at the house of one of Mr. Hyde's tenants, who was himself a partisan of the royal cause, too hot-headed to be safely entrusted with the secret of his guest's quality. The king was accordingly passed off as a Roundhead, and was, in that character, compelled, by his well-meaning host, to drink success to the royal cause. After some difficulty, CHARLES was withdrawn from his entertainer by Lord Southampton and Mr. Hyde, and was by them safely conducted, the next day, to Shoreham, where they succeeded in procuring a passage for him to Fecamp, in Normandy. The circumstances are told in detail in a MS. written by Mr. Hyde's cousin, Col. Gounter, himself an actor in the events. This MS. is now deposited in the British Museum, and contains the only authentic account of the escape of the king. (See notices of it in JESSE'S History of the Stewarts, and in PARRY'S Account of the Coast of Sussex.) Lawrence Hyde represented Winchester in the first parliament after the Restoration. He m. in 1652, Alice, only child of Sir John Granville, of Broad-Hinton, Wilts, serjeant-at-law, and d. in Sept. 1682, having had issue,

- I. ARTHUR, his heir.

- II. Robert, b. 10 June, 1669, living in 1688.

- I. Mary, b. in 1655, m. to Dr. Thomas Swallow, of Winchester.

- II. Elizabeth, d. in 1688, unm.

The son and heir,

ARTHUR HYDE, m. in 1690, Deborah, only child of William Burle, Esq. of Long Sutton, Hants, and d. in 1740, leaving issue,

- I. LAWRENCE, b. 6 Dec. 1694, scholar of New College, Oxford. He d. in July, 1733, leaving an only child, Robert, b. in July, 1730, who d. a minor, in June, 1751, and with him ended the last male of the Hydes, the other branches having before terminated in females.

- II. Arthur, who d. in his father's lifetime, unm.

- I. Mary, b. 22 Sept. 1696, who m. in May, 1724, JOHN TOOKER, Esq. of Norton Hall, Somersetshire, and d. in 1745, (see TOOKER.)

- II. Elizabeth, b. 3 Nov. 1698.

- III. Catherine, b. 8 May, 1706.

Whalley of Somersetshire.

The family of Whalley, in Somerset, claims to be descended from Wyamarus Whalley, who accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror from Normandy, and was the standard-bearer at the battle of Hastings. The CONQUEROR gave him the lordship of Whalley, co. Lancaster, in which shire, as well as in the cos. Stafford and Nottingham, his descendants possessed extensive property. Edward Walley, major-gen. in CROMWELL'S army, who signed the death-warrant of King CHARLES, was of this family. He was first-cousin to the Protector. On the return of CHARLES II. he fled to America, where he remained in concealment till his demise, which is supposed to have taken place about the year 1679. A curious account of his wanderings and death, and of his companion, Colonel Goffe, is to be found in HUTCHINSON'S History of Massachusetts Bay. SIR WALTER SCOTT, in Peveril of the Peak, introduces an anecdote of Edward Whalley, at this period, founded on fact.

Other members of the family attached themselves to the royal cause, and at the Restoration, among those who were to have been invested with the proposed order of knighthood, to be called the Royal Oak, occurs the name of William Whalley, of Norton, co. Leicester.

THE REV. JOHN WHALLEY, rector of Cosgrave, co. Northampton, d. in 1647, leaving a son, ARTHUR WHALLEY, who d. in 1692. His son, ROGER WHALLEY, d. in 1727, leaving a son, THE REV. JOHN WHALLEY, rector of Riddlesworth, co. Norfolk, who d. in 1739. He was father of THE REV. JOHN WHALLEY, D.D., master of Peterhouse, Cambridge, and regius professor of Divinity. He m. Mary, dau. of Francis Squire, chancellor of Wells, and d. in 1748, leaving issue,

- I. JOHN, b. in 1737, an officer in the 23rd regt. of Welsh fusiliers, d. s. p.
- II. FRANCIS-EDWARDES, justice of peace, b. in 1743, of whom presently.

Mary.
- I. Susan, b. in 1739, m. — Crane, M.D., and left issue.
- II. Mary, b. in 1742, m. James Wickham, Esq. of Frome, and d. in 1817, leaving issue.
- III. Elizabeth, b. in 1745, m. Isaac Sage, Esq. of the Hon. E. I. Co's service, and of Thornhill, Dorset, d. in 1778, leaving issue.

The second son,

FRANCIS-EDWARDES WHALLEY, Esq., colonel of the Somerset militia, m. in 1787, Bridget-Maria, dau. of Thomas Salmon, Esq., and d. leaving issue,

- I. HYDE-SALMON, the present head of the family.
- II. Frances-Maria, m. General Stafford, and has issue.
- III. Elizabeth-Mary, m. Thomas-Eyre Salmon, Esq. of Holcombe, and d. leaving issue.

Tooker of Norton Hall, Somersetshire.

JOHN TOOKER, Esq., of the same family (as the arms show) as the Tookers of Exeter, purchased about 1660, the manors of Midsomer Norton, Stone Easton, and Chilcompton, co. Somerset, and d. in 1689. He m. Dorothy Joseline, of New Hall Joseline, co. Essex, and left issue, by her,

- I. JOHN, his heir.

TOPP OF WHITTON.

TOPP, AGATHA-CECILIA and ISABELLA-CHRISTINA, of Whitton, co. Salop, s. as co-heirs, on the decease of their father, the REV. JOHN TOPP, of Whitton, 22 Dec. 1836.

Lineage.

The estate of Whitton being inherited through the Whittons and Lings, we shall commence our details with those families. The first recorded proprietors were the Whittons, who were seated there at a very early period, but we have not been able to meet with a connected pedigree.

THOMAS DE WYTTON, of Wytton, was sheriff of Shropshire in 1407. His descendant,

JOHN WHITTON, of Whitton, left two daus., his co-heirs: the younger, JULIA, m. Sir William Spencer, Knt.; the elder, the inheritrix of Whitton, married

WILLIAM LINGAYN,* of Herefordshire, who was escheator for Salop, 23 HENRY VI., and living at Whitton, 1450. By the heiress of Whitton he had two sons,

JOHN, of whom hereafter.

Roger, m. a dau. of William David, and had issue.

The eldest son,

JOHN LINGAYN, of Whitton, was resident there in 1489. He m. the dau. of David ap Griffith, and had, by her, a son and successor,

WILLIAM LINGEYNE, of Whitton, who, in several documents, is styled "Esquire of the body to HENRY VII." He m. Margery, dau. of John Chetwynd, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN LINGEN, Knt. of Whitton, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Corbet, Esq., by Joan, his wife, lady of Wentnor, co. Hereford, and had two sons,

I. EDWARD.

II. Augustine, of Bettws, co. Montgomery, which he acquired with his wife, Katherine, dau. and heir of John ap David Lloyd, of Bettws. From the issue of this marriage, lineally descends the present REV. EDWARD-PRICE OWEN, of Bettws, (see OWEN OF BETTWS.)

The eldest son,

EDWARD LINGEN, Esq. of Whitton, m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Lyster, Esq. of Rowton, by whom he had issue,

I. THOMAS.

II. Edward, } twins.

III. James, }

I. Katherine, m. to James Watson.

II. Elizabeth.

III. Ursula.

IV. Margaret, m. to William Mynds.

V. Isabel, m. to Richard Otley.

VI. Margery, m. to John Hopkins.

He d. before 1640, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS LINGEN, Esq. of Whitton, who m. Lucy, dau. of Robert Broughton, Esq. of Owlbury, and sister to Hugh Broughton, by whom he had,

I. George, d. unm., buried at Pontesbury, 2 July, 1623.

I. ELIZABETH, inheritrix of Whitton.

II. Frances.

III. Mary.

IV. Rachel.

V. Jane.

VI. Margaret.

The eldest dau. and heir,

ELIZABETH LINGEN, m. ALEXANDER TOPP,* Gent. of Fisherton, co. Wilts, who thus became "of Whitton." Of him it is recorded, that "he put himself at an early age under the tuition of the very learned Hugh Broughton, and accompanied him to Germany, that he might receive the benefit of his instructions. His attachment to this eminent scholar was rewarded by the hand of his niece and the possession of Whitton." The marriage covenant is dated 5 Feb. 1594. Alexander Topp d. in 1663, and was s. by his son,

* FAMILY OF TOPP.

The first recorded ancestor,

Lineage.

This family can be traced back to a very remote period. In the time of HENRY I., Odo de Turri held large possessions in Warwickshire.

ROGER TURR, of Westwood Park, possessed lands there, A.D. 1413, 1 HENRY V., and left two sons, ROGER, his heir; and Robert, in holy orders, vicar of Haxey. The former, ROGER TURRE, s. to the lands in Westwood and Haxey, and left a son and heir, ROBERT TURRE, living temp. HENRY VII. and VIII., who, on the 20 Oct. 1468, at the great court of John, Duke of Suffolk, then held at Westwood, was admitted heir to certain acres of copyhold lands lying in the fields of Westwood and Haxey, and late in the tenure of John Kendal. By his wife, Isabella, whom he appointed his executrix, he had issue,

THOMAS, who s. his father, and was father, by Catherine, his wife, of a son and heir, THOMAS, living temp. HENRY VIII. at Winnington, co. Essex. He left by Catherine, his wife, an only dau. and heiress, Catherine, m. to Jackson, of Gainsborough.

Robert, had the grounds of Ketelcroft and Ketelflat, in Haxey, entailed upon him by his father. He left a son, Richard, who took holy orders.

ROGER, of whose line we treat. John.

The third son,

ROGER TURRE, living temp. HENRY VIII., derived, under his father's will, all those tenements and possessions in the parish of Haxey which were his grandfather Roger's. He left issue, JAMES, his heir; GREGORY, heir to his brother; Robert; George; Isabell; Agnes, m. to Thomas Harrison; Cecily, m. to Richard Well. Roger was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES TURRE, of Haxey, who d. s. p., (his will dated 16 Aug. 1580,) and was s. by his next brother,

THOMAS, his heir.

James, of Burnham, m. Elizabeth Mirfin, of Thureroff, co. York, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Israel Medley, of East Lound) had two sons, GREGORY, of whom hereafter, as successor to his nephew.

THOMAS, of whom presently, as successor to his cousin.

The elder son,
THOMAS TORRE, of Haxey, d., 3 April, 14 JAMES I., leaving by Catherine, his wife, (besides a dau., Mary, m. to — Foster,) a son and heir,

JAMES TORRE, of Haxey, then in his minority, who d. unm., and was s. by his cousin, (to whom he passed the reversion of his estate.)

THOMAS TORRE, of Belton and Haxey, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Tankersley, of Crays Lound, and d. in 1650, leaving a son and heir,

THOMAS TORRE, of Haxey &c., who d. in his minority, and his estates passed to his uncle,

GREGORY TORRE, (eldest son and heir of James Turre, of Burnham, see above.) who was educated at Cambridge for the civil law; but the civil war breaking out, he took up arms in the Royalist cause, and his estate was sequestered. Subsequently, 8 May, 1649, he compounded with the commissioners of delinquents, at Goldsmiths' Hall, and obtained restitution of his lands. He m. Anne, dau. and heir of John Farre, of Epworth, and had (besides younger children, who d. young) a son and heir,

JAMES TORRE, of Haxey, Burnham, Epworth, and Belton, bapt. 30 April, 1649, who was of Magdalen College, Oxford, whence he entered the Middle Temple, London, and became eminent as an antiquary. He m. 1st, 22 April, 1672, Elizabeth, youngest of the four daus. and co-heiress of William Lincoln, D.D., of Bottesford, and by her had several children, all of whom d. young, except Jane, m. in 1701, to the Rev. Thomas Hassel. He m. 2ndly, 24 April, 1694, Anna, dau. of Nicholas Lister, of Rigton, co. York, and by her had, with other issue, who d. young,

NICHOLAS, his heir.

Anna, m. to James, son and heir of Jonah Smith, of Caywood, co. York.

Mr. Torre sold his lands in Lincolnshire, and purchased the manor and lands at Snyderale, co. York. He d. 31 July, 1699, and was s. by his son and heir,

NICHOLAS TORRE, Esq. of Snyderale, who m. 8 Sept. 1720, Jane, dau. and co-heiress of Richard Mann, of the city of York, and had, with other issue,

JAMES, his heir.

He s. his father, 7 July, 1843.

Lineage.

This very ancient surname is of undoubted Saxon origin.

The name of "Tottenham" is one of the many corruptions of the old Saxon title, "Deoden Ham," several instances of which are to be found in the Domesday Book, and other records.

In making the different entries of each county survey, the Norman scribes appear to have been guided by no attention to the original orthography, using abbreviations and corruptions such as pleased their own fancy. For instance, in the name before us, we find it thus written—"Dodenham," the nearest approach to the original; "Todenham, Todenham, Toteham, Totdeuham, Todenham, Toteuham, Tudeuham, Tuddenham," and finally, in a later period, "Tottenham;" and thus it has been designated indiscriminately by every authority we have consulted.

The etymology of the name of "Tottenham," according to Mr. William Robinson, in his account of the antiquities of the parish so designated, in the county of Middlesex, is derived from two Saxon words, "Totia," and "Ham;" the first signifying, "to project with a long end, or cone, like a horn." "Ham," the latter word, signifies a town, village, or dwelling-place. Probably the shape of the parish induced Mr. Robinson to give this definition to the word "Totia." Mr. Robinson conjectures, however, that "Tottenham" was the mansion, residence, or estate, of Tota, (or rather, as we apprehend "Toti," who was a Saxon, dispossessed of his estates by the CONQUEROR,) for he says, "places have more frequently derived their names from their owners than from their situation."

The Rev. Charles Parkin, in his continuation of BLOOMFIELD'S History of Norfolk, vol. iv. p. 161, says, "Tot or Tut" is the name of a rivulet, and hence derives the name.

Mr. William Baxter, however, the learned antiquary and eminent scholar, says in reference to the etymology, "As the Goths and Lombards, by mis-spelling and mis-pronouncing the Latin tongue, made that jargon that former times called Romaut, and the Franks again out of the Romaut made French, so did the Normans terribly murder the old Saxon tongue left amongst us in such a sort, after their Conquest, scarce any English word escaped alteration, but became to be disguised by various writing of it. Thus, out of the Saxon, 'Deodholm,' and 'Deodenholm,' they made 'Toteham,' 'Thoteham,' and 'Todeham.'" He adds: "The words 'Ham,' 'Heim,' 'Heym,' and 'Heimme,' signify all sorts of enclosures."

In Domesday Book, Sturmidus de Totenham, or Cotenham, as he is also called, was one of those who possessed land under the Monastery of Ely, and was selected as one of the jurors at the formation of that ancient record, in the hundred of Cestratuna, in Cambridgeshire.—Vide Inquisitio Eliensis, folio 498, 2.

ROGER DE TODENHAM, who m. Maud de Glanville, dau. of Ranulph de Glanville, d. in 1210, leaving two sons, heirs to his property,

- I. JOHN DE TODENHAM.
- II. WILLIAM DE TODENHAM,* of whom presently.

The elder son,

JOHN DE TODENHAM, was father of

EDMUND DE TODENHAM, who m. Gundreda, and had an only son,

SIR JOHN DE TODENHAM, who was summoned, 15 King EDWARD I., as a baron, to attend him in the wars in Wales, and subsequently into Gascoigne. In the year 1289, 18 King EDWARD I., Sir John, or Thomas Todenham, s. to the estate of Oxburgh, co. Norfolk, as recorded by Sir Henry Spelman, in his topography of that county, thus:—"Next we arrived at Oxburgh; here was the seat of the Weilands, chief justice of the Common Pleas, who was banished by parliament, 18 King EDWARD I. It then came to the Tuddenhams, and thence passed, by the marriage of an heiress, to the Bedingfelds." Sir Thomas Weiland, second son of Sir William de Weyland, and grandson of Sir Herbert de Weyland, by his wife, Beatrix, was brother to Sir Nicholas Weyland, and great-grand-uncle to Margaret Weyland, who m. Sir John Todenham, sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk. Sir Thomas Weyland was banished for corruption and other malpractices. Sir John de Todenham, Knt., m. Lady Joan Charles, by whom he had issue,

- I. Sir Oliver de Todenham, who d. s. p. in 1318.
- II. Roger de Todenham, who was bailiff of Norwich in the years 1258, 1260, and 1266. He was appointed one of the custodes, or keepers of the city, in 1273, 77, 78, 81, 82, 83, 85, 87, 94, and 99. He served in parliament for Norwich in the 27th of King EDWARD I., at Lincoln, again in the 28th year, at Westminster, and again in the 30th year of that king, in London.
- III. Muriel Todenham.
- IV. SIR ROBERT TODENHAM, of whom presently.

On a monument, in the church of St. Mary, at Norwich, was the following, in the old English character:—

"God have mercy upon the soule of John Todenham, and Johne (Joan) his wyff, for here lieth he buried."

His effigies remain, and on a label is the following, also in old English:—

"God yat sytth in Trinity
 On the soul of John Todenham have mercy et pite."

SIR ROBERT TODENHAM, fourth son of Sir John de Todenham, by Lady Joan Charles, m. Eve Rochester, dau. of Sir Ralph de Rochester, by Maude Peeche, dau. of Sir Hamon Peeche, (by Eve, his wife,) son of Sir Gilbert Peeche, Lord of Brunna, in Cambridgeshire. By this marriage he left issue an only son,

SIR ROBERT DE TODENHAM, Knt., who m. Catherine Pateshull, (her will is dated 1383, proved 16 June, 1383, and she was buried at St. George's Nunnery, at

* WILLIAM DE TODENHAM, who was second son of Roger de Todenham, by Maud de Glanville, m. Basil Wrampingham, dau. of Walter de Wrampingham, and had issue,

- I. William de Todenham, who d. in 1287, leaving issue,
 1. Warrine de Todenham, who was lord of Hill's manor in 1315.
 2. Henry-Blast de Todenham, who was rector of Santon, 14 Nov. 1329.
- II. Sir Hugh Todenham, who was lord of the manor of Barry. He left issue an only dau., Anne Todenham, who m. Sir Henry Berry, son of Sir Ralph Berry, and who in consequence of this marriage s. to the lordship of Barry, on the demise of Sir Hugh Todenham.
- III. Basil Todenham, who m. John del Hill.

In 1249, John del Hill and Basil Todenham held Hill's manor, which was a part of the manor of Wrampingham, at a quarter of a fee, of Joan de Pateshull, who held it from the Earl of Richmond. In the same year, Asceline de Wrampingham sold certain lands here to William de Todenham and Basil, his wife, who was sister of William de Wrampingham, and it was agreed that the said Basil should inherit at the death of Asceline. In 1287, Basil became a widow, and released her rights to William de Todenham, her son. In the same year, the said William de Todenham and John del Hill were lords of the manor, and each had a moiety; and in 1315, John del Hill and Warrine de Todenham were lords of the said manor.

Thetford,) youngest dau. of Sir John de Pateshull, of Northamptonshire. By this lady he left issue, Robert Todenham, who d. a minor in 1333; and:

SIR JOHN TODENHAM, Knt., who was sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, in 1383. He d. in 1392, and was buried in the church of St. Peter, at Ereswell, in the chancel thereof. Sir John m. Margaret Weyland, (who was widow of Sir John de Herlyng,) eldest dau. of Sir Robert Weyland, by Cicily Baldoek, daughter of Thomas de Baldoek, which Lady Cicily's will is dated on Monday before the Annunciation, 1384, and was proved 6 Sept. following. She bequeaths her body to be buried in the churchyard of St. John the Evangelist, at Oxburgh, before the west door. (Vide Register Heydon, Norwich, folio 341.) Lady Margaret Todenham d. in 1416. Her will was proved 13 June, 1416, and she was buried in the church of the Augustine Friars, at Thetford, by the tomb of her dau., Elizabeth Herlyng, late wife of Sir Thomas Hengrave. By the above marriage, Sir John had issue, i. John, who m. in 1378, Elizabeth Fitz-Ralph, or Rauff, dau. of Robert Fitz-Ralph, but left no issue; and, ii.

SIR ROBERT TODENHAM, Knt., who m. Margaret Herlyng, (she was buried in the Monastery of Brusyard, in Suffolk,) dau. of Sir John de Herlyng, by Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Jeune, Knt., by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Nicholas Bourn. By this marriage Sir Robert had issue,

- i. Robert (Sir), who d. in 1401, during the lifetime of his father, having m. Margaret, dau. of Nicholas Witchingham, but left no issue.
- ii. THOMAS (Sir), Knt., of whom presently.

- iv. Harry, d. s. p. in 1460-61.
- i. Margaret, m. Sir Edmund Bedingfeld, Knt., from whom the Bedingfelds of Oxburgh are descended. Lady Bedingfeld's will is dated 24 May, 1474. She was hurried before the image of the Holy Cross, near the altar of the Virgin, in the nave of the church of St. Peter's, at Ereswell, in Suffolk. She d. seized of the lordships of Ereswell, Westerfield, Broadeston, Charsfield, Colton Hall, Belings Magna, Groundesburgh, Fenhall, Newton, Elvedon, Tudenham, Chamberlains, Shardelows, and Carhonsels; also, of the fourth part of the manor of Whitfield, and lands in Redstone, in Suffolk; the lordships of Oxhurch, Seclithe, Sparton Hall, Shingham, Caldecote, Fouldon, Tyes, and Aldenham in Weston; £10 yearly rent out of the manor of Garhaldesham, in Norfolk; and the manor of Abington Parva, in Cambridgeshire. By her will she leaves, amongst other legacies, the sum of ten marks to Lady Alice Todenham, a nun in Crabhouse Nunnery, in Wygenhale, in Norfolk.
- ii. Joan, a nun in Crabhouse Nunnery, in Wygenhale, in Norfolk.
- iii. Margery, a nun in Crabhouse Nunnery, in Wygenhale, in Norfolk.

On the demise of Sir Robert Todenham, in 1401, during the lifetime of his father, the second son, SIR THOMAS TODENHAM, became heir, and s. to the estate of Oxburgh, in Norfolk, and other extensive property. Whilst Sir Thomas was yet but eighteen years of age, (he was b. in 1379,) he m. Agnes Wodehouse, dau. of John Wodehouse, by Anne, the heiress of Furneaux,) ancestor of the present Baron Wodehouse of Kimberley, co. Norfolk. From this lady he was, however, divorced, 22 Nov. 1426. Some authorities call her "Aliee."—Vide Lib. Instit. Norwich. The close of his life was still more unfortunate; for, in 1 King EDWARD IV., Sir Thomas Todenham, (by some authorities called Tuddenham, and Tudenham,) Sir William Tyrrell, John Clopton, and John Montgomery, Esqs., with John de Vere, twelfth Earl of Oxford, and Aubrey de Vere, his son and heir, were arrested by John Tiptoft, Earl of Worcester, high-constable of England, on suspicion of having received letters from Margaret, Queen of HENRY VI., and being convicted in court before the said Earl of Worcester, suffered by martial law, (with the exception of Clopton,) and were beheaded on Tower Hill, 22 Feb. 1461.*

Sir Henry Spelman, in his topography of the county of Norfolk, states, "Edmund Bedingfeld married the sister of

Sir Thomas Tuddenham, and fearing, from the vicissitudes of the kingdom, the loss of their property, entered into an agreement, under seal, 'that Bedingfeld should follow the standard of EDWARD IV., and Tuddenham, that of HENRY VI., and if EDWARD proved victorious, Bedingfeld should obtain the king's pardon for Tuddenham; if the contrary should happen, Tuddenham should obtain it for Bedingfeld.'

EDWARD, eldest son of the Duke of York, having succeeded, "Bedingfeld obtained from the king the patrimony of Todenham, but Todenham lost his head. This was done privately, for a reverse was fatal to either party."

SIR JOHN TODENHAM, Knt., the younger son of Sir Robert, and next brother to Sir Thomas Todenham, m. Alice, dau. of Sir John Clifton, (who d. in 1447,) and emigrated to Ireland, where he founded the family of Tottenham, or, as now spelt, Tottenham, in that kingdom. He d. about 1459.

The first of the family, however, that at present we have any direct information * of was

BARNABY TOTTENHAM, Esq., (temp. Queen ELIZABETH,) who, on his marriage with Miss Handcock, dau. of — Handcock, Esq. of Bally Duff, co. Waterford, assumed that surname. His will is dated 15 July, 1632. Barnaby was s. by his son,

JOHN TOTTENHAM, who had issue,

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. Edward, who m. and had issue,
 1. John, of whom there is no account.
 2. Edward, who m. Bridget Cox, dau. of Jasper Cox, Esq.
- i. Mary, who m. John Brilsfords, Esq.
- ii. Anne, who m. Walter Atkin, Esq. of Roxborough, co. Cork, and had issue,
 1. John-Thomas Atkin.
 2. Mary Atkin.

John Tottenham must have been a man of some consequence, if we may judge from the fact of his leaving in his will, "his best coach and four horses to one of his daughters." His eldest son,

JOHN TOTTENHAM, Esq. of Bally Loskeran, co. Wexford, purchased that estate from Charles Collins, Esq., to whom it was granted by patent, dated 25 Nov. 1667. He m. and had issue, a dau., Anne, wife of Mr. Broome, and a son,

EDWARD TOTTENHAM, Esq. of Bally Loskeran, who m. Jane, dau. of Samuel Hayman, Esq. of Youghal, and was father of

CHARLES TOTTENHAM, Esq. M.P., of Bally Loskeran, now designated Tottenham Green, who m. Jane, dau. of John de Cliffe, son of John de Cliffe, (who was secretary to CROMWELL and Ireton, with whom he went over to Ireland, from Malton, in Herefordshire,) by Eleanor, dau. of Nicholas Loftus, and had issue,

- i. JOHN (Sir), Bart., ancestor of the noble house of Ely. (See BURKE'S Peerage.)
- ii. CHARLES, of New Ross, surveyor-general of Leinster, M.P., of whom presently, as the ancestor of the families of Ballycurry, Mockurrough, Woodville, &c. &c.
- iii. EDWARD, (the Rev.) who m. Dorothy, dau. of John Cox, Esq. of Coolcliffe, co. Wexford, by Mary, sister of Col. Walter Hore, of Harperstown. His will was proved 30 March, 1793, by which he bequeathed his estates to his brother, General Tottenham, who, on becoming possessor of them, made a deed of the same to his sister, Mrs. Darcy, and she bequeathed them to her dau., Mrs. Irvine.
- iv. Synge, of Fethard, co. Wexford, m. Mary, dau. of William Kingstone, Esq.
- v. Anthony-Loftus, a general in the army, and col. of the 55th regt. of foot, d. 20 March, 1811, at Wakefield, Yorkshire, aged 95, having had one dau., who d. unm.
- vi. Cliffe, of the co. Cork, who proved 16 July, 1773.
- i. Eleanor, m. Maurice-Howlin Darcy, Esq. of Coolure, co. Wexford, and had issue,
 1. Edward-Howlin Darcy, killed by the rebels in 1798, unm.
 1. Eleanor, m. Josiah Martin, Esq. of Ballingale, co. Wexford, and had four sons and four daus.
 2. Mary, m. the Rev. Isaac Bryan, rector of Horetown, co. Wexford, and had three sons and two daus.

* On this same day Sir Thomas made his will in the Tower, and gave to John, Lord Wenlock, the manor of Oxhurch, with those of Caldecote, Shingham, and Sparham, with the fourth part of the harony of Bedford, for life; but soon after his death these, with the rest of his inheritance, were delivered to his sister Margaret, Lady Bedingfeld.

* In the general massacre of protestants which took place in Ireland, 23 Oct., A. D. 1641, it is supposed that all the old records of this family perished in the flames.

3. Bridget, m. George St. George Irvine, Esq. of Newtownbarry, co. Wexford, and had two children, d. infants.
4. Catharine, m. John Clifford, Esq. of Castle Annesley, co. Wexford, and had four sons and four daus.
5. Barbara, m. Arthur Meadows, Esq. of Hermitage, co. Wexford, and had two daus.
6. Judith-Anne, m. Capt. John-Robert Saunders, of Saundersgrove, co. Wicklow; no issue.
- ii. Barbara, m. Ephraim Carrol, Esq. of Stephen's Green, Dublin, and had issue.
- iii. —, m. 29 May, 1766, the Rev. John Orr, of New Ross, and had issue.
- iv. Anne, m. the Rev. Joseph Rogers, and had issue.
- v. Mary, m. Richard Annesley, Esq., (who d. in 1798,) and had issue.

Charles Tottenham m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of John Grogan, Esq. of Johnstown Castle, co. Wexford, widow, 1st, of Major Andrew Knox, of Rathmacknee Castle, and 2ndly, of William Hore, Esq. of the Middle Temple. By this marriage he had no issue. This gentleman was long known by the name of "Tottenham in his Boots,"—a designation thus acquired, according to Sir Jonah Barrington, in whose most amusing memoirs mention is thus made of its origin:—

"Another custom in the House of Commons in Ireland gave rise to a very curious anecdote. The members of parliament formerly attended the House of Commons in full dress—an arrangement first broken through by the following circumstance: 'A very important constitutional question was debating between government and the opposition—a question, by-the-bye, at which my English readers will probably feel surprised—namely, as to the application of a sum of £60,000, then lying unappropriated in the Irish treasury, being a balance of the paying all debts and demands upon the country or its establishments. The numbers seemed to be nearly poised, although it had been supposed that the majority would incline to give it to the king, while the opposition would recommend laying it out upon the country, when the serjeant-at-arms reported that a member wanted to force into the house, undressed, in dirty boots, and splashed up to his shoulders. The speaker could not oppose custom to privilege, and was necessitated to admit him. It proved to be Mr. Charles Tottenham, of Tottenham Green, co. Wexford, covered with mud, and wearing a pair of huge jack boots! Having heard that the question was like to come on sooner than he had expected, he had (least he should not be in time) mounted his horse at Tottenham Green, set off in the night, ridden nearly sixty miles up to the Parliament House direct, and rushed in, without washing or chauging himself, to vote for the country. He arrived just at the critical moment, and critical indeed it was, for the numbers were, in truth, equal, and his casting vote gave a majority of one to the country party.

"This anecdote could not die while the Irish Parliament lived, and I recollect 'Tottenham in his Boots,' remaining down to a very late period a standing toast at certain patriotic Irish tables."

In memory of this conduct, a portrait of the honourable member was soon after printed by Stephens, in 1749, and engraved by Andrew Miller, in the attitude of ascending the steps of the Parliament House in Dublin, in his travelling dress; the original of which is now, it is believed, in the possession of the head of the house of Tottenham, the present Marquess of Ely, at Ely Lodge, Lough Erne, co. Fermanagh. The second son,

CHARLES TOTTENHAM, Esq., M.P., and fourth of Tottenham Green, was surveyor-general of the province of Leinster. He m. 1st, the Hon. Anne Loftus, second dau. of Nicholas, first Viscount Loftus of Ely, but without his lordship's consent. By this marriage he had issue,

I. CHARLES, his heir.

ii. Nicholas-Loftus, M.P. for Bannow, m. Mary, dau. of Sir James May, and d. in 1821, having had issue, two sons and three daus., viz.,

Lineage.

The Rev. Doctor Thomas Dunham Whitaker, in his learned history of the parish of Whalley and honor of Clitheroe, has bestowed elaborate pains in tracing the origin of the distinguished family of TOWNELEY, which, by a careful examination of ancient charters, he has been enabled to deduce (and he confirms his statement by documentary evidence of authority) from

SPARTLINGUS, first dean of Whalley, living about the year 896, when ALFRED reigned over England, whose son,

LIUWLFHUS CUTWHOLFE, dean of Whalley, was father of CUDWLFHUS, dean of Whalley, who was s. by his son, HENRICUS, senior, dean of Whalley, father of ROBERTUS, dean of Whalley, who had, (with three younger sons, Henry, William, and John,) GEOFFREY, who m. a daughter of Roger de Laci, constable of Chester, which Roger, by charter without a date, but between the years 1193, when he acceded to the estates of the Lacies, and 1211, when he died, granted to the said Geoffrey, son of Robert, the dean of Whalley, two bovates of land in Tunleia (Towneley) with their appurtenances, to erect a house thereon, when he pleased to hunt there, together with all manner of chase of wild beasts, &c. Geoffrey was s. by his son, another

GEOFFREY, dean of Whalley, who had two sons, Roger, the last dean of Whalley; and

* Sixth son of William Drummond, fourth Viscount Strathallan, who fell in the ranks of the CHEVALIER, at Culloden, and was included in subsequent act of attainder (BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

RICHARD DE TUNLAY, the first so designated, who was father of

PETER DE TUNLAY, or TOWNELEY, the first who is known to have used the present arms, viz., Arg. a fesse, sa., three mullets in chief, of the second. He was s. by

RICHARD DE TOWNELEY, who left two daus., viz.,

Agnes de Towneley, who m. John de Hargreave, and d. without issue.

CECILIA DE TOWNELEY, eventually sole heir.

The younger,

CECILIA DE TOWNELEY, m. John del Legh,* who died about the 4th EDWARD III., anno 1330, leaving a son,

GILBERT DEL LEGH, possessed of Towneley, 16th EDWARD III., who m. Alice, dau. of Robert Vernon, of Warforth, in Cheshire, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE LA LEGH, living in 1346, who m. Claria, dau. of Thomas Fenton, and was father of

RICHARD DE TOWNELEY, alias DE LA LEGH, who was appointed sheriff by John of Gaunt, in 1375, 1376, and 1377. His wife's name was Helen, and she was living in 1345. They had issue, three sons, and a dau., Alice, m. to Edmond Lennard, heir of Sir Thomas Dacre. The eldest son,

JOHN DE TOWNELEY, m. 1st, Isabel, dau. of William Rixton, by whom he had a son, RICHARD, his successor, and a dau., Matilda, the wife of William, son and heir of Sir John Flemiug. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of — Nagier, who d. without issue, about 3 HENRY IV., 1401. He d. himself in 1410, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE TOWNELEY, who d. in 1454, leaving, by Alice, his wife, a son and successor,

JOHN TOWNELEY, of Towneley, who m. 1st, Isabel, dau. of Nicholas Butler, Esq. of Rawcliffe, co. Lancaster, from whom he was divorced. He m. 2ndly, Isabel dau. of Richard Sherborne, Esq. of Stonyhurst, co. Lancaster, by whom he had issue,

- I. RICHARD (Sir), his successor.
- II. Laurence, of Barnside.
- III. Nicholas, ancestor of the Towneleys of Royle.
- IV. Henry, of Dutton.
- V. Barnard (Sir), LL.D.
- I. Grace, m. to Roger Nowell, of Read, living in 1468.

The son and heir,

SIR RICHARD TOWNELEY, who was knighted by Lord Stanley, at Hutton-Field, in Scotland, in 1481; he m. Jane, dau. of Richard Southworth, Esq. of Samlesbury, and had issue,

- I. JOHN (Sir), his successor.

- IV. Elizabeth, m. to Mr. John Cooke, of London.
- V. Margaret, m. to Nicholas Banastre, of Altham.

He m. 2ndly, in 1537, Anne, by whom (who m. for her second husband, Sir William Radcliffe, of Ordsall) he had

* Richard del Legh, of High Legh, co. Chester, was father of

AGNES DEL LEGH, who m. William Venables, and had a son, JOHN DEL LEGH, who assumed his mother's surname, but retained the arms of his father's family, adding a bend, gules, for distinction. He purchased Booths, in Cheshire, anno 1300, 28 EDWARD I. His third son, GILBERT DEL LEGH, was father of JOHN DEL LEGH, the husband of CECILIA TOWNELEY, as in the text.

no child, and d. in 1545. Sir John Towneley was an active, long-lived man, and memorable in his generation. He enjoyed the estate nearly sixty years, and augmented it by numerous purchases. He enclosed the park at Hapton, and built the tower; founded the chantry of St. Mary, at Burnley, and built the family choir. He erected also, or saw completed by his son and grandson, the domestic chapel at Towneley; lived to see the marriage of the latter with the heiress of Wymbish; avoided the pilgrimage of grace, which ruined many of his family; and d. at a good old age, about the year 1540. He was interred at Burnley, and s. by his son,

RICHARD TOWNELEY, Esq. of Towneley, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Foljambe, Esq. of Walton, co. Derby and had one son and four daus., viz.,

RICHARD (Sir), his heir.

Helen, m. to Robert Banister, Esq. of Park Hall.

Anne, m. to Mr. William Barcroft, of Lodge.

Benedicta, m. to Thomas Nowell, Esq. of Read.

Grace, m. to Hugh Halsted.

Mr. Towneley was s. by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD TOWNELEY, who was knighted at the siege of Leith, in Scotland. This gentleman m., in the lifetime of his grandfather, Frances, dau. and heir of Christopher Wymbish, Esq. of Nocton, co. Lincoln, and dying in 1554, left an only surviving child and heiress,

MARY TOWNELEY, of Towneley, who m. her cousin, JOHN TOWNELEY, Esq., and had issue seven sons and six daus. John Towneley was celebrated for the constancy of his adherence to the religion of his forefathers, for the sufferings and persecutions he endured, and the vast sums he paid into the exchequer, on account of his recusancy; all which are recorded in an inscription beneath a curious portrait of himself, his lady, and his children, preserved amongst the very interesting series of family portraits, from the reign of ELIZABETH to the present time, in the long gallery at Towneley. He d. in 1607, aged 79, and was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD TOWNELEY, Esq., who, through his mother, became "of Towneley." He was b. 29 April, 1566, and m. Jane, dau. of Ralph Asheton, Esq. of Leve, by whom (who d. in July, 1634, will dated 1633, buried at Burnley) he had issue to survive infancy,

- I. John, d. young.
- II. Richard, b. 16 April, 1598, d. at Lincoln, and buried at Nocton, 23 Dec. 1625, s. p.
- III. CHARLES, heir to his father.
- IV. Christopher, of Moorhills, b. 9 Jan. 1603, m. Alice, dau. of John Braddyll, Esq. of Porthfield, and widow of Richard Towneley, Esq. of Carr.

Mr. Towneley d. in Drury-lane, London, 29 Nov. 1628, and was buried in St. Clement's Church, Strand, will dated 1627. He was s. by his eldest surviving son,

CHARLES TOWNELEY, Esq. of Towneley, b. 22 April, 1600, slain at the battle of Marston-Moor, 2 or 3 July, 1644, and buried on the field. He m. Mary, dau. of Sir Francis Trappes, of Nidd, co. York, by whom (who d. in May, 1690, aged 91, and was buried at Burnley) he had issue four sons and three daus., of whom the eldest, Mary, m. Philip Constable, Esq. of Houghton. The eldest son and heir,

RICHARD TOWNELEY, Esq. of Towneley, b. in 1628, m. Margaret, dau. of Clement Paston, Esq. of Barningham, in Norfolk, and had by her (who d. 20 Jan. 1672) seven sons and six daus.: of the latter, Dorothy, m. Francis Howard, Esq. of Corby, and Frances, m. Cuthbert Kennet, Esq. of Coxhow. This gentleman, who attained distinction as a philosopher and mathematician, addressed some observations on an eclipse of the sun in a Latin letter to the royal astronomer, Flamstead. He was compelled, at the Restoration, in 1660, to sell the fine estate of Nocton, near Lincoln, which had come to the family with the heiress of Wymbish of Nocton, in order to repair the breaches made by sequestrations for recusancy and loyalty to the crown. He d. at York, of a mortification, in Jan. 1706-7, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

CHARLES TOWNELEY, Esq. of Towneley, b. 19 April, 1658, m. in 1685, Ursula, dau. of Richard Fermor, Esq. of Tusmore, co. Oxford, by whom he had issue,

- I. RICHARD, his successor.
- II. Charles, b. in 1690, and d. in 1713.
- III. John, b. in 1697. This gentleman, being destined to the study of the law, was placed in the office of the famous Salkeld, but having a passion for a military life, he entered the French service, and was present at the siege of Philipsburgh, 12 June, 1734. He was tutor to the Chevalier de St. George, and he distinguished himself in the literary world by a translation of Hudibras into French, displaying a most extraordinary knowledge of the stranger tongue, by adapting to its idiom the peculiar phraseology of that singular poem. He was honoured with the cross of St. Louis, and d. unm. in 1782, aged 85.

iv. George, b. in 1706, and d. in 1786.

v. Francis, b. in 1709. This gentleman, who joined the standard of CHARLES-EDWARD in 1745, was taken prisoner and executed in 1746. His head was placed on Temple Bar.

Mr. Towneley d. in 1711, and was buried at Burnley, 5 March, in that year. He was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD TOWNELEY, Esq. of Towneley, b. in 1687, m. the Hon. Mary Widdrington, dau. of William, Lord Widdrington, by whom (who d. and was buried at Burnley, in July, 1731) he had to survive infancy,

i. WILLIAM, his successor.

ii. JOHN, of Cornsay House, of whom hereafter, as successor to his nephew, EDWARD TOWNELEY-STANDISH, Esq., in the Towneley estates.

i. Mary-Catherine, b. in 1721, m. to Thomas Hornyold, Esq. of Blackmore Park, co. Worcester, and d. in 1762.

He d., was buried at Burnley, 18 Aug. 1735, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM TOWNELEY, Esq. of Towneley, b. in 1714. This gentleman m. Cecilia, dau. and sole heir of Ralph Standish, Esq. of Standish, by Lady Philippa Howard, dau. of Henry, sixth Duke of Norfolk, and had issue,

i. CHARLES, his successor.

ii. RALPH, who, upon inheriting his mother's estates, assumed the surname and arms of STANDISH. He was b. 18 June, 1739, and m. Henrietta, ninth dau. of Roger Strickland, Esq. of Catterick, co. York, but d. without issue, when the Standish property passed to his younger brother.

iii. EDWARD, who s. his brother Ralph, and assumed the surname and arms of STANDISH. Of this gentleman more presently, as successor to his eldest brother.

i. CECILIA, b. 30 July, 1741, m. 1st, to Charles Strickland, Esq. of Sizergh, and had, with junior issue, a son,

THOMAS STRICKLAND, who inherited, at the decease of his uncle, EDWARD TOWNELEY-STANDISH, Esq. the Standish estates.

Mr. Towneley d. at Bath, 2 Feb. 1741, and was s. by his eldest son,

CHARLES TOWNELEY, Esq., twenty-ninth Lord of Towneley from Spartingus, dean of Whalley, temp. ALFRED the Great. This accomplished gentleman, b. 1 Oct. 1737, was distinguished by his exquisite taste in the fine arts. During his lengthened residence in Rome, and his travels in Italy and Sicily, he expended great portion of his ample revenue in forming a collection of the choicest and best specimens of Greek and Roman sculpture that had ever been brought into England. He d. 3 Jan. 1805, and subsequently the directors of the British Museum, obtaining from parliament £20,000, purchased from the Towneley family, for that sum, the celebrated collection, now so well known as the "Towneley Marbles." Mr. Towneley dying unm., his estates devolved upon his only surviving brother,

EDWARD TOWNELEY-STANDISH, Esq. of Standish, who thus became likewise "of Towneley." He m. Anne, dau. of Basil-Thomas Eccleston, Esq. of Eccleston, but d. without issue, 28 March, 1807, when the Standish and Towneley properties separated; the former passing to his nephew, Thomas Strickland, Esq., and the latter reverting to his uncle,

JOHN TOWNELEY, Esq. of Cornsay House, who then became "of Towneley." This gentleman, b. 15 June, 1731, m. Barbara, fourth dau. of Edward Diccouson, Esq. of Wrightington, co. Lancaster, by whom (who d. 25 Dec. 1797) he had (with a dau., Barbara, b. 14 April, 1758, who m. in Aug. 1785, Sir William Stanley, Bart. of Hooton, and d. 5 Aug. 1836, without issue) a son and successor, (at his decease, 13 May, 1813,) the present PEREGRINE-EDWARD TOWNELEY, Esq. of Towneley.

TOWNSEND OF CASTLE TOWNSEND.

TOWNSEND, THE REV. MAURICE FITZGERALD, of Castle Townsend, co. Cork, m. 16 May, 1826, Alice-Elizabeth, only dau. of Henry Chute, Esq., and heiress of her maternal uncle, Henry Stevens, Esq. of Chevenage House, near Tetbury, co. Gloucester, and has issue, HENRY, Geraldine-Henrietta, and Alice-Gertrude. Mr. Townsend s. to the Castle Townsend estates and representation of this family on the decease of his brother, Col. John Townsend, in April, 1845.

Lineage.

This family claims descent from the ancient Norfolk House of Townsend. The first who settled in Ireland was a COLONEL RICHARD TOWNSEND, TOWNSEND, or TOWNSHEND,* (for in each of these ways was the name spelt at the time,) an officer in the army of the parliament during the wars previous to the Commonwealth. In 1646, he was present at the surrender of Pendennis Castle, in Cornwall, and on 3 Nov. of the following year, his regiment having, in the preceding June, been ordered to Ireland by the House of Commons, we find him commanding the main body of the army, under Lord Inchiquin, at the battle of Knocknecuss, near Mallow, co. Cork, Col. Gray and Blunt heading the left and right wings respectively. In this contest, the Irish, under Lord Taaffe, were defeated by the forces of the parliament, which thereupon voted Inchiquin their thanks, and £1000. Soon after, however, his lordship joined Taaffe and the Irish party against the Commons, whereupon the latter declared him a rebel, and ordered all their forces to leave him. Most of his officers seem to have gone with him at first, but Col. Townsend soon, with some others, wrote to the parliament, offering to return, and for this were imprisoned by Lord Inchiquin. It is probable, however, that they soon were enlarged, as it seems, that on Youghal being betrayed into Inchiquin's hands by Lieut. Johnson, (for which it is said he was made a colonel,) Col. Townsend, Col. Warren, and Col. Gifford were made prisoners, and carried to Cork, where they remained till 16 Oct. 1649, when they "were ordered to be disposed of into three several castles next day. Some of the officers of the town came to these gentlemen that night, and told them they were undone, unless they would stand by them, for they should else be slaves to the Irish. Upon which the three colonels replied, that if they would fetch for each of them a sword and pistols, they would live and die with them, which was done. And the guards perceiving them coming down stairs armed, cried, 'We are for you, too!' and from them they marched to the main guard, and they immediately declared with them." * * * * "They put out the next morning their major-general, Starling, and those few that dissented."* Shortly after the above occurrence, Colonel Townsend went round to New Ross, in the "Nonsuch" frigate, to see CROMWELL, and get assistance from him, to enable them to keep possession of Cork. A remonstrance and resolutions also were put forth by the army of Munster, in Cork, and signed, first by Col. Townsend, and then by the other officers of the district, the descendants of many of whom still remain in the country, such as Colonels Warden, Gifford, Reeves, Purdon, Hodder, &c. Colonel Townsend made several large purchases of land from time to time, for which he got three several patents, viz., in 1666, 1668, and 1679; the first being for Castle Townsend, (now the seat of the head of the family,) which he had purchased some time before. He was elected member of the Irish parliament for Baltimore, 10 April, 1661, and was appointed to command a troop of (Carbery) militia, in 1666, by the Duke of Ormonde, at Lord Orrery's instance. He was appointed high-sheriff of the county in 1671. Several brothers of Col. Townsend appear to have come over with him, but of these no male descendants now exist in the country. He d. in July, 1692, having had issue,

i. John, m. Lady Katherine Barry, second dau. of Richard, second Earl of Barrymore, by his 1st wife, Susan, dau. of Sir William Killigrew, Knt., and predeceased his father, leaving a son, Richard-Fitz-John, who d. young, and a dau., Susan, who m. Col. Redmond Barry, of Rathcormack.

ii. BRYAN, of whose line we treat.

iii. Francis, who left issue, now extinct in the male line.

* The Irish branches have kept to the first method of spelling. Previous to the ennobling of the English family, we find the name as frequently thus spelt as with the h; and according to Blomefield, the orthography of the old Townsend monuments at Rainham is similar. Spelling, however, in those times was not considered a matter of much importance; and it seems not improbable that Townsend is the more correct; hend being derived from hand, (Saxon, henden), or the Latin root, hendere, (only used in composition,) to take, to hold.

TREGONWELL OF ANDERSTON.

TREGONWELL, ST. BARBE, Esq. of Anderston, co. Dorset, and Ashington, co. Somerset, b. 6 August, 1782, s. his father, Lewis-Dimoke-Grosvenor Tregonwell, Esq., 18 Jan. 1832.

Lineage.

This family derives its surname from its ancient seat, Tregonwell, in Cornwall. Pollen, in his description of Cornishmen and manners, mentions the Tregonwells as of Bellarmine, and records that "they builded many places, and had many lands and manors before the Norman Conquest." Towards the close of the fifteenth century

TREGONWELL, of Tregonwell, had surviving issue,

HUBERT, his heir, whose descendants became extinct in the reign of King JAMES I. The co-heiresses marrying then, Bawden, Pollamounter, and Penpoll.

JOHN.

Alice, m. to — Southcoote.

The younger son,

JOHN TREGONWELL, who received his education at the college of Crantock, was an eminent civilian in the time of HENRY VIII., and employed by that monarch in suing his celebrated divorce from CATHERINE of Arragon. Dr. Tregonwell took a distinguished part in the theological discussions of his time, and held many important official appointments. In 1544, he was appointed by special commission, with others named therein, to preside in the Court of Chancery, during the absence of the Lord Chancellor, Sir Thomas Wriothesley, and in 1550 he was constituted one of the commissioners of the great seal, in consequence of the indisposition of the Lord Chancellor Rich. In 1552, he received the honour of knighthood, and was returned to parliament by the burgesses of Seaborough, and he was sheriff of Dorset and Somersetshires in 1554. In addition to those great and lucrative offices the king conferred upon him very extensive territorial grants, amongst others, the mitred abbey of Milton, in Dorsetshire, surrendered 11 March, 1539, by Abbot Bradley. In this abbey Sir John Tregonwell was interred in 1565, under an altar tomb of grey marble, bearing the following inscription:—*

"Here lyeth buried, Syr John Tregonwell, Knyght, Doctor of the Cyvill laws, and one of the Masters of the Chancerie, who died the VIII day of January, in the yere of our Lorde, 1565. Of whose soul God have m'cy."

Sir John m. 1st, — Kelloway, and 2ndly, Elizabeth Bruce. He had issue,

John, who appears to have d. unm.

THOMAS, who m. 1st, Lady Villiers, and 2ndly, Anne, dau. of Robert Martin, Esq. of Athelhampton. By the latter, (who m. subsequently Sir Oliver Wallop, Knt.) he left at his decease, in the lifetime of his father, a son,

JOHN, who inherited the estates.

Mary, m. to — Delalynde.

Sir John Tregonwell was s. by his grandson,

JOHN TREGONWELL, Esq., lord of the manor of Milton, who m. Anne, dau. of — Somaster, Esq. of Somborne, Hants, and (with two daus., Elizabeth and Anne, who both d. young) had a son, his successor, in 1585,

JOHN TREGONWELL, Esq. of Milton Abbey, who m. Katherine, youngest dau. of the Hon. Anthony Brown, eldest son of Sir Anthony Brown, first Viscount Montague, and had issue,

I. JOHN, who inherited Milton Abbey, b. in 1598, m. in 1624, Jane, third dau. of Sir Thomas Freke, and dying in 1677, left a son and successor,

JOHN TREGONWELL, Esq. of Milton Abbey, b. in 1625, high-sheriff for Dorsetshire in 1670, m. in 1652, Jane, dau. of Sir Robert Fenn, Knt., lord-mayor of London in 1638, and left at his decease, 29 Jan. 1680, an only surviving child,

MARY TREGONWELL, who m. 1st, in 1680, Francis Luttrell, Esq. of Dunster Castle, and 2ndly, (her 1st husband, who was a col. in King WILLIAM's army, dying in 1690,) SIR JACOB BANCKS, by whom she left at her death, in 1703, two sons,

John Bancks, who d. s. p. in 1724.

JACOB BANCKS, who inherited Milton and other estates of the Tregonwells. He d. s. p. in 1737.

II. THOMAS, of whom presently.

I. Mary, d. unm. in 1610.

II. Anne, b. in 1600, m. to — Gawen.

III. Katharine, b. in 1602, m. to William Frampton, Esq. of Moreton.

IV. Elizabeth, b. in 1605, m. to Robert Freyke, Esq. of Hilton.

Mr. Tregonwell, who was sheriff of Dorsetshire in 1604, 1615, and 1627, purchased the estate of Anderston, and erecting the mansion house in 1622, went to reside there on the marriage of his elder son. He was compelled under the Commonwealth to redeem his estate, by paying a composition of £3725, for deserting the parliament and dwelling in the king's quarters. During the civil war, himself and his elder son remained neuter, but his other son, Thomas, was in arms for the king. Upon that son he settled Anderston and the Abbs Court estate, in 1625. He d. in 1639, when Milton Abbey passed to his heir, JOHN TREGONWELL, Esq., and his second son became

THOMAS TREGONWELL, Esq. of Anderston. This gentleman, who was b. in 1603, m. in 1625, Dorothy, relict of Sir John Ryves, and dau. of the Hon. Henry Hastings, of Woodlands, second son of George, fourth Earl of Huntingdon, and had one son and four daus., viz.,

JOHN, his heir.

Dorothy, m. to — Chettle.

Westminster, and had an only son, JOHN, who d. young, in 1725. He m. 2ndly, Anna-Catharina, dau. of Captain Hill, and by her (who m. after his decease, Thomas Bartlett, Esq. of Holwell) had issue,

THOMAS, h's heir.

Anna-Catharina, m. to the Rev. Edward Napier.

Mary, m. to the Rev. Roe King.

Mr. Tregonwell d. in 1760, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS TREGONWELL, Esq. of Anderston. This gentleman, on the decease of Jacob Bancks, Esq., intestate, in 1737, laid claim to the estates of the Tregonwells, as heir to the said Jacob, through his mother, Mary Treg-onwell, and instituted a suit at law for the recovery of the same, against JOHN STRACHAN, Esq., the heir of Jacob Bancks, through his father, Sir Jacob Bancks, which suit, after protracted litigation, terminated thus, by the decision of the House of Lords. The manor of Milton was adjudged to Strachan, in consequence of Sir
Jacob Bancks having suffered a recovery; but the Cornish estate, called Tregonwell, not being harred, was declared to descend to Mr. Tregonwell's son and heir, (he himself being then dead,) LEWIS-DYMOKE-GROSVENOR TREGONWELL, Esq. Mr. Tregonwell m. 1st, Miss Sarah

Arthur, b. 15 May, 1827.

Henry-Hawkins, b. 24 March, 1830.

Harriet-Jane, m. 25 Jan. 1842, to John-Salusbury Trelawny, Esq., eldest son of Sir William-Salusbury Trelawny, Bart. of Harewood.

Mary.

Mr. Tremayne, who represented Cornwall in parliament, from 1806 to 1826, inherited the estates from his father, the Rev. Henry Hawkins Tremayne. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut., and served as sheriff of Cornwall in 1831.

Lincage.

From the manor of TREMAINE, in the parish of St. Martin, on the banks of Helford-Haven, this family derived at a very remote period its designation, and in the reign of EDWARD III. we find residing there PERYS TREMAINE, who, by his wife, Dame Opre Treskewys, was father of

JOHN TREMAINE, to whom, having no issue himself, s. his brother,

PERYS TREMAINE, who m. Onera Trevertea, and was grandfather of

THOMAS TREMAINE. This was the last resident of the family at Tremayne. He m. Isabella, dau. and sole heir of Trenchard, of Collacombe, in the parish of Lamer-ton, and removed in consequence to that estate, where his descendants flourished for more than three centuries. By the heiress of the Trenchards he had issue,

NICHOLAS, his successor.

Thomas, in holy orders, rector of Auton Giffard, in Devonshire, and canon of St. Peter's, Exeter.

The lady (Isabella Trenchard) surviving her husband, remarried with Sir John Dammerel, and acquired so much influence over her second lord, that he settled upon her and her heirs by Tremayne (she had no children by Dammerel) North Huish, Sydenham-Damerel, with other lands, and appointed her executrix by his will, dated before the feast of Simon and Jude, 1392. Thomas Tremayne was s. by his elder son,

NICHOLAS TREMAINE, who was s. by his son,

THOMAS TREMAINE, who m. Elizabeth Carew. In 1448, Edmund Lacy, Bishop of Exeter, granted licence unto this Thomas Tremayne and his wife, "that they might have divine service celebrated in their presence within the manor of Collacombe." They had issue a son and heir,

JOHN TREMAINE, of Collacombe, who m. a dau. of — Warr, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Richard, who was seated at Tregonnan, in the parish of St. Eue, in Cornwall, and was ancestor of

LEWIS TREMAINE, of Heligan, who commanded a regt. of foot for King CHARLES I., and was lieutenant-governor of Pendinnis Castle. This gallant person had two sons,

1. John (Sir), king's serjeant, and author of the "Pleas of the Crown," who d. issueless.

2. Charles, whose son,

LEWIS TREMAINE, m. Mary, dau. and co-heiress of Clotworthy, Esq. of Rashleigh and Clotworthy, in Devon, and was s. by his son, JOHN, who m. Grace, youngest dau. and co-heir of Henry Hawkins, Esq. of St. Austell, and left, with a dau., Grace, wife of Charles Rashleigh, Esq., younger brother of the house of Menabilly, a son,

THE REV. HENRY HAWKINS TREMAINE, of whom hereafter, as representative of the family at the decease of Arthur Tremayne, Esq. of Sydenham, in 1808.

Mr. Tremayne was s. by his elder son,

JOHN TREMAINE, of Collacombe, high-sheriff of Cornwall, 2 HENRY VII. (1485.) This gentleman m. Philippa, eldest dau. of Roger Grenville, of Stowe, in the same co., and had eight sons with as many daus.: the former were,

i. Roger, who d. s.p.

ii. Edmund, of whom Prince, in his Worthies of Devon, gives the following account:—"Being a younger brother, he became servant to Edward, Marquess of Exeter, and a great sufferer for his inviolable fidelity to his noble master; for when the Marquess of Exeter, and the Lady ELIZABETH, (afterwards Queen of England, of glorious memory,) were committed to the Tower in Queen MARY's days, upon an accusation of being privy to Wyatt's conspiracy, Mr. Edmund Tremayne was set on the rack, thereby to extort from him a confession of their guilt, (prisoners were oft examined about her, and some were put to the rack to try if they could be brought to accuse that lady;) wherein approving their innocency and his own fidelity, with invincible resolution, he was, upon the Lady ELIZABETH's advancement to the throne, made one of the clerks of her majesty's most honourable privy council. He had also an honorary salary settled upon him by the city of Exeter, for the good offices it had received and expected from him." He m. Eulalia, dau. of Sir John St. Leger, and had two sons, named Francis, who both d. issueless.

iii. DIGORY, eventual successor to the estates.

iv. Richard, (twin with John,) in holy orders, and an eminent divine. He was educated at Oxford, and became a fellow of Exeter College, in that university, which he retained until the accession of Queen MARY, when he was obliged, from his zeal for the Reformation, to seek an asylum in Germany, having been deprived of his fellowship. Upon the elevation of ELIZABETH to the throne, he returned from exile, and visiting his college, had the honour of receiving both degrees of divinity at once, on 15 Feb. 1565. Dr. Tremayne subsequently removed to Gates Hall, and thence passed within a short period into his own county, being instituted canon-residentary of St. Peter's, Exeter, and treasurer of that church. He was esteemed in his time a famous preacher, and he is styled by Carew, "Well born, learned, and well beloved." He m. Joan, eldest dau. of Sir Piers Courtenay, of Ugbrook, but d. s.p. in 1584.

v. John, twin with his brother, Doctor Tremayne.

vi. Nicholas, } twins; between these brothers so great a resemblance subsisted, as scarcely to have been paralleled in any other instance. Ridsen, in his survey of Devon, relates some singular facts regarding them.*

viii. Robert, who d. an infant.

The two elder sons, Roger and Edmund, dying issueless, the estates eventually devolved upon the third son,

DIGORY TREMAINE, Esq., who thus became of Collacombe, and was s. by his son,

ARTHUR TREMAINE, Esq. of Collacombe. This gentleman m. in 1586, Mary, dau. of Sir Richard Greville, Knt. of Stowe, by whom he had a numerous family, and dying in 1634, was s. by his eldest son,

EDMUND TREMAINE, Esq. of Collacombe, who m. Bridget, dau. of Sir John Cooper, of Dorsetshire, and had issue,

* Upon the monument of these extraordinary brothers, the following lines are engraved:—

"These liken'd twins, in form and fancy one,

Were like affected, and like habit chose:

Their valour at Newhaven siege was known,

Where both encounter'd fiercely with their foes;

There one of both sore wounded lost his breath,

And t' other slain, revenging brother's death."

TRE

John, } both d. unm.
Thomas, }

JOHN, one of the most gallant and devoted of the cavaliers in the unfortunate civil wars. He endured much personal suffering and great losses by his fidelity to his royal master, and d. in the lifetime of his father, anno 1664. Edmund, like his brother, a distinguished and faithful adherent of King CHARLES I. He d. unm. in 1667.

ARTHUR.

The youngest son, eventually inheriting the estates, became

ARTHUR TREMAYNE, Esq. of Collacombe. This gentleman was a colonel in the army. He m. Bridget, dau. of Nicholas Hatherleigh, Esq. of Lamerton, and was father of

EDMUND TREMAYNE, Esq. of Collacombe, who m. Arabella, dan. and sole heiress of Sir Edward Wise, K.B., of Sydenham, co. Devon, (by Arabella, dau. and co-heir of Oliver, Lord St. John,) by whom he had issue, ARTHUR, his successor; Edward-Wise, who appears to have d. issueless; Arabella; and Bridget. Mr. Tremayne was s. by his eldest son,

ARTHUR TREMAYNE, Esq. of Sydenham, who m. Grace, dau. of Sir Halsewell Tynte, Bart. of Halswell, and was s. by his son,

ARTHUR TREMAYNE, Esq. of Sydenham. This gentleman m. Miss Hammond, of Wiltshire, and left an only child,

ARTHUR TREMAYNE, Esq. of Sydenham, b. in 1775, who dying unm. in Dec. 1808, devised the principal estates of the family to

THE REV. HENRY HAWKINS TREMAYNE, b. 27 July, 1741, the lineal heir, and after the decease of the said Arthur, representative of the ancient house of Tremayne, (refer to issue of Richard, second son of John Tremayne, of Collacombe, by the dau. of — Warr.) Mr. Hawkins Tremayne m. in 1767, Harriet, dau. and co-heir of John Hearle, Esq. of Penryn, sometime vice-warden of Cornwall Stannaries, and left (at his decease, 10 Feb. 1829) an only son, the present JOHN-HEARLE TREMAYNE, Esq. of Heligan and Sydenham.

Family of Trenchard of Dorset and Wilts.

Baldwin de Ripariis, Earl of Devon, granted Hordhill, in the Isle of Wight, unto PAGANUS TRENCHARD and his heirs; unto which deed are witnesses, amongst others, Robert, Alexander, and Hugh Trenchard, grandsons of Paganus Trenchard. This Baldwin lived in the time of King HENRY I. His son and heir,

WILLIAM TRENCHARD, was witness to a deed of Galfridus de Insula, concerning some lands in Schaldflint, time of King HENRY I. He had three sons, of whom the eldest,

ROBERT TRENCHARD, is witness to a grant made to the commons of Christchurch by Richard de Redvers, Earl of Devon, which earl d. 8 King HENRY II. (1161.) He was also a witness unto the grant of Galfridus de Insula, son of Jordan de Insula, made to the abbey of Quarrara, in the Isle of Wight, of his mill of Schaldflint. He had a son and successor,

HENRY TRENCHARD, of Hordhill, who is a witness to the grant of William de Rivers, (called Vernon,) Earl of Devon, made to the abbey of Quarrara, in the Isle of Wight, of the service of eighty-eight acres of land in his manor of Welford; unto which grant, Mabel, Countess of Devon, was also a witness, which Mabel d. 8 King JOHN. Henry Trenchard had issue three sons, HENRY, Baldwin, and William. The eldest,

SIR HENRY TRENCHARD, Knt., confirmed to Walter le Francois land in Lingwood, which Henry, his father, had formerly granted. To his grant unto Carlton is annexed his seal-manual. This Henry Trenchard, Knt., m. the dau. and heiress of Walerand, and left two sons and a dau. The elder son,

JOHN TRENCHARD, of Hordhill, granted to Walerand, his brother, a tenement adjoining Schaldflint. He left issue, I. JOHN, of Hordhill; and II. Walerand, whose great-grandson, Egidius, left a dau. and heiress, who m. John Depden. The elder son,

JOHN TRENCHARD, of Hordhill, m. Margaret —, who released the part of her dowry unto Walerand Trenchard, by deed dated 13 King EDWARD II. He was s. by his son,

RICHARD TRENCHARD, who by deed, dated 17 King EDWARD II., and by another deed, dated 22 King EDWARD II., granted, together with Henry Trenchard, son of John, and brother to Richard, a plaid of land in Schaldflint unto Adam Gunibald, vicar of Schaldflint. The manor of Schaldflint was entailed by fine unto Henry Trenchard and Eleanor, his wife, and the heirs of their bodies, 4 King EDWARD II. Richard m. and left issue,

RICHARD TRENCHARD, called le Grandiver, living temp. HENRY III., who m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Damarell, Kut. of Hinton, and left a son,

JOHN TRENCHARD, who m. Sibella, dau. and co-heir of William Moleins, by Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Robert Cotes, of Fairoke, co. Somerset, and relict of William Walleis, by whom he left a son,

RICHARD TRENCHARD, who left, by Margaret, his wife, who m. 2ndly, Robert Dingle, a son,

HENRY TRENCHARD, who s. his elder brother Baldwin. This Henry recovered lands in the Isle of Wight, at an assize held at Winton, 3 King HENRY VI. He had a son,

HENRY TRENCHARD, of Hordhill, who m. Christiana, dau. and heiress of John Mohun,* Esq. of Ham Mohun, by Joanua, dau. and heir of John Jordau, Esq. of Wolverton, and thus acquired Wolverton and Ham Mohun. Henry Trenchard's name is found in deeds, dated 39 King HENRY VI., and also 15 King EDWARD IV., shortly after which time he died. By his marriage he brought a great addition of estate, and had a son and successor,

SIR JOHN TRENCHARD, Knt. of Wolverton, high-sheriff in 1509, who m. 1st, Margarita, dau. of John Wyke, of Byndon, Devon, who d. s. p.; and 2ndly, Eleanor, dau. of John Philole, of Woodland, Dorset, by whom he had issue,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

- I. THOMAS, his heir.
- II. John (Sir), Knt. of Bloxworth, who was sworn one of his majesty's principal secretaries of state, and of the privy council, 23 March, 1692-3. He had been engaged deeply with the Duke of Monmouth, and was at dinner with Mr. W. Speke, at Ilminster, when intelligence arrived of the defeat of his Grace's army, at Sedgemoor. Mr. Trenchard immediately mounted his horse, and advised Mr. Speke to do the same, lest he should be seized and hanged for his attachment to the duke. Mr. Trenchard fled to Litchet; but instead of going to his house, concealed himself in the lodge of the park belonging to the keeper, whom he sent to secure him a passage on board a vessel at Weymouth. Tradition says, at the moment he was embarking, his friend Speke was hanging before his own door at Ilminster. He subsequently became the confidential friend of King WILLIAM, and on the accession of that monarch, was made chief justice of Chester. He m. monarchy." This production attracted attention, and by the conviction it carried, contributed greatly to the procuring a majority in the parliament, which obliged the king, though with the utmost reluctance, to send home his Dutch guards, and reduce the army to a moderate standard. Several occasional pamphlets, as various state occurrences arose, came from his pen, and met with a flattering reception from the public. But his two most distinguished works were, "Cato's Letters," and "The Independent Whig." The object at which the former pointed was the administration in state; the latter was directed against the hierarchy of the church. They both made their appearance in 1720. Mr. Trenchard represented the borough of Taunton in parliament, and was a leading member of the House of Commons. He m. He s. to the estates upon the decease of his father, and served the office of sheriff of Cornwall in 1804.

Lineage.

This family is of remote antiquity, and can deduce authentically its pedigree from the time of EDWARD II.

SIR JOHN TREVANION, Knt., Lord of Trevanion, was M.P. for Lostwithiel, in the reign of EDWARD III. He

* Her sister m. Henry Long, Esq. of Melksham.

† Mr. Hosier, with the whole of his family, except two daus., namely, Marianne, the wife of Lieut.-Gen. Sharpe, of Stodding Castle, N.B., and the above-mentioned Charlotte, was lost in the "Grosvenor" East Indiaman.

m. Johanna, dau. and heiress of Stephen de Beaupré, or Belloprato, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT TREVANION, of Trevanion, who m. the dau. and heiress of Arehdekne, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT TREVANION, of Trevanion, who m. Johanna, dau. of Otho Arundel, of Tremblith, and was father of

ROBERT TREVANION, of Trevanion, who by his wife, the dau. and heiress of Carminowc, left a son and successor,

ROBERT TREVANION, of Trevanion. This feudal lord m. Johanna, dau. and heiress of Rodolph Arundell, of Caerhayes, and obtained thereby that estate, which has continued since the chief residence of the family. The son and heir of this marriage,

THOMAS TREVANION, took up his abode at Caerhayes, his maternal inheritance. He m. Matilda, dau. and co-heiress of John Petit, of Ardevora, and was s. by his son,

JOHN TREVANION, of Caerhayes, living 22 EDWARD IV. He m. Jennet, dau. of Thomas Trefry, of Fowey, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM TREVANION, of Caerhayes, who received the honour of knighthood, and was sheriff of Cornwall in 1502, which office he served again in 1508. He m. Anne, dau. of Sir Richard Edgecombe, Knt. of Cothele, in Cornwall, by whom he had two sons and a dau., viz.,

HUGH (Sir), his heir.

John, who was seated at Trevalster, and m. a dau. of — Holland, by whom he was father of JOHN, of Trevalster, who by Maria, his wife, dau. of John Somaster, of the co. Devon, left three daus., his co-heirs, namely, Maria, m. to Richard Trefusis, Esq., ancestor to Lord Clinton.

Johanna, m. to William Bligh, Esq.

Alicia, m. to Nicholas Boseawen, Esq.

Jane, m. to Reginald Mohun, Esq. of Hull.

Sir William was s. by his eldest son,

SIR HUGH TREVANION, of Caerhayes. This gallant person was the particular favourite of his grandfather, Sir Richard Edgecombe, with whom he encountered many dangers, in the time of RICHARD III. He fought under the banner of the Earl of Richmond, at Bosworth, and received the high martial honour of knight-hannet, for his brave deportment in that memorable field. The sword with which he was confirmed is still to be seen in the church of St. Michael's, Caerhayes. He is stated to have been the abettor of Edgecombe, in the pursuit of their fallen opponent, Sir Henry de Bodrigan, and to have shared in the division of the lands of that unfortunate gentleman. Sir Hugh m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Lewis Pollard, and had three sons, viz.,

Richard, m. to Margaret, dau. and co-heiress of Thomas Chamond, of Tregarthian, and relict of Arundell, of Talvarne, by whom he had issue,

1. Hugh, of Trelegan, who m. Amiam, dau. and heir of Thomas Mayo, of Lostwithiel, and was s. by his son,

HUGH, of Trelegan, living in 1620, who was s. by his son,

HUGH, of Trelegan, who died one of the poor Knights of Windsor, without issue, and with him the branch of Trelegan ceased.

2. Richard, of Tregarthian, m. Maria, dau. of Henry Rolle, of Heanton, in Devonshire, and was s. by his son.

NATHANIEL, whose representative,

RICHARD, was living at Tregarthian in the beginning of the last century. He m. Miss Bond, of Earb, and had an only dau., —, who m. Peter Major, Esq. of Fowey, whose heiress m. John Goodhall, and her representative is the present JOHN TILLEY CORYTON, Esq. of Pentillie Castle.

3. William, who inherited from his mother the manor of Tregadder, and his only dau. and heiress marrying John Gerveys, was ancestor of the Rev. Richard Gerveys Grylls, of Helston.

Sir Hugh Trevanion was s. by his eldest son,

SIR HUGH TREVANION, Knt. of Caerhayes, who m. Syhilla, dau. of Sir Thomas Morgan, and sister to the wife of Henry Carey, first Lord Hunsdon, and had, (with three elder sons, who d. unm.)

CHARLES, his successor.

Anne, m. to John Killiowe, of Lansallos.

Beatrice, m. to John Trelawny.

Elizabeth, m. to Robert Carey, Earl of Monmouth, fourth son of Henry, first Lord Hunsdon. In the memoirs of this nobleman, written by himself, and published by John, Earl of Cork and Orrery, he says, "I married a gentlewoman, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Hugh Trevanion, more for her worth than her wealth; for her estate was but £500 a-year jointure. She had between five and six hundred pounds in her purse. Neither did she marry me for any great wealth, for I had in all the world but £100 a-year out of the Exchequer as a pension, and that was but during pleasure, and I was near a thousand pounds in debt; besides the queen (ELIZABETH, his first cousin) was mightily displeased with me for marrying, and most of my best friends, only my father was no ways offended at it, which gave me great content." For a further account of this nobleman, see BURKE's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

Sir Hugh was s. by his only surviving son,

CHARLES TREVANION, Esq. of Caerhayes, vice-admiral of Cornwall. This gentleman m. Johanna, dau. and heiress of — Witehahse, Esq. of the co. Devon, by whom he was father of a dau., Catherine, who d. unm., and a son, his successor,

SIR CHARLES TREVANION, Knt. of Caerhayes, M.P. and high-sheriff of co. Cornwall, temp. CHARLES I., who m. Amia, eldest dau. of Sir John Mallet, of Enmore, and had a son,

JOHN, b. in 1613, who m. Mary, youngest dau. of John Arundel of Trerice, one of the faithful adherents of King CHARLES I., and sister of Richard, first Lord Arundel of Trerice, by whom (who m. 2ndly, Sir John Arundel, of Lanharne) he left at his decease, being slain before Bristol, a son,

CHARLES, successor to his grandfather.

Sir Charles was s. at his decease by his grandson,

CHARLES TREVANION, Esq. of Caerhayes. This gentleman m. one of the daus. and co-heirs of Sir Adam Drummond, Knt., and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN TREVANION, Esq. of Caerhayes, living in 1738, m. 1st, Anne, dau. and co-heiress of Sir Francis Blake, of Northumberland, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, in 1726, Barbara, dau. of William, fourth Lord Berkeley of Stratton, by whom he had,

WILLIAM, his successor.

FRANCES, co-heir to her brother, m. to John Bettesworth, Esq., LL.D., of an ancient Sussex family, and had issue,

JOHN BETTESWORTH, who eventually inherited Caerhayes.

SOPHIA, co-heir to her brother, m. to Admiral the Hon. John Byron, second son of the fourth Lord Byron, and had, with several daus., two sons, viz.,

1. John, an officer in the army, who m. 1st, Baroness Conyers, and had an only dau.,

AUGUSTA, m. in 1807, to John Leigh, Esq., lieutenant-col. of the 14th dragoons.

Captain Byron m. 2ndly, Miss Gordon, a Scottish heiress, allied to the blood royal of Scotland, by whom he had an only son, the immortal

GEORGE GORDON, LORD BYRON.

2. George-Anson, a captain in the R.N., m. Henrietta, dau. of Robert Dallas, Esq., and had a son,

GEORGE-ANSON, a captain in the R.N., who s. his cousin, and is the present LORD BYRON.

Mr. Trevanion was s. at his decease by his son,

WILLIAM TREVANION, Esq. of Caerhayes, M.P. for the borough of Tregony in 1753. This gentleman d. without issue in 1767, when his sisters inherited the estates as co-heirs, Caerhayes &c., devolving upon the elder,

FRANCES BETTESWORTH, who was s. by her son,

JOHN BETTESWORTH, Esq. of Caerhayes, who m. Frances, dau. of — Tomkins, Esq., of the co. Pembroke, and had issue,

JOHN-TREVANION-PURNELL, his heir.

George, a captain in the R.N., who d. of wounds received in battle, with the reputation of a brave and enterprising officer. He m. Lady Hannah Grey.

Henry, captain in the Royal Cornwall militia.

VI. Arthur-Sampford.

VII. Howard.

I. Frances, d. young.

II. Frances-Anne.

III. Eliza.

Lineage.

This family obtained the name of Tripp, temp. HEN. V. Its coat of arms is painted and emblazoned on an ancient escutcheon belonging to the present Dr. Tripp. Underneath the shield is the following inscription:—"This atchievement was given unto my Lord Howard's 5th son at the Siege of Bullogne; King Harry the 5th being there, ask'd how they took the Town and Castle, Howard answer'd 'I Tripp'd up the walls;' saith his Majesty, 'Tripp shall be thy name, and no longer Howard,' and Honoured him with the scaling Ladder for his Bend."*

That this family resided in Somersetshire, and had landed property in that county for many generations, appears from a great number of old parchment deeds, in the possession of Dr. Tripp. The oldest which has at present been found, is in the reign of HENRY VIII., and relates to the estate of East Brent, which has only lately been sold, and which must therefore have been in this family from that time at least, and perhaps before. Relating to the same estate of East Brent there are several deeds in the succeeding reigns, and a marriage settlement of the time of CHARLES II., in which East Brent, Shipham, and Newhay, are mentioned as family property.

* JAMES II., in his Autobiography, mentions Mr. Tripp and Mr. Howard, conjointly aiding his escape, when Duke of York, from Hampton Court, after the death of CHARLES I.

JOHN TRIPP, Esq. of Shipham and Hunstpill, co. Somerset, living in the reigns of WILLIAM and MARY, and ANNE, m. twice: by his first wife he had issue,

TROTTER OF MORTONHALL.

TROTTER, RICHARD, Esq. of Mortonhall, Mid-Lothian, and Charterhall, co. Berwick, b. 23 March, 1797; m. 21 Sept. 1836, Mary, dau. of Gen. Sir John Oswald, G.C.B. of Dunnikier, co. Fife, by his wife, Charlotte, dau. of the Very Rev. Lord Charles Murray-Aynsley, Dean of Bocking, who was son of John, third Duke of Athol, and by her had issue,

- i. HENRY, b. 5 Jan. 1844.
- i. Charlotte-Athol-Mary.
- ii. Margaret-Catherine.

Mr. Trotter is a justice of the peace for Mid-Lothian and Berwickshire. He s. his uncle, Henry Trotter, Esq., 12 March, 1838.

Lineage.

"It is," says Sir Robert Douglas, "the opinion of some authors that the Trotters are descended of the noble and ancient family of the Giffards, because they have been in the habit of quartering the arms of that family with their own; and the traditional account of their origin is, that a brother of the Lord Giffard having got a message from King JAMES III. to repair to his court without delay, he made such haste on a hard trotting horse, that he was with his majesty much sooner than could have been expected; and being asked how he came so quickly? he answered that he had trotted on as fast as the beast could carry him; upon which he had the surname of Trotter assigned him, &c. But if this was the origin of their surname, that event must have happened long before this era, for there were many of the surname of Trotter, in Scotland, before King JAMES III. succeeded to the crown. It is therefore probable that some of the family of Trotter have married a daughter of the house of Giffard, and have thereupon added the arms of that family to their own."

The immediate ancestor of this family was

THOMAS TROTTER, who lived in the reigns of Kings ROBERT II. and III., and appears to have been the proprietor of the lands of Foulshaw, Catchelraw, Kinnhill, &c. in Berwickshire. He d. in the beginning of the reign of King JAMES I., and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM TROTTER, designed of Catchelraw, who lived in the reigns of Kings JAMES I. and II., and was one of the captains for keeping the peace on the borders, anno 1437, and again in 1450. He m. Isabel Trotter, a dau. of the family of Prentannan, a near cousin of his own, and d. in the beginning of the reign of King JAMES III., leaving issue a son,

THOMAS TROTTER, of Catchelraw, who s. him, and, in the year 1490, m. Jean Hepburn, a dau. of the ancient family of Wauchton, who were superiors of part of his lands. By her he had a son and successor,

ROBERT TROTTER, of Catchelraw, b. in 1518, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Sinclair, of Longformacus, by whom he had three sons,

- i. THOMAS, his heir.
- ii. Robert, who m. the heiress of Rowchester, with whom he got that estate.
- iii. William, who was bred a merchant, and became Burgess, guild brother, and treasurer of the city of Edinburgh.

He d. in the reign of Queen MARY, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS TROTTER, of Catchelraw, who got a charter under the great seal from Queen MARY, dated 25 Feb. 1553. He left issue several sons,

- i. ROBERT, his heir, whose son, George, d. s. p.
- ii. JOHN, first of the family of Mortonhall, of whom we treat.
- iii. George, who was a writer to the signet, and having lived to a great age, acquired a considerable estate.

The second son,

JOHN TROTTER, b. in 1553, being a younger brother, was bred a merchant, and acquired by commerce a vast estate, particularly the lands and barony of Mortonhall which has continued ever since to be the chief title of his family. He m. Janet, eldest dau. of David Macmath, of that ilk, an ancient family in Dumfriesshire, by whom he had five sons and four daus. He was a great loyalist, and most sincerely attached to the interest of King CHARLES. He d., aged 81, in 1641, and was s. by his eldest son, JOHN TROTTER, second baron of Mortonhall, who was served heir to his father in 1641. He was also a steady loyalist, and was fined £500 sterling by the parliament, in 1645, for assisting the Marquess of Montrose, &c. Mervyn-Henry, b. 23 April, 1840.

Frederick-St. Clair, b. 15 March, 1843.

Adelaide-Elizabeth.

Mr. Trotter is a magistrate for Downshire.

Lineage.

This family claims to derive from ALEXANDER RUTHVEN, a scion of the great and ennobled Scottish house of Gowrie, who being at Perth when the Earl of Gowrie, his kinsman and chief, was slain, was involved in the ruin of his family, and in 1602 fled to England, where he settled himself in the co. Durham, assuming his wife's surname, that of TROTTER. Here, on the banks of the Skerne, he purchased lands, and erected a residence, which still retains the name of Trotter. He d. in 1621, leaving a son,

JAMES TROTTER, Esq., who m. Anne Hylton, of Preskrigg, granddan. of Sir Adam Hylton, of Hylton Castle, co. Durham, and d. in 1637, having had three sons, Alexander, JOHN, and James. The second son,

JOHN TROTTER, b. in 1619, who was bred to the profession of medicine, m. Jane Willson, dau. of a clergyman at Auckland, and thereby so displeased his elder brother, that a sudden dispute arose, in which Alexander received a hurt, from which he died soon after. John fled to the Isle of Man, and thence, with his wife and an infant son, SAMUEL, b. in 1668, went over to Ireland, to Mourne, where he d. in 1680. The above-named SAMUEL TROTTER, was father of JOHN TROTTER, Esq., who m. Miss Savage, and dying at Downpatrick in 1770, left, with three daus., five sons, Edward, Southwell, Savage, John, and WILLIAM. The youngest,

WILLIAM TROTTER, Esq. of Downpatrick, d. there in April, 1794, leaving, with a dau., four sons, JOHN, capt. 15th foot; William-Henry; Edward, lieut. R.N.; and CLIFFORD, now of Charleville Cottage.

Lineage.

The family of Trye is of French extraction, deriving its name from a town in Normandy, but it has been eminent in Gloucestershire for many generations. In the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries the Tryes ranked among the highest orders of French nobility, and filled the most important offices in church and state. We find, temp. EDWARD II., Matthew de Try, marshal of France, rendering homage to that monarch for lauds in Ponthieu, and in 3 HENRY IV., Sir James de Try taken prisoner and brought to England.

REGINALD or RAULIN TRYE, the first of the name resident in Gloucestershire, m. in 1380, Margaret, dau. and heiress of Thomas de Berkeley, and thereby acquired the lordship of Alkington, in the parish of Berkeley. His son and successor,

JOHN TRYE, who m. in 1449, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Almeric Boteler-a-park, and in her right inherited the manors, advowsons, and estates of Hardwicke and Haresfield, co. Gloucester, for which shire he served the office of high-sheriff 27 HENRY VI. His son and heir,

WILLIAM TRYE, of Hardwicke, m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Baynham, and had (with another son, John, mayor of Gloucester in 1483, and twice representative for that city in parliament) a son and successor,

WILLIAM TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke, who m. Isabella, second dau. of James, Lord Berkeley, by Isabel, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Mowbray, first Duke of Norfolk, and had a son,

EDWARD TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke. This gentleman m. Sybil, dau. and co-heir of Sir Simon Milborne, of the co. Hereford, and relict of Sir Thomas Monington. He was s. at his decease by his son,

JOHN TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke, who m. Mary, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Gourney, of Letterington, co. Suffolk, and upon the demise of Lady Jane Grey, one of the co-heirs of Charles Brandon, the celebrated Duke of Suffolk,* the brother-in-law and favourite of HEN. VIII. By this lady he had a son and successor,

JOHN TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke, who m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Sir William Skipwith, Knt. of Ormesby, M.P. for Lincolnshire, 6 EDWARD VI., by Elizabeth, only dau. and heiress of the Right Hon. Sir Richard Page, Knt. of Beechwood, Herts, and 2ndly, a sister of Sir James Crofts. He was s. at his decease by his son,

WILLIAM TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke. This gentleman m. Mary, dau. of Sir Edward Tyrrel, of Thorntou, in Bucks, and, through that marriage, the family of Trye became founders' kin at All Souls' College, Oxford. Mr. Trye was slain in a quarrel at Gloucester, in 1610, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke, who m. Anne, dau. of William Vincent, Esq. of Acton, co. Middlesex, and left, with other issue, a son,

THOMAS TRYE, Esq., who m. Annah, dau. and co-heir of Richard Jones, Esq. of Hanham, co. Gloucester, and was father of

WILLIAM TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke, who represented the city of Gloucester in parliament. He m. Mary, dau. of — Horne, Esq. of Horne Castle, and had a son and heir,

THOMAS TRYE, Esq. of Hardwicke. This gentleman m. Mary, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Norwood, of Leckhampton Court, co. Gloucester, and had issue, TURBERVILL OF EWENNY ABBEY.

TURBERVILL, RICHARD-TURBERVILL, Esq. of Ewenny Abbey, co. Glamorgan, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. of that shire. Mr. Turbervill s. to the estates at the decease of his father, and has served as high-sheriff of Glamorganshire.

Lineage.

The ancient and knightly family of Turbervill, the most powerful of the Norman houses established in Glamorganshire, were, previously to their advent into that county, Lords of Crig Howell, in Brecknockshire, which they obtained at the conquest of Brecknock, from Sir Bernard Newmarch, the Norman knight, who in the early part of WILLIAM RUFUS's reign, entered Brecknockshire, and won the lordship from its possessor, Bleddyn ap Maenyrch, a Welsh Prince.

SIR PAYN DE TURBERVILL was one of the twelve knights who accompanied Sir Robert Fitz Hammon to the aid of Jestin ap Gurgant, King of Glamorgan, against Rhese, Prince of South Wales, about the year 1090. Subsequently, on the death of Rhese, Fitz Hammon, turning his forces against Jestin, and conquering his whole dominion, divided it amongst his followers. To the share of Sir Payn de Turbervill were allotted the castle and lordship of Coyty, and he confirmed his right by marrying the heiress of the last possessor, a descendant of Jestyn ap Gurgant. Sir Payn had three sons, and was s. by the eldest, SIR SIMON TURBERVILL, Knt., from whom derived the TURBERVILLES of Coyty Castle and Tythegstone, (see p. 930.)

THOMAS TURBERVILL, Esq. of Llantwitt Major, Glamorganshire, second son of Richard Turbervill, Esq. of Tythegstone, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of John ap Rces ap Jenkin, m. Catherine, dau. of Thomas Bewdrip, Sen. of Penmark, and widow of John Van, Esq., and left a son and heir,

Coyty Castle, and widow of Jenkin Thomas, Esq., by whom he had a son,

THOMAS, his heir, of Llantwitt Major, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Robert Stradling, Esq., second son of Sir Edward Stradling, Knt. of St. Donats Castle, (see BURKE's History of the Extinct and Dormant Baronetcies), and left, with a dau., Catherine, a son and successor,

EDMOND TURBERVILL, Esq. of Llantwitt Major, who m. Catherine, dau. and heir of Watkin-Thomas-John Watkin, Esq., and had an only dau. and heir, CECIL, m. to LTJED NICHOLL, Esq.

He m. 2ndly, Agnes, dau. of Howell Carne, Esq. of Nash, and had by her another son,

Edward, of Suttun, great-grandfather of Edward, of Suttun, who m. one of the daus. and co-heirs of John Carne, Esq. of Ewenny, in Glamorganshire, and had a son, Richard, of Ewenny Abbey, sheriff of Glamorganshire in 1740, and M.P. for that co. in 1767. He d. s. p., and settled his property upon Richard-Turbervill Pieton, Esq. of Poyston, in Pembroke-shire.

RICHARD-TURBERVILL PICTON, Esq., who thus s. to Ewenny, assumed, by sign-manual, the surname and arms of TURBERVILL. He was son of Thomas Pieton, Esq. of Poyston, co. Pembroke, and the descendant of a respectable Welsh family. Mr. Turbervill Turbervill m. Elizabeth, eldest dan. and co-heir of the late Rev. Gervas Powell,* of Llanharan House, co. Glamorgan, rector of Llanvegan and Merthyr Tydvil, chaplain to the Bishop of Bangor, and justice of the peace, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of Charles Vaughan, Esq. of Skethrog, co. Brecknock, and had issue,

RICHARD-TURBERVILL, the present possessor of Ewenny Abbey.

 - i. Ellen.
 - ii. Cecilia.

The youngest son,

SIR EDMUND TURNOR, was b. 14 May, 1619. This gentleman, a staunch and devoted royalist, remained ever most faithfully attached to the cause he had espoused. When Bristol fell into the hands of Prince Rupert, he was constituted treasurer and paymaster to the garrison there, but was made prisoner in 1641, at the fatal battle of Worcester. In recompence of these eminent services, he was named one of the knights of the Royal Oak, but that order never taking place, he received the honour of knighthood in 1663, at which time he was a commissioner of the Alienation Office, surveyor-general of the Outports, and one of the chief farmers of the Customs. Sir Edmund Turnor's benevolence and public spirit were exemplary, and several acts of munificence remain lasting monuments of his character. He endowed the vicarage of Milton Erneys (the place of his birth) with the inappropriate tithes of the parish, while, at the same time, he rebuilt the vicarage house and offices. And, as Bishop Kennet expresses himself, "that his piety to the church might the better be consecrated by his charity to the poor," he erected an hospital for six poor persons, and endowed it with lands to the value of £20 per annum. At Stoke-Rochford he built the almshouse, and at Wragley, in Lincolnshire, an hospital for twelve poor persons, whereof six were to be the widows of clergymen, and the remainder poor men and women of that town. After performing various other acts of munificence, this eminent and excellent person d. in 1707, leaving (by his wife, Margaret, dau. of Sir John Harrison, * Knt. of Stoke-

George-William, b. 18 March, 1833.

Mary-Frances-Charlotte.

Mr. Turville s. his father, 13 July, 1839.

Lineage.

The family of Tourville, or Turville, is of Norman extraction, and the name may be found on the roll of Battle Abbey, but from which of the ten seignories of Tourville, in the duchy, the patronymic is derived, cannot now be ascertained.

Soon after the conquest of England the Tourvilles became extensive proprietors in the counties of Warwick and Leicester, being lords, in the former, of the manors of Pailington, Herdeberwe, Bedworth, Chelmscote Fulbrooke, and Nuneaton; and giving, in the latter, their name to the manor of Normanton-Turville, the original seat of the family.

WILLIAM DE TOURVILLE, the companion in arms of the CONQUEROR, and the first settler in England, was s. by

RALPH DE TOURVILLE, who was living in the time of HENRY I., and was father of

WILLIAM DE TOURVILLE, who was s. by

SIR HAMON DE TURVILLE, Knt. of Normanton-Turville, co. Leicester, living temp. HENRY II. His son,

HUGH DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, was living 20 HENRY III., 1235, and was s. by

RALPH DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, who held, in 1297, four and a half knights' fees in Normanton, Brokenhall Park, Thurleston,* Croft, Walton, Overleigh, Sywddeby, Seithby, and Saxilby, all in co. Leicester; and in the same year granted the church of Croft to the abbey of St. Mary, in Leicester. In 10 EDWARD III., 1336, the lands of Nettlebed were bestowed by the Turvilles on the same monastery. Ralph was s. by

HUGH DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, to whom King EDWARD III. granted, by charter, dated 21 March, 1337, liberty of free warren in his demesne lands of Thurleston. He m. Cecily, dau. of —, and was father of

TYLDEN OF MILSTED.

TYLDEN, SIR JOHN-MAXWELL, Knt. of Milsted, co. Kent, b. 25 Sept. 1787; m. in June, 1829, Elizabeth, only dau. of the Rev. Henry-Lomax Walsh, LL.D., of Grimblesthorpe, in Lincolnshire. This gentleman, who served for twenty years in the army, and was late lieutenant-col. in command of the 52nd regt. of light infantry, received the honour of knighthood in 1812, as proxy for his uncle, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Samuel Auchmuty, G.C.B., at the installation of the Knights of the Bath in that year. Sir John Tylden s. his father, 2 Feb. 1832.

Lineage.

The family of Tylden, one of great antiquity, has been seated in Kent for several centuries. Of the three distinct branches into which it separated, the eldest became possessed of Milsted in that co.; the second removed into Sussex, and one of its members emigrating, founded the numerous Tildens of America, while the youngest branch settled at Ifield. The family anciently possessed lands in the parishes of Brenehley, Otterden, Kennington, and Tilmanstone, and so far back as the reign of EDWARD III. we find William Tylden paying aid for lands in Kent when the Black Prince was knighted. Of the branch settled in the parish of Wormsell, temp. ELIZABETH, was

WILLIAM TYLDEN, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of James Tonge, of Tunstal, and by her (who d. 3 June, 1625, and was buried at Wormshill) had one son and two daus., viz.,

RICHARD, his heir.

Elizabeth, m. to Solomon Wood, of Wormshill.

Frances, m. to the Rev. John Toke, A.M., rector of Milsted.

William Tylden d. 23 Dec. 1613, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD TYLDEN, Esq., who purchased, 16 Sept., 9 CHARLES I., from Edward Chute, Esq. of Bethersden, the manor and advowson of Milsted,* co. Kent. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Toke, Esq. of Godinton, (of consanguinity to Archbishop Chichele, founder of All Souls,) and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Richard, rector of Milsted, who m. Mary Whitfield, of Bethersden.

John.

Elizabeth.

Ann, m. to the Rev. Nicholas Toke, rector of Eastwall.

Mr. Tylden d. in 1659, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM TYLDEN, Esq. of Milsted, who m. Hannah, dau. of Sir Thomas Manby, of Lincolnshire, and dying in 1708, left issue,

I. RICHARD, his heir.

II. Eleanor.

III. Hannah, m. to John Worth, of Hollingbourne.

IV. Frances, m. to Edward Talbut, of London.

V. Elizabeth.

VI. Clemence, m. to John Skeere.

VI. Eleanor.

The son and heir,

RICHARD TYLDEN, Esq. of Milsted, m. in 1710, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Osborne, Esq. of Place House, Hartlip, Kent, and co-heir to her brothers, (see family of OSBORNE at foot), by whom (who d. in 1766, aged 79) he had,

RICHARD-OSBORNE, his heir.

Hannah, m. to Edward Belcher, Esq. of Ulcomb, and had two sons, Stringer Belcher, who d. unm.; and William Belcher, of Ulcomb, who m. 5 July, 1768, Charlotte, dau. of Thomas Thompson, Esq. of Rye. His son, William Belcher, M.D., of Ashford, assumed the surname of STRINGER in 1816, and d. the following year, leaving issue.

Mary, m. in April, 1748, to the Rev. Thomas Bland, A.M., vicar of Sittingbourne, in Kent.

Philippa.

Mr. Tylden d. in 1763, was buried at Milsted, and s. by his son,

THE REV. RICHARD-OSBORNE TYLDEN, of Milsted, rector thereof, who m. in Oct. 1754, Deborah, dau. and heiress of Daniel May, Esq., and had four sons and one dau., viz.,

I. RICHARD, his heir.

II. Osborne, of Torry Hill, Milsted, who m. Miss Anne Withers, of London, and dying in 1827, left,

1. Osborne, d. young.

2. Charles, Lieut. R.N.

3. John, Lieut. R.N.

4. Henry, R.N.

1. Anna.

2. Mary.

3. Eliza.

4. Emily.

5. Isabelle.

6. Imogene, m. to Capt. Luke Alen, son of the late Col. Alen, C.B., of St. Wolstaus, co. Kildare, and representative of Archbishop Alen.

III. Richard-Cook, in holy orders, rector of Milsted, who assumed the surname and arms of PATTENSON, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of William Patten-son, Esq. of Ibornden, Biddenden, (see PATTENSON.)

IV. Manby-Mary, d. unm.

I. Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Vallyer Baker, Esq. of Sittingbourne, and had a son, Vallyer. She m. 2ndly, John Withers, Esq. of London.

The Rev. Richard-Osborne Tylden d. in 1766, aged 44, (his widow m. the Rev. Edward Smith, rector of Milsted,) and was s. by his eldest son,

* The manor of Milsted was possessed, in the early part of the reign of EDWARD I., by Thomas Abelyn, and subsequently by the Savages, Mockings, and Hoggeshaws. Joane, a dau. and co-heir of the last family, conveyed it in marriage to Thomas Lovel, Esq., who died seized of it, 2 HENRY IV., and it remained with their descendants until alienated to Robert Greaves, who died possessed of Milsted, then called Hoggeshaws, 9 HENRY VII. Afterwards we find it enjoyed by the Wakes, the Barnards, the Neryles, the Southwells, and the Henmans. Alan Henman, of Lenham, levied a fine in Mich. term, 3 ELIZABETH, and in the 12th of the same reign, sold Milsted to Thomas Thomson, of Sandwich, for the use of Agnes, his daughter, the wife of John Toke, of Godinton, and mother of Nicholas Toke, Esq. of Great Chart, who, in 1631, disposed of the manor and advowson of Milsted to Edward Chute, Esq. of Bethersden, and they were purchased from that gentleman, as stated in the text, by Richard Tylden.

TYL

RICHARD TYLDEN, Esq. of Milsted, who m. 1st, Miss Mary Rolphe, of Ashford, and had one son, RICHARD-OSBORNE, in holy orders, vicar of Cbhillam, in Kent, who m. Frances, dau. of William Fairfam, Esq., and has two daus., Frances-Jane-Kemp and Annabella.

Mr. Tylden m. 2ndly, Jane, dau. of the Rev. Samuel Auchmuty, rector of New York, and sister to the late Lieut.-Gen. Sir Samuel Auchmuty, G.C.B., by whom he had issue, JOHN-MAXWELL (Sir), his heir.

William-Burton, major in the R.E., m. Ceciline, eldest dau. of William Baldwin, Esq. of Steed Hill, Kent, and has two sons, viz.,

William. Richard.

Colonel Kemeys-Tynte, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the counties of Somerset, Glamorgan, Monmouth, and Surrey, represents the borough of Bridgewater in parliament. He has been declared by a Committee for Privileges of the House of Lords, senior co-heir of the whole blood, to the BARONY OF WHARTON. He is also co-heir to the Barony of Grey de Wilton.

Tintage.

The family of Tynte has maintained for centuries a leading position in the West of England; of its surname tradition has handed down the following derivation. In the year 1192, at the celebrated battle of Ascalon, a young knight of the noble house of Arundel, clad all in white, with his horse's housings of the same colour, so gallantly distinguished himself on that memorable field, that RICHARD CŒUR DE LION remarked publicly after the victory, "that the maiden knight had borne himself as a lion, and done deeds equal to those of six Croises, (or Crusaders,)" whereupon he conferred on him, for arms, a lion, arg. on a field gu. between six crosslets of the first, and for motto, "Tynctus cruore Saraceno." His descendants, thence assuming the surname of TYNTE, settled, after some generations, in Somersetshire, enjoying considerable influence, and intermarrying with the principal county families.

The representative of the Tyntes at the close of the sixteenth century,

EDWARD TYNTE, Esq. of Wrexhall, co. Somerset, living in 1585, m. and had two sons, EDWARD, his heir; and Robert (Sir), Knt., who settled in Ireland in 1645, and who was ancestor of the baronets of the name, resident in that part of the kingdom. The elder son,

EDWARD TYNTE, Esq. of Wrexhall, was father of

EDWARD TYNTE, Esq., who purchased from his brother-in-law, John Aisbe, Esq., the manor of Chelvey, co. Somerset. He m. Anne, dau. of Sir Edward Gorges, Knt. of Wrexhall, in the same shire, and had JOHN,

Robert, Hugh, Dorothy, and Florence. He d. in 1629, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN TYNTE, Esq. of Chelvey, M.P. for Bridgewater in 1661, a devoted adherent of royalty during the civil wars, and named in the list of gentlemen of large estates, intended to have been created knights of the Royal Oak. He m. Jane, dau. and heiress of Hugh Halsewell,* of Halsewell, co. Somerset, son of Sir Nicholas Halsewell, and thus acquired the estate, which has since been the chief residence of the family. By the heiress of Halsewell, he left a son and successor,

HALSEWELL TYNTE, Esq. of Halsewell, who was created a baronet, 7 June, 1673, in consideration of his father's distinguished services, and represented the town of Bridgewater in parliament in 1678. He m. Grace, dau. and co-heir of Robert Fortescue, Esq. of Filleigh, co. Devon, by Grace, his wife, dau. of the gallant Sir Beville Granville, Knt. of Stow, and had issue,

CHARLES-KEMEYS,

JANE, m. in 1737, to Major Hassell, of the Royal Horse-guards, Blue, son of John Hassell, Esq., by Anne, his wife, dau. and heir of Thomas St. Quintin, Esq., son of Sir William Quintin, Bart., and had an only dau. and heiress, JANE HASSELL, of whom presently, as inheritor of the estates of the families of KEMEYS and TYNTE.

Sir John d. in March, 1710, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR HALSEWELL TYNTE, third baronet, of Halsewell, who was returned to parliament by the borough of Bridgewater, 1 GEORGE II. He m. Mary, dau. and heiress of John Walter, Esq. of Brecon, and by her (who m. 2ndly, in 1736, Pawlet St. John, Esq. of Dogmersfield) had two daus., who both d. young. Sir Halsewell d. in Nov. 1730, and was s. by his brother,

SIR JOHN TYNTE, fourth baronet, of Halsewell, in bold orders, rector of Goatburst, in Somersetshire, at whose decease, unm., in Aug. 1740, the estates and representation of the family devolved on his brother,

SIR CHARLES-KEMEYS TYNTE, fifth baronet, of Halsewell, LL.D., who represented the county in seven parliaments, and was col. of the second battalion of Somerset militia. Sir Charles became, at the decease of his uncle, Sir Charles Kemeys, Bart. of Kevanmably, representative of that very ancient family, and inherited their large estates in the counties of Glamorgan, Brecon, and Monmouth. He m. in March, 1737-8, Anne, dau. and co-heir of the Rev. Dr. Bushby, rector of Addington, in Bucks, but d. without issue, in 1785, when his great possessions became vested in his niece,

JANE HASSELL, who m. Colonel Johnstone, of the 1st regt. of foot-guards, groom of the bedchamber, and comptroller and master of the household to H.R.H. George, Prince of Wales, (afterwards GEORGE IV.,) who assumed, by royal licence, the surnames of KEMEYS-TYNTE. Col. Kemeys-Tynte d. in 1807, and his widow in 1825, leaving (with two daus., both unm.) an only son, the present CHARLES-KEMEYS KEMEYS-TYNTE, Esq. of Halsewell House, in Somersetshire, and of Kevanmably, in Glamorganshire.

Kemeys of Kevanmably.

The house of Kemeys, originally De Camois, Camoes, and Camys, is of Norman extraction, and the name of its patriarch is to be found on the roll of Battle Abbey.

* The family of Halsewell, or De Halsewell, one of remote antiquity, possessed the estate now enjoyed by their representative, Col. Kemeys-Tynte, immediately after the Conquest. Through the Hassells, Col. Kemeys-Tynte derives lineally from the Empress Maud, and the princely house of Plantagenet.

Large possessions were granted to the family in the counties of Sussex and Surrey, and so early as the year 1258, Ralph de Camois was a baron by tenure. He was s. by his son, Ralph de Camois, who was summoned to parliament, 49 HENRY III., and his descendants sat among the peers of the realm, until the demise, issueless, in 5 HENRY VI., of Hugh de Camois, who left his sisters, Margaret, m. to Ralf Rademelle, and Aleanor, wife of Roger Lewknor, his co-heirs, (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.) A branch of the family, which had settled in Pembrokeshire, there enjoyed large possessions, and as Lords of Camaes and St. Dogmaels, exercised almost regal sway. In the conquest of Monmouthshire and Glamorganshire, the Camays were much distinguished, and were rewarded with grants of "Kemey's Commander," and "Kemey's Inferior." One branch* became established at Llanvarr Castle, in Monmouthshire, (now in the possession of Col. Kemeys-Tynte,) and another, fixing itself at the Began, in Glamorganshire, erected the mansion of Cefn Mahly, the residence of the present chief of the family.

EDWARD KEMEYS, son of Edward Kemeys, who was at the Conquest of Upper Gwent, m. Nest, dau. and heiress of Andrew de Began, lord of Began, a lineal descendant of Blethyn Maynareh, lord of Brecon, and thus acquired the lordship of Began, which for centuries after, was the principal abode of his descendants. His great-great-grandson,

JENKIN KEMEYS, of Began, m. Chrisley, dau. of Morgan ap Llewellen, and had one son and a dau., viz.,

IEVAN, his heir.

Margaret, m. to Ievan ap Morgan, of New Church, near Cardiff, co. Glamorgan, and was grandmother of Morgan Williams, living temp. HENRY VIII., who m. the sister of Thomas Cromwell, Earl of Essex, and had a son,

Sir Richard Williams, who assumed, at the desire of HENRY VIII., the surname of his uncle CROMWELL, and through the influence of that once powerful relative, obtained wealth and station. His great-grandson was the Lord Protector OLIVER CROMWELL.

From Jenkin Kemeys' son Ievan lineally descended

DAVID KEMEYS, Esq. of Kevanmably, in Glamorganshire, who m. Katherine, dau. of Sir William Bawdripp, and was s. by his son,

RHYS KEMEYS, Esq. of Llanvay, who m. a dau. of William Aubrey, D.D., and was father of

SIR NICHOLAS KEMEYS, of Kevanmably, who represented the co. Glamorgan in parliament, and was created a baronet, 13 May, 1642. This gentleman, remarkable for his gigantic stature and strength, was preeminently distinguished by his loyalty to King CHARLES I., and on the breaking out of the civil war, having raised a regiment of cavalry, was invested with the command of Capestow Castle, which he gallantly defended against a very superior force, under CROMWELL himself; but that general's presence being required elsewhere, he left Colonel Ewer to prosecute the siege with seven companies of infantry, a train of artillery, and two squadrons of cavalry. The gallant Sir Nicholas Kemeys, however, with his son (afterwards Sir Charles) as his lieutenant, and one hundred and sixty men, held out and made several brilliant sorties, until the garrison being worn down with fatigue, a breach was made, and the brave governor and forty men died in defending the castle to the last. Of such importance did CROMWELL consider the capture of the castle of Capestow, that parliament voted thanks to Colonel Ewer and his army, and ordered fifty pounds to be given to the messenger who brought the intelligence. Sir Nicholas m. Jane, dau. of Sir Rowland Williams, Knt. of Langibby, and left at his decease a son and successor,

SIR CHARLES KEMEYS, the second baronet, of Kevanmably, M.P. for Glamorganshire, who m. 1st, Blanche, dau. of Sir Lewis Mansel, Bart., but by her had no issue; and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Sir George Whitmore, lord-mayor of London in 1631-2, by whom he left at his decease a son and successor,

SIR CHARLES KEMEYS, third baronet, of Kevanmably, who represented the co. and borough of Monmouth in several parliaments. He m. Mary, relict of William Thomas, Esq. of Wenvoe, and dau. of Philip, fourth Baron Wharton, by his lordship's second wife, Jane, dau. and heir of Arthur Goodwin, Esq. of Upper Winchendon, co. Buckingham, and had issue,

CHARLES, his heir.

JANE, m. SIR JOHN TYNTE, Bart. of Halsewell, in Somersetshire, and had, with other issue, a son and a dau., viz.,

SIR CHARLES KEMEYS-TYNTE, Bart. of Halsewell, who eventually inherited the estates of the family of KEMEYS, hut d. s. p.

JANE TYNTE, who m. Major Hassell, and had a dau. and heiress,

JANE HASSELL, who m. Col. Johnstone, and was mother of the present COL. KEMEYS-TYNTE, of Halsewell and Kevanmahly.

Sir Charles d. in 1702, and was s. by his son,

SIR CHARLES KEMEYS, fourth baronet, of Kevanmably, knight of the shire for Monmouth in the last parliament of Queen ANNE, and for Glamorgan in the two succeeding parliaments. This gentleman when on his travels was shown great attention by GEORGE I. of Hanover, and frequently joined the private circle of the elector. When his majesty ascended the British throne, he was pleased to inquire why his old acquaintance Sir Charles Kemeys had not paid his respects at court, and commanding him to repair to St. James's, sent him a message, the substance of which was, that the King of England hoped that Sir Charles Kemeys recollected the number of pipes he had smoked with the Elector of Hanover in Germany. Sir Charles, who had retired from parliament, and was a staunch Jacobite, replied that he should be proud to pay his duty at St. James's to the Elector of Hanover, but that he never had had the honour of smoking a pipe with the King of England. Sir Charles Kemeys d. s. p., when the baronetcy expired, while his extensive estates devolved on his nephew, SIR CHARLES KEMEYS-TYNTE, Bart. of Halsewell, at whose demise, also issueless, his possessions vested in his niece, JANE HASSELL, who m. COLONEL JOHNSTONE, afterwards KEMEYS-TYNTE, and was mother of the present COLONEL KEMEYS-TYNTE, of Halsewell and Kevanmably.

Lineage.

This family has been of knightly degree ever since the Conquest, when SIR WALTER TYRELL, a Norman knight, came into England, and soon after became tenant of the manor of Langham, co. Essex, which he held at the general survey under Richard de Tonhrigg. Of this Sir Walter, MORANT, in his History of Essex, observes:—"Whether he was the same person who shot WILLIAM RUFUS in New Forest, or whether he did it at the instigation of Archbishop Anselm, through the persuasion of a fanatic monk, as it is asserted by Alan de Insulis, we are not able to determine." It is far, indeed, from being an ascertained point that this family is descended from the Walter Tyrell who slew RUFUS, and as far as it from being certain that the deed was done designedly. ORDERICUS VITALIS, in his History of Normandy, relates, that Sir Walter Tyrell, on his death-bed, declared that he was not so much as in the field when WILLIAM RUFUS was killed. From Sir Walter Tyrell descended the various eminent English families of the name, (see BURKE'S Extinct Baronetries), and that of which we are about to treat, now long settled in the highest respectability in the sister kingdom. The grandfather of its present representative,

THOMAS TYRRELL, Esq., b. in 1700, m. in 1735, Hannah, only dau. of Joseph Missett, Esq. of Leitrim, King's County, by his wife, a De Lacy, claiming descent from Hugo de Lacy, constable of Chester, and was father of

THOMAS TYRRELL, Esq., who was b. in 1750. He m. 8 Oct. 1778, Martha, dau. of Adam Williams, Esq. of Williamston, co. Kildare, and by her (who was b. in March, 1752) had issue,

- I. ADAM, the present representative.
 II. Thomas, b. 3 Sept. 1782, m. 5 Dec. 1808, Frances Ledwick, dau. of the Rev. Doctor Ledwick, of Duhlin, and has issue, Francis, b. 27 Sept. 1842.

Amelia. Florence-Mary.

Mr. Tyssen, a magistrate for the counties of Norfolk, Middlesex, and Kent, and a deputy-lieut. for Kent and the Tower Hamlets, is the representative, in right of his mother, of the very ancient family of AMHERST OF EAST FARLEIGH, co. Kent, which was lineally derived from Nicholas Amhurst, of Tewdley, living in 1576, brother of Richard Amherst, ancestor of the Earls Amherst. His father's family of DANIEL is represented by his uncle, GEORGE-ROBERT DANIEL, Esq. of the co. Westmeath, Ireland.

Lineage.

The family of Tyssen, originally of Zealand, was established in England temp. CHARLES I., by FRANCIS TYSSEN, son of DANIEL TYSSEN, of Flushing, and Appollonia, his wife, dau. of Baldwin Ridley, and great-niece of Bishop Ridley, and became possessed of the manor of Hackney, and subsequently of the manor of Foulden, which have descended by entail to the present proprietor.

WILLIAM-GEORGE DANIEL, Esq. of Westbrook House, co. Dorset, m. 21 June, 1794, Amelia, only surviving dau. and heir of John Amherst, Esq. of Court Lodge and East Farleigh, captain R.N., representative of a very ancient family in Kent, by Mary Tyssen, his wife, sister of Francis Tyssen, Esq. of Hackney and Foulden, who d. unm. 5 June, 1813. Mr. Daniel having acquired the estates of Hackney, Foley House, and Foulden, through his wife, assumed, by royal licence, 14 March, 1814, the additional surname and arms of TYSSEN. He was a deputy-lieutenant of the co. Middlesex and Tower Hamlets, and high-sheriff of Kent in 1825. Mr. Daniel Tyssen d. in June, 1837, leaving issue, WILLIAM-GEORGE-TYSSEN, present proprietor.

Charles-Amherst, b. 6 June, 1804, capt. 1st Dragoon-gds.

vi. Walter, a captain in her Majesty's 3rd regiment of Light Dragoons.

i. Letitia, m. Lodge-Morres-Murray Prior, Esq. of the 12th Lancers, and has issue, two sons.

Lineage.

There is a tradition that two brothers of the name of Unett came to England with WILLIAM the Conqueror, and that he made them a grant of several thousand acres of land in Staffordshire, extending from Tittensor to Eccleshall. Another tradition, which is very prevalent in the family, is, that one of the two brothers went abroad, and was absent a great many years without being heard of; that the other, believing him dead, married his wife, supposing her to be a widow; that the brother, who was abroad, returned home very unexpectedly; that the two met, quarrelled, and fought; that one of them was killed on the spot, and the other died soon afterwards of his wounds; that all the estates were confiscated and seized by the crown, but that the king, on the petition of the widow, regranted a portion of the land, namely, that part situated at Tittensor. The estates granted to the widow were held by the different branches of the Unett family until 1813, when, being in the immediate neighbourhood of Trentham, they were purchased by the late Marquess of Stafford.

In RYMER'S Federa, London edition, 1709, vol. ix. p. 160, A.D. 1414, temp. HENRY V., there is a document or letters of licence of HENRY V., concerning the ambassadors of Genoa sent into England to treat. In this document, the king directs, that Hubert Tonson, who was sent to England with certain merchandise for sale or barter, should be entertained by his beloved liege subject, William Unet, citizen and draper of London, and nowhere else. The following is a translation:

"Concerning the Ambassadors of Genoa sent into England to treat.

"The King to all and every admiral &c. sends greeting,

"Know ye that of our especial favour, and in consideration that the Doge of Genoa hath sent over certain ambassadors into our kingdom of England to treat with us for making satisfaction in respect of certain goods and merchandises of certain merchants of our city of London, lately taken unjustly, as it is said, by the Genoese; We have taken into our sure and safe conduct, and into our especial protection, guardianship, and defence, Hubert Tonson, merchant of Genoa, being at this time in our kingdom of England, for bringing or causing to be brought diverse merchandises of his, to the amount in value of £3000 only or under, from foreign parts into our said kingdom of England in certain vessels; for staying there, for trafficking, and thence returning to his own place, and purchasing other merchandises, to the extent of the aforesaid value, within our said kingdom of England, and carrying them over to his own parts or other foreign parts; also the vessels and merchandises aforesaid, and pilots and mariners of the vessels aforesaid, without arrest, attack, or assault made on them, on account of any marque or reprisal granted or to be granted to any liege subjects of ours.

"And if anything shall have been done wrongfully or injuriously to them, that you cause the same without delay to be corrected and duly reformed.

"It being always provided that the same Hubert, and pilots and mariners aforesaid, pay the customs, aids, and other dues owing to us for the aforesaid merchandises.

"And that they shall not attempt nor cause to be attempted anything which may avail to the prejudice of us or of our people.

"We will also that the same Hubert be entertained with our beloved liege subject William Unet, citizen and draper of our city of London, and nowhere else in the aforesaid city, so long as these our present letters shall last.

"In token of which we have caused these our letters patent to be made to last to the feast of Easter next.

"Witness the King at Westminster, the 28th day of September.

"BY THE KING."

In the parliamentary rolls, (temp. HENRY VI.,) vol. iv. p. 212, there is the copy of a petition, in Norman-French, from Esmond, Earl of March, to the Commons, reciting, that the late king, HENRY V., had given permission to Esmond, Earl of March, to marry, on his paying to the king 10,000 marks, and requesting the Commons to beseech the king to ordain that the orator might have letters of the king under his privy seal, or a brief out of Chancery, directed to the treasurer and barons of the Exchequer, commanding them that if, by examination of the schedule thereunto annexed, they should find that the said Esmond had paid to the creditors of the king the sums contained in the said schedule, they should make full allowance to him for the same. The schedule contained the following names, among others, namely,

The Earl of Arundel	1412	16	1
William Unette	631	3	9

As HENRY V. reigned only nine years and some few months, this William Unett is presumed to be the same person as is mentioned in RYMER'S Fœdera, though the name is spelt differently.

WILLIAM UNETT, merchant of the staple, (a descendant of the above-named William Unett,) resided in the Close at Lichfield at the time of the Commonwealth. He presented a petition to parliament, or rather to the committee appointed by parliament, of which the following is a copy:

"To the honourable the Committee for the county of Stafford, in the Close, 1652.

"The humble petition of William Unett, merchant of the staple, the most ancient inhabitant of the Close of Lichfield, humbly sheweth, That your petitioner hath lived in the Close the space of thirty-two years, having had many children born here, of which five are yet living, having always had a desire to live peaceably, and to do wrong or injury to no man; now, since these sad times, besides the great suffering in that small stock God hath blessed him with, for the maintenance of himself, his wife, and children, he hath had of late his goods viewed and valued at an extraordinary rate, all his children being in effect unprovided for, himself and his wife old, and not able to help themselves. These things I humbly desire you would be pleased to consider of, and to deal so favourably and mercifully with me, that I, my wife, and children, may have just cause to pray God for you, and to pray for your happiness."

This William Unett had, by Alice, his wife,

- i. William, rector of Chetwynd, in Shropshire, b. in 1616, d. unm. in 1659.
- ii. PHILIP, b. in 1618, of whom presently.
- iii. George, b. in 1621, d. in the great plague of London, 1665, without issue.
- iv. Richard, b. in 1623, had, by Isabella, his wife, two children, viz., Richard, rector of Barford, in Warwickshire, b. in 1661, d. in 1727: he m. Mary, the dau. of the Rev. John Dodd, and had six children, all of whom d. without issue; and Isabella, who d. unm.

The second son,

PHILIP UNETT, m. and had a son,

GEORGE UNETT, b. in 1659, who d. in 1714. He m. Ann Wilkes, of Willenhall, co. Stafford, sister of Dr. Wilkes, the learned historian of the county, by whom he had issue, four sons and six daus. None of the sons had issue, except

RICHARD UNETT, b. in 1702, who d. in 1739. He m. Sarah Gomery, and had (with a dau., Sarah, m. to the Rev. Titus Neve, of Wolverhampton) two sons: George, the second, d. abroad, unm.; the elder,

THE REV. THOMAS UNETT, rector of Coppenhall, in Cheshire, and prebendary of Lichfield Cathedral, b. in 1731, who m. in 1760, Frances Godwin, of Stafford, and d. in 1785, leaving issue, viz.,

- i. Richard-Wilkes, b. in 1765. He entered the Royal artillery very early in life, attained the rank of colonel, and d. in 1815, without issue.
- ii. Thomas-Wilkes, b. in 1769, d. in 1829, without issue.
- iii. JOHN-WILKES, now of the Woodlands.
- iv. George-Wilkes, b. in 1772. He followed the example of his elder brother, Richard, by entering the regt. of Royal artillery, rose to the rank of major, was present at the taking of Copenhagen, and in several engagements in the West Indies; was at the battle of Waterloo, and afterwards at the siege of Cambray. He was presented with the Waterloo medal. In 1822, rather late in life, he m.

Eliza Jones, the sister of Sir John-Thomas Jones, of the Royal engineers, who planned and superintended the execution of the celebrated lines of Torres Vedras, and who wrote a scientific work on fortification and engineering. Major Unett d. in 1825, leaving one dau., Frances-Eliza, who d. in 1844, aged 20.

- i. Frances, d. in 1840, unm.
- ii. Ann, m. John Grant Fraser, Esq., capt. in the Royal artillery, and dying in 1796, left three children, two sons and one dau., who all d. without issue. The sons entered the army, and were both killed in action in Spain.
- iii. Elizabeth, d. in 1835, unm.

- v. Sarah-Blanche-Lingen.
- vi. Decima.
- vii. Lucy.

Lineage.

This family is of a very ancient origin, and is supposed to have come over to England with WILLIAM the Conqueror. At an early period it separated into two branches, one of which settled in Staffordshire, (heing that from which John-Wilkes Unett, Esq. of the Woodlands, is descended,) and the other at Ledbury and Castle Froom, in Herefordshire, where the Unetts were of considerable consequence and distinction, and had large estates. Sir William Devereux, Knt. of Castle Froom, m. Elizabeth Clodsall, an heiress, and had a dau., Margaret, who m. — Brace, Esq., and was mother of Elizabeth, in 1432, (10 HENRY VI.,) who m. a John Unett, and thus conveyed Castle Froom to the Unett family. JOHN UNETT, and Elizabeth, his wife, had issue, ROWLAND UNETT, who m. a dau. of Hereford, of Sufton, and had a son, ROWLAND UNETT, who m. Joan, dau. of Thomas Parry, Esq. of Poston, in the same co., of an ancient lineage, and had issue, WILLIAM, of Castle Froom, (the eldest son,) and other sons and daus. WILLIAM UNETT, m. Margary, eldest dau. of Henry Jones, of Maynston, in the said co., and had, with other issue, a son and heir, FRANCIS UNETT, Esq. of Castle Froom, who m., and had a son, WILLIAM UNETT, who inherited the family estates. He lived in the reign of JAMES I., was a justice of the peace, and served as high-sheriff for the co. He m. for his second wife, Anne, dau. of Amrose Elton, Esq., of an ancient family, and had a son, FRANCIS, his heir. William Unett d. 22 Aug. 1624, and was buried in the parish church of Castle Froom, where an inscription to his memory is engraven on a tombstone. His son,

FRANCIS UNETT, s. to the family estates, and was high-sheriff for the county. He m. Sarah, dau. of William Nicholetts, Esq. of Hopton-Sollars, and had issue eight sons and three daus. Francis Unett d. 5 June, 1656, and Sarah, his wife, 15 April, 1659, and were buried in the chancel of the church at Castle Froom. The following is a copy of the inscription on a handsome monument erected to their memory in the chancel of the church:—

"Here lyeth the body of Francis Vnet, Esq., sonne of William Vnet, Esq., who married Sara Nicholetts, of Hopton Sollars, Esq., by whom he had eight sonnes, Francis, Richard, John, William, Nicholetts, Thomas and Thomas, and Edward, and three daughters, Sara, Anna, and Rehecca. Hee departed this life on the 5th day of June, A.D. 1656, anno que' ætatis suæ 44."

"Ossu sepulta viri restant hic pulvere digni,
Quî pulchre in mundo dum quoque vixit ibi,
Virtute insigni luxit, quem gloria clarec
Candore et vitæ, tollit ad astra Dei.

"Also here lyeth the body of Sara, the wife of Francis Vnet, Esq., who departed this life in the true faith of Christ, April the 15th, A.D. 1659."

The arms of Francis Unett, (which are the same as now used by the family,) quartered with those of his wife, (the Nicholetts,) are engraven on one corner of the monument, and on the opposite corner, are the arms of Nicholetts alone. Within the chancel, and a few feet from the ground, on a stone pedestal, are two carved stone figures, lying near each other, representing Francis Unett and Sara, his wife, and faithfully portraying the dress of the age in which they lived. There are eleven niches round the pedestal at the foot of the figures, in which are placed eleven small figures, carved in stone, representing the eleven children.

JOHN UNETT, the third son of Francis Unett, m. Frances, one of the seven daus. and co-heiresses of Sir Henry Lingen, and this union brought Sutton Freene and Freen's Court into the Unett family. The following is an extract from DUNCOMBE'S History of the County of Hereford, showing the antiquity of Sutton Freene, and how it came into the possession of Sir Henry Lingen:—

"Sutton Saint Nicholas, the 'Pratum Bohus,' is now called the Wergins, and forms part of the fertile and extensive tract known by the general name of the Lugg Meadows. HENRY I. granted free warren in this part of Sutton to Alexander le Seculer, and by the inquisition taken after his death, it appeared that he held, in capite, of the king, by serjeanty of conducting his treasure, and summoning the barons, four virgates of land, worth per annum 11s. each, &c. &c. He left one dau., Alice, his heiress, who m. 'Walter de Freene,' lord of Moccas, A.D. 1290. The Freenes were an ancient and honourable family, of whom Sir Walter and Sir Hugh were included in the roll of the victorious expedition of EDWARD I. into Scotland. In the reign also of EDWARD III., a successor of them was summoned to parliament as a baron and peer of the realm. Walter and Alice had warren granted to them in Sutton, and their descendant, Hugh, who was also lord of Moccas, endowed the church of Saint Nicholas with lands &c. From him Sutton Saint Nicholas (as well as that part described in the last quotation from Domesday Survey, and which is principally situated in the parish of Marden) acquired the general name of 'Sutton Freene,' and the church is denominated in deeds of this date, 'Ecdia S'ci Nichi' de Sutton Freene.' After the Freenes, one part of Sutton Saint Nicholas came into possession of the ancient family of Walwyn. The other part of Sutton Saint Nicholas, viz., that more particularly denominated Sutton Freene, came, after the Freenes, to the ancient family of Lingen, who were originally seated at Lincun in the above county, and had very large possessions. This family were in very great repute in the time of HENRY III., and amongst other grants in that reign, John de Lingen had free warren in the usual form, dated Dec. 1256: the original is stated by Dr. Coningsby, in his MS., to have been in possession of Robert Dobyns, Esq. of Eastbach, about A.D. 1690. The royalty of fishing and fowling in the king's manor of Marden was also granted to him. In the following reign of EDWARD I., John de Lingen was knighted at a great solemnity, previous to his accompanying the king on an expedition to Scotland. Richard de Lingen was in great power and trust in the reign of EDWARD IV. A Sir John Lingen m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of Sir John Burgh, and dying in 1522, was buried with his lady in the church of Aymestrey, near Lingen. He left issue, Sir John, who m. Eleanor, dau. and heiress of Thomas Myldwater, of Stoke Edith, (4 HENRY VIII.), and dying A.D. 1530, left issue, John, who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Englefield, (22 HENRY VIII.) and was s. by his son, William, who m. a dau. of — Ingram, Esq., and left issue, Edward, who m. Blanche, dau. of Sir Roger Bodenham, and had issue, Sir Henry, Roger, and Thomas. Sir Henry m. Alice, dau. of Sir Walter Pye, and had two sons and several daus. Sir Henry was much attached to the cause of CHARLES I., and eventually was a great sufferer by it. An original portrait of him, representing him in armour, with a troop of dragoons (raised by him) in the background, is preserved at Sutton Freene, formerly known by the name of the Lower Court, but now called Freen's Court. Accompanying the above, is a portrait of Lady Lingen, both executed by Sir Peter Lely. Sir Henry Lingen resided in the mansion of Stoke Edith, and d. there, A.D. 1661, leaving issue two sons and seven daus. At the time of his death, his property comprised the following estates and manors in the county, viz., the demesnes and manors of Stoke Edith; also those of Sutton Freene, with the mills there called the King's Mills; also the demesnes and manors of Sutton Saint Michael, Lingen, Aymestrey, Can-nop and Lye, with five hundred acres of wood there; the demesnes and manors of Burghill and Tillington; the manor of Broxwood, and the demesnes and manor of Weston, in the parish of Bredwardine. Sir Henry also had possessions in the counties of Salop, Warwick, and Essex. His rental amounted to £1250 per annum, and he gave £500 to each of his seven surviving daus. His two sons, Henry and William, d. without issue, and the whole of his possessions came to his seven daus., viz., Elizabeth, Joan, Blanch, Mary, Cecilia, Frances, (who m. John Unett, as above,) and Alice."

It appears by an original account of the estate of William Lingen, Esq., son of Sir Henry Lingen, Knt., "that the manor of Sutton Saint Michael was worth in his time, in demesnes, chief rents, and leasehold rents, £216 15s. in possession, and £4 in reversion; that the manor of Sutton Freene was worth £53 in possession, and £250 in reversion, and that the chief rents and leasehold rents were worth £8 in possession, and £12 in reversion; and further, that the mills, called the King's Mills, &c., (being three water corn-mills, and certain meadows thereunto belonging,) set when corn was at the lowest rate for £36, formerly set by Sir Henry Lingen at £60, now at £50." The same MS. also contains the following remark:—"The fruit that groweth upon the demesnes of the two manors of the Suttons, and other lands intermixed, which the Lingen usually kept in their hands, doth make above one hundred hogsheds of cyder annually; and there are above twenty acres planted by Sir Henry Lingen within twenty-four years last past, a great parte whereof is planted with red-streak." John Unett, and Frances, his wife, had issue, JOHN, Lingen, and Frances. The eldest son,

Lineage.

This family, originally English, went to Ireland about the close of the 13th century. The name, a singular one, arose, according to tradition, from the following circumstance. A service, attended by great danger, becoming necessary to be done, and the commander hesitating whom to employ, an individual was pointed out and recommended to him with this remark, "Unicus est;" meaning, "He is the only person to do this service." The above two words were used as the family motto, until the period of the battle of the Boyne, when JAMES UNIAKKE, the first settler at Mount Uniacke, commanding a troop and being present when King William's horse was shot, offered his to the king, who accepting it, took a pistol from his holster, and giving it to Uniacke, called him a faithful and brave man. Since that time James Uniacke and his descendants have used the motto "Faithful and brave," and taken for crest, a dexter arm in armour holding a pistol. It appears by the ancient public records, that the family of Uniacke was settled at an early period in the south of Ireland, and had possessions in the counties of Cork, Waterford, and Tipperary. The following notices of four descents in the 13th and 14th centuries, are extracted from the records in the Birmingham Tower. The persons therein mentioned are presumed to have been ancestors of the present Uniacke family. Bernard de Uniak, Esq. of Cork, lived there in 1305, as appears by an entry on the plea-roll of that year remaining in the Birmingham Tower. His son, Bernard de Uniak, Esq. of Youghal, co. Cork, living in 1311, is mentioned in the plea-roll, and also in the great roll of the pipe, preserved in the same depository of ancient records. His son, Philip de Uniak, of Youghal, aforesaid, was living in 1335. Thomas de Uniak, of Cork, supposed to be son of the said Philip Uniak, of Youghal. His son, Thomas de Uniak, of Cork, living there in 1391. There having been but one family of the name in the south of Ireland, it is almost certain the present Uniackes descend from the above persons, though the intermediate generations from 1390 to 1500, have not been ascertained. The principal seat was Ballyhuhbert, near Youghal, until the middle of the 17th century, and since then, Mount Uniacke, also near Youghal, both in the co. Cork.

THOMAS UNIAKKE, Esq. of Ballyhuhbert, who was the son of EDMUND UNIAKKE, Esq. of Youghal, grandson of THOMAS UNIAKKE, Esq., and great-grandson of THOMAS UNIAKKE, Esq. of Ballyhuhbert, who was living in 1500, had by Margaret, his wife, two sons,

This gentleman inherited Byth at the decease of his first cousin, William Urquhart, Esq. in 1829, and s. to Meldrum at the death of his cousin, James Urquhart, Esq., in 1835. Mr. Urquhart is a deputy-lieut. for Aberdeenshire, and a magistrate for Aberdeenshire and Banffshire.

Lineage.

Divers authentic historians attest the antiquity and eminence of the great house of URQUHART. Abercrombie, in his "Martial Achievements of Scotland," relates that an ancestor of the family m. Castalda, dau. of BANCHO, "Shakespeare's Thane of Lochaber;" and Lord Hales, in his Annals, mentions that EDWARD I., during the interregnum, prior to the accession of John Balliol, to the crown, made out a list of Sheriffs, (half of whom were English, and half Scotch), and that among the Scotch appears the name of William Urquhart de Cromarty, heritable sheriff of Cromarty continued.

The Urquharts of Cromarty have ever been acknowledged as chief of the name, and formerly possessed, either in property or superiority, almost that whole county. In the time of ALEXANDER II., Galleroch Urchart is mentioned in a composition between Andrew, Bishop of Murray, "et dominum Olanum Ostiarium;" and in the reign of ROBERT BRUCE,

WILLIAM URCHARD, of Cromarty, was heritably sheriff of that shire. He m. first, Lillias, dau. of Hugh, Earl of Ross, and had a son and successor,

ADAM URCHARD, of Cromarty, who had a charter from William, Earl of Ross, of the lands of Inch Rory, in Ross-shire, the day after the feast of St. Michael the Archangel, in 1338. There is also a charter from DAVID BRUCE, of the sheriffdom of Cromarty, to this Adam Urchart, dated 1 Nov. 1357. He m. Brigidia, dau. of Sir Patrick Fleming, of Biggar, ancestor of the Earls of Wigton, and had a son and successor,

JOHN URCHARD, of Cromarty, living in 1368, who m.

Agnes, dau. of Sir Alexander Ramsey, ancestor of the Earls of Dalhousie, and had two sons, viz.,

WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.

Thomas, appointed keeper and governor of the castle of Tarnaway, by a charter from Thomas, Earl of Murray, dated 1402. From him descend the Urquhards of Burdlyfards.

The elder son,

SIR WILLIAM URQUHART, of Cromarty, was knighted by King ROBERT III. He m. Susanna, dau. of Alexander, Lord Forbes, and was s. by his elder son,

WILLIAM URQUHART, of Cromarty, who m. a dau. of Sir Alexander Forbes, of Pitsligo, but dying without male issue, was s. by his brother,

ALEXANDER URQUHART, of Cromarty, who had a charter, under the great seal, from JAMES IV., "terrarium de Fethary, &c.," dated 25 Aug. 1503. He m. Katherine, dau. of Sir James Ogilvie, of Deskford, by whom he had THOMAS, his heir, and another son, ancestor of Colonel John Urquhart, so gallantly distinguished in the Swedish wars. He was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS URQUHART, of Cromarty, who m. Helen, dau. of Alexander, Lord Abernethy of Salton, who had (it is related) twenty-five sons* and eleven daus, seven of the sons fell at Pinkie, in 1547, and from another derived the Urquharts of Newhall, Monteagle, Kinbeachie, and Brae-langwell. Cromarty was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER URQUHART, of Cromarty, who had a charter under the great seal from JAMES V. of the lands of Ineb Rory, and several others in the shires of Ross and Inverness, dated 7 Mareh, 1532. He m. Beatrix, dau. of Innes of Auchintoul, and had two sons, viz.,

- I. WALTER, of Cromarty, whose son, HENRY URQUHART, of Cromarty, was father of SIR THOMAS URQUHART, of Cromarty, whose second son, SIR ALEXANDER URQUHART, of Dunlugas, eventually inherited Cromarty at the decease of his elder brother, SIR THOMAS URQUHART, a devoted royalist. He d. in 1661, leaving two daus.: the elder m. to Sir Harry Guthrie, of Kingedward; and the younger, Christian, m. 1st, to Lord Rutherford; 2ndly, to James Viscount Fendraught; and 3rdly, to George Morrison, of Bognie.

- II. JOHN, of whose descendants we have to treat.

The second son,

JOHN URQUHART, b. in 1547, became tutor to his grand-nephew, Sir Thomas Urquhart, and was well known afterwards by the designation of Tutor of Cromarty. He m. 1st, a dau. of John Gordon, of Cearnbarrow, and relict of Meldrum of Eden, by whom he had, with two daus., Beatrix, wife of George Gordon, of Buckie, and Violet, wife of Sir Alexander Gordon, of Cluny, one son, JOHN, of Leathers and Craighinty, grandfather of SIR JOHN URQUHART, of Craigston, knighted by CHARLES II, who became chief of the house at the decease of his kinsman, Sir Alexander Urquhart, in 1661. He m. a dau. of George, second Earl of Seaforth, and left a son and successor, JONATHAN URQUHART, of Cromarty, who m. Lady Jean Graham, dau. of James, second Marquess of Montrose, and had an only son, COL. JAMES URQUHART, a gallant officer, who d. in 1741. The Tutor of Cromarty m. 2ndly, Jean, dau. of Alexander Abernethy, Lord Salton, and relict of Alexander Seton, of Meldrum, but by her had no issue. He m. 3rdly, in 1610, ELIZABETH, only dau. and heir of ALEXANDER SETON, of Meldrum, sixth in descent from the marriage of William Seton (younger son of Sir Alexander Seton, Lord of Gordon) with ELIZABETH, dau. and heir of WILLIAM MELDRUM, of that ilk, and had (with a dau., m. to Fraser of Easter Tyrie) four sons, PATRICK, of Meldrum; Adam, of Auchintoul; Walter, of Crombie; and James, of Old Craig. The Tutor of Cromarty, "renowned," saith Sir Thomas Urquhart, "all over Britain, for his deep reach of natural art," d. 8 Nov. 1631, aged eighty-four. In the issue of his first marriage, the chieftainship of the family vested, and eventually the male representative retired from Cromarty to Braeclanwell, in the parish of Kirkmichael, which his descendants continued to hold until the present generation, when the late proprietor, Charles Gordon Urquhart, Esq., an officer in the Scots' Greys, sold the estate, with the exception of a small portion, including the ancient burying-ground of Kirkmichael, which having descended in strict tail, was and is unalienable, and is now enjoyed by that gentleman's brother, the present DAVID URQUHART, Esq., chief of the clan, whom, his diplomatic services in the East, and valuable contributions to literature, have rendered justly famous. (For Mr. David Urquhart's line, see SUPPLEMENT.) The Tutor's eldest son, by his third wife,

PATRICK URQUHART, of Lethenlie, and afterwards of Meldrum, in Aberdeenshire, suffered severely by his devoted adherence to the cause of King CHARLES I. He m. the Lady Margaret Ogilvie,* dau. of James, first Earl of Airly, by the Lady Isabel, his wife, dau. of Thomas, first Earl of Haddington, and had issue,

John, who predeceased his father, unm.

ADAM, heir to his father.

JAMES, who founded the CRAIGSTON branch, (see that family.)

Patrick, professor of Medicine in the King's College, Aberdeen, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Dr. Andrew Muir, and had issue.

Alexander, a captain in the army, killed, under the royal banner, in 1585.

Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Sir George Gordon, of Gight; and 2ndly, to Major-Gen. Thomas Buchan.

The laird of Meldrum d. in 1664, and was s. by his son,

ADAM URQUHART, Esq. of Meldrum, b. in 1635, M.P. for Aberdeenshire, who m. in 1667, the Lady Mary Gordon, sister of George, first Duke of Gordon, and had issue, JOHN, his heir; JAMES, of Byth; Adam and Lewis, churchmen in France; Mary, a nun, at Dieppe; Elizabeth, m. to David Ogilvie, of Clova; Anne, m. to Sir Florence Odonachie, in France, and had issue. Adam Urquhart d. at Edinburgh, 10 Nov. 1684, leaving the Lady Mary Urquhart his widow, who m. 2ndly, James, Earl of Perth, Lord Chancellor of Scotland, and d. at St. Germain, in 1726. The eldest son and heir,

JOHN URQUHART, Esq. of Meldrum, b. in 1668, held, conjointly with the Hon. John Campbell, of Mamore, M.P., father of John, fourth Duke of Argyll, the office of master of the works in Scotland, temp. Queen ANNE. He was likewise a member of the last Scottish parliament, which united the two kingdoms. He m. Jean, dau. of Sir Hugh Campbell, of Calder, by Lady Henrietta Stewart, his wife, dau. of James, fifth Earl of Moray, and had issue,

- i. Adam, who d. in his father's lifetime, unm.

- ii. WILLIAM, his heir.

VASSALL OF MILFORD.

VASSALL, SIR SPENCER-LAMBART-HUNTER, Knt., K.H., of Milford, in the co. Southampton, and of Newfound River, in the island of Jamaica, a captain in the Royal Navy, b. 17 May, 1799; m. 9 May, 1844, Letitia, only dau. of the late Edward Berkeley Napier, Esq. of Pennard House, co. Somerset, and widow of the Rev. C.-H. Pulsford, Canon of Wells Cathedral, and Vicar of Burnham.

Lineage.

The family of Vassall derives from the ancient bouse of "De Vassall, Barons de Gourdon, in Querci, Perigord." In the year 1588,

JOHN VASSALL, an alderman of London, equipped, and himself commanded two ships of war, the "Samuel," and the "Little Tohy," against the Spanisb Armada. His son,

SAMUEL VASSALL, likewise an alderman of London, represented that city in parliament in 1640, and again in 1641. In the latter be was voted the sum of £10,445 12s. 2d. for the damage he had sustained during his patriotic resistance of the arbitrary impost of tonnage and poundage, and it was further resolved to consider him for his imprisonment and personal sufferings. He was one of the three hundred members who signed the protestation to support the church of England and the liberty of parliament, and was appointed a member of the council during the recess. He subscribed £1200 against the rehels in Ireland, his name appearing at the head of the list. In 1643, Alderman Vassall took the covenant, and was appointed in 1646, one of the commissioners for the kingdom of England, for the conservation of the peace with Scotland; about the same time he was chosen with Sir Thomas Soane, to give answer to the persons who brought up the city petition, and in 1648, he was appointed, with the other members of the house who were citizens, to form a committee. This Samuel Vassall had two twentieths of all the Massachusetts Bay, in New England. He left a son,

1463

JOHN VASSALL, Esq., who purchased large tracts of land in Jamaica, and settled there. He m. Anne, dau. of John Lewis, Esq., for many years English resident at Genoa, and had issue.* His younger son,

LEONARD VASSALL, Esq., m. Miss Gale, and his second son,

JOHN VASSALL, Esq., having m. Elizabeth, dau. of Spencer Phipps, Esq., bad (with three daus., Ruth, Elizabeth, and Lucy) a son,

JOHN VASSALL, Esq., who settling at Boston, in America, was of H. M. council, there, and col. of militia, but was deprived of his lands there in the first American war, for his attachment to the parent state. He returned to England, and resided alternately between Chatley Lodge, co. Wilts, and the city of Batb. He m. Miss Elizabeth Oliver, and had issue,

- i. John, who m. Miss Elizabeth Athill, and his son,
John, d. s. p. 23 March, 1827.
- ii. SPENCER-THOMAS.
- iii. Thomas-Oliver, who d. s. p.
- iv. Robert-Oliver, who settled in Jamaica.
- v. Leonard, d. s. p.
- vi. Elizabeth, m. to John-Gustavus Lemaistre, Esq.
- vii. Mary, m. to John-Gytins Archer, Esq., and d. s. p.

The second son,

SPENCER-THOMAS VASSALL, being designed for a military life, obtained an ensigny in the 59th regt. of foot, at the early age of twelve. He soon afterwards embarked for Gibraltar, where he served during the memorable siege, and from that period until his gallant career closed on the ramparts of Monte Video, he was uninterruptedly engaged upon active service in almost every part of the glohe. He was twice with the army in Flanders, once in the West Indies, several times on the coast of France, and once on that of Spain. He was the first man that landed in the Isle Dieu, and planted the British colours there. He formed part of both expeditions to Holland; in the last of which he was ordered by the Duke of York to attend General Don to the enemy's camp with a flag of truce. Shortly afterwards Major Vassall purchased the lieutenant-colonely of the 38th regt., and was for some years stationed in Ireland, where it was his fortune to be the field-officer of the day, in Dublin, on the memorable 23rd July, when Lord Kilwarden and many others were killed by the insurgent populace. His cool, determined conduct upon that occasion obtained for him the high commendation of the Irish government, and of the commander-in-chief. He subsequently embarked with his regiment for the Cape of Good Hope, and assisted at the capture of that important settlement, of the town and fortress of which he was appointed commandant. This lucrative and honourable post he resigned, to embark with his regiment in the second expedition dispatched to the coast of Spanish America, and there he found a soldier's grave in gallantly leading his troops to the assault of Monte Video. The remains of this gallant soldier were at first interred in the grand church at Monte Video, with military honours, but were afterwards removed to England, and deposited in the family vault in the church of St. Paul's, Bristol, where a monument, designed by Flaxman, and executed by Rossi, was erected by his widow. Colonel Vassall m. 10 July, 1795, Catherine-Brandrith-Backhouse, dau. of the Rev. D. Evans, D.D., and by her (who m. 2ndly, Thomas Chetham Strode, Esq. of Southhill House, co. Somerset, and d. 22 July, 1842) left issue,

- SPENCER-LAMBART-HUNTER, his heir.

VAUGHAN OF RUG.

VAUGHAN, GRIFFITH AP HOWEL, Esq. of Rûg, and Hengwrt, both in the county of Merioneth, Lieut.-Col. Commandant of the Merioneth militia, and Constable of Harlech Castle, s., in 1807, his brother, Colonel Edward-Williames Vaughan, who had assumed the surname of SALESBURY.

Lineage.

This ancient line, which has for a long series of ages ranked among the most eminent and influential families in the Principality of North Wales, represents a younger branch of the Sovereigns of Powys, derived, through Cadwgan, Lord of Nannau, in Merioneth, younger son of Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, King of Powys, from Mervyn, King of Powys, third son of RHODRI MAWR, King of Wales. The last-named monarch, who s. to the throne, A.D. 843, m. Angharad, sister and heiress of Gwgan ap Meuric, Lord of Caeridigan, and left at his demise, A.D. 877, with younger issue, three sons,

1. Anarawd ap Rhodri Mawr, King of North Wales, upon whose descendants devolved the Sovereignty of North Wales until its extinction, on the execution, by EDWARD I., 30 Sept. 1283, of David ap Griffith, Lord of Denbigh, successor of his brother, Llewelyn ap Griffith, slain at Builth, 11 Dec. 1282, the last native Sovereign of North Wales recognised by the English monarchs. From Anarawd derived also, 1. the WYNNS OF GWYDYR, BARTS., to whose genealogy, under the article WILLIAMS-WYNN OF LLANGEDWIN, we refer for a deduction of the Royal line of North Wales and its principal derivative branches; 2. WYNNS OF LLWYN (see that name); 3. WYNNS OF BERTHDDU; 4. WILLIAMS'S OF MINSTOR, BARTS.; 5. WILLIAMS'S OF MARNULL, BARTS.; 6. MORICES OF CLENENNEU; 7. ANWYLS OF PARK; 8. BRYNCKERS OF BRYNCKER.

11. Cadell ap Rhodri Mawr, King of South Wales, who d. A.D. 907, progenitor of the Sovereigns of South Wales.

III. MERVYN AP RHODRI MAWR.

From the third son,

MERVYN AP RHODRI MAWR, King of Powys, derived the Sovereigns of Powys, of whose lineage full details are given in an elaborate pedigree of their principal existing male line, the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION, at p. 603. Fifth in direct descent from Mervyn ap Rhodri Mawr, was

BLEDDYN AP CYNFYN, King of Powys, FOUNDER OF THE III. ROYAL TRIBE OF WALES, who usurped the kingdoms of North Wales and of South Wales. This monarch m. Haer, dau. and co-heir of Cilin ap y Blaidd Rhudd, Lord of Gest-yn-Efionydd, and by her was father of MEREDITH AP BLEDDYN, Prince of Powys, who d. in 1132. By his second wife, Efa, dau. of Ednowain Bendew, a Lord of Tegaingl, in Fliut, Meredith was father of Iorwerth Goch, Lord of Mochnant, in Powys-land, ancestor of, 1. the KYNASTONS OF OTELEY, co. Salop. (see that name, under MAINWARING OF OTELEY); 2. KYNASTONS OF HARDWICK, BARTS., co. Salop; and 3. POWIS'S, LORD LILFORD.

By his first consort, Hunnydd, dau. of Efnydd ap Gwernwy, Lord of Duffryn Clwyd, in Denbigh-land, Meredith had, with junior issue, two sons, 1. MADOC AP MEREDITH, of whom presently; 2. Griffith ap Meredith, Lord of Mawddwy-Cyfeilioc, who d. in 1128, ancestor of the Princes of Powys-Wenwynwyn, whose heiress, Hawys, m. John de Cherlton, who in her right acquired the feudal barony of Pole, and was summoned to Parliament, 26 July, 1313, as Baron Cherlton. The elder son, MADOC AP MEREDITH, last Sovereign Prince of Powys, d. at Winchester in 1160. He m. the Princess Sussanna, dau. of Griffith ap Cynan, King of North

Wales, and had, with other issue, 1. Griffith Maelor, Lord of Bromfield, who d. in 1191, progenitor of the memorable OWEN GLENDOWER, representative of the Sovereigns of Powys; 2. OWAIN BROGYNTYN, Lord of Edeirnion, in Powys-land, father, by Maredd, his wife, dau. of Einion ap Seissyllt, Lord of Merioneth, of three sons, 1. IORWERTH, of whom presently; 2. Griffith, living A.D. 1200, who s. to half Edeirnion, from whom derived, 1. the BARONS OF CROGEN AND BRANAS; 2. the BARONS OF HENDWR; 3. Bleddyn, Lord of Dinmael, living 25 May, 2 HENRY III., 1218, progenitor of the LORDS OF RUG-YN-EDEIRNION, MAESMORS OF MAESMOR, and other families. The eldest son,

IORWERTH AP OWAIN BROGYNTYN, Lord of half Edeirnion, m. Efa, dau. and heir of Madoc, Lord of Mawddwy, and from this marriage derived his great-grandson,

LLEWELYN DDU AP DAVID, II. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, living 44 EDWARD III., when he and his brother Owen were summoned to the Sessions held at Conway, to answer by what warrant they claim to exercise baronial rights, "Apud Thlangayr [Llangar] in terris suis in Edeirnion." This Baron m. Anne, dau. of Ievan ap Iorwerth, descended from Sandde Hardd, Lord of Morton, (see LLOYD OF GLOSTER), and from this marriage derived, sixth in descent,

HUGH AP WILLIAM, VIII. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, and of Gwerclas, in the parish of Llangar, township of Kymmer-Llangar, commot of Edeirnion, and county of Merioneth. This gentleman, who d. 28 Feb. 42 ELIZABETH, as appears by his Inq. post. mortem, substituted for Kymmer, so long the residence of his baronial ancestors, the adjoining mansion of Gwerclas, within the barony, henceforward the principal seat of the representatives of his line. Hugh ap William's grandson,

HUMFREY HUGHES, Esq. of Gwerclas, XI. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, who was High-sheriff of Merionethshire in 1670, m. 13 Aug. 1615, Magdalen, dau. and heir of John Rogers, Esq. of Bryntangor, co. Denbigh, (see WYNNE OF PENIARTH.) By this lady, Mr. Hughes, who was buried 4 May, 1682, was father of

THOMAS HUGHES, Esq., b. 10 Sept. 1628, who left at his decease, 2 April, 1670, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of Thomas Griffith, Esq. of Plas Einion, co. Denbigh, with younger issue,

1. HUGH HUGHES, Esq. of Gwerclas and Bryntangor, XII. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, high-sheriff of Merionethshire in 1720, who s. his grandfather, Humfrey Hughes. This gentleman, who was b. 31 July, 1659, and buried 18 Aug. 1733, was father, by his wife, Dorothy, dau. of Thomas Yale, Esq. of Plas-yn-Yale, co. Denbigh, of a dau. and heiress,

DOROTHY HUGHES, heiress of Gwerclas, Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, and Bryntangor, who m. Edward Lloyd, Esq. of Plymog, co. Denbigh, high-sheriff of Merionethshire in 1732, and of Denbighshire in 1736, and dying 27 Aug. 1732, left a son and heir,

HUGH-HUGHES LLOYD, Esq. of Plymog and Gwerclas, high-sheriff of Merionethshire in 1747. This gentleman, who m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Richard Walmsley, Esq. of Coldcoates Hall, co. Lancaster, and of Bashall, co. York, representative of the knightly and historic house of Talbot de Bashall, and d. 31 March, 1788, was s. by his son,

RICHARD-HUGHES LLOYD, Esq. of Plymog, Gwerclas, and Bashall, b. 4 Nov. 1768, who m. 9 Oct. 1798, Caroline, dau. of Henry Thompson, Esq., and by her had, with junior issue, a son and heir, the present

RICHARD-WALMSLEY LLOYD, Esq., Representative in the female line, of the Hughes's of Gwerclas, Barons of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, (see LLOYD OF PLYMOG.)

2. JOHN HUGHES, Esq., the third and eventually only surviving younger son, b. 28 Aug. 1662, was seated at Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion. He m. 3 Nov. 1693, Dorothy, dau. of Andrew Lloyd, Esq. of Plymog, co. Denbigh, and d. 1 July, 1694, having been drowned in the river Dee. His son,

DANIEL HUGHES, Esq., b. 2 July, 1694, s. as HEIR MALE OF THE HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION, at the decease, without issue male, of his uncle, Hugh Hughes, Esq. He m. 14 Feb. 1740, Catherine, dau. and heir of the Rev. John Wynn, of Pen-y-Clawdd, co. Denbigh, d. 14 Aug. 1754, and was s. by his son,

JOHN HUGHES, Esq. of Pen-y-Clawdd, b. 25 June, 1742, who m. Mary, dau. of John Jones, Esq. of Plas-Hên, co. Montgomery, a cadet of the Denbighshire house of Llwynon,

(see JONES-PARRY OF LLWYNON.) By this lady, who d. 10 Feb. 1823, Mr. Hughes, who d. 29 April, 1784, had a son and successor,
WILLIAM HUGHES, Esq. of Pen-y-Clawdd, b. 8 Feb. 1779. This gentleman m. 27 March, 1800, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Davies, Esq. of Trefnant, co. Denbigh, (refer to DAVIES OF GWYSANEY, under COOKE OF OWSTON,) and by her (who d. 4 April, 1844) left at his decease, 18 Jan. 1836, three sons,

1. WILLIAM HUGHES, Esq., REPRESENTATIVE, IN THE MALE LINE, OF THE HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION. This gentleman, who was b. 18 April, 1801, m. 11 July, 1835, Elizabeth, dau. of William-Henry Worthington, Esq. of Sandiway Bank, co. Chester, (see that name,) and has issue, WILLIAM O'FARRELL HUGHES, b. at Nancy, Lorraine, 18 Feb. 1838; and Frances-Elizabeth-Margaretta-Hughes.

2. Thomas-Hughes, M.D., of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, b. 22 Aug. 1803.

3. John Hughes, Esq. of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-law, b. 6 Oct. 1805, m. 6 July, 1832, his cousin, Dorothea, eldest surviving dau. of Richard-Hughes Lloyd, Esq. of Plymog, Gwerclas, and Bashall, and has a son, TALBOT DE BASHALL HUGHES, b. at Gayton mansion, co. Northampton, 15 Dec. 1836.

By subsequent unions, BLEDDYN AP CYNFYN, King of Powys, was father of several children, of whom,

CADWGAN AP BLEDDYN, I. Lord of Nannau, in Merionethshire, for some time associated in the Sovereignty of Powys with his elder brother, Meredith, is dignified by Camden by the title of "The Renowned Briton." This Prince, who bore "Or, a Lion, rampant, azure," had numerous children. By the Princess Gwenllian, his first wife, dau. of Griffith ap Cynan, King of North Wales, (Refer to WYNN OF GWYDYR, BARTS., under WILLIAMS-WYNN OF LLANGEDWIN,) he left a son, MADOC AP CADWGAN, of whose line we have to treat. By subsequent unions the Lord of Nannau had also issue,

i. Eignion, who d. in 1122, and gave his lands in Powys to his brother Meredith.

ii. Morgan, Lord of Cybio, whose mother was Ellinor, dau. of Cadivor ap Collwyn, Lord of Dyvett, (ancestor of the Earl of Lisburne,) son of Collwyn ap Tagnu, Lord of Efonydd, Founder of the v. Noble Tribe. He d. in 1123, stigmatized as the slayer of his brother Meredith. From this Morgan is stated to have derived, eighth in descent, IEVAN AP MORGAN AP IEVAN, of Newchurch, near Cardiff, who m. Margaret, dau. of Jenkin Kemeys, of Began, and was father of

WILLIAM AP IEVAN, an attendant upon Jasper, Duke of Bedford, and afterwards upon HEN. VII. His son,

MORGAN WILLIAMS, of Newchurch, m. Anne, sister of Thomas Cromwell, Earl of Essex, and had a son,

SIR RICHARD WILLIAMS, who adopted the name of CROMWELL, and was great-grandfather of OLIVER CROMWELL, the LORD PROTECTOR.

iii. Henry.

iv. Griffith, whose mother was dau. of Pigot de Say. He m. Gwenllian, dau. and heir of David, Prince of North Wales, son of Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, and had a dau. and heir, Hunydd, who m. Sandde Hardd, Lord of Morton [Burton], in Denbigh-land, (see LLOYD OF GLOSTER.)

v. Meredith, slain in 1112, whose mother was Eyrn, dau. of Hoedliw, son of Cadwgan ap Elystan, Prince of Pferlys. Meredith was father of a dau. and heir, LLEYKI, who m. Gwion ap Hwfa ap Ithell Velyn ap Llewelyn Audorchog, Lord of Yale, (see WALCOT OF WALCOT.)

The eldest son,

MADOC AP CADWGAN, Lord of Nannau, m. his relative, Efa, dau. and heir of Madoc ap Philip ap Uchdryd ap Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, Founder of the xii. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, (refer to OWEN OF BETTWS,) and was father of two sons,

i. MEURIC.

ii. Rhiwallon, ancestor of the JONES'S OF TREWYTHEN.

The elder son,

MEURIC AP MADOC, iii. Lord of Nannau. This Lord m. Gwenllian, dau. and heir of Iorwerth ap Peredyr, derived, through Ednowain ap Bradwen, Lord of Llys

Bradwen, Founder of the xv. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, from Marchudd ap Cynan, Lord of Brynffienigl, Founder of the viii. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, (see LLOYD OF PLYMOG,) and was s. by his son,

YNYR AP MEURIC, iv. Lord of Nannau, who, by Gwervyl, his wife, dau. and heir of Madoc ap Llowarch Vychan, descended from Llowarch Holbwrch, Treasurer of Griffith, Prince of Wales, had issue,

i. Einion ap Ynyr, v. Lord of Nannau, consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph, 21 Oct. 1268, termed by the Welsh, y Brawd Ddu O'Nannau, (the Black Brother of Nannau.) This Prelate is memorable for a controversy mentioned in Pennant's "Tours in Wales," vol. ii. p. 2, with the Abhey of Valle Crucis, relative to certain livings in Wales, which was referred to the Pope's delegate, and decided in the Bishop's favour.

ii. YNYR VYCHAN AP YNYR.

Einion ap Ynyr d. s. p., and was s. by his brother,

YNYR VYCHAN AP YNYR, vi. Lord of Nannau, who, by Gwenthwyfar, his wife, dau. of Griffith ap Gwen, derived from Einion ap Scissyllt, Lord of Merioneth, (see PRYCE OF GUNLEY,) had, with junior issue,

i. Meuric Vychan ap Ynyr, vii. Lord of Nannau, to whom there is a monument in the church of Dolgelleu, co. Merioneth, representing him armed in a close mail helmet, sword in hand, and with a short mantle over the rest of his armour. He m. Gwladys, dau. of Griffith ap Owen, grandson of Bleddyn, Lord of Dinmael, third son of Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, Dinmael, and Abertanet, and left, with junior issue, two sons,

1. HOWEL AP MEURIC VYCHAN, viii. Lord of Nannau. To this Noble the "Firma Amobr. Talypont" was demised, 15-16 RICHARD II., and he was one of the Jurors in an Inquisition taken at Hardlegh, die sub. prox. post festum Ascensionis dni anno R. R. Henric quinti post conquestum septimo, [1419.] (Record of Caernarvon, p. 89, Commot of Ardwddwy, co. Merioneth.) He m. 1st, Nest, dau. of Ievan Vychan ap Ievan ap Gwyn Wyddell, and was father of an eldest dau. and co-heir,

ANGHARAD, who m. Rhys ap Ievan, iv. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, and Baron of Crogen and Branas, under age 15-16 RICHARD II., and Raglor of Abertanet, 2 HENRY V., 1415, and was, by him, mother of DAVID AP RHYSS, v. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, and Baron of Crogen and Branas, who d. 25 Oct., 23 HENRY VI., 1444, ancestor of the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION.

Howel ap Meuric Vychan m. 2ndly, the dau. of Cynric Sais ap Robert Goch, derived from Ednowain Bendew, Lord of Tegaingl, (see BURKE'S Peerage, JONES of Sandford, under TIRWHITT, BART.,) and had by her two daus. and co-heirs, Morfydd, who m. Rice Gethin ap Griffith Vychan. Gwenthwyfar, who m. Tndor ap Grono.

2. Meuric Lloyd ap Meuric, of Nannau, who m. Matilda, dau. of Howell Pickhill, of the line of Sandde Hardd, Lord of Burton, and had two sons, viz.,

HOWEL SELE, his heir.

David, ancestor of the LLWYDS OF CWM BYCHAN, co. Merioneth, from a younger branch of which house, seated at Llanarmon, descended the late Rev. John Llwyd, rector of Caerwys, co. Flint, who d. in 1793, eminent as an antiquary, and the constant attendant and valued friend of Pennant in all his Welsh tours; he was father of Miss Angharad Llwyd, no less distinguished in Cambrarian antiquities. Of this ancient line there is an interesting notice in Pennant's "Tours in Wales."

The eldest son,

HOWEL SELE, of Nannau, living in Sept. 1400, was slain in a quarrel with Owen Glyndwr, probably not very long afterwards. The circumstances of his death are commemorated in an interesting poem to be found in the notes to Sir Walter Scott's "Marmion." Howel Sele m. Mali, dau. of Einion ap Griffith, of Corsygedol, co. Merioneth, the latter living 7 July, 1382, (refer to WYNN OF PENIARTH,) and was succeeded by his son,

Meuric Vychan ap Howel, of Nannau, whose wife was Angharad, dau. of David ap Cadwgan ap Philip Dorddu, of the line of Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Pferlys. Their son,

David ap Meuric, of Nannau, m. Ellen, dau. of Howel, brother of Rhys ap David, of Rûg in Edeirnion, and son of David ap Howel, derived from Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, and was father of Howel Nannau, Esq. of Nannau, who m. twice.

By his second wife, Lowry, dau. of William Griffith ap Jenkyn, of Rhiwgoch, he was father of Richard Nanney, of Cefndeuddwr, ancestor of the NANNEYS OF CEFNDEUDDWR. (Refer to that name.)

Howel Nannau had issue by his first wife, Ellen, dau. of Robert Salushury, Esq. (refer to BURKE'S Peerage, SALUSBURY OF LLANWEERN, BART.), a son,

The elder son,

TUDUR AP GRIFFITH, had for wife, Eva, dau. and heir of Grufyd ap Ievan, derived from Brochwel Ysgithrog, by whom he was father of

IEVAN AP TUDUR, who m. Gwenllian, dau. of Davyd Vychan ap Grufyd Dew, derived from Rhys ap Aeddau, and was s. by his son,

IEVAN VYCHAN AP IEVAN, who m. twice: 1st, Margaret, dau. of Griffri ap Genau Glyn ap Ednyved ap Urien, of Dyffryn Ardudwy, and by her had Davyd Llwyd, of Llanvihangel-y-pennant. He m. 2ndly, Lucy, dau. of Griffith ap Meredyd, derived from Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Fferlys. Ievan Vychan was s. by his son,

JOHN AP IEVAN VYCHAN, who m. Angharad, dau. of Jenkin ap Iorwerth, (of Ynys-y-maengwyn,) grandson of Einion ap Grufyd, of Cors-y-gedol, co. Merioneth, derived from Ap Llewelyn ap Kynric ap Osborne Fitzgerald, Lord of Ynys-y-maengwyn. John ap Ievan Vychan had issue, by Angharad, Ievan Gwyn, of Bod Talog, ancestor of the Gwynns of that place; and

JENKIN VYCHAN, who was esquire of the body to KING HENRY VII., in the 20th year of whose reign, his interest at court procured the royal pardon to IEVAN AP ROBIN, Herwr, a noted outlaw, the Robin Hood of the counties of Carnarvon and Merioneth. Jenkin Vaughan was the first high-sheriff for the county of Merioneth under the Union Act of HENRY VIII., which office he served in 1541-42. He m. Malt, (Maud, or Matilda,) dau. of Rhyderch ap Rhys ap Meredyd, Lord of Towyn, (ap Owain ap Gorward Vychan,) a tract on the sea-coast, north of the river Teivy. "Rhys of Towyn" was celebrated for his hospitality by the bards of that period. Jenkin Vaughan, by his said wife, Maud, granddau. of Rhys, the hospitable Lord of Towyn, had a dau. named Annes, who m. Robert ap Davyd Llwyd, of Trawsnynd, and a son and heir, viz.,

JOHN VAUGHAN, Esq. of Caethle, m. 1st, a daughter of Wriothesley, first Earl of Southampton, and 2dly, Mary, dau. of Sir William Thomas, Knt. of Llangathen, in the Vale of Towy, South Wales, by Jane, dau. of Sir William Herbert, of Coalbrook, co. Monmouth, by Jane, dau. of Sir William Grufyd Hael, (or the Liheral,) Knt. of Penrhyn Castle, co. Caruarnon. He was chamberlain of North Wales, and he carefully collected the records of Wales remaining in the Castle of Carnarvon, to be deposited in the Tower of London. By his wife, Mary Thomas, he had four sons and two daus.,

I. JENKIN, his heir and successor at Caethle.

II. Rhys.

III. William.

IV. Henry.

I. Anne.

II. Elizabeth.

The eldest son,

JENKIN VAUGHAN, Esq. of Caethle, was thrice married: 1st, Alice, dau. of Ednyved Grufydd, Esq. of Gwyd Gwion, in the parish of Towyn, descended from Gwaethvoed, of Cardigan, by Jane, dau. of Sir John Wogan, Knt. of Castell Gwys, (Wistou Castle,) co. Pembroke; 2ndly, Jane Gethin, by whom he had two sons, Edward and Howel, both settled in England, and one dau., Grace, m. to John ap Ievan ap Davyd ap Robert Llwyd; and 3rdly, Margaret, dau. of John ap Grufyd ap John ap Davyd Gethin, of Penmorra, by whom he had William Vaughan, of Aberdovey, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Hugh ap Grufyd Powys, of Towyn, and by her had issue, Henry, who m. Jaue, dau. of Grufyd ap John ap Ievan, of Llanegryn, and two more sons, Thomas and Grufyd, and four daus., Gwen, Jane, Grace, and Lowry. The above Jenkin Vaughan, by his first marriage with Alice Grufyd, had a dau., Elizabeth, who m. Thomas Lloyd, Esq. of Rhiw Arthen, co. Cardigan. A descendant of this match, Thomas Lloyd, Esq. of Abertrinant, in the said county, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Wilmot, third Viscount Lisburne. The only son and heir of Jenkin Vaughan, by his first marriage with Alice Grufyd, was

JOHN VAUGHAN, Esq. of Caethle, who took to wife, Jane, dau. of Edward Prys, Esq. of Plas-y-n-y-Roff, in Towyn, descended from Ierwerth Drwyndwn, father of LLEWELYN, II. Prince of North Wales, by Gwen, dau. and heir of Rhyderch ap Edward ap Rhys, descended from Osborne Fitzgerald. The above Edward Prys, Esq., certified his pedigree, 5 Aug. 1588, of which there are copies extant. The issue of John Vaughan, by Jane Prys, were four sons and three daus., viz.,

I. JENKIN, his successor at Caethle.

II. Rhys.

III. William.

IV. Henry, in holy orders, of whom Anthony à Wood, in his Athenæ Oxon, wrote thus: "Henry Vaughan, son of John Vaughan, Gent., was born at Caethle, in Merionethshire, became a commoner of Oriel College, in Midsummer term, 1632, aged 16 years, whence being elected scholar of Jesus College, continued there for some time under severe discipline, took the degrees in Arts, was made fellow of that house, and afterwards became preacher while King CHARLES I. kept his court in Oxford, in the time of the great rebellion. In July, 1643, he was presented by the University of Oxford to the vicarage of Pantteg, in Monmouthshire, by virtue of an Act made 3 JAMES I., to disable recusants to present persons to livings in their gifts. What other preferments he had, or what he suffered for his loyalty I know not, nor anything else of him, save that he wrote several sermons: '1. Sermon preached before the House of Commons, at Oxford, on Matt. v. 20. Oxon, printed 1644, 4to.' '2. Conference between him and Jo. Tombes, B.D., in St. Mary's Church, Abergavenny, 5 Sept. 1653, touching Infant Baptism. London, 1656, 4to.' He d., and was buried at Abergavenny, about the year 1661, as I was informed by his pupil, Sir Leoline Jenkins, sometime Principal of Jesus College, afterwards Judge of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury."

I. Anne.

II. Elizabeth.

III. Mary, who m. Edward Pryce.

JENKIN VAUGHAN, eldest son and successor to John Vaughan, at Caethle, m., and had a son and heir,

WILLIAM VAUGHAN, who m. Anne Vaughan, heiress of Gwyd Gwion, in the parish of Towyn. Whilst the Caethle estate was in the possession of this Vaughan, it received a shock, from the effects of which it never recovered; so much so, that in the second generation after him, the whole estate, consisting of seventy farms and tenements, lying compact within thirteen townships in the parish of Towyn, were alienated. His grandfather, John Vaughan, had, by deed, settled a tencement called Kil-kemes upon Edward Price, who (as above) m. his daughter, Mary. William Vaughan, when he came to the estate, became persuaded that Kil-kemes was unalienable, owing to a deed of entail by his ancestor, [Price had possession of the tenement for about fifteen years, and then sold it to Vaughan's neighbour, Vincent Corbet, Esq. of Ynys-y-maengwyn,] Ednyved Grufyd. Consequently, in the year 1658, he brought an action of ejectment in the great sessions for Merionethshire against the tenant at Kil-kemes, who in Corbet's absence in Sussex, suffered judgment by default. Corbet, on his return, was advised by his counsel, Powys and Charlton, to bring an action to recover; and upon trial, at the great sessions for Shropshire, the former verdict was reversed, and the more to secure the property for Corbet, he was advised to proceed by voucher. Notwithstanding this, Vaughan, to regain possession, brought on the third action at the assizes held for the county wherein the disputed property lay. Corbet, by counsel, pleaded the voucher, and kept Vaughan at bay for several years. At last, Lyttleton and Jones, the then judges on the Chester circuit, found the voucher deficient in point of form, and gave verdict against it, whereby Vaughan recovered the estate once more, and received from Corbet

the sum of £197 6s. 8d. Mr. Corbet being advised by Serjeant Glynn, and other able counsel, that the last verdict was erroneous, removed the suit to Westminster Hall, and retained for counsel Messrs. Saunders, Wallop, Williams, (afterward speaker of the House of Commons, and solicitor-general,) and Stephens, and Timothy Turner. The case was argued for several terms, by a multiplicity of learned lawyers, and Chief-Baron Hale declared that the law (as far as he understood law) was in favour of Mr. Corbet. However, upon the death of Serjeant Keeling, the chief-baron being removed, Sir Edward Turner, who succeeded him, gave final judgment against Mr. Corbet's voucher. "Cetera desunt." The subject matter of the foregoing account was extracted from Mr. Corbet's briefs, delivered to his counsel, and still remaining as his autograph. Whether William Vaughan outlived his Kilkenny lawsuit is more than we at present know; he, however, quitted the stage of worldly troubles in Sept. 1677. His widow survived him the uncommon period of forty-two years, dying on her own estate, at Gwyd Gwion, in the year 1719. The issue of William and Anne Vaughan were five sons,

- I. JENKIN, who s. at Caethle.
- II. JOHN, of whom more hereafter.
- III. Henry. IV. Gruffyd. V. Hugh.

The eldest son,

JENKIN VAUGHAN, s. his father, William, in 1677. He d. in 1691, and was buried at Towyn, 26 March. Margaret Vaughan, his widow, was interred in the same vault, 28 May following. They left only an orphan dau., the next in succession.

MARGARETTA, the last of the Vaughans at Caethle, who m. Richard Braithwaite, titled Esquire, in mortgage deeds, but of what country or family we do not know. The Braithwaites continued to linger at Caethle for some years, "exchanging the mortgage of the Jew for an increased one of the Gentile," until an act of parliament was procured, in the year 1732, to empower the trustees named in the will of William Vaughan, to sell the whole of the Caethle estate to pay off creditors. Thus, 25 Feb. 1734, Richard Braithwaite, and Margaret, his wife, signed a final transfer of the property to their neighbour, Madam Ann Owen, of Ynys, dau. and heiress of the Vincent Corbet who held the long and ruinous suit in opposition to the William Vaughan, grandfather of the said Margaret Braithwaite.

The line of Vaughan becoming thus extinct at Caethle, it revived again at Penmaen Dovey, in the same parish of Towyn, in the person of John Vaughan, second son of the William Vaughan above, and father's brother to Margaret Braithwaite. This

JOHN VAUGHAN, second son of William Vaughan, of Caethle, m. Anne, dau. of Algernon Lewis, and niece and heiress at law to Lewis Lewis, Esq. of Penmaen Dovey. John Vaughan d. in Dec. 1727, leaving issue, by Anne, his wife, one son and three daus.,

- I. LEWIS, who s. him at Penmaen.
- I. Anne, who m. Lewis Owen, of Gelli-dowyll.

VAWDREY OF CHESHIRE.

VAWDREY, THE REV. DANIEL, M.A., b. 5 March, 1807, Rector of Stepney, co. Middlesex; m. 12 July 1842, Christian-Anne, only child of Robert-Pownall Hadfield, Esq. of Winnington, co. Chester, and widow of William Orford, of Liverpool, Esq., merchant, and by that lady has issue, DANIEL-WYATT, b. 16 June, 1844.

Mr. Vawdrey was elected a Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford, and subsequently presented by the society to the rectory of Stepney in 1842. He s. to the representation of his family on the death of his father, 17 Jan. 1844.

Lineage.

The name of Vaudrai or Vaudrey is evidently derived from the Vill of Vaudrai, in France, where the Sieurs de Vaudrai continued to flourish until the reign of Louis XIV. In the 12th century, between the years 1153 and 1181, when Hugh Kevellioe possessed the palatine earldom of Chester,

SIR CLAUD DE VAUDRAI or VAUDREY, received a grant of lands from that earl in Altringham, Knutsford, Marbury, and other Vills in Cheshire. He had issue two sons,

I. Hugh de Vaudrey, who assumed the Cross, and was slain or died in Palestine, leaving only daus. behind him.

II. RICHARD, who continued the male line.

RICHARD DE VAUDREY, of Altringham, was s. by ROBERT DE VAUDREY; whose son,

ROBERT DE VAUDREY, m. Cicely, dau. of Thomas le Crier. He was living 10 EDWARD II., 1316, and was s. by WILLIAM DE VAUDREY, who m. Mahel, dau. of Hugh de Baguley, with whom he had lands in Baguley. He had issue by his wife.

HUGH DE VAUDREY, who m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of Richard le Broome, of Northenden, co. Chester, with whom he had an estate in Northenden. He was living temp. EDWARD III., 1370, and s. by his son,

WILLIAM DE VAUDREY, who m. Isabel, dau. of Thomas de Wood, by whom he had issue,

RALPH DE VAUDREY, who m. Ellen, dau. of Sir William Legh, Knt. of Baguley, with whom he had lands in Baguley. He was living temp. RICHARD II. and 1 HENRY IV., 1399, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT VAUDREY, Esq. of Altringham, who was living temp. HENRY V., and by his wife, Margaret, dau. of William Verlam, had a son, who s. him,

THOMAS VAUDREY, Esq. of Altrincham. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Robert Pall, of Manchester, and had issue,

Thomas, who continued the male line of the family, but was disinherited of the principal portion of his father's estate.

Thomas Vaudrey m. a second wife, whose name is not recorded, by whom he had a dau., m. to Hart, of Bury, co. Lancaster, who obtained her father's estate, to the exclusion of his son and heir. Thomas Vaudrey was living temp. HENRY VI., and his son became

THOMAS VAUDREY, Esq. of Bodon, (or Bowden,) co. Chester. He m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Richard Newton, Esq. of Pownall, co. Chester, and had issue by her,

- i. ROBERT, eldest son and heir.
- ii. James.
- iii. Thomas.
- iv. George, of Bodon, who m. and had issue, a son, Alexander.
- i. Parnell.
- ii. Elizabeth.
- iii. Jane.
- iv. Joane.
- v. Anne, wife of John Sheldmerdine.

He m. 2ndly, Ellen, dau. of George Booth, Esq. of Dunham, (ancestor of the Earls of Warrington,) but by her (who was re-married to Thomas Trafford, Esq. of Bridge Trafford, co. Chester) had no issue. This Thomas Vaudrey retrieved, in a considerable degree, (probably by his mother's property) the misfortune of disinheritance; for he purchased about 1500, the Riddings in Bodon parish, and lands in Bodon, Altrincham, and Chester. He d. temp. HENRY VIII., and was s. by his son and heir,

ROBERT VAUDREY, Esq. of the Riddings. He m. 1st, Alice, dau. of Randle Brereton, Esq. of Wettenhall and Eccleston, chamberlain of Chester, and by her had issue,

- i. THOMAS, eldest son and heir-apparent, who m. Agnes, dau. and co-heir of Ralph Worsley, Esq. of Birkenhead, co. Chester, and d. before his father, leaving issue, a son, EDWARD, who s. his grandfather.
- ii. John, of Bank, who m. a dau. of — Reddish, Gent. of Baguley, and had issue, Richard, Henry, and William.
- iii. Richard.
- iv. Robert, in holy orders.

Robert Vaudrey m. 2ndly, Alice, dau. of — Barton, Esq., co. Lancaster, and had issue by her,

- v. Thomas, of Bodon, who was living temp. ELIZABETH, 1580, and by his wife, Agnes, dau. of — Bulkley, had issue,

1. George, of Bodon, who m. Cicely, (or Elizabeth,) dau. of Alexander Soracol, of Manchester, and had issue, Robert and John.
2. THOMAS, of whom hereafter, when treating of the existing line of the family.
3. Richard.
4. Edward.
5. Nicholas.
- vi. Robert, who m. twice, and had issue by both wives.
- vii. John.
- viii. Randle.
- ix. Richard.
- x. Hugh.
- i. Margaret, m. to Edward Legh, Esq. of Baguley.

Three other daus., unn.

Robert Vaudrey, Esq., who was vice-chamberlain of Chester, and was living 6 EDWARD VI., 1551, was s. by his grandson,

EDWARD VAUDREY, Esq. of the Riddings, living at the visitation of 1613. He m. Jane, dau. of Robert Hyde, Esq. of Norbury, co. Chester, and by her had issue,

- i. ROBERT, eldest son and heir.
- ii. Edward, d. s. p.
- iii. Samuel.
- i. Bridget, (or Beatrix.)
- ii. Rebecca, wife of Henry Cookson.
- iii. Anne, wife of John Bullen, of Warmingham.
- iv. Elizabeth, wife of John Taylor, of Woodhouse.

Edward Vaudrey, Esq., being in minority at the death of his father and grandfather, was much injured, and involved in expensive suits at law, by attempted fraudulent conveyances of his uncle and guardian, John Vaudrey, of Bank. He d. 17 MARCH, 1622, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT VAUDREY, Esq. of the Riddings, b. in 1595, aged 18 years, at the visitation of 1613. He m. Margaret, dau. of Oswald Mosley, of the Garratt, co. Lancaster,, and by her had issue,

- i. Edward, d. s. p.
- ii. SAMUEL, s. to the estates.
- iii. Robert, of Chester.
- iv. Thomas, of London.
- v. Jabez.
- vi. Nicholas.
- i. Beatrix
- ii. Susan.
- iii. Margaret.
- iv. Christian.

Robert Vaudrey, Esq. was s. by his son and heir,

SAMUEL VAUDREY, Esq. of the Riddings, b. in 1620. He

m. Katherine, dan. of Richard Pierson, of Bodon, co. Chester, and by her had issue,

- i. EDWARD, only son and heir.
- i. Alice.
- ii. Elizabeth.

Samuel Vaudrey, Esq., was of the Riddings in 1654, but soon after sold the hall and estate to Thomas Gerard, Esq., descended from a younger son of the Gerards of Harrow-on-the-Hill, co. Middlesex. His son, EDWARD VAUDREY, Esq., attorney-at-law, b. in 1664, became of Warrington, co. Lancaster. He appears to be the same person as the Edward Vaudrey, seneschal of the Halmote Court of the barony of Kinderton in 1727, and this, the eldest line of the family shortly after ended in co-heiresses.

Vaudrey of the Mill Gate in Cranage and Tushingham, in Co. Chester.

THOMAS VAUDREY, second son of Thomas Vaudrey, of Bodon, who was fifth son (but eldest by second marriage) of Robert Vaudrey, Esq. of the Riddings, vice-chamberlain of Chester, was b. at Bodon, temp. ELIZABETH; but neither he nor his descendants being found at Bodon, he, being contemporary, appears with considerable certainty to be identical with Thomas Vaudrey, who first settled at the Mill Gate, in Cranage, co. Chester, early in the 17th century. This Thomas Vaudrey m. 12 Feb. 1620, Anne, dau. of — Jackson, of Sandbach, co. Chester, and by her (who d. 10 May, 1679) had issue a son and heir, and a dau., Aune. He was interred at Holmes Chapel, 29 May, 1678, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS VAUDREY, Gent. of the Mill Gate and Cotton, bapt. 3 Oct. 1622. He m. Jane, dau. of — Cotton, Gent. of Church Holme, and by her (who d. 14 June, 1686) had issue,

- i. THOMAS, eldest son and heir.
- ii. Henry, bapt. 17 Oct. 1664, d. unm.
- i. Hannah, bapt. in 1656, d. unm.
- ii. Anne, m. 14 Feb. 1689, to Cranage Wilcoxon, Gent. of Sproston, co. Chester.

Thomas Vaudrey was interred 4 May, 1697, and was s. by his son and heir,

THOMAS VAUDREY, Gent., of Cotton, and afterwards of Mill Gate, m. Sarah, dau. of John Whittingham,* Gent. of Moresbarrow, and by her (who d. 31 Dec. 1724) had issue,

- i. DANIEL, eldest son and heir.
- ii. Thomas, of Gray's Inn, and of Moresbarrow, b. 9 Dec. 1695, m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Gresty, of Peover, co. Chester: he had issue two daus., and was living in 1730.
- iii. Joseph, b. 28 Dec. 1697, m. Mary, dau. of — Glover, and had issue, a son, Thomas Vaudrey, who d. s. p., and a dau., Anne, m. to Joseph Sandbach, of Chelford.
- i. Hannah, b. 12 Feb. 1692, m. to James Bulkley, Gent. of Cranage.
- ii. Sarah, b. 10 May, 1699, m. to Ralph Dean, Gent.
- iii. Mary, b. 31 July, 1703, m. 1st, George Wood, Gent. of Knutsford, by whom she had a dau., Sarah, m. to Joseph Lee, Esq. of Redbrook, and 2ndly, to John Shawe, Gent. of Holmes Chapel.
- iv. Elizabeth, d. in infancy, in 1705.

Thomas Vaudrey was interred 21 Nov. 1715, and s. by his eldest son and heir,

* In possession of Mrs. Reddall, of Congleton, is an ancient emblazoned pedigree of the family of Whittingham of Moresbarrow, deduced from the family of Whittingham, of Whittingham, co. Lancaster, brought down to the year 1664. It contains an account of the singular accident which brought the first ancestor of this junior line into Cheshire, and we record it as a curious instance of the manners of the times:—

"Thomas Whittingham, of Whittingham, A.D. 1588, reported that Thomas Whittingham, eldest son of Thomas, in the lifetime of Thomas, his father, was slain, leaning to a tree, in his own grounds, by one of the Singletons, and that the brothers of Thomas that was slain, in revenge of that murder, slew one of the Singletons, and fled the country for that fact, which brothers were the under-mentioned Seth and Richard Whittingham."

And in the body of the pedigree it further says:—

"Seth Whittingham, son of Thomas," "fled out of Lancashire for slaying one of the Singletons of Singleton, in the said county, and lived in Cheshire, with the Abbot of Vale Royal, who was his kinsman and countryman, who gave him a farm in Swallow," (now called Swanlow), "in the said county of Chester: he had issue, four sons." He lived about 1460.

On of Seth's descendants was the noted puritan dean of Durham, William Whittingham, temp. ELIZABETH, and his initials are attached to some of the Psalms in the old version.

DANIEL VAWDREY, Esq. of the Mill Gate, b. 7 Feb. 1694, who m. Hannah, dau. of — Sandbach, Gent. of Henbury, co. Chester, and by her (who d. 14 Oct. 1753) had issue,

- i. Thomas, of the Mill Gate, b. 25 March, 1722, m. 12 May, 1757, Mary, dau. and heiress of Thomas Stanway, Gent. of Bidden Hall, co. Chester, who d. 17 April, 1793. Mr. Vawdrey was interred at Holmes Chapel, 30 May, 1779, having had issue,
 1. Thomas, b. in 1762, } d. in infancy.
 2. Daniel, b. in 1767, }
1. Anne, only dau. and heiress, bapt. 17 Feb. 1764, m. 19 Oct. 1784, the Rev. James-Eyton Mainwaring, M.A., fifth son of Edward Mainwaring, Esq. of Whitmore, and had issue, the Rev. James Mainwaring, of Biddenhall, who sold the Mill Gate estate.
- ii. Richard, b. 25 Dec. 1723, and d. unm. 12 May, 1751.
- iii. Daniel, b. in 1726, d. in 1730.
- iv. DANIEL, who continued the male line.
- i. Mary, b. 20 March, 1731, m. Richard Nicholls, Gent. of Warrington, and d. 11 May, 1804, leaving issue.

Daniel Vawdrey was interred at Holmes Chapel, 15 Oct. 1763. His second surviving son was

DANIEL VAWDREY, Esq. of Middlewich, co. Chester, b. 14 March, 1733. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of William Seaman, Esq. of Middlewich, (see p. 933,) and by her (who was interred 1 Feb. 1774, aged 30 years) had issue,

- i. Gilbert, b. in 1770, d. in 1773.
- ii. DANIEL, heir.

Mr. Vawdrey m. 2ndly, 1 Jan. 1778, Mary, dau. of Peter Seaman, Esq. of Warrington, and by her (who d. 20 March, 1834, aged 90) had issue.

- iii. Gilbert, (the Rev.), A.B., b. 28 Dec. 1778, incumbent of Wrenbury, co. Chester, d. unm. 4 Feb. 1844.
- iv. Peter, of Warrington, b. 27 April, 1780, d. unm. 19 March, 1831.

VERE OF CRAIGIEHALL AND BLACKWOOD.

HOPE-VERE, WILLIAM-EDWARD, Esq. of Craigiehall, co. Linlithgow, and Blackwood, co. Lanark, an officer in the Grenadier Guards, b. 5 March, 1824; s. his father, 19 May, 1843.

Lineage.

The surname of VERE is of great antiquity, and in ancient records was variously written, de Vere, Veyr, Were, and Weir. The family had large possessions in lands in the south of Scotland in very early times, and was known in history more than five hundred years ago.

BALTREDUS DE VERE lived in the reign of King MALCOLM IV., who s. to the crown of Scotland, anno 1153, and he is witness to a charter of King WILLIAM, who s. MALCOLM, in 1165. He left issue two sons,

- I. WALTER, his heir.
- II. DAVID, who is mentioned in a charter hereafter narrated.

WALTER DE VERE, eldest son of Baltred, appears to have been a man of rank and distinction, as well as of landed estate. He was s. by his son.

RADULPHUS, or RALPH DE VERE, who is witness in a confirmation by King WILLIAM of a donation to the 1475

VER

Abbay of Cambuskenneth, which also wants a date, but must have been in or before 1214, in which year King WILLIAM died. He confirmed his father's donation to the monastery of Kelso, and died in the end of the reign of ALEXANDER II., leaving issue a son,

THOMAS DE VERE, who s. him, and is witness in a charter of a donation to the monastery of Kelso, by Henricus de Sto. Claro, anno 1266. This Thomas and his father, Radulphus de Vere, are mentioned by the learned antiquary, Sir James Dalrymple, as progenitors of the Weirs of Blackwood. He was s. by his son,

RICARDUS DE WERE, who is mentioned in a donation to the monastery of Kelso, anno 1294. He left a son and successor,

THOMAS DE WERE, who is witness in a donation to the said monastery of Kelso, anno 1316. He was the proprietor of the lands and harony of Blackwood, in the shire of Lanark, of which the abbot and convent of Kelso were superiors. He d. in the reign of DAVID BRUCE, leaving a son,

BUAN WERE, who d. in the beginning of the reign of King ROBERT III., and left a son,

ROTALDUS WERE, of Blackwood, who s. him, and, as heir to his grandfather Thomas, got a charter from Patrick, abbot of Kelso, dilecto et fideli suo Rotaldo de Were, terrarum de Blackwood et Dermondstone jacen. in baronia de Lesmahagow et vice comitatu de Lanark, &c., dated in 1404. This Rotaldus was designed by the title of Blackwood above 360 years ago, and his posterity have uninterruptedly enjoyed it ever since. He d. in the reign of King JAMES II., leaving issue a son,

THOMAS WERE, of Blackwood, of whom we have nothing remarkable upon record. He was father of

ROBERT VEYR, of Blackwood, who got a charter of confirmation from Robert, abbot of Kelso, (as heir to Rotaldus, his grandfather,) dilecto et fideli suo Roberto de Veyr, terras de Rogershall, Brownhill, &c., in dominio de Blackwood et vice comitatu de Lanark, dated anno 1479. He d. soon after, leaving a son,

THOMAS WEIR, of Blackwood, who m. Ægidia, dau. of John, third Lord Somerville, and dying in the beginning of the reign of Queen MARY, left a son,

JAMES WEIR, of Blackwood, who lived to a great age, d. in the year 1595, and by Eupham Hamilton, his wife, had,

- I. JAMES, who m. Mariotte Ramsay, dau. of George, Lord Dalhousie, and was father of GEORGE, successor to his grandfather,
- II. WILLIAM, of Staneybryes, who is mentioned in a charter narrated in the sequel. His son, George Weir, was father of Sir William Weir, of Staneybryes, one of the commissioners of war for Lanarkshire, in 1647.
- III. ROBERT, styled of Craig-Head, who emigrated to Ireland, and obtaining a grant of land in the county of Fermanagh, became ancestors of the WEIRS there seated.
- IV. John, of Fowneill.

James Weir was s. by his grandson,

GEORGE WEIR, of Blackwood, who m. 1st, Margaret, eldest lawful dau. of William Vere, of Staneybryes, and by her had only one dau.,

MARIOTTE, his heir.

He m. 2ndly, Barbara Johnston, but by her he had no issue; and dying about the year 1646, was s. by his only surviving child,

MARIOTTE WEIR, heiress of Blackwood, who m. 1st, Major James Bannatyne, who dying soon after, without issue, she m. 2ndly, William Lowrie, Esq. of Aucheneath, who was thereupon designated tutor of Blackwood, and by him she had a son,

GEORGE, who, in consequence of the settlements of the estate above recited, was designed GEORGE WEIR, of Blackwood, particularly in a charter of several lands, dated 18 Aug. 1668. There is a sasine of all and hail the lands and barony of Blackwood &c. in favour of William Lowrie, Esq., tutor of Blackwood, and Mariotte Weir, his spouse, dau. and heiress of umquhile George Weir, of Blackwood, in life-rent, and to George Weir, their eldest lawful son, and apparent heir, in fee and heritage, dated 16 March, 1672. Also a resignation from William Lowrie and Mariotte Weir, in favour of the said George Weir, of Blackwood, and the heirs-male of his body; which, failing, to the eldest heirs-female &c. of all and hail the lands of Brown Castle, and others in the barony of Blackwood, dated 10 July, 1674. He m. 1st,

Anne, dau. of George Cleland, of Gartness, Esq., by Margaret, his wife, dau. of — Hamilton, of Wishaw, and by her had a son and dau., viz.,

GEORGE (Sir), his heir.
Margaret, who d. young.

He m. 2ndly, Helen, dau. of Mr. Robert Bruce, of Broom Hall, progenitor of the Earls of Elgin and Kincardine, by whom he had a second son, William, advocate, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Stewart, Esq. of Ascog, and had two daus.

George was s. by his eldest son,

SIR GEORGE WEIR, of Blackwood, who was created a baronet by King WILLIAM III., 28 Nov. 1694. He m. Catherine, dau. of Sir John Jardine, of Applegirth, by Lady Margaret Douglas, his wife, dau. of James, Earl of Queensbury, and had two sons and two daus.,

I. WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.

II. GEORGE (Sir), who, upon the death of his brother without issue-male, s. to his title, and was third baronet. He was a capt. in the Scots Royal regt. of foot, but dying unm. in 1735, the baronetcy became extinct.

I. Margaret, m. William Hamilton, Esq. of Dalsersf, and had issue.

II. Catherine, m. John Lockhart, Esq. of Cleghorn, and had issue.

Sir George d. in Feb. 1716, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM WEIR, second baronet of Blackwood, who m. Rachael, dau. of James Hamilton, of Pencaitland, one of the senators of the College of Justice, by Catherine Denholm, his wife, a dau. of Westshiells. By her he had one dau.,

CATHERINE, who carried on the line of this family.

He m. 2ndly, Christian, dau. of Sir Philip Anstruther, of Anstruther-field, but had no other issue. Sir William d. in 1722, (his widow m. John, sixth Earl of Traquair, and was grandmother of the present earl,) when the baronetcy devolved upon his brother, Sir George, as before observed, and he was s. by his only child,

CATHERINE WEIR, who m. in 1733, the HON. CHARLES HOPE, of Craigiehall, second son of Charles, second Earl of Hopetoun, by Lady Henrietta Johnston, heiress of the estate of Craigiehall, only dau. of William, first Marquess of Annandale, and had four sons and two daus., of whom the eldest surviving son,

WILLIAM HOPE-VERE, Esq. of Blackwood, an officer in the first regiment of Dragoon-guards, and for some time muster-master-general of the forces in North Britain. He m. Sophia, dau. of Joseph Corrie, Esq. of Dumfries, and had surviving issue,

I. JAMES-JOSEPH, his heir.

II. Edward-Hamilton, b. in Jan. 1792, d. in 1835.

I. Jane-Sophia, m. in 1813, to the Hon. Edmund-Sexton-Pery Knox, second son of the Earl of Ranfurly.

Mr. Hope-Veré d. in Sept. 1811, and was s. by his son,

JAMES-JOSEPH HOPE-VERE, Esq. of Blackwood and Craigiehall, b. 3 June, 1785, who m. 7 Sept. 1813, the Lady Elizabeth Hay, fourth dau. of the late Marquess of Tweeddale, and had issue, VERE, NOW WEIR, OF MANAGHIN, CO. FERMANAGH.

WEIR, JOHN, Esq., representative of the Irish branch of the ancient family of Weir or Vere, s. his father in 1818, m. Caroline-Mary, dau. of John Chamley, Esq. of Belcamp, co. Dublin, and has several sons and daus.

Wincage.

ROBERT WEIR, third son of James Weir, of Blackwood, by his wife, Eupham Hamilton, (see preceding article) was styled of Craig-Head, a locality situated on the River Clyde, more anciently called Fair-holm (Inquisition of Lanark): an ancient pedigree, in the possession of the representative of this existing line, says, that this Robert was married to a sister of Sir David Lindsay, by whom he had a son, Alexander Weir, and that, having offended the Duke of Hamilton, Viceroy of Scotland, under King JAMES I. of England, he sold or assigned his estate, about the year 1610, and emigrated to the north of Ireland, soon after which Craig-Head is undoubtedly recorded as the property of James, Duke of Hamilton (Inquisition of Lanark, 1625). This removal was further induced by the concurrence of the plantation of Ulster, on which occasion, Sir Robert Hamilton, a connexion of his namesake of Craig-Head, became the first patentee of Derreenavogher, 1500 acres, plantation measure, co. Fermanagh, to hold on the prescribed statutable conditions. Within this district Robert Weir obtained, by mesne assignment, a settlement, and ultimately the higher title of a royal patent, for the tates of Dromeragh, Dromore, Managhin, Tullagarine, alias Tullymargee, &c., described as lying within the middle proportion of Derreenavogher. On that part called Managhin, Robert resided until his death, which occurred in 1633. His son, Alexander, d. in the previous year; but having, in 1614, m. Anne, dau. of Sir John Dunbar, of Derrygonelly, co. Fermanagh, he left issue two sons, John and Alexander Weir, and three daus. On the breaking out of the civil war, in 1641, the widow, Anne, with her orphans, suffered severely from the adherents of O'Neill, in the north, until, after seeking a temporary shelter in the old Friary of Lisgoole, on the south side of Lough Erne, and sustaining there the perfidious consequences of a violated capitulation, Mrs. Weir was suffered to escape to Enniskillen, with but one son, the above

ALEXANDER WEIR, then aged nine years, and his sister Jane, alone saved from massacre; there they remained, until the insurgents were driven out of Fermanagh. When Munroe, in his efforts to enlist the well-affected royalists of Ireland, came to Enniskillen, Alexander Weir engaged as a volunteer with him in the king's army; immediately after which, in 1651, he fought and was wounded, at the battle of Worcester, whereupon he remained amongst his relatives in Scotland, until, on the Settlement of Ireland, he was, in 1666, adjudicated compensation for his conduct as one of the commissioned officers "who had served his majesty, or his royal father of blessed memory;" he thereupon returned to his former residence in the co. Fermanagh, where he resided until the breaking out of the Revolution. In Nov. 1688, James, the son of Sir John Hume, of Castle-Hume, jointly with this Alexander Weir, raised an independent troop of horse, in support of the Prince of Orange; but Mr. Hume having d. before any action occurred, the command devolved upon Alexander Weir, who, in June, 1689, routed a party of King JAMES's adherents, at Ballyshannon, and, on his return to the head-quarters in Enniskillen, being ordered out to intercept a large body of the enemy, coming, under the command of Lord Montcashel, to assault that town, he, with Captain Martin Armstrong, achieved a memorable victory at Newtown-Butler. Contemporaneous notices detail many circumstances of Capt. Weir's bravery, and military address, on that day. It was immediately after this, that he was ordered to garrison Boyle, and report of Sarsfield's movements; his information accordingly led to the engagement wherein he received his mortal wound. He was afterwards carried into Boyle, and there dying, was buried within the Abbey, while the Lord Kingston caused that monument to be erected upon the spot where he fell, which is still traceable at Boherboy. This gallant officer left issue by his wife, Sarah Goodwin, two sons, ROBERT and John: the latter d. young; the former,

ROBERT WEIR, was b. in 1676, and, though but thirteen years of age at the time of the above engagement, was enrolled in his father's troop, and, upon his death, transferred to that of Brigadier Wolsley. He afterwards fought and was wounded at the battle of the Boyne; but, constant in his allegiance to King WILLIAM, he carried arms in his cause at Athlone, Aghrim, and Limerick, before which last place he remained until the capitulation, when is regiment having been reduced, he was fain to do service in that of Sir Henry Bellasis as a volunteer. Being subsequently restored to a portion of his family's estates, he d. Anne, dau. of Captain Christopher Carleton, a distinguished officer, of Cumberland ancestry, and dying in 1743, left issue by her, Alexander Weir, his eldest son, and several younger children, from one of whom has descended the branch of the Weirs that settled in the co. Sligo early in the eighteenth century, and is now represented there by William Weir, Esq., of Lakeview, immediately in the vicinity of Boyle.

ALEXANDER WEIR, the eldest son of Robert, was a captain in the Fermanagh Militia, in 1745, when he m. Barbara, dau. of John Crozier, of Magheradunbar, co. Fermanagh, by whom he had issue two sons, ROBERT and JOHN, and one dau., Barbara. John, the younger son, when a lieutenant in the 43rd regt. of foot, was nominated one of the esquires to Sir Guy Carleton, upon his installation to the knighthood of the Bath, in 1779, and was described in the patent of this appointment as second son of Alexander Weir, of Managhin, co. Fermanagh, while the particulars of his descent and lineage were expressly acknowledged thereby, with the certified sanction of Garter and Clarenceux Kings-at-Arms, and an exemplification of armorials. He afterwards served in the American war, under Lord Cornwallis, where, having lost his leg, he d. a captain in the 41st regt. of Invalids, in 1811. He had m. twice, but left no issue. His sister, Barbara, m. John Johnson, of Brook-hill, co. Leitrim, and d. leaving issue, one son and two daus.

ROBERT WEIR, Esq., the eldest son of Alexander and Barbara, was a magistrate and deputy-governor of Fermanagh, of which co. he served the office of high-sheriff. He m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Rynd, of Ballywhillin, in that co., and d. in 1818, leaving JOHN WEIR, the present representative of the family, and five daus., the eldest of whom, Mary, m. John Phillips, Esq. of Edstone, Stratford-upon-Avon, who d. in Jan. 1836, and has issue, two daus.; the eldest m. to Darwin Galton, Esq., son and heir of Samuel-Tertius Galton, Esq. of Duddleston-house, Warwickshire, by Frances-Anne-Violetta Darwin, dau. of Doctor Erasmus Darwin, equally celebrated as a physician and a poet.

WAGGETT OF CORK.

WAGGETT, THOMAS-GEORGE, Esq., late capt. in the army, became the representative of this family on the death of his only brother, William Waggett, Esq., Queen's Counsel, and Recorder of the city of Cork, 24 Nov. 1840. He m. in April, 1804, Phœbe, relict of William Lane, Esq. of the city of Cork, and by her (who d. 17 March, 1823) has no issue.

* Field-Marshal Sir George Howard, K.B., was eldest son of Lieut.-General Thomas Howard, and grandson of George Howard, Esq., who was younger brother of Francis, fifth Lord Howard of Effingham, (see BURKE'S Peerage.)

Lineage.

The orthography of this name has varied at different periods; Wiggett, Waggett, and Waggett: they first settled in Dublin. RICHARD WIGGETT, Esq., was mayor of that city in 1622. He m. Anne, dau. of John Perceval, Esq. of Dublin and Barntown, co. Wexford, and it was this connexion that led to the family's locating at Spittle, near Buttevant, co. Cork. Robert Waggett, Esq. of said place, (of whom presently,) was possessed of considerable property in that locality, under Sir John Perceval, Bart.; his will is dated 7 March, 1680, proved 9 Nov. 1681: a copy of it is in the possession of Nicholas Dunscombe, Esq. of Grenville-place, city of Cork, a great-great-grandson, by his mother, Jane Waggett; executrix, Anne, his wife; executor, his brother-in-law, George Crofts, Esq., jun., of Buttevant; overseers, Sir John Perceval, Bart., George Crofts, Esq. of Churchtown, and Derby Collins, Esq. of Buttevant.

ROBERT WAGGETT, Esq. of Spittle, near Buttevant, co. Cork, before mentioned, m. Anne Crofts, a dau. of Christopher Crofts, Esq. of Buttevant, and d. in 1680, leaving issue, who are all extinct except the issue of his second son, CHRISTOPHER, of whom presently. Anne Waggett, the widow of said Robert, m. 2ndly, William Bowers, Esq., marriage bond dated 12 June, 1683.

CHRISTOPHER WAGGETT, Esq., the second son of Robert, m. Mary Crofts, a dau. of George Crofts, Esq. of Velvetstown, (marriage bond dated 3 Aug. 1696,) and left surviving issue, one son, WILLIAM, of whom presently, and one dau., Anne, who m. George Crofts, Esq. of Churchtown, (marriage bond dated 28 Feb. 1719.)

WILLIAM WAGGETT, Esq., the son of Christopher, m. in 1741, Eliza Webb, otherwise Holmes, the relict of John Webb, Esq., and mother to Alderman John Webb, of the city of Cork: she was dau. of Thomas Holmes, Esq., and granddau. of Sir Mathew Deane, Knt. Mr. Waggett died, leaving issue, by her, two sons,

i. CHRISTOPHER, his heir.

ii. Thomas, b. 14 March, 1744, m. in Sept. 1778, Eliza, dau. of George Sealy, Esq. of Barleyfield, near Bandon, co. Cork, by Anne, otherwise Baldwin. He was mayor of the city of Cork in 1803, and d. 26 Sept. 1817, leaving issue,

1. George-Sealy, sheriff of co. Cork in 1807.

2. Thomas, rector of Rathclarin in the diocese of Cork, m. 22 Dec. 1821, Belinda, third and youngest dau. of Christopher Saunders, Esq. of Newtown, near Charleville, co. Cork, and Eliza, otherwise Night. She d. 1 March, 1837, leaving issue, one son, Thomas, b. 16 Feb. 1827; and four daus., Eliza, Belinda, Dorcas, and Anne.

1. Anne.

2. Eliza, m. 13 Sept. 1831, the Rev. Morgan Jellett, rector of Tullycorbett, co. Monaghan, being his second wife.

The elder son,

CHRISTOPHER WAGGETT, Esq., one of the first merchants in the city of Cork, and contractor during the American war, was b. 5 March, 1742-3, m. in May, 1770, Johanna Barclay, (who was b. in 1742, and d. in May, 1805,) the only child of Thomas Barclay, Esq., and Elizabeth, otherwise Fosberry, his wife, one of the three daus. of George Fosberry, Esq. of the co. of Limerick. Mr. Waggett, who was sheriff of the city of Cork in 1786, d. 20 May, 1796, leaving issue three sons and three daus., viz.,

1. William, queen's counsel, b. in 1771, elected recorder of the city of Cork in 1808, subsequently was the only recorder who ever sat in the common council of the old corporation of the city of Cork, and to which he established his right by a mandamus from the King's Bench, 5 May, 1810. The common council, seeing that all opposition was vain, as he staked his reputation as a lawyer on the question, sent a deputation to him to communicate that they would concede the right he claimed, but not until he had actually commenced proceedings. His reply on the occasion was worthy of the man: "In a few days I will take my seat at the common council, upon the authority of a mandamus." He was an eminent lawyer, and a first-rate speaker; the highest professional preference lay before him, if he had been influenced by the remotest particle of ambition. He d. at his seat, Kitsborough, near Cork, 24 Nov. 1840, unm.

* An error crept into the Dunscombe of Mount Desert genealogy, stating the name of the second wife of William Dunscombe, Esq. of Mount Desert, as Mary Crofts; whereas the second wife of the said William Dunscombe, Esq., was Mary Roberts, a sister to Benjamin Roberts, Esq. of the city of Cork, the marriage bond dated 20 Jan. 1695.

ii. THOMAS-GEORGE, the present representative.

iii. Christopher, b. in 1785, d. a minor.

i. Eliza, who m. 16 Sept. 1802, the Rev. Thomas Carson, rector of Kilmahon, diocese of Cloyne, but a native of the co. Monaghan, d. 14 Nov. 1824, leaving issue, two sons and three daus.,

1. Thomas, rector of Cavan, co. Cavan, b. 27 Aug. 1805, m. 29 Oct. 1833, Ellen, dau. of Robert Burton, Esq. of the city of Dublin, by Ellen, otherwise Williams, his second wife, and has issue.

2. Joseph, fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, b. 5 May, 1815, m. 21 July, 1841, Harriet, dau. of William-Pitt Blunden, Esq. of Wellington, co. Kilkenny, by Harriet, otherwise Pope, and has issue.

1. Maria, d. unm. in Aug. 1830.

2. Eliza, m. 25 Nov. 1841, James Colthurst, Esq., surviving son of Capt. James Colthurst, and Hester, otherwise Warren, and has issue.

WALDIE OF HENDERSYDE.

WALDIE, JOHN, Esq. of Hendersyde Park, co. Roxburghe, and Kingswood, co. Northumberland, b. 1 May, 1781; s. his father in 1826, and is a deputy-lieut. for Roxburghshire.

Lineage.

From the want of early records, it is impossible to fix the exact period the Waldies first settled in Kelso and its neighbourhood. The name was variously spelt Waitbo, Watho, Waltho, and Waldie, and sometimes it occurs in the same document, written in two different ways. The first of the family to be traced in any record is THOMAS

WATHO, who was public and papal notary to the Abbey of Kelso. He seems to have carried on his profession for several years previously to the Reformation, and notarial instruments drawn up by him are still to be met with in the charter chests of the Border families, dated from 1508 to 1535. It is probable that from this connexion with the abbots, he may have acquired some of the town lands, which were then belonging to the church, and now form part of the present Mr. Waldie's estate in Kelso parish; but as no statement of the rental rights of that period is preserved, this fact cannot now be substantiated. Certain it is, however, that JOHN WALTHO (the father of GEORGE WALTHO, living in 1652, who first spelt his name WALDIE) was a considerable proprietor of the Mark lands of Kelso, and the titles show that they had descended to him by succession and not by purchase. This John was the first in whose favour any title to lands is preserved in the charter chest of Hendersyde. His son,

GEORGE WALDIE, acquired other lands to a considerable extent, (some of which are still in the family,) and got a charter for them and also for those he had inherited from his father, from the Earl of Roxburghe in 1664. He m. Elspeth Muscibett, (originally Montfichet,) and was, as previously stated, the first who adopted the orthography of WALDIE, which his successors have since continued to use. The grandfather of the present representative of this ancient family,

JOHN WALDIE, Esq. of Berryhill and Hayhope, son of George Waldie, who d. in 1745, by Jean, his wife, dau. of William Pringle, baillie of Kelso, m. Jean, eldest dau. and heir of Charles Ormston,* Esq. of Hendersyde, by his wife, Jane Rawlinson, of Graithwaite Hall, co. Lancaster, and had a son and heir,

GEORGE WALDIE, Esq. of Hendersyde, who m. in 1779, Ann, eldest dau. of Jonathan Ormston, Esq. of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Maria-Jane, who m. in 1812, Richard Griffith, Esq. of Dublin, and of Pencraig, co. Anglesey, and has one son, and one dau.; the latter m. to Robert Bramston Smith, Esq.

Charlotte-Ann, who m. in 1822, Stephen Eaton, Esq. of Stamford, and has two sons and two daus.

Jane, who m. in 1820, George-Augustus Watts, Esq., and d. in 1826, leaving one son.

Mr. Waldie d. in 1826, and was s. by his son, the present JOHN WALDIE, Esq. of Hendersyde.

WALDIE, OR WALDY, OF EGGLESCLIFFE.

WALDY, THE REV. RICHARD, of Haughton-le-Skerne, and Longnewton, co. Durham, and WALDY, THOMAS-WILLIAM, Esq. of Egglescliffe, co. Durham, and Castle Leventon, co. York, a magistrate for the North Riding of York and for the county palatine, are the surviving sons of John Waldy, Esq. of Yarm, co. York, by Margaret, his wife, sole heir of Richard Garmonsway, Esq. of Haughton-le-Skerne, and Great Burdon, co. Durham, and succeeded, with his other co-heirs, to the estates of their father in the North Riding of York and co. Durham, 5 Jan. 1832.

* The Ormstons were a family of long standing at Kelso, deriving immediately from Robert Ormstowne, merchant, who m. in 1600, Elizabeth Edmonstone. The Hendersyde estate was purchased in 1715, from Edmonstone of Ednam, and conveyed, by the marriage of JANE ORMSTON with JOHN WALDIE, to the family of Waldie.

* This John Walcot, Esq., contracted for the sale to Robert, Lord Clive, of the greater part of the ancient Walcot property, including Walcot Park, &c., and the sale was completed by his eldest son, Charles, about the year 1764.

Lineage.

WALDRON OF ASHFORT HOUSE.

WALDRON, HUBERT-KELLY, Esq. of Ashfort House, co. Roscommon, b. 10 Sept. 1795; s. his father-in-law, 27 Sept. 1828; m. 1st, in Sept. 1816, Elizabeth-Barbara, only child of Vaughan Waldron, Esq. of Ashfort House, by Barbara, his wife, only child of Thomas Waldron, Esq. of Rocksavage, co. Roscommon, by his wife, Elizabeth Baldwin, of the city of Dublin, and had issue, (with other children, who d. young,) Barbara, Mary, Sarah, and Rebecca-Elizabeth. He m. 2ndly, in Dec. 1831, Ellen, dau. of the Rev. Francis Johnstone, of Traymount, by Anne Martly, and has issue, one son, HUBERT-KELLY-JAMES-JOHN JOHNSTONE, b. 14 Oct. 1832. Mr.

Waldron is in the commission of the peace for Leitrim and Roscommon, and served the office of high-sheriff for Leitrim in 1832.

Lineage.

This name is of English extraction, and was borne in the reign of HENRY II., A.D. 1157, by WALTER WALDRON, who, in DUGDALE'S English Baronage, we are informed, was one of the great barons of that time, that had paid an aid of twenty-five knights' fees towards the marriage of the king's daughter. He m. Isabella, dau. of William Longsword, son and heir of William, Earl of Salisbury, and d. in 1211.

From this root sprang, after a period of three hundred and ninety-one years,

SIR RICHARD WALDRON, Knt., the immediate ancestor of the present family. He left Dorsetshire and went to Ireland in 1609, settling at the castle of Dromellan, co. Cavau, where King JAMES I. of England had allotted to him an extensive estate in the barony of Loughtee. His son,

THOMAS WALDRON, m. Elizabeth, sister of Sir William Reeves, attorney-general for Ireland in the reign of CHARLES I., and had issue,

HENRY WALDRON, who in 1641, was in the list of the "attainted" gentry of Cavan. He was the father of

FRANCIS WALDRON, who left Dromellan Castle about the year 1697, and settled at Cartron, co. Roscommon. He m. Jane, dau. of the Rev. Henry Roycroft, and was father of

FRANCIS WALDRON, who m. in 1710, Mary, dau. of Charles Joues, of Ardnaree, co. Sligo, by whom he had issue,

- I. ARTHUR, his heir.
- II. THOMAS, of whom presently.
- III. Charles, who resided at Cartron: he m. Miss Simpson, of Drumsna, and had issue, Charles, who settled in Australia; Anne; and Mary, m. to Arthur Lawder, Esq. of Bonnybeg, co. Leitrim.
- I. Jane, m. James Armstrong, Esq. of Annaduff, King's Co., and had a son, St. George, and a dau., Mary, m. to James Honan, Esq. of Ballycommin.
- II. Mary, m. to Mathew Nisbett, Esq. of Derrycarn.

The eldest son,

ARTHUR WALDRON, Esq., who m. his cousin, Jane Jones, of Ardnaree, and was father of

FRANCIS WALDRON, Esq., a major in the Roscommon militia, who settled at Ashfort House, co. Roscommon. He m. Sarah Mainwaring, an English lady, and had (with two daus., Mrs. Armstrong, and Mrs. Mahon, of Cave town, co. Roscommon) a son, VAUGHAN WALDRON, Esq. of Ashfort House, who m. twice, 1st, Barbara, only dau. of Thomas Waldron, Esq. of Rocksavage, co. Roscommon, by Elizabeth Baldwin, of the city of Dublin, and had issue an only dau., Elizabeth-Barbara, m. in Sept. 1816, to Hubert Kelly Waldron, Esq. Mr. Waldron m. 2ndly, Frances Buck, and had issue, Francis, Arthur, Rebecca, Catherine, Vaughan, and Andrew.

The second son of Francis Waldron, and Mary Jones, his wife,

THOMAS WALDRON, Esq., resided at Drumsna, co. Leitrim. He m. Elizabeth, sister to Mary, wife of Francis Nisbett, of Derrycarn, and dau. of Thomas Blakeney, of Abbert, co. Galway, and had (with a dau., m. to Thomas Lounds, Esq. of the co. Cavan) a son,

FRANCIS WALDRON, Esq., who m. 1st, Mary Kelly, of the Charleville family, co. Westmeath, and by her had issue, six sons and five daus., viz.,

- I. THOMAS, who resided at Lismoyle, co. Leitrim: he m. Elizabeth Waldern, but left no issue.
- II. Edward, m. Jane, dau. of Gilbert Hogg, of Moyglass, and had issue, one son, Francis, who is in the commission of the peace for Leitrim. Edward was J.P. for Leitrim and Roscommon, and served as high-sheriff for Leitrim.
- III. Francis, d. unm.
- IV. HUBERT-KELLY, now of Ashfort House, co. Roscommon.
- V. Michael, m. twice: 1st, Frances Cox, by whom he had no issue, and 2ndly, Mary Cox, by whom he has issue, Samuel, William, Fanny, and Maria.
- I. Arabella, m. Thomas Watkins, of Summerset House, in the Kiug's Co., and had issue, John, m. Mary-Anne, dau. of John Baillie, of the King's Co.; Francis, who d. unm.; and Mary, m. to John Kidd, of the city of Dublin.

- II. Eliza, m. James Hogg, of Gilstown, and left issue, with Mary, Anne, Cluna, Fanny, and Catherine, four sons, James-Hemsworth, Godfrey, Gilbert, and William.
 III. Maria, d. unm. IV. Anne, married.
 V. Jane.

Tincage.

Walford, near Ross, Herefordshire, is called in Domesday Book both Waleford and Walford, and would seem to signify the ford into Wales, though Giraldus Cambrensis calls it Willowford. The village at the time of the Conquest formed part of the possessions of the cathedral church of Hereford; and when the CONQUEROR imposed military service upon the bishops, (from which they were previously exempt,) these lands were converted into a knight's fee, and the owner, holding by knight's service, took his name from his possessions, according to the custom of those days.

In 1164, SIR HUGH DE WALFORD held one knight's fee, as it appears by the returns made to the king by the Bishop of Hereford, when Matilda, the dau. of HENRY II. was betrothed to the Lion Duke of Saxony. "Hæc sunt nomina feoffatorum de Episcopatu de Hereford. . . . Dominus Hugo de Walford, 1 mil."—Lib. nig. Scacc. In 1272, SIR THOMAS DE WALFORD, is returned as lord or owner of the village of Walford, containing five hides of land, holding by military tenure under the Bishop of Hereford, by ancient feoffment* and of the honour of Ross.—Testa de Neril. In 1282, 10 EDWARD I., JOHN DE WALFORD, Esq., served with Robert le Venour, Esq., in lieu of Sir Thomas de Walford, Knt., (two esquires being equivalent to one knight,) and fought in the king's army at BUILT, as esquires of the Bishop of Hereford, in the great expedition against Wales, each knight and esquire serving forty days with a covered horse.—Escuage Roll, 26 EDWARD I.; MADOX, Hist. Exch. and Bar Ang. In 1316, JOHN DE WALFORD is returned in answer to the king's writ, 9 EDWARD II., as Lord of Walford.—PALGRAVE'S Parliamentary Writs, vol. 2. In 1326, THOMAS DE WALFORD held five hides of land, for which he was assessed in the scutage for the army in Scotland, 1 EDWARD III.—Hart. MS., 6765. In 1373, RICHARD DE WALFORD (Clericus) was presented to the rectory of Whitbourn by the Bishop of Hereford; and in 1399, Sir Hugh de Walford (Dominus Hugo) was witness to a charter of this date, by John of Monmouth, to the Priory of Monmouth.—DUGDALE, Mon. Ang. The elder branch of the family seems to have become extinct about this time, and Walford Court (once a splendid stone mansion, surrounded by a thick wall, one mile in circumference, but now in ruins) passed into the possession of the Kyrle family, who became renowned in John Kyrle, Pope's "Man of Ross." (See MONEY-KYRLE OF HOM HOUSE.) A younger branch migrated at an early period into the adjoining county, Shropshire, and had an estate at Alveley, near Bridgenorth. In 1413, the Rev. William Walford, vicar of Great Upton, gave certain lands at Alveley to the abbey of St. Peter, Shrewsbury. The Walfords also possessed Walford Grange, near Shrewsbury, in HENRY VIII.'s reign. The following is the continuation of the pedigree to the present day:—

THOMAS WALFORD, Esq. of Bobbington, near Alveley, living in 1596, was father of

THOMAS WALFORD, b. at Bobbington, in 1629, whose son,

THOMAS WALFORD, b. at the same place, in 1666, had JOHN WALFORD, (his youngest son,) b. at Bobbington, in 1709, who settled at the Moor estate, Patteringham, near Bridgenorth, and was father of JOHN WALFORD, Esq., b. at Patteringham, in 1753, who d. in 1780, leaving, by Mary, his wife, dau. of Walter Winkle, Esq. of Shiffnal, co. Stafford, two sons and two daus., viz.,

- I. JOHN, b. in 1775, d. in 1825.
 II. RICHARD, now of St. Vincent, Isle of Wight.
 I. Jane, m. to Benjamin Penny, Esq.
 II. Ann, m. to William Corser, Esq. of Bromsgrove.

 III. George, b. 1 Jan. 1845.
 I. Jane. II. Emilia. III. Mary.

* The words, "de veteri feoffamento," in this return, prove that the tenure commenced prior to the death of HENRY I. (and therefore probably in the time of WILLIAM I.) as all grants subsequently to HENRY I. were denominated "nova feoffamenta."

Mr. Walker-Arnott, a magistrate for the counties of Fife and Kinross, and a deputy-lieut. of the latter, is a member of the Scottish Bar. He s. his father, 20 Jan. 1823.

Lineage.

This family of Arnott is descended from a cadet of the house of Arnott of Arnott, of which the eldest branch, which was invested with a Nova Scotia baronetcy in 1629, is now believed to be extinct. The late George Arnott, of Arlary, (maternal uncle to the father of the present proprietor,) on having his coat of arms registered in the office of the Lord Lyon king-at-arms, got added to the arms of Arnott, the fret belonging to the name of Gardener, on account of his mother. The same arms were continued to the late David Walker-Arnott, on his assuming the name of ARNOTT and becoming the representative of his maternal uncle, he then dropping entirely those of WALKER.

DAVID WALKER, son of David Walker, and Agnes Foulis, his wife, m. 31 Dec. 1724, Ann Russell, and had, besides several daus., three sons, I. DAVID; II. James, m. Miss Burt, of Barns, and had a son, David, and three daus.; III. John, d. unm. The elder son,

DAVID WALKER, b. 9 May, 1729, m. 25 Dec. 1768, Mary, dau. of Robert Arnott, of Holct, and sister of George Arnott, of Arlary, and d. in 1771, having had, besides a dau., Mary, who d. young, a son and heir,

DAVID WALKER, Esq., b. 18 Aug. 1769, who s. his maternal uncle, Robert Arnott, (who d. unm. 18 March, 1807, and who had succeeded his brother, George Arnott, on the 10th of the preceding February,) and assumed the additional surname of ARNOTT. He m. 27 Aug. 1793, Emilia, dau. of the late John Stewart, Esq. of Stenton, co. Perth, and Jane, his wife, dau. of Paul Husband, Esq. of Edinburgh, and had issue, (besides others who d. in infancy), GEORGE-ARNOTT, his heir. John, b. 21 Aug. 1806. Jane-Stewart, m. 6 Feb. 1829, to the Rev. John Wilson, of Walston, and has issue.

Mary, m. 22 Aug. 1826, to Lieut. Edward Bayley, R.N., who is deceased.

Mr. Walker-Arnott d. 20 Jan. 1823, and was s. by his elder son, the present GEORGE-ARNOTT WALKER-ARNOTT, Esq. of Arlary.

Arms, Crest, and Motto—see BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations. Seat—Arlary, co. Kinross.

WALKER OF DALRY.

WALKER, JAMES, Esq. of Dalry, Mid-Lothian, b. in 1790; m. 28 Oct. 1825, Lillias, youngest dau. of Roderick Mackenzie, Esq. of Scotsburn, co. Ross, (grandson of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, Bart. of Scatwell,) and his wife, Anne, dau. of Alexander Chisholm, of Chisholm, (commonly called The Chisholm,) and by her (who d. in Nov. 1833) has issue,

- I. JAMES, b. 21 Jan. 1830.
- II. Jane-Anne.
- III. Henrietta-Mackenzie.
- IV. Lillias-Margaret.

Mr. Walker has been for some years a justice of the peace and a deputy-lieut. for Mid-Lothian. He was called to the bar in 1811, and filled the office of sheriff of co. Wigton from 1818 till 1843, which he then resigned on being appointed one of the Principal Clerks of Session in Scotland.

Lineage.

This family, though settled for a considerable period in East-Lothian, is stated* to be descended from the Walkers of St. Fort, in Fifeshire. The great-grandfather of the present possessor of Dalry,

JOHN WALKER, Esq., who resided at Beanstown, co. Haddington, is thus noticed in the Statistical Account of Scotland:—"Mr. John Walker, who possessed considerable property in this parish, is celebrated as the person who first introduced the system of fallowing land, and of thereby raising wheat crops far more extensively than formerly. He was a person of great intelligence and enterprise, and set an excellent example of superior farm culture to his neighbours. He was descended from the family of Walker, of St. Fort, in Fife, and flourished about the time of the revolution." He was father of

FRANCIS WALKER, Esq. of Mainhill, co. Haddington, who had several sons, one of whom, John, having entered the military profession, was killed in battle in the East Indies. Another of the sons,

JAMES WALKER, Esq. of Dalry, one of the Principal Clerks of Session in Scotland, m. 1st, 13 July, 1780, Jane, dau. of Richard Hay Newton, Esq. of Newton, co. Haddington, third son of Lord William Hay, of Newhall, (who was third son of John, second Marquess of Tweeddale, by the Lady Anne Maitland, his wife, only child of John, Duke of Lauderdale,) and by her had issue,

- I. FRANCIS, who m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir John Forbes Drummond, Bart. of Hawthornden, and at the decease of his father-in-law, in 1829, s. to the baronetcy and estate of Drummond of Hawthornden. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)
- II. JAMES, now of Dalry.

I. Jane, m. in 1805, to James Hope, Esq. of Wardie Lodge, Mid-Lothian.

II. Anne. III. Helen.

Mr. Walker m. 2ndly, in 1797, Marion-Anne, dau. of John Hope, M.D., professor of Botany in the University of Edinburgh, and by her had an only dau.,

Juliana, m. to Sir John Hall, Bart. of Dunglass.

Arms, &c.—see BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations. Seat—Dalry, Mid-Lothian.

WALKER-HENEAGE OF COMPTON BASSET.

WALKER-HENEAGE, GEORGE-HENEAGE, Esq. of Compton Bassett, in the co. Wilts, M.A. of Christ Church College, Oxford, b. 17 July, 1799; m. 7 Aug. 1824, Harriet-Sarah, eldest dau. of William Webber, Esq. of Binfield Lodge, in the co. Berks, and has had issue,

- I. Alan, b. in May, 1826, d. in Aug. 1828.

- I. Matilda-Harriet. II. Alice.

This gentleman, the eldest son and heir of the late Rev. George Wyld, of Speen, co. Berks, M.A., vicar of Cheveley, in the same county, (who d. 1 Jan. 1837,) inherited, under the will of Mrs. Arabella Walker-Heneage, late of Compton Bassett, widow of his maternal great-uncle, John Walker-Heneage, Esq., dated 25 May, 1813, all her manors, capital and other messuages, lands, and hereditaments, in the several counties of Wilts, Berks, Somerset, Middlesex, and Surrey; and, in compliance with a proviso annexed to such possession, was authorized, by a Royal licence, dated 20 Aug. 1818, to take the surname and arms of the family of WALKER-HENEAGE only. He is hereditary chief usher of the Court of Exchequer, and chief proclinator of the Court of Common Pleas, &c., a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the co. Wilts, and served the office of high-sheriff in the year 1829.

who held considerable possessions in the county of Lincoln in the reign of HENRY III.

JOHN HENEAGE, of Hainton, in that county, the seventh in lineal descent from Sir Robert, d. 4 April, 1530, having had issue, by Catherine, his wife, the dau. of Thomas Wimbush, Esq. of Nocton, in the same co., four sons, viz.,

- I. THOMAS (Sir), who s. to Hainton, and, by Katherine, his wife, dau. of Sir John Skipwith, left an only dau., his heir, Elizabeth, who m. William, Lord Willoughby of Parham.
- II. JOHN, whose descendants are in possession of Hainton.
- III. GEORGE, archdeacon of Lincoln, who d. 9 Sept. 1549.
- IV. ROBERT.

The youngest son,

ROBERT HENEAGE, Esq. of Lincoln, one of the king's auditors, who d. 27 July, 1536, m. 1st, Lucy, dau. and co-heir of Ralph Buckton, Esq. of Elmswell, co. York; and, 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of George Manners, Lord Roos, sister of Thomas, Earl of Rutland. By the former he had several sons, two of whom only left issue. Sir Thomas Heneage, the elder, of Copt Hall, co. Essex, one of the privy council and chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster to Queen ELIZABETH, left an only dau. and heir, Elizabeth, created Viscountess Maidstone and Countess of Winchelsea. She m. Sir Moyle Finch, Bart., and is now represented by her descendant and heir male, George-William Finch-Hatton, Earl of Winchelsea and Nottingham.

MICHAEL HENEAGE, Esq., the younger son of the above Robert Heneage, was keeper of the records in the Tower of London. He was b. 27 Sept. 1540, and d. 30 Dec. 1600, leaving issue, by Grace, his wife, dau. of Robert Honeywood, Esq. of Charing, in Kent, four sons and three daus. The eldest son,

THOMAS HENEAGE, Esq., was of Battersea, co. Surrey, where he d. 9 Aug. 1641, leaving issue (by Bridget, his wife, dau. of George Woodward, Esq. of Upton, co. Bucks, and relict of Sir Thomas Liddell, Knt. of Ravensworth Castle, co. Durham) a son, Sir Michael Heneage, Knt. of Gray's Inn, who d. in Dec. 1711, leaving (by Phebe, dau. of Samuel Foote, Esq.) four daus., and one son,

CHARLES HENEAGE, Esq. of London, who d. in 1738, leaving two daus., Elizabeth and Cecil, his co-heirs; both dying unm., the latter in 1765, and the former in 1779, the inheritance of this branch of the Heneage family devolved to the issue of their aunt, Cecil, eldest dau. of Sir Michael Heneage, and wife of John Walker, Esq. of the Inner Temple, and of Hadley, co. Middlesex.

The family of Walker is of great respectability, being derived from Anthony Walker, of St. Andrew's Wardrobe, in London, who d. 11 May, 1590, possessed of lands held in capite, as appears by his will, as well as by the inquisitio post mortem taken 27 Jan. following. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Dawbeney, of Sharrington, in Norfolk, by whom he had several children, and, amongst others, Thomas Walker, Esq. of Westminster, hereditary chief usher of the Court of Exchequer, and marshal proclinator and barrier of the Court of Common Pleas, and to the justices in Eyre. He d. 12 Oct. 1613, leaving (by Joan, his wife, dau. of John Moore, of Ipswich) his son and successor to his offices,

CLEMENT WALKER, Esq. of the Middle Temple, and of the Charterhouse, Hydon, co. Somerset, who had special livery of his father's lands, 24 Nov. 1614. He m. 1st, Mary, eldest dau. of Sir William Button,* Knt. and Bart. of Alton and Tockenham, in the parish of Lyneham, co. Wilts, and sister of Sir William, Sir Robert, and Sir John Button, successively baronets, who all d. s. p. By this lady he had a son,

* The ancient and knightly family of Button is derived from Sir Walter de Button or Bitton, who flourished in the reign of HENRY III., and whose descendants gradually augmented their estates by alliances with the heiresses of Furneux, Bryan, Turberville, Basset, &c.

Sir William Button, Knt. of Alton Priors, the heir and representative of this house, was raised to the baronetage, 18 March, 1621: he m. Ruth, dau. of Walter Dunch, Esq. of Avebury, co. Wilts, and d. 16 Jan. 1654, leaving four sons,

- I. William (Sir), who d. without issue, 8 March, 1659.
- II. Thomas, who d. young.
- III. Robert (Sir), who d. without issue, in 1677.
- IV. John (Sir), Bart. of Ogbourne St. George, co. Wilts, who d. also without issue, in 1713.

And three daus., of whom Mary, the eldest, m. Clement Walker, as above mentioned.

JOHN WALKER, Esq., who, as aforesaid, m. CECIL HENEAGE, and d. 1 March, 1703, leaving by that lady two sons, the elder of whom,

HENEAGE WALKER, Esq. of Hadley, chief usher of the Exchequer, dying s. p. 15 May, 1731, was s. in his estates and offices by his only brother,

JOHN WALKER, Esq. of Lyneham, who d. 27 April, 1758, leaving (by Dyonisia, his wife, eldest dau. of James Colebrooke, Esq., and sister of Sir James and Sir George Colebrooke, Barts., successively of Gattton, co. Surrey) three sons and three daus.,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. James-Button, ensign 1st regt. of foot, slain at St. Cas, on the coast of France, in 1754.
- III. Colebrooke.
- I. Mary, b. in 1732, d. at Grantham, unm. in 1775.
- II. Dyonisia, b. in 1733, m. 27 Oct. 1772, the Rev. Theophilus Meredith, of Ross, co. Hereford, younger brother of Sir William Meredith, Bart. of Henbury, co. Chester, and had an only dau., Henrietta-Arabella, b. in 1774.
- III. Cecil-Ann, b. in 1734, m. 10 July, 1764, Thomas Calcraft, Esq. a lieutenant-col. in the army, and had issue, an only son and three daus.,

1. John Calcraft, Esq. of Grantham, b. in 1765, a general in the army, who d. unm. in 1830.
1. Cecil-Mary-Elizabeth, b. in 1768, d. unm. in 1808.
2. Arabella-Bridget, b. in 1773, m. in 1794, William-Thomas Darbury, Esq. of Sunbury, co. Middlesex, who, in 1795, took the surname and arms of St. Quintin, upon succeeding to the estates of Scampston, in Yorkshire, and d. leaving issue.
3. MARY-DYONISIA, b. in 1776, who m. 26 Nov. 1796, the Rev. George Wyld, and d. in May, 1831, leaving

1. GEORGE-HENEAGE WALKER-HENEAGE, Esq. now of Compton.
2. Thomas-John Wyld (the Rev.), M.A., rector of North Wraxall, co. Wilts, b. 11 Nov. 1801, m. 27 April, 1836, Maria, dau. of the late Joseph Neeld, Esq. of Rockstone House, in the parish of All Saints, co. Southampton.
3. William-Thomas Wyld (the Rev.), M.A., rector of Woodborough, co. Wilts, b. 5 July, 1805.
4. Granby-Colebrooke Wyld, b. 27 March, 1808, d. in June following.
5. James-William Wyld, b. 9 Sept. 1812, d. in June, 1813.
6. John Wyld, b. in June, 1818, now a cornet in the 3rd light-dragoons.

1. Mary-Cecil.
2. Arabella-Elizabeth, m. and has issue.
3. Caroline-Patience, who d. in 1828, having m. the Rev. Thomas Michell, and left two children.
4. Cecil-Catherine.
5. Elizabeth-Milward, d. an infant.
6. Elizabeth-Milward.

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN WALKER, Esq. of Compton Basset, chief usher of the Exchequer, &c., obtained a royal licence, 8 March, 1777, to enable him to take and use the surname, arms, and crest of Heneage, in pursuance of the request of his cousin, Elizabeth Heneage, spinster, above mentioned. He d. in 1806, leaving no issue by Arabella, his wife, dau. of Jonathan Cope, Esq., (son and heir apparent of Sir Jonathan Cope, Bart. of Brewern, co. Oxon.) by the Lady Arabella Howard, eldest dau. of Henry, Earl of Carlisle, K.G. This lady, who was devisee of her husband's estates, d. 26 June, 1818, having, by her will, entailed them on the present possessor, GEORGE-HENEAGE WALKER-HENEAGE, Esq., and his heirs.

Mr. Walker s. his father in 1815. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. in Nottinghamshire, and has served the office of sheriff for that county.

Lineage.

"In the year 1746," says HUNTER, in his elaborate History of Doncaster, "the three brothers, Samuel, Aaron, and Jonathan Walker, from the neighbouring parish of Ecclesfield, established at Rotherham, a work for the manufacture of articles of cast iron, which finally, in the amount of the capital employed, and the extent of the ground covered by the mills, furnaces, and other apparatus belonging to it, eclipsed all the puny efforts of past commercial enterprise in this part of the kingdom, and for many years rivalled, if it did not surpass, all similar undertakings in other parts of the kingdom. The seat of the work was chosen with that judgment which distinguished all the proceedings of these remarkable men, in a situation which allowed of indefinite extension, near to the supply of coal and mineral, and at a short distance from the navigable stream, with which a water communication was opened. The Holmes, which had previously been, what the name implies, flat meadows near the water, became covered with an active and busy population, and Masborough, from a rural village, became one of the centres of the great manufactures of England; a new town arose, or rather a new suburb to the town; and when industry, ability, attention, and integrity, had begun to produce their natural effects, the neighbourhood of Rotherham became adorned with villas surrounded with pleasure-grounds, exceeding in taste and beauty anything of the kind which Rotherham before had witnessed. There is, however, a natural restlessness in commerce. The words of Bishop Newton, speaking of the prophecies concerning Tyre, should be kept in mind by every commercial city and commercial nation: 'Trade is a fluctuating thing; it passed from Tyre to Alexandria; from Alexandria to Venice; from Venice to Antwerp; from Antwerp to Amsterdam and London.' The number of persons employed in these works is not equal to what it was; many of the furnaces have been allowed to cool; the families of the original proprietors have, for the most part, retired to a distance; and the whole establishment was not long ago offered to public sale. A century hence Masborough may have again become a rural village; and the Holmes, relapsed into pasturage, exhibit no evidence that there was east most of the cannon used in the wars of King GEORGE III., and the iron frame of the great bridges which span the Thames, at London, and the Wear, at Sunderland."

WILLIAM WALKER, b. in 1650, a resident of the parish of Ecclesfield, co. York, m. Mary, dau. of Joseph Wood, of the same place, and d. in 1708, leaving a son,

JOSEPH WALKER, who, marrying twice, had by his first wife two sons, Joseph and Benjamin; and by the second, (Anne, dau. of Jonathan Hargreave,) the three sons, who became so celebrated as iron-founders, viz.,

WALLACE OF ASHOLME, KNARESDALE, & FEATHERSTONE CASTLE.

WALLACE, JOHN, Esq. of the Hon. East India Company's Civil Service on the Madras Establishment, late Commercial-Resident at Ingcrum, b. 13 Dec. 1770, s. on the death of his cousin-german, Lord Wallace, 23 Feb. 1844, as heir-at-law, to the representation of the family of Wallace of Asholme, Knaresdale, and Featherstone Castle, co. Northumberland; but his lordship having placed his own right-heirs at the end of the entail, the estates are at present held by the Hon. James Hope, (who has taken the additional name of Wallace,) second son of John, 4th Earl of Hopetown, and nephew to Lord Wallace's wife, Viscountess Melville.

Lineage.

It appears from HUTCHINSON'S History of Cumberland, published in 1794, that this family claims descent from a cadet of Craigie-Wallace, in Ayrshire; and a pedigree of that house states, that many of the posterity of Alexander, second son of John Wallace, of Craigie, who s. about the year 1500, settled upon the eastern border of England.

THOMAS WALLACE, of Lambley, living in the reign of King CHARLES I., purchased lands in Asholme, co. of Northumberland, 13 Dec. 1637. He is said to have been slain in the battle of Worcester, on the side of the royalists, 3 Sept. 1651; by his wife, an heiress of the Blenkinsop family, he had three sons, of whom

THOMAS WALLACE, of Asholme, s. his father, and added to the property, the manor or lordship of East and West Coanwood, contiguous to Asholme, 3 March, 1657. By his wife, a dau. of Sir Thomas Carleton, Knt., he had two sons, of whom the elder,

ALBANY WALLACE, of Asholme, succeeded. His will, dated 17 Nov. 1677, was proved at Durham, in 1678. By Isabella, his wife, a dau. of the family of Graham, of Breckonhill Castle, co. Cumberland, he had two sons,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

II. John.

The elder,

THOMAS WALLACE, of Asholme, is styled in the Haltwhistle Registers "Lord of the Ash-Holme." By Grace, his first wife, (who d. in 1695,) he had no issue; and he m. 2ndly, 17 May, 1696, Margaret, dau. of Hugh Ridley, of Plenneller, (Chief Ridley,) and by her had two sons, and two daus.,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

II. Robert, bapt. 5 Feb. 1701.

I. Elizabeth, bapt. 12 Jan. 1703.

II. Jane, bapt. 9 Oct. 1705, d. unm. in May, 1783.

This gentleman was buried at Haltwhistle, 4 July, 1721, and s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS WALLACE, of Asholme, attorney-at-law, b. in 1697, who purchased an estate at Brampton, co. Cumberland, where he resided. He m. 2 Jan. 1728, Dulcebella, seventh dau. of John Sowerby, of Brampton-Gillesland and Botcherby, second son of Daniel Sowerby, of Sleetbeck and Sowerbys, by whom he had issue, two sons and one dau.,

I. JAMES, his heir.

II. JOHN, of Sidcup House and Golden-square, (of whom hereafter.)

I. Margaret, bapt. 4 July, 1735, m. 30 Sept. 1762, Edward Atkinson, lieut. R.N., and d. (leaving issue) in April, 1812.

This gentleman dying 11 Dec. 1737; his widow m. 2ndly, the Rev. William Plaskett, vicar of Ganton, co. York, and Brampton, co. Cumberland, by whom she had a dau., Anne, b. 4 Aug. 1741, who m. 1st, 22 Oct. 1761, John, son and heir of the Rev. John Thomlinson, lord of the manors of Blencogo and Allonhy, in Cumberland, and 2ndly, 17 Jan. 1782, John Law, D.D., Lord Bishop of Elphin, brother to Edward, 1st Lord Ellenborough. Mr. Wallace's elder son,

JAMES WALLACE, Esq. of Asholme, bapt. 12 March, 1729, added to his paternal estates, the manors of Knaresdale, Thornhope, and Featherstone Castle, all near to Asholme. He was called to the bar in 1757; appointed solicitor-general in 1778, and attorney-general in 1780; and sat in parliament for Horsham, co. Sussex, from 1770 till his death. He m. 8 Jan. 1767, Elizabeth, only dau. and sole heir of Thomas Simpson, Esq. of Carleton Hall, co. Cumberland, by whom (who d. 18 April, 1811) he had one son and one dau.,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

I. Elizabeth, bapt. 9 April 1770, d. unm. 12 May 1792.

This gentleman d. in the office of attorney-general, and was buried in Exeter Cathedral, 16 Nov. 1783. His only son,

THOMAS WALLACE, Esq. of Asholme, Knaresdale, and Featherstone Castle, b. in 1768, was sworn of the privy council, 21 May, 1801, and created Baron Wallace of Knaresdale, in Feb. 1828, having previously, as a member of the administration, filled several public offices, and sat in parliament at different elections for many places, and lastly for Weymouth. He m. 16 Feb. 1814, Lady Jane Hope, dau. of John, 2nd Earl of Hopetoun, and relict of Henry, 1st Viscount Melville, by whom (who d. 9 June, 1829) he had no issue; and died 23 Feb. 1844, when the title became extinct, and the representation of the family devolved upon the issue of his uncle. That gentleman,

JOHN WALLACE, Esq. of Sidcup House, co. Kent, and Golden-square, bapt. 26 March, 1733, (second son of Thomas Wallace, of Asholme and Brampton, and only brother to the attorney-general,) was an eminent contractor in London; in the commission of the peace for the co. of Middlesex, and treasurer of the Westminster Lying-in-Hospital. He m. 6 March, 1764, Elizabeth, only child of Robert French, (son and heir of David French, of Frenchland, M.P. for the borough of New Galloway, in the Scotch parliament of 1703) lineal representer of the Freuches of Frenchland and Thorridykes, in Annandale and the Merse, (hy Elizabeth, dau. of Christopher Hall, of Brampton, and sister to Christopher Hull, of Sidcup House,) by whom he had six sons and five daus.,

WALLACE OF KELLY.

WALLACE, ROBERT, Esq. of Kelly, co. Renfrew, late M.P. for Greenock; m. Margaret, second dau. of Sir William Forbes, Bart. of Craigievar, and granddau. (maternally) of Robert, twelfth Lord Sempill. Mr. Wallace s. his father in 1805, and became representative of the ancient house of ELLERSLIE.

Tincage.

This family claims, rightfully it is believed, the representation of that from which sprang the renowned Scottish hero, WILLIAM WALLACE, one of the most illustrious characters in the pages of history, ancient or modern, whether regarded as a patriot, rousing the dormant energies of his country—a statesman, concentrating those energies for action—or a soldier, directing them to victory. "When the nobility," says Buchanan, "had neither strength nor courage to undertake great matters, there presently started up one William Wallace, a man of an ancient and noble race, but having himself little or no estate, yet this man performed in this war not only beyond expectation, but almost beyond belief."

SIR MALCOLM WALLACE, of Ellerslie, second son of Adam Wallace, of Riccardton, and younger brother of Adam, progenitor of the Wallaces of Craigie, appears to have been twice married. By his first wife, whose name is not mentioned, he had a son, MALCOLM, who along with himself was killed by the English in 1295, as thus recorded by Blind Harry, the Minstrel:

"The knyght Fenwick, that cruel was and keyne;
He had a dede of Wallace fadyr beyne:
And his brodyr, that doughty was and der."

He is said also to have had two daus.: the elder m. to the father of Thomas Halliday, a celebrated patriot, who had considerable property in Annandale; the younger, to the father of Edward Little, another of the hand of patriots. Sir Malcolm m. 2ndly, MARGARET CRAUFURD, dau. of Hugh Craufurd, of Loudoun, and by that lady became father of SIR WILLIAM WALLACE in the year 1276. "It is also said (we quote from ROBERTSON'S Ayrshire Families) that he had a son by this lady elder than Sir William, called Andrew, the inheritor of Ellerslie, who d. without issue. The grounds of this conjecture, however, do not seem so strong as to entitle it to implicit belief." The representation of the family devolved, on the death of Sir Malcolm and his son Malcolm, upon

SIR WILLIAM WALLACE, who is designed of Ellerslie, although there is some doubt that he was ever proprietor of the estate. One of the earliest exploits of Wallace was to avenge the death of his father and brother. Collecting a body of fifty resolute men, in the July of 1296, he met Fenwick, at Loudoun Hill, the spot where Sir Malcolm Wallace fell the preceding year, and there, after putting a hundred horsemen to the sword, compelled the rest, amounting to fourscore, to fly, leaving a considerable booty in the hands of the victor. The subsequent glorious career of the patriot has been so frequently recorded by historian, hard, and minstrel, that it were vain to enlarge upon it here. Of the fatal battle that terminated it, Lord Hailes gives the following account:—"He (King EDWARD) established his head-quarters at Temple Liston, between Edinbrough and Linlithgow . . . at that moment intelligence arrived, that the Scots were at Falkirk. EDWARD instantly marched against them. His army lay that night in the fields. At break of day the Scottish army was descried forming on a stony plain, at the side of a small eminence in the neighbourhood of Falkirk. Wallace ranged his infantry in four bodies of a circular form. The archers, commanded by Sir John Steward, were placed in the intervals. The horse, amounting to no more than one thousand, were at some distance in the rear; on the front of the Scots lay a morass. Having drawn up his troops in this order, Wallace pleasantly said, 'Now I have brought you to the ring, dance according to your skill.' EDWARD placed his chief confidence in the numerous and formidable body of horsemen, whom he had selected for the Scottish expedition. He ranged them in three lines. (No mention is made of the disposition of the infantry.) The shock of the English cavalry on each side was violent, and gallantly withstood by the Scottish infantry. But the Scottish cavalry, dismayed at the number and force of the English men at arms, immediately quitted the field. Steward, while giving orders to his archers, was thrown from his horse and slain. His archers crowded round his body, and perished with him. Often did the English strive to force the Scottish circle: 'they could not penetrate into that wood of spears,' as one of their historians speaks. By repeated charges the outermost ranks were brought to the ground. The English infantry incessantly galled the Scots with showers of stones and arrows. Macduff and Sir John Graham fell. At length the Scots were broken by the number and weight of the English cavalry, and the rout became universal.—22 July, 1296." In the course of a few years the whole country, with the exception of Stirling Castle, was re-subdued by the English. This was in 1303. Lord Hailes continues—"Amid this wreck of the national liberties, Wallace despaired not: he had lived a freeman—a freeman he resolved to die. Frazer, who had too oft complied with the times, now caught the same heroic sentiments. But their endeavours to arouse their countrymen were in vain. The season of resistance was past. Wallace perceived that there remained no more hope, and sought out a place of concealment, where, eluding the vengeance of EDWARD, he might silently lament over his fallen country." According to Henry, the Minstrel, Wallace subsequently retired into France, whence he had only a short time returned before he was betrayed into the hands of his foes, in the July of 1305; most accounts say, by Sir John Monteith: but Lord Hailes vindicates the knight from so infamous an act of treachery to his friend. Wallace was immediately conveyed to London, and there suffered a cruel death in the September following, by the command of EDWARD, who had his limbs, as Buchanan expresses it, "for the terror of others, hanged up in the most noted places of London and of Scotland." There are contending opinions regarding the marriage of Wallace. The Minstrel and Blair declare for it. The following passage from the latter is given by Nisbet, in his account of the family of Baillie of Lamington:—"So far as the history of Sir William Wallace can be depended on, it vouches this marriage and alliance; for the author, Mr. Blair, tells us expressly, that Sir William's daughter was married to a squire of the Baliol blood, and that way got the barony of Lamington, which had formerly belonged to those of the surname of Braidfoot, whose heir-female of that name was married to Sir William Wallace." While Dr. Chalmers, commenting on this statement, says, that "it is unsupported by any recorded authority, and is certainly erroneous." Sir William had no legitimate issue, but he left a natural daughter, who is said to have married Sir William Baillie, of Stoprig, the progenitor of the Baillies of Lamington.

Here there is a chasm in the line of Ellerslie. Craufurd says, "the lands of Ellerslie returned to the family of Craigie, and a younger son of that ancient family obtained them in patrimony about the beginning of the reign of ROBERT III., anno 1390." In the account of the family of Craigie, by Robertson, it is stated that this younger son obtained these lands by marrying the heiress of Wallace of Ellerslie, about the same period. Both statements evidently refer to one individual.

JAMES WALLACE, third son of John Wallace, of Riccardton, by the heiress of Lindsay of Craigie, who m. the heiress of Wallace of Ellerslie, and by her he acquired that property, in the co. of Renfrew, which had for more than a century preceded been held by a younger branch of the Riccardton or Craigie family. According to Craufurd he had two sons,

JOHN.

Thomas, to whom his father, in 1398, resigned the lands of Auchinbothy, in the barony parish of Paisley. From him, in after times, descended the Wallaces of Johnston, by marriage of an heiress of the name of Nisbet, and which family failed in the person of William Wallace, of Johnston, in the reign of CHARLES I., and the lands were then acquired by Sir Ludovick Howston, of that ilk, and still remain with his descendants.

The next that is mentioned by Craufurd is

JOHN WALLACE, of Ellerslie, who is to be found in the chartulary of Paisley, in 1432; probably the son of the preceding, though Craufurd does not mention the affinity, neither does he state the connexion of the next on his list,

GEORGE WALLACE, of Ellerslie, living in 1468, who is said to have been father of

PATRICK WALLACE, of Ellerslie, a person of consideration in the time of JAMES IV., between the years 1488 and 1513, who was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WALLACE, of Ellerslie, father of JOHN WALLACE, of Ellerslie, who m. a dau. of Cunningham of Craigends. He acquired the lands of Ellenton, of which himself and his wife obtained a charter in 1530. His son and heir,

WILLIAM WALLACE, of Ellerslie, m. Catherine, dau. of Hugh Craufurd, of Kilbirnie, and had a son, WILLIAM, his successor. He obtained a charter of his land in 1554, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WALLACE, of Ellerslie, who, in 1556, obtained a precept of Clare constat from his superior, William of Craigie, as heir to his father William. In 1583 he had a charter of confirmation of the lands of Helinton, or Ellenton, and, in 1597, the lands of Ryreswaeths and Windyhill. He m. Jean, dau. of James Chalmers, of Gardgirth, and had three sons,

I. WILLIAM, his successor.

II. JOHN, who m. Margaret, dau. and heiress of John Hamilton, of Ferguslee, of the family of Orbiestoun, and thereby acquired that property in the vicinity of Paisley. This marriage must have taken place before the 27 July, 1624, as under that date there is mention made, in the index to the records, of a charter "to John Wallace, of Ferguslee," although the charter itself is not to be found. But there is a charter on record, dated 9 July, 1647, granted by the crown, in favour of John Wallace, who m. Margaret Hamilton, hearing to be an implement of their contract of marriage, and referring to a former charter granted to him by Lord Aberdeen, of which the date is not legible. This John Wallace had issue,

JAMES, designed of Lora Bank, who d. unm.

WILLIAM.

Allan, d. without issue.

The second son,

WILLIAM WALLACE, m. Margaret, dau. and sole heir of Hugh Stewart, of Neilstoun-side, and by her acquired the lands of Neilstoun-side and Drumgrain, and had two sons,

JOHN, who s. to the representation of the ELLERSLIE family.

WILLIAM, merchant at Glasgow.

III. James, who acquired, in 1609 and 1612, the lands of Muirhead and Limpastone, parish of Paisley.

Ellerslie was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM WALLACE, of Ellerslie, whose retour is dated 3 May, 1627. He was father of

HUGH WALLACE, of Ellerslie, who, in 1637, was served heir to his grandfather in the lands of Windyhill, and other estates. This laird, in 1678, alienated Ellerslie to Sir Thomas Wallace, of Craigie, who conveyed it to his own second son, Thomas, afterwards Sir Thomas Wallace, of Craigie, which latter, in 1700, transferred the estate to John Wallace, eldest son of William Wallace, merchant in Glasgow, brother of John Wallace, of Neilstounside. Hugh Wallace m. the Hon. Isabel Sandilands, sister of James, second Lord Torphichen, but leaving no surviving issue at his decease, the representation of the family devolved upon his kinsman,

JOHN WALLACE, of Neilstounside, (refer to John, second son of William Wallace and Jean Chalmers,) who left three daus., his co-heirs, who sold Neilstoun, in 1713, to Alexander Finlayson. At his decease the representation fell to his brother,

WILLIAM WALLACE, of Glasgow, who had acquired the lands of Overkirtoun and others, in the parish of Neilstoun. He had two sons, JOHN and THOMAS. The elder,

JOHN WALLACE, having purchased the estate of Ellerslie from Sir Thomas Wallace, of Craigie, became "of Ellerslie." He m. Jean, dau. of Dr. Thomas Kennedy, a physician in Glasgow, and had an only dau. and heiress

HELEN, who m. Archibald Campbells, of Suecoth, and was mother of SIR ILAY CAMPBELL, Bart. lord president of the Court of Session in Scotland, as LORD SUCCOTH.

At his decease, the old family estate of Ellerslie passed to his dau., who, with the consent of her husband, alienated it to — Spiers. The male representation then devolved upon his brother,

THOMAS WALLACE, of Cairnhill, in Kyle Stewart, near Kilmarnock, which property he acquired from a family of the same name, that had been in possession of it for more than two centuries. He m. in 1710, Lillias, dau. of William Cunninghame, of Craighends, and had three sons and a dau., namely,

WILLIAM, who s. to Cairnhill. He m. a dau. of Archibald Campbell, of Suecoth, by whom he had three sons, who all d. issueless, and a dau.,

LILLIAS, who inherited Cairnhill.

JOHN, of whom presently.

Hugh, m. and left Hugh, with other issue.

Margaret, m. to John Nelson, merchant in Glasgow.

The second son,

JOHN WALLACE, became, on the failure of the male issue of his brother William, representative of the family. This gentleman acquired the estate of Cessnock, which he subsequently sold, and purchased, in 1792, the lands of Kelly from the representative of the old family of Bannatyne, which had enjoyed it for ages. He m. Janet, dau. of Robert Colquhoun, Esq., and left two sons and three daus., viz.,

ROBERT, his successor.

James-Maxwell (Sir), K.H., colonel in the army.

Mary, m. to Capt. Archibald Cunninghame, brother of Thornton.

Jessie, m. to Sir John Cunninghame-Fairlie, Bart.

Christian, m. to Thomas King, Esq. of Drums, in Renfrewshire, who d. in 1802, leaving two sons and a dau., viz.,

Lineage.

The family of Waller derives from

ALURED DE WALLER, of Newark, co. Nottingham, who d. in 1183, (see Domesday-Book,) and from whom lineally descended

DAVID DE WALLER, Master of the Rolls to King EDWARD III. for thirty years. This David d. issueless; his only brother,

HENRY WALLER, of Hockerton, who m. Alicia de Mortimer, was great-great-grandfather of

JOHN WALLER, of Groombridge, co. Kent, who m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Landsdall, of Landsdall, Sussex, and was father of

SIR RICHARD WALLER, a gallant participant in the glories of Agincourt, who, in honour of having made prisoner the Duke of Orleans in that memorable conflict, obtained from HENRY V. the addition to his crest of a shield of the arms of the duke, pendant from a walnut-tree, which his descendants have ever since borne. The French prince having been brought to England, was confined at Groombridge. Sir Richard's son,

WALPOLE OF FREETHORPE.

VADE-WALPOLE, RICHARD-HENRY, Esq. of Freethorpe, co. Norfolk, a deputy-lieutenant for that county, b. 6 Dec. 1800; m. 20 Feb. 1834, Harriet, dau. of Thomas Duncombe, Esq. of Copgrove, co. York, and niece to Charles, Lord Feversham. Mr. Vade-Walpole is the great-grandson, maternally, of the first Lord Walpole of Wolterton, and obtained, in Nov. 1844, the royal permission to assume the additional surname and arms of Walpole, as the only surviving son and heir of the Rev. Ashton Vade, by Mary-

Rachel, his wife, eldest dau. of the Hon. Richard Walpole, third son of Horatio, first Lord Walpole of Wolterton, in the co. of Norfolk.

Lineage.

The family of Walpole was settled at Walpole St. Peters, co. Norfolk, at a period antecedent to the Conquest.

RICHARD DE WALPOLE, whose father lived in the reign of WILLIAM the Conqueror, m. Emma, dau. and heir of Walter de Havelton or Houton, who was Lord of the town of Houton, since written Houghton, in Norfolk, and had a son,

SIR HENRY DE WALPOLE, temp. HENRY II., who s. to the estates of Houghton and Walpole. By Isabel, his wife, he was father of,

SIR HENRY DE WALPOLE, who was taken prisoner in the reign of King JOHN, for adhering to the Barons, and in 1216, paid a fine of 100*l.* for his release. In 1 HENRY III. he had all his lands restored to him, which he had forfeited to King JOHN. His son,

SIR JOHN DE WALPOLE, revolted at the same time as his father, but was pardoned by HENRY III., eight days after his accession. He was living in 1253, and was one of the king's retinue into Brittany. By Isabel, his wife, he was father of,

SIR HENRY DE WALPOLE, who s. to the manors of Walpole and Houghton: he was summoned, 25 EDWARD I., to be at London, apparelled with horse and arms, to accompany the king in his expedition for the relief of Guy, Earl of Flanders. His younger brother, Ralph, b. at Walpole St. Peters, was Bishop of Norwich in 1288, and translated by the Pope to the see of Ely, in 1299. He m. Isabel, dau. of Sir Peter Fitz Osbert, Lord of the town of Somerly, co. Suffolk, and heir to her brother, Sir Roger Fitz Osbert, summoned to parliament, 22 EDWARD I. (1294), and by her (who m. 2ndly, Sir Walter Jerningham, and d. about 1311) he had a son,

SIR HENRY DE WALPOLE, knighted about 1 EDWARD II.; he was chosen M.P. for the co. of Norfolk, in the parliament that met at Lincoln, 9 EDWARD II. He d. in 1335, and was s. by his son,

HENRY DE WALPOLE, one of the knights for the co. of Norfolk, to the parliament summoned at York, 7 EDWARD III. By Joan, his wife, he had a son and successor,

HENRY WALPOLE, Esq. of Houghton, who, 12 HENRY VI., was returned amongst those of the first quality, in the co. of Norfolk, when the title of the house of York began to be set on foot. He d. in 1442, and was buried at Houghton. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Oliver le Grosse, of Croswick, in Norfolk, and by her (who was buried at Houghton) had a son and heir,

HENRY WALPOLE, Esq. of Walpole and Houghton, the fifth Henry in lineal descent. He lived in the reign of HENRY VI., and marrying Margery, dau. and eventual heir of Sir John Harsicke, of Southacre, co. Norfolk, son of Sir J. Harsicke, buried at Southacre, 7 RICHARD II., was s. by his son,

JOHN WALPOLE, Esq. of Houghton, living 8 HENRY VII. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Shawe, Esq. of Derby, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WALPOLE, Esq. of Houghton, who d. 24 Jan. 1514, leaving, by Joan, his wife, dau. of William Cobb, Esq. of Sandringham, co. Norfolk, a son,

EDWARD WALPOLE, Esq., b. in 1484, who was buried with his ancestors, at Houghton, 2 Jan. 1558 or 1559. He m. Lucy, dau. of Sir Terry Robsart, by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Kerderston, of Sidestrand, co. Norfolk, who, by the death of her brother, Sir John Robsart, and his dau., Amie, wife of Sir Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, without issue, was at length sole heir to her great-grandfather, Sir John Robsart, knight-bannet, and knight of the Garter, famed for his valour against the Saracens. By this lady (who d. 1 Feb. 1559 or 1560, and was buried at Houghton) he had a son and heir,

JOHN WALPOLE, Esq., who s., through his mother, to the manor of Sidestrand, and his cousin, Amie Robsart, dying without issue, he also inherited the Robsart estates. He was buried at Houghton, 29 March, 1588. By Catharine, his wife, dau. and co-heir of William Calibut, Esq. of Coxforth, co. Norfolk, he was father of,

CALLIBUT WALPOLE, Esq. of Houghton, buried there

4 May, 1646, who m. in 1591, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Edmund Bacon, Esq. of Hessel, in Suffolk, and by her (buried at Houghton, 1 Feb. 1624) he had,

ROBERT WALPOLE, Esq., b. 23 Sept. 1593, who d. 1 May, 1663, leaving, by Susan, his wife, dau. of Sir Edward Barkham, lord-mayor of London, 9 JAMES I., his only son,

SIR EDWARD WALPOLE, bapt. at Houghton, 9 Nov. 1621, who represented King's Lynn in the parliament of 1660, that voted for the return of CHARLES II. He assisted in fortifying King's Lynn, and raising forces, for which he was created Knight of the Bath at the coronation of CHARLES, in 1661. He d. 18 March, 1667, and was buried at Houghton. He m. in 1649, Susan, dau. and co-heir of Sir Robert Crane, Bart. of Chilton, in Suffolk, and by her (who d. 7 July, 1667, aged 35, and was buried at Houghton) had a son,

ROBERT WALPOLE, Esq., b. 18 Nov. 1650, M.P. for Castle Rising, col. of the Norfolk militia, and deputy-lieut. for the county, who d. in Nov. 1700, and was buried at Houghton, his younger brother, Horatio, m. a dau. of Thomas, Duke of Leeds, but d. without issue. Robert m. Mary, only dau. and co-heir of Sir Jeffery Burwell, of Rougham, in Suffolk, and by her (who d. 14 March, 1711, and was buried at Houghton) he had nineteen children, but only six survived her. Of these was,

HORATIO, LORD WALPOLE, of Wolverton, co. Norfolk, b. 8 Dec. 1678, a diplomatist of the first class, during the administration of his brother, Sir Robert Walpole, K.G., and ambassador-extraordinary to the court of France and to the States General. He sat in parliament for Yarmouth and for Norwich, and for his many important services was created a peer. He d. 5 Jan. 1757, aged 79, and was buried at Wickmere, in Norfolk. He m. 21 July, 1720, Mary-Magdalen, dau. and co-heir of Peter Lombard, Esq. of Burnham, co. Norfolk, and by her (who d. 9 March, 1783, and was buried at Wickmere) he had, with other issue,

THE HON. RICHARD WALPOLE,* third son, M.P. for Yarmouth in several parliaments. He d. 18 Aug. 1798, aged 69, and was buried at Freethorpe, co. Norfolk. By Margaret, his wife, (whom he m. 22 Nov. 1757,) dau. of Sir Joshua Van Neck, Bart., and sister to Joshua, first Lord Huntingfield, he had,

MARY-RACHEL WALPOLE, b. 16 July, 1760, who m. 4 Jan. 1798, the Rev. Ashton Vade,† vicar of Hardingstone, co. Northampton, and chaplain to the Prince of Wales, b. 9 Nov. 1762, and by her (who d. 26 May, 1820, and was buried at Hardingstone) she left, at her decease, 16 Sept. 1827, a son, the present RICHARD-HENRY VADE-WALPOLE, Esq. of Freethorpe.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, or, on a fesse, between two chevs., sa., three cross-crosslets, of the first, for WALPOLE; 2nd and 3rd, az., a cross, flory, between four escallops, or, for VADE.

WALWYN OF LONGWORTH.

The late JAMES WALWYN, b. in 1768, s. his father, John Walwyn, Esq., M.P.

Lineage.

The Welsh genealogists, according to their custom, have carried the antiquity of the Walwyn family very high, deriving the descent of Sir Philip ap David, Lord of Walwayne's Castle, in Pembrokeshire, from Gualgnain, sister's son to King ARTHUR, the British hero, and therein they have been followed by William of Malmesbury, Robert of Gloucester, Camden, and several others. "Tunc (anno 1086) in Provincia Wallarum quæ Ros vocatur inventum est sepulchrum Walweini, qui fuit baud deneger Arturis ex Sorore Nepos, regnavitque in ea parte Britannia quæ adhuc Walwertha vocatur. Miles virtute nominatissimus, sed a Fratre et Nepote Hengristii Regno pulsus," &c. Camden also mentions the same person, as may be seen under the name of Waldwin, which, he says, "some have interpreted out of the German tongue, which signifies a couquerer, but we now use Gawen instead of Walwyn; but if Walwin was a Britan, and King ARTHUR's nephew, as William of Malmesbury noteth, when he speaketh of his giant-like bones found in Wales, I refer the signification to the Britans." The name is composed of two British words, Gwal, which signifies a wall, and Gwynne, or Wynne, white; to which the family crest, a wyvern upon an embattled wall or tower, argent, refers. It is also local; and the ruins of Walwyn Castle, or the castle with white walls, are yet, or lately were, to be seen in Pembrokeshire, where it gives name to a parish near Haverfordwest.

In the MSS. of Doctor Blount, of the city of Hereford, we find, under the article of Marele Magna: "These Walways are of ancient descent from Gwallain, or Walwayn Castle, in Pembrokesbire, of which family was Sir Philip Walwayn, who being engaged in King WILLIAM RUFUS's time, under Bernard de Newmarch, the Norman, in the conquest of Brecknockshire,* had certain lands assigned to him at the Hay, in that county, which are at this day called Walwyn's Rents, of which thus Leland: "One showed me in the town of Hay (temp. HENRY VIII.) the ruins of a gentelmau's place, (I think his name was Elias,) caulled Waulwine, by whose meancs Princee Lluellin was soddenli taken at Bueth Castle, and there beheaded, and his hidde sent to the king."

SIR PHILIP DE WALWYNNE, in consequence of the new territory assigned him at the Hay, quitted his ancient possessions, and took up his abode there; but being desirous of preserving the remembrance of the seat of his ancestors, assumed it as his suruame, after the Norman custom. He was father of

JOHN AP PHILIP DE WALWAYNE, of the Hay, who inherited, 14 HENRY I., and was s., 6 STEPHEN, by

SIR JOHN DE WALWAYNE, father of

THOMAS DE WALWAYNE, who m. the dau. of Leonard Hackluyt, of Marele Magna, one of whose family bought the estate of Longeford, which was afterwards disposed of, but which his descendants by the female side repurchased. This marriage appears to have given the first establishment to the family in Herefordshire, and must have occurred, in all probability, early in RICHARD I.'s reign. "By a French indenture, dated 7 RICHARD I., 1196, Thomas Fitznichol, Knt., steward of Nichol de Stafford, did set to Thomas Walwayne, of Magna Mareley all the manor of Marcle which belonged to Monsr. N. De Stafford, for 18 marks per ann. except Halewode." The grandson of this Thomas,

SIR ELY OR HELIAS WALWAYNE, was the knight by whose activity and courage Lluellin, the bravest and last Prince of Wales, was taken and beheaded. "Being sent with a detachment by Sir Edmund Mortimer, he passed over a ford of the river Wye, fell upon Lluellin's troops and put them to flight, in consequence of which that prince was taken and slain." Sir Ely m. Maud, dau. and heir of Sir Philip de Grandour, Knt., the representative of a very ancient family, and had two sons,

RICHARD, his heir.

John, a clerk, who was one of the king's council and treasurer of the Exchequer, 12 EDWARD II., a trust which he discharged with singular credit, as was attested by the king himself.

Sir Ely d. in 1286, and was buried at the Hay, being the last of the family who resided at that place. His elder son and successor,

RICHARD WALWAYNE, OR WALEWEYNE, represented the co. Hereford in nine parliaments of the reign of EDWARD III., and served as high-sheriff during seven successive years from 1336 to 1342. He m. Joan, dau. and heir of Walter de Helyon, of Helyon or Hellins, in Marcle Magna, by whom he acquired that estate, where he fixed his residence, and had a son and successor.

THOMAS WALWAYN, who was sheriff of Herefordshire in 1389 and 1392, and was appointed, in the ensuing year, inspector of the ports of London. His name also appears as a witness to a deed between Thomas Tyler de Webbeley, Richard Nasch, and others, for release of lands in Longeford, Lugwardyn, and Hampton. He m. Catherine, dau. and heir of Sir John Grendon, Knt. of Clearwell, in Gloucestershire, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD WALWAYN, who m. Catherine, dau. and heir of Ralph Bromwich, and was father of

THOMAS WALWAYN, Esq., knight of the shire for Hereford in the 1, 5 and 6 of HENRY IV., who purchased the estate of Hagley, near Stourbridge, in Worcestershire, now in the possession of the Lyttleton family. "In the year 1411, 13 HENRY IV., says Nash, "Henry de Hageley sold the manor and advowson of Hageley, together with Cowbatch, to Thomas Walwyn, Esq., who soon after alienated it to Jane Beauchamp, Lady Bergavenny." From that lady he soon after purchased the manor of Longford, which appears by her release to William Walwayn, his son, (to whom he bequeathed that

- II. WILLIAM, of whom presently.

- III. Malcolm, who had lands in Ledbury, Eastnor, Catly, and Farly, and is mentioned as knight of the shire by the name of Galveyn, in the parliament held at Reading, temp. HENRY VI. He was likewise returned in the list of gentry, the 12th of that king's reign.

- I. Joan, m. to Hugh Polliot.

The second son,

WILLIAM WALWAYN, Esq., took possession of the estate at Longford, according to the will of his father, during whose lifetime he served as sheriff of Herefordshire, in 1409, and of Gloucestershire the following year. He m. Jane, or Joan, dau. of Sir Robert Whytteney, Knt., as appears by a power of attorney in their joint names to John Bayley and Philip Longeford, to take possession for them of the manors and estates of Longeford, Avenbury, and Butterley. He left two sons, William, who d. unm., and

JOHN WALWAYN, Esq. of Longeford, to which, and other estates, a person of the name of Weldon having disputed the validity of his title, the affair was referred to the arbitration of four gentlemen of the county, (Henry Oldecastell, Thomas Bromewicke, Thomas Fitzherry, and Thomas Walweyne, probably of Stoke,) and decided in favour of John Walwayne. He m. Agnes, dau. and co-heir of Simon Milborne, and had nine sons and three daus., of whom

JOHN, the eldest son, was his heir.

THOMAS, the second son, s. his brother.

Fulco, the fifth son, living temp. HENRY VIII., left a son, Thomas, of Old Court, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Vaughan, and had six sons and two daus., viz., 1. Thomas; 2. WARBURTON OF WARBURTON.

WARBURTON, GEORGE, Esq. of Aughrim, co. Galway, male representative of the great and ancient house of Warburton of Cheshire, m. 6 July, 1806, Anna, dau. of Thomas Acton, Esq. of Westaston, co. Wicklow, and sister of Col. Acton, M.P. for that county, and had issue,

I. ELIOT-BARTHOLOMEW-GEORGE.

II. Acton-Thomas, barrister-at-law.

III. George-Drought, capt. Royal Artillery.

IV. William-Parsons.

I. Sidney.

II. Elizabeth.

III. Matilda.

Major Warburton, formerly Inspector-General of Constabulary in Ireland, s. his father, the late Bartholomew-Boyd Warburton, Esq.

Tincage.

The surname of this family is derived from a township in Cheshire. It is in Domesday book spelt Werburghtune, and was so called from a monastery of Præmonstratensian canons dedicated to St. Werburgh, there situated.

The Warburtons claim consanguinity with the ancient blood-royal of England, being descended from ROLLO the first Duke of Normandy, through WILLIAM, Earl of Eu, who married a niece of WILLIAM the Conqueror.

RICHARD, Duke of Normandy, (grandson of ROLLO,) surnamed Sans-peur, had issue (besides his son, RICHARD, who succeeded him, his dau., Emma, Queen of England, and other children) two younger sons, Godfrey and WILLIAM. To Godfrey, his father gave the earldoms of Eu and Brion. On his decease, the latter earldom became the heritage of his posterity, branching out into the now extinct houses of the Earls of Clare and Pembroke, while William, the younger brother, succeeded him in the Earldom of Eu. He had (besides others) his successor, ROBERT, father of WILLIAM, who m. a sister of Hugh Lupus, Earl of Avranches, (afterwards Earl of Chester,) named Jeanne, and niece to WILLIAM the Conqueror. There was issue of this marriage (besides William's successor in the earldom of Eu, and another child) six sons, named NIGEL, GEFTRY, ODARD, or HUDDARD, EDARD, HORSWIN, and WLOFAITH. These six brothers accompanied their uncle, Hugh Lupus, into England, in the train of WILLIAM the Conqueror, their great-uncle; and on the establishment of the Norman power had various estates and honours conferred upon them. Nigel was created Barou of Halton and constable of Cheshire; Geftry, was Lord of Stopfort; Odard, Lord of Dutton; Edard, Lord of Haselwell; Horswin, Lord of Shrigley; and Wlofaith, Lord of Halton. The honour and estates of Halton terminated in a female, who married JOHN OF GAUNT, and thus became mother of HENRY IV., King of England, bringing to the crown the title and estates. The family of Hatton, in one of its two branches, ended also in a female, who carried that portion of the estates into the family of the Massies of Coddington. In the other of its branches it became extinct in the person of Viscount Hatton, in Northamptonshire, who was descended from the lord-chancellor, Sir Christopher Hatton.

ODARD, the third son, was the ancestor of the Duttons, now extinct in the male line, the Barons of Chedill, also extinct, and the Warburtons. This Odard flourished during the reigns of WILLIAM the Conqueror and RUFUS. "He," says Dr. Gower, "like his uncle, Hugh Lupus, had a 'sword of dignity,' which, in the year 1665, was in the possession of Lady Kilmorey, (the last representative of the elder branch of Odard's descendants,) and had been preserved for many years as an heir-loom, by the name of 'Odard's sword.'"

ODARD DE DUTTON had a son, named

HUGH FITZODARD, who flourished in the early part of the reign of HENRY II. In a recital contained in a deed among the Dutton records, there is a description of the deathbed-scene of this Hugh Fitzodard. His cousin, William Fitznigel, and the son of William Fitzuigel, are there stated to have come to him on his deathbed at Kekewick, and to have solemnly confirmed to Hugh, the son of this Hugh, the lands which the dying father held under Fitznigel, and on the occasion Hugh gave to William Fitznigel, his war-horse and his coat of mail, and the son, Hugh, gave to the younger, William, a palfrey and a sparrow-hawk.

HUGH, the son of Hugh Fitzodard, had issue three sons. I. HUGH, m. a dau. of Hamon Massy, Baron of Dunham Massy; II. ADAM, m. Agnes, dau. and heir of Roger Fitzalured; III. GEFTRY, Lord of Chedill, m. another dau. of Hamon Massy.

The line of GEFTRY of Chedill, the third son, ended in two females, sisters and co-heiresses, the ancestors, maternally, of the Lords Bulkeley in Beaumaris, and Lords Rivers of Rock Savage.

The line of HUGH DUTTON, of Dutton, may be distinguished and divided into three branches: the eldest became extinct by the death of Laurence Dutton, in 1526; the second ended in a female, and is now represented by Lord Stanley, in right of his mother, a dau. of James, Duke of Hamilton; the third ended also in a female and is represented by Lord Sherborne, of Sherborne, in Gloucestershire.

We revert now to ADAM DE DUTTON, whose posterity became the only known descendants and the representatives of ODARD.

ADAM DE DUTTON, by his marriage with Agnes Fitzalured, became proprietor of the manor of WARBURTON, as mesue lord, in the time of HENRY II. One half he gave to the canons of Werburton, for the soul of his son John, (who was buried there,) among other reasons. The other half he gave to the Knights Hospitallers, who regranted the same in 1187. Adam had issue, I. GEOFFRY, his eldest son and successor; II. John, buried at Werhurton; III. Agatha. The elder son,

SIR GEOFFRY DUTTON, resided principally at Sutton. He obtained Aston, near Budworth, in which Arley lies. The name of the lady he married does not appear, but Lysons suggests that Alice, the dau. of John Lacy, constable of Chester, Baron of Halton, may have been his wife, which said Alice many heralds have given as a wife to Adam, his father. This conjecture receives a strong confirmation from a family deed, by which John Lacy gives the manor of Clifton to Geoffry Dutton, with the expression, "Scilicet de uxore desponsata." Adam de Dutton, as well as his cousin, the Baron of Halton, had emulated each other in donations to religious establishments, and in this generation the representatives of both families, John de Lacy and Geoffry Dutton, followed up the zeal of their fathers, and raised the banner of the Cross. Sir Geoffry, before his departure, consigned by deed a portion of his estates to his friend, Herbert de Orseby. The crest of the Warburtons is borne to commemorate an exploit performed by this Geoffry. In the Harleian MSS. 139, p. 68, is a transcript from an ancient family record taken by Laurence Bostoke, in 1572, in which the exploit is thus alluded to: "This Galfrid lived 1244, he was serryng his prynce and vanquished a Sarrazin in combat, then begynnyng to seale with the Sarrazin's head." Sir Geoffry had a son and heir,

SIR GEOFFRY DUTTON, Knt., (generally styled "D'nus Galfridus filius Galfridi de Dutton,") to whom the Præmonstratensian canons regranted the other half of Warburton in 1271. He also obtained the mediety of Lymme from the Boydells, by grant. To one of his deeds there is this seal, viz., a man's arm, in a manche, or loose sleeve, with a fleur-de-lis in his hand, written about, "Sigillum Galfridi de Dutton," in a roundlet, not in an escutcheon. His second wife was Isabella. Sir Geoffry had issue, I. PETER, his heir; II. Thomas, to whom he granted Thelwall in 1258-59; and I. Margaret, wife, 1st, of Robert de Denbigh, and 2ndly, of Nicholas de Leycester. The elder son,

SIR PETER DUTTON, Knt., afterwards DE WARBURTON, living I EDWARD II., seated himself at Warburton, and, according to the custom of the times, assumed the surname of WARBURTON. He had issue, I. GEOFFRY (Sir); II. Peter, of Aston and Budworth; and III. Hugh, of Nether Walton. The eldest son,

SIR GEOFFRY WARBURTON, was sheriff of Lancaster in 1326. By Margaret, his wife, he had issue, GEOFFRY (Sir); and Robert, living in 1327. The former,

SIR GEOFFRY WARBURTON, sen., Knt., whose children were, I. GEOFFRY (Sir), jun.; II. Peter, living in 1348; and I. Margaret, m. to Peter de Lymme, living in 1338. The elder son,

SIR GEOFFRY WARBURTON, Kut., (jun.) m. Alice —, living in 1381, and had issue,

- I. GEOFFRY, who m. Nichola Danyers, or Daniel, and attended the Black Prince to his duchy of Aquitaine; he had no male issue.
- II. Thomas, who predeceased his father without male issue.
- III. JOHN, eventual heir.

I. Catharine. II. Johanna.

In the Lansdowne MSS. 825, p. 185, this Sir Geoffry, jun., is said to have had another son, named William, from whom Peter Warburton, of Grafton, afterwards judge of the Common Pleas, descended. Sir Geoffry, jun., d. before 1383, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

JOHN WARBURTON, Esq. of Warburton, who m. Agnes, dau. of Richard de Wevere, and dying before 1391, was s. by his son,

PETER WARBURTON, Esq. of Warburton, who was contracted to Douce Massy, (dau. of his guardian, Sir John Massy,) then under five years of age, but the contract was annulled in 1402, and the marriage never consummated. He m. Alice, dau. of Sir Henry Braylsford, Knt. He fought at the battle of Shrewsbury, at the side of Henry Percy, for which he received the royal pardon, 5 Sept., 4 HENRY IV., and shortly after had a grant from HENRY of ten marks for life. His seal was, two chevrons and a mullet on a canton, with two dragons for supporters, circumscribed, "S. Galfridi de Warburgtone," being the last of the Warhurons who bore this coat. He d. 8 HENRY V., leaving issue, Peter, whose destiny is unknown, he d. s. p.; and

SIR GEOFFRY WARBURTON, Knt. of Warhurton, who m. Ellen, sister of John Bruyn, of Tarvin. He was constituted seneschal of Halton by the Earl of Buckingham, and knighted before 10 HENRY VI. He used on his seal a cormorant, the basis of the present coat. By his will, dated 1 Sept. 1448, he desires his body to be hurried at Norton, to whose abbot he leaves his best horse. He leaves "one stage, in Arley Park, to John Dutton, twenty shillings for hells at Holt, and eleven standing cuppes of silver to his wife." He left issue, I. PETER; II. Thomas; III. John; I. Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Bulkeley; and II. Johanna. The eldest son,

PETER WARBURTON, Esq. of Warhurton, (called Wise Piers), who built Arley Hall in 1469, had a dispensation from Pope PAUL II. for marrying Ellen, dau. of Sir John Savage, of Clifton, to whom he was related in the third degree; a contract for marriage with Alice, Mainwaring, of Over Peover, being first dissolved. He d. circa 1495, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir. Peter, of Bromfield.
Blanche, m. to Thomas Daniel, of Over Tabley, in 1472.
Douce, m. to Richard Aston, of Aston, in 1484.

The elder son,

SIR JOHN WARBURTON, of Warhurton and Arley, who administered to the effects of his father, 14 Feb. 1495. This gentleman, knight of the body to HENRY VII., was appointed seneschal of Halton, and sheriff of Cheshire, 20 HENRY VII. He had, besides his legitimate issue, (by Sihilla, sister of Richard, son and heir of Thomas Starkey, of Stretton,) Thomas, Richard, and Geoffry, all of whom bore the family name. He d. 15 HENRY VIII., having m. Jane, dau. of Sir William Stanley, of Holt, chamberlain to the king, and had issue,

PIERS, his heir.
John, who m. Emma Golborne, of Overton.
Another son.
Margaret, m. to John Carrington, of Carrington.
Blanche, m. to William Davenport, of Bramhall.
Jane, m. to Sir William Turville, Knt.
Douce, m. to John Starker, of Wrenbury.

The eldest son,

SIR PIERS WARBURTON, Knt. of Warhurton and Arley, who increased the family estates by marriage with Elizabeth, dau. and finally heir of Richard Winnington, of Winnington, who survived her husband. The Inq. post mort. after the death of Sir Peter, 4 EDWARD VI., states, that he held the two moieties of Warhurton severally from the late Priory of St. John of Jerusalem, and from the heirs of Hugh Boydell, in socage, also the manors of Aston-juxta-Picmere, Budworth, and Sutton, lands in Aston, Budworth, Sall, Over Tahley, Nether Tahley, Comberhach, Sutton, Hatton, Stretton, Nether Walton, Appleton, Bradley, Stockton, Hull, Lymone, Ughtrington, Reddish, three acres of land called Baernes, with the advowson of Lymme, and lands in Leigh Newton, Happsford, Bollington, Norcotes, Mere, and Chester. He d. 5 June, 4 EDWARD VI., leaving issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.
II. Peter, m. Catherine Coupe, ancestor of the WARBURTONS OF HEFFERSTON GRANGE.
III. Richard.
I. Jane, m. to Sir William Brereton, Knt. of Brereton.
II. Anne, m. to Sir Edward Fitton, of Gawksworth, chief-justiciary of Ireland, buried in St. Patrick's cathedral, Dublin, 18 Jan. 1573.
III. A dau. IV. A dau.

The son and heir,

SIR JOHN WARBURTON, Knt. of Warhurton and Arley, who was buried at Great Budworth, where a monument remains to his memory: Inq. post mort., 18 ELIZABETH. (In the church there are several monuments of the family, as also in St. John's, Chester.) He d. in 1572, leaving issue, (by Mary, dau. of Sir William Brereton, of Brereton,)

I. PETER, his heir.
II. GEORGE, of the Lodge, sometime of Arley, of whom presently.
III. John.
I. Anne, m. to Sir Robert Markham, Knt. of Cotham.

The eldest son and heir,

PETER WARBURTON, Esq., m. Mary, dau. of Sir John Holcroft, Knt. of Holcroft, and having nine daus., but no son, settled his estates, in default of issue male of his own body, successively on the heirs male of his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather. Of this gentleman, WILLIAM WEBB thus speaks, in his Itinerary of Backlow Hundred, after passing by the township of Warhurton, "from whence that great name of worth took first beginning," and several other places, whose history he gives; "and so we are come to the sight of that beautiful house of Arley that doth, as it well may, show itself to beholders afar off, as a place worthy to be regarded, and the famous seat of Warhurons, which being come by succession of many renowned knights of great worth and estimation, to the now owner, Peter Warhurton, Esq. of Arley, a gentleman not affecting the style and degree of a knight, yet one who could never avoid that dignity, authority, and worth, which ever have been deservedly thrown upon him for wisdom and government in his greatest places wherein his experience brought him to great maturity, and his wise and singular moderation preserved him to a long experience, continuing in an excellent constitution of body, even to a reverend age, as though nature herself was loth the world should be deprived of such an ornament, the people of his government, the country of his hospitality, the poor of his relief, and that famous house of such a pillar; because, though there he such a plentiful increase of his own beautiful daughters, and of the numerous issues of many of them, yet there wants an heir male of his body." (This Peter is erroneously stated by several writers to have been afterwards a judge of the Common Pleas.) Peter d. leaving issue, nine daus.,

I. Mary, m. to Sir Thomas Wilbraham, of Woodhey.
II. Elizabeth, m. to Ralph Egerton, of Ridley.
III. Jane, m. to William Brereton, of Ashley.
IV. Isabel, m. to Sir Edward Stanley, of Bickerstaffe.
V. Eleanor, m. to Thomas Marbury, of Marbury.
VI. Frances, m. to Sir Christopher Trentham, Knt.
VII. Alice, m. to Sir Peter Warburton, of Grafton, Justice of the Common Pleas in the time of ELIZABETH.
VIII. Frances. IX. Anne.

Sir Peter having thus no male issue, the male representation of the family vested in the descendants of his next brother. That gentleman,

GEORGE WARBURTON, Esq. of The Lodge, m. Elizabeth, sister of Thomas Hesketh, Esq., and widow of Alexander Houghton, Esq. of Houghton, and had issue,

I. PETER, of the Lodge, in Crowley, heir to his uncle, aged 28 in 1613, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Egerton, of Ridley, and had, with a dau., Eleanor, wife of William Hamner, Esq. of the Penns, two sons, PETER, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Lord Kilmorey, (remarried to Lord Byron,) but had no issue; and GEORGE, of Arley, who was created a baronet, 27 June, 1660. SIR GEORGE m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Myddleton, Knt. of Chirk Castle, in Denbighshire, and had issue, two sons and four daus. He m. 2ndly, Diana, dau. of Sir Edward Bishop, Bart. of Parham, in Sussex, by the Lady Margaret Tufton, dau. of Nicholas, Earl of Thanet, and had Thomas, of Winnington, in Cheshire, and other issue. Sir GEORGE d. 18 May, 1676, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR PETER WARBURTON, second Bart. of Arley, who m. Martha, dau. and heir of Thomas Dockwra, Esq. of Putteridge, co. Hertford, by whom (who d. in 1707) he had issue,

GEORGE, his successor.

Thomas, of Turners Hall, Herts, m. 1st, Rebecca, dau. and co-heir of George Stourton, Esq. of Pirton, co. Bedford, and had one dau., Martha, the wife of Isaac Eles, of London. He m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of William Dockwra, Esq. of London, and had,

PETER, who inherited as fourth bart.

Anne, m. Thomas Slaughter, Esq., high-sheriff of Cheshire in 1755; their only son, Thomas Slaughter, capt. 16th light dragoons, left, by Sarah Hands, his wife, an only child

Anne Warburton Sloughter, m. 1st, to the Rev. Thomas Coupland, of the Priory, Chester, and 2ndly, to William Owen, Esq. of Glansevern, co. Montgomery, king's counsel, who d. deeply lamented in 1837.

Peter, a capt. in the army.

Martba, m. to — Fouks, Esq. of London.

Anne, m. to Richard Dockwra, Esq.

Arabella.

Cbester, but d. without issue, 14 May, 1813, when the baronetcy expired, and the estates passed, under Sir Peter's will, to his great-nephew, the present ROWLAND-EYLES EGERTON-WARBURTON, Esq. of Warburton and Arley.

II. JOHN, of whose line we treat

III. Robert, in holy orders.

I. Gabriel.

IV. Thomas.

II. Alice, m. to Nicholas Rigby, of Harroch, co. Lancaster.

The second son of George Warhurton, of The Lodge,

JOHN WARBURTON, m. Miss Holt, of Stuhley, in Lancashire, and left a numerous family. Five of his sons were forced to leave Lancashire, "heing greatly persecuted by CROMWELL's party as known loyalists." The younger children, with their mother, remained at the family seat, where the father lay for a long time concealed in a cave, which had been contrived to shelter him from the animosity of the party of the parliament. The two eldest of the five who left Lancashire settled in Ireland. The eldest, George, had a son named Rohert, who d. s. p. The second,

JOHN WARBURTON, Esq., advanced £8000 to CHAS. I., in his necessity. He went to Ireland in 1635, where he married, and had a son,

RICHARD WARBURTON, Esq., who was M.P. for Ballyshannon in 1704, 1704, 1709, and clerk to the Irish House of Commons, 11 May, 1661. He m. Miss L'Estrange, dau. of Thomas L'Estrange, of Moystown, King's County, and having lived to a great age, d. leaving issue,

III. John, of Dublin, M.P. for Belturbet.

The eldest son,

GEORGE WARBURTON, Esq. of Aughrim and Firmount, M.P. for Gowran, was appointed postmaster-general of Ireland in 1702. He d. 14 Nov. 1709, having m. Anne L'Estrange, of Moystown, hy whom he left issue,

I. RICHARD, his heir.

II. GEORGE, successor to his brother.

1511

III. John, devisee of his brother Richard. He m. and had issue.

GEORGE, of Aughrim and Firmount, M.P. for Galway, who m. Miss Trench, aunt to the first Earl of Clancarty, and had issue,

RICHARD, capt. of foot, d. without issue in 1767.

MARY, sole heir, m. to the Rev. John Burgh, uncle of the present Lord Downes, and leaving no issue, the estates came, according to the testamentary disposition, to her third cousin, GEORGE WARBURTON, eldest son of Bartholomew Boyd Warburton, Esq.

The eldest son,

RICHARD WARBURTON, Esq. of Aughrim and Firmount, m. Anne Castleton, of London, but had no issue. He made his will 30 July, 1744, leaving the estates to his third brother, John, whose granddaughter, Mary, Mrs. Burgh, devised them to George Warhurton, the great-grandson of his elder brother, George, (Rev.) of Parsonstown. This Richard dying without issue, was s. in the representation by his next brother,

THE REV. GEORGE WARBURTON, of Parsonstown, chaplain to the lord-lieutenant of Ireland, who m. the dau. of — Warren, Esq. of Grangebegg, and dying in 1760, left issue,

I. RICHARD.

II. George.

III. John.

IV. Henry, ensign 1st regt. of foot.

V. Thomas, of Britania, d. s. p. in 1762.

I. Susannah, m. to — Nethercott.

The eldest son,

I. BARTHOLOMEW-BOYD, his heir.

II. John, (the Rev.)

III. Thomas.

IV. Richard, lieutenant, 66th regt. of foot.

V. Robert, capt. Royal navy, m. Anne Croker, of Limerick.

VI. Peter, capt. Royal artillery.

I. Elinor.

II. Charity.

III. Elizabeth.

IV. Mary.

V. Frances.

The eldest son,

BARTHOLOMEW-BOYD WARBURTON, Esq., m. Elizabeth, dau. of Benjamin Batt, Esq. of Ballywilliam, co. Wexford, and had issue,

I. GEORGE.

II. Benjamin, capt. R.N.

III. Bartholomew, m. Anne, dau. of the Rev. E. Bayly, of Lamberton, co. Wicklow, and has one son, Edward-Bayly, and one dau., Mildred.

IV. John, m. Mary-Carleton, sister of Colonel Percival, of Temple House, co. Sligo, and has issue,

V. Samuel, deceased.

VI. Henry.

I. Deborah, m. to William Montgomery, Esq., M.D.

II. Eliza, m. to Henry Rooke, Esq.

The eldest son, GEORGE, (with whom this memoir commences,) was devisee of Mrs. Burgh, and his great-uncle, Mr. Eliot, of Mount Eliot, hy which means he became proprietor of the family estates in Kildare, Dublin, and Galway, and the Eliot estates, co. Wexford. Upon the death of Sir Peter Warhurton, in 1813, and the consequent extinction of the elder branch of Arley, this Major George Warhurton became the male representative of ODARD, (the Dutton line, in all its male branches, having also failed,) from whom he was the twenty-sixth in direct lineal descent. The English estates were devised by Sir Peter Warburton, the last hart., to his sister's grandson, Rowland-Eyles Egerton, who thereupon assumed the name of WARBURTON.

Arms—Quarterly : 1st and 4th, arg., a chevron, sa., between three cormorants, ppr., WARBURTON ; 2nd, quarterly, 1st and 4th, arg., 2nd and 3rd, gu., a fret, or, DUTTON ; 3rd, erm., a fesse, gu., between two bars, wavy, az., ELIOT.

Crests—1st, A plume of five ostrich feathers, rising out of a ducal coronet, or, the feathers, arg., az., or, vert and gu., for DUTTON ; 2nd, A Saracen's head, coupéd at the shoulder, ppr., on his head a plume of ostrich feathers, or, placed on a wreath, arg. and gu., the shoulders on a wreath, arg. and sa., for WARBURTON ; 3rd, An elephant's head, coupéd, arg., colored, gu., for ELIOT.

Motto—Je voll droit avoir.

* * Sir Peter Leycester tells us that the fret in the Dutton coat was not added until the time of EDWARD III. This probably was after the battle of Poitiers, in 1356. The exploits of Lord Audley and the other four gentlemen alluded to is thus given in The Complete History of England, vol. i. p. 226. "But the most remarkable instance of honour and valour was the Lord James Audley, who, having vowed to be foremost of the battle, performed his word, and confirmed it with many wounds, for which the prince, having rewarded him with five hundred marks a year fee-simple in England, he presently gave it to four of his esquires, who had underwent the same dangers with him. The prince knowing it, asked him whether he did not accept his gift? He answered, Yes! but those men had deserved it as well as himself, and had more need of it. The prince was pleased with his reply, and gave him five hundred marks more, as if he was resolved that so much worth should not go unrewarded. And my Lord Audley," (says Dr. Gower) "as a further and perpetual memorial of their merit, enjoined them to hear in some part of their coat of arms, his own proper achievement, Gu., a fret, or, which honourable distinction has been constantly observed by these four distinguished families, viz., DUTTON OF DUTTON, DELVES OF DODDINGTON, FOULHURST OF CREWE, and HAWKESTONE OF WRINEHILL." Dr. Gower further observes, that it was principally owing to the valour of these illustrious warriors that Edward the Black Prince, Earl of Chester, gained the immortal battle of Poitiers.

There is at Doddington, in Cheshire, (1770,) a group of "noble statues," as large as life, representing the Lord Audley and these four celebrated and valiant warriors.

Lineage.

The Wards have long been seated in the co. Norfolk; they held adjoining estates at Walcote and Happisburgh, in the sixteenth century, which have descended in direct succession from father to son to the present generation. In the reign of JAMES I., we find, by a document still preserved, that needy monarch, when issuing his privy seal for the purpose of raising money, including amongst his loyal subjects Robert Ward, of Walcote:

"To our trusty and wel beloved Robert Ward, of Walcote.

"By the King.

"Trustie and welbeloved, Wee greete you well. Having observed in the presidents and custome of former times, that all the kings and queenes of this realme, upon extraordinary occasions, have used either to resort to those contributions which arise from the generalitie of subjects, or to the private helpees of some well affected in particular, by way of loane: in which later course wee being at this time inforced to proceed, for some supply of some portions of treasure for divers publique services, and particularly for continuing and encreasing our magazines in some large proportion, in our realme of Ireland, in our navie, and in oure fortes: (in all which greater summes have bene expended of late, both in building, and repairing, and in making sundry provisions, then have been in twentie yeeres before:) wee have now in our eye an especial care that such discretion may be observed in the choise of the lenders, and such an indifferent distribution, as the summes that wee shall receive may be raised with an equall consideration of men's abilities; and therefore, seeing men have had so good experience of our repayment of all those summes which wee have ever required in this kinde, we doubt not but wee shall now receive the like argument of good affection from you, (amongst other of our subjects,) and that with such alacrity and readinesse, as may make the same so much the more acceptable, especially seeing wee require but that of some which few men would deny a friend; and have a minde resolved to expose all our earthly fortune, for preservation of the general. The summe that wee require of you, by vertue of these presents, is twenty pounds, which wee doe promise, in the name of us, our heires and successors, to repay to you, or your assignes, within eighteen monthes after the payment thereof unto the collector. The person that wee have appointed to collect it is Sir Charles Cornwallis, knight. To whose handes wee doe require you to send it within twelve days after you have received this privy seale, which together with the collector's acquittance, shall be sufficient warrant unto the officers of our receipt, for the repayment thereof at the time limited. Given under our privy seale at our pallace of Westminster the 14th day of January, in the ninth yeere of our raigne of Great Britaine, France, and Ireland.

"FRA. MYLLERS.

"Privy seal, 28 Jan. 1611, by vertue of Rob.

Ward, of Walcotte, the some of £20.

CHARLES CORNWALLIS."

ROBERT WARD, Esq., who d. 2 April, 1639, erected the family residence at Walcotte, now called Walcot, in Norfolk. This structure, although curtailed in size, is still standing, and bears the date of its erection, 1619; and from the elaborate architecture of its chimneys, is commonly called in the neighbourhood, and styled in the map of Norfolk, "The Chimney House." RICHARD WARD, Esq. of Walcot and Salhouse, b. 12 Oct. 1730, d. in 1799, a captain of dragoons, and major of brigade to the cavalry in South Britain, a deputy-lieut. and justice of the peace for the co. Norfolk, and lieutenant-col. of the East Norfolk regiment of militia, which command, from his well-known military experience, he accepted in an eventful era of his country's history, at the urgent solicitations of the lord-lieutenant, and other influential noblemen of the county. He m. Amelia, fourth dau. of Stamp Brooksbank, Esq., M.P., of Helaugh, York-shire, and Hackney House,* Middlesex. His merits as a soldier, a magistrate, and a gentleman, are glowingly depicted on his monument, in Salhouse Church, and in the obituary of the Gentleman's Magazine, 1799, from the pen of his intimate friend, the late Rev. John Longe, rector of Spixworth, Norwich. He had issue,

- i. Richard-Dalrymple, an officer in the Royal artillery, who served in the American war, d. in 1765.
- ii. ROBERT, his successor.
- iii. William, M.A. of Queen's College, Cambridge, in holy orders. This gentleman devoted a great portion of his life to the study of Prophetic history, was the author of four vols. 8vo, and several abstruse works on the Fulfilment of Prophecy. He m. Margaret, eldest dau. of William Wooley Simpson, of Diss, banker, and left, at his decease, in 1835, William, m. his cousin, and other issue.
- i. Amelia, d. in 1781.

* Hackney House was erected by Mr. Brookshank in the reign of GEORGE I., at an expenditure of upwards of £28,000; it stood in a lawn of eighteen acres, surrounded by a wall. On Mr. Brookshank's decease it was sold to J. Hopkins, Esq. of Brittons, in Essex, heir to the famous Vulture Hopkins, concerning whom Pope has the following lines:—

"When Hopkins dies, a thousand lights attend
The wretch that living saved a candle's end."

From Mr. Hopkins it passed through various hands, and finally, in 1802, the building was razed to the ground, the whole having been allotted for building, and become a populous neighbourhood.—See Universal Magazine, 1791, for further particulars.

ii. Mary, m. to George-William Browne Bohun, Esq.* of Beccles, Suffolk, deceased.

iii. Frances, b. in 1733, m. to the Rev. John Longe, vicar of the valuable living of Coddendam and Crowfield, Suffolk. Mr. Longe, who was an active magistrate of that co., d. in 1834.

iv. Sophia, d. in 1828.

The second son,

ROBERT WARD, Esq. of Salhouse Hall, J.P. for co. Norfolk, b. 3 Sept. 1767, m. 20 Dec. 1794, Lydia, third dau. of Richard Rawle, Esq.† of Liskeard and Trevill, co. Cornwall, and had issue,

- i. Robert, b. in 1795, who, whilst serving as a midshipman on board H. M.'s ship "Topaz," was mortally wounded, in an attack on the North Fort of Mocha, in the Red Sea, 7 Dec. 1820.
- ii. RICHARD, his successor, now of Salhouse.
- iii. William-Henry, b. in 1801, a student for holy orders, of Exeter College, Oxford, d. 8 Dec. 1819.
- i. Lydia, b. in 1797, m. her cousin, William Ward, Esq., and d. 12 Oct. 1834, leaving issue, one dau., Elizabeth Ward. Her widower m. 2ndly, 5 Nov. 1835, Sarah, second dau. of the late Francis Hopkinson, Esq. of Peterborough.
- ii. Frances, b. in 1808, d. in 1825.

This gentleman, an officer in the royal navy, whilst serving as a midshipman on board the "Monmouth," in the fleet commanded by Sir Edward Hughes, was in six general actions in India, from 1780 to 1784, in one of which he was seriously wounded by a splinter from a gunshot, and for some time considered lifeless. He d. 14 Feb. 1843.

Arms—Arg., on a bend, engrailed, sa., between two acorns, slipped, vert, three fleurs-de-lis, or.

Crest—A dexter arm, erect, couped at the elbow, habited quarterly, or and vert, cuff, arg., hand, ppr., holding a pheon of the third.

Seat—Salhouse Hall, Norfolk.

WARD OF GUILSBOROUGH.

WARD-LUCAS, WILLIAM-ZOUCH, Esq. of Guilsborough, and of Great Addington Hall, both in co. Northampton, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for that shire, b. in 1760; m. in 1783, Mary, only child and heiress of Richard Lambe, Esq. of Great Addington, and eventually heiress to her uncles, William Lambe, Esq. of Stanwick, and the Rev. Robert Lambe, of Great Addington. By this lady he had issue,

WILLIAM. Robert-Lambe, who d. s. p.
Richard, in holy orders.

John, who assumed in 1831, by sign-manual, the additional surnames of BOUGHTON and LEIGH. He m. in 1811, Theodosia de Malsburg, only surviving dau. and heiress of Sir Egerton Leigh,† second bart. of the family of West-Hall, in High Leigh, by Theodosia, only dau. and eventually heiress of Sir

* A lineal descendant of the ancient family of De Bohun. Humphrey de Bohun is mentioned in Domesday Book for Norfolk, as Lord of Dercios in Taterford.

† The family of Rawle is of great antiquity in Cornwall. They were seated at Kennett and Trevill, in St. Juliet, in the reign of EDWARD IV., about 1460. Their representatives now reside at Liskeard and Plymouth, but still hold the manor of Tresparrett, a moiety of the rectory of St. Juliet, and several estates in that parish, which have descended to them for many generations.

William Rawle, m. in 1632, Catherine, dau. of John Wehber, Esq. of Middle Amhle, in St. Kew, by Susanna, dau. of Degory Polwehle, Esq., an ancestor of the historian.

Francis Rawle, Esq., m. in 1658, Thomasine, dau. of Francis Buller, Esq. of Tregarriek, who was high-sheriff of Cornwall.

Richard Rawle, Esq. of Liskeard, the father of Mrs. Ward, m. Anne, eldest dau. of William Carthew, Esq. of St. Austell.

The Rawle arms, sculptured of a very early date, are still affixed to the old manor house of the family, viz., Sa., three swords in pale, the middlemost pointed in chief, arg. (See LYONS' Magna Britannia, vol. iii.; and GILBERT'S History of Cornwall.)

‡ This gentleman was descended in the female line from the Hon. Thomas Egerton, second son of John, second Earl of Bridgewater, by Elizabeth, dau. of William Cavendish, the loyal Duke of Newcastle.

Edward Boughton, sixth bart., and has issue. Mr. Ward-Boughton-Leigh is an acting magistrate for the counties of Warwick and Northampton, and a deputy-lieut. of the latter shire.

Marianne, m. to William Abbot, Esq. of Warnford Park, Hants.

Caroline, m. to William Fowler Jones, Esq. of Ashurst Park, Kent.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is LUCAS, assumed, in 1783, the additional surname of WARD, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his uncle, Sir Thomas Ward. He was sheriff of Northamptonshire in 1785.

Tincage.

This family, variously written, Ward, Warde, de Warde, and de la Warde, is of great antiquity in the county of Northampton. As far back as the reign of EDWARD III. Simon de Warde, sat in parliament for that shire, and Richard Ward was elected for the borough of Northampton 9 HENRY VI. The immediate ancestor of the branch we are now treating of,

WILLIAM WARD, Esq. of Winwick, m. the dau. of Justice Largo, Esq. of Feddington, and dying in 1596, left two sons,

LEONARD, rector of Winwick, in 1591, who m. the sister of the Lord Bishop Cooper, by whom he had two sons, who d. without male issue, and a dau., m. at Leicester;

And

JOHN WARD, Esq., who m. Miss Waring, and was s. at his decease, in 1629, by his son,

THE REV. JOHN WARD, b. in 1601, vicar of Spratton, to which living he had been presented by his father, in 1626. He m. Letitia —, and dying in 1660, left two sons and a dau., viz.,

JOHN, in holy orders, who was presented, in 1662, to the vicarage of Stratford-on-Avon, by Lionel, Earl of Middlesex. In 1666, he obtained from the Archbishop of Canterbury, a licence to practise physic; in two years after, he was appointed chaplain to King CHARLES II., and presented to the rectory of Dorsington, in Gloucestershire, by Thomas Rawlins, Esq. From this gentleman's MSS., which are numerous, he appears to have been a man of great learning, and an eminent divine and physician. He d. unm. in 1681.

THOMAS, of whom presently.

Sarah, m. William Clarke, Esq. of Loddington, and had a dau., heiress to her father,

SARAH CLARKE, who m. Randolph Wickes, Esq. of Hazleheech, and was mother of Randolph Wickes, Esq., high-sheriff of Northampton in 1703.

The second son,

THE REV. THOMAS WARD, of the University College, Oxford, was presented to the rectory of Ould, in Northamptonshire, in 1668, by John Clement, Esq., to whom Lord Hatton, the patron, had granted the next presentation, and at the same time appointed his lordship's chaplain. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Lucas, Esq. of Guilshorrough, and dying in 1706, left surviving issue,

JOHN.

Thomas, b. in 1678, fellow of Oriel College, Oxon, and rector of Hazleheech, who d. s. p. in 1721.

Samuel, b. in 1681, of Wellingborough, who m. Mary, dau. of — Hinchman, Esq., and had an only child, m. to William Lamhe, Esq. of Stanwick.

The eldest surviving son,

JOHN WARD, Esq., b. in 1675, m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Caldecott, Esq. of Catthorpe Hall, in Leicestershire, and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

Mary, who m. John Shuckburgh, Esq., and had, with two daus., who both d. issueless, a son, JOHN, in holy orders, rector of Bourton and vicar of Woolston, who d. unm.

Elizabeth, b. in 1715, who m. Richard Ward, Esq., and had an only son,

RICHARD, heir to his uncle.

Ann, b. in 1724, who m. John Lucas, Esq., and had a son, WILLIAM-ZOUCH LUCAS, who has assumed the additional surname of Ward, and is the present proprietor.

Mr. Ward, who purchased the manors of Guilshorrough and Nortoif, in 1710, served the office of sheriff of Northamptonshire in 1730. He d. the following year, and was s. by his only son.

SIR THOMAS WARD, of Guilshorrough, b. in 1717, who received the honour of knighthood in 1761, having the previous year been high-sheriff of the county of Northampton. He d. unm. in 1778, and was s. by his nephew, RICHARD WARD, Esq. of Guilshorrough, at whose decease, unm., the estates devolved upon his first cousin, WILLIAM-ZOUCH LUCAS, Esq., who assumed the additional surname of the family.

PLUMER-WARD OF GILSTON.

PLUMER-WARD, ROBERT, Esq. of Gilston Park, co. Herts, b. 19 March, 1765; m. 1st, 2 April, 1796, Catherine-Julia, dau. of C.-J. Maling, Esq. of Hilton, Durham, (and sister of Admiral Maling, and of the Countess Dowager of Mulgrave,) by whom he has issue, HENRY-GEORGE, M.P., formerly Minister Plenipotentiary for acknowledging the Mexican Republic, and now Secretary of the Admiralty, m. Emily, second dau. of Sir John Swinburne,* Bart. of Capheaton, and has, I. Dudley; II. Swinburne; and other issue.

Anne.

Mr. Ward m. 2ndly, 16 July, 1828, Jane, relict of William Plumer, Esq. of Gilston Park, and dau. of the Hon. and Rev. George Hamilton, son of James, seventh Earl of Abercorn, (by his countess, Anne, dau. of Colonel John Plumer, M.P. of Herts, 1680.) In consequence of this alliance and his marriage settlement, Mr. Ward assumed by sign-manual, the additional surname and arms of PLUMER. Mr. Plumer-Ward m. 3rdly, in 1833, Mary-Anne, dau. of the Hon. Sir George Anson, G.C.B., and widow of the Rev. C.-G. Okeover, of Okeover. He was educated at Christ Church, Oxford; called to the bar, and appointed, in 1805, one of the Welsh Judges, but retired from the profession to become under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. He was afterwards, from 1807 to 1811, a Lord of the Admiralty; Clerk of the Ordnance from 1811 to 1823; and finally, Auditor of the Civil List, until the abolition of that office in 1831. Mr. Plumer-Ward served as high-sheriff for Herts in 1832. He is distinguished in the literary world as the author of "The History of the Law of Nations," and of "Tremaine," "De Vere," &c. &c.

Tincage.

This branch of the family of Ward has long borne the same arms as the noble house of Ward, Viscounts Bangor, as Seth Ward, Bishop of Salisbury, in the time of CHARLES I., as Chief-Baron Sir Edward Ward, as the Wards of Pomfret, and as John Ward, of Squirries, Kent; but nothing positive has, as yet, been ascertained regarding its foundation, prior to the year 1704, owing to the fact of JOHN WARD, Esq., having died in the garrison of Gibraltar, where he had previously served at the taking of that celebrated fortress, under Admiral Rook and the Prince of Hesse. He left an only son, an infant, under guardianship,

* The eminent house of SWINBURNE is amongst the most ancient in the kingdom deriving from the flower of the nobility of Europe, and hearing no less than eighty-six quarterings in its shield. It enumerates as lineal progenitors, the early kings of France, many emperors, dukes of Normandy, the Plantagenets, kings of England, the Percies, (including Hotspur,) the Nevilles, all the Greys, the Willoughbys D'Eresby, the Warrens, Howards, Cliffords, Vescis, Mortimers, Fitzhughs, Fitzalans, Fitzwalters, Ratcliffs; the Bohuns, Vauxes, Dacres of the North, Widvilles, De Ross, De la Poles, Mowbrays, Beauchamps, &c. &c. Of the twenty-five barons who wrenched Magna Charta from JOHN, it is a fact worthy of observation, that eighteen were ancestors of the Swinburnes.

- II. Charity, m. to William Saunders, M.D.

Family of Plumer.

The Plumers came from Old Windsor about the year 1660, upon acquiring Gilston and Blakesware, in Hertfordshire. Traditionally they derive from a Saxon knight, but the pedigree in the Herald's College dates only from the time of ELIZABETH, at which period they were a family of great opulence. In 1680, Walter Plumer was created a baronet, but the title is now extinct.

COLONEL JOHN PLUMER, of Blakesware, co. Hertford, M.P. for that shire, m. in 1680, Mary Hale, of the Hertfordshire family of King's Walden, and his eldest dau.,

CLARK-WARDLAW, NOW CLARKE OF COMRIE CASTLE.

CLARKE, ANDREW, Esq. of Comrie Castle, co. Perth, a Justice of the Peace, and Commissioner of Supply and for the Income Tax, for the Culross District of that shire, m. 2 July, 1837, Jane, only child and heiress of Col. Sir John Wardlaw, Bart. of Pitreavie, co. Fife, representative of the Anglo-Saxon family of WARDLAW, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage), and assumed, in consequence, the additional surname and arms of WARDLAW. Succeeding, however, in 1842, to the representation of his family, upon the demise of his father, Mr. Clarke-Wardlaw laid aside the second surname.

Etymology.

The surname of CLERK or CLARK, a common one throughout Europe, is in Scotland of great antiquity; and was, in all probability, assumed from some office bearing the designation. It is a matter of notoriety that there were many free barons and men of great possessions and power of the name of Clark in very early times. Sir James Dalrymple cites a charter (prior to the year 1180) of King WILLIAM of a donation to the abbacy of Holyrood House, and among the witnesses (who are all men of rank) are Hugo Clericus Regis, Hugo Clericus Cancellarie, Johannus Clericus, &c. &c. In 1296, RICHARDUS CLERK, submitted to EDWARD I., and in the same year BENEDICT CLERK, a man of rank and figure, was carried prisoner to London for refusing to swear allegiance to the English monarch; and Mariota, his wife, obtained a safe-conduct to visit him in England. At the battle of Durlham, WILLIAM CLERK was taken prisoner, and remained in captivity until released, in 1357, with his sovereign, DAVID II. The clan Chattan and some of the best Highland families, claim to be descended from the CLERKS; and by charters under the great seal, it appears that various families of this surname have held extensive possessions from a very remote period. The house of which we are about to treat, is reputed to be descended from ALANUS CLERK, a free baron of Perthshire, one of the inquest on the service of Sir Alexander Moray, of Abercainry, in 1349.
1518

He m. 3rdly, 4 Aug. 1842, Elizabeth, eldest child of Anthony Lefroy, Esq. of York, (late capt. 35th regt.,) and niece of the Right Hon. Thomas Lefroy, Baron of the Exchequer, Dublin. This gentleman, whose patronymic is Hibbert, assumed by Royal licence, dated 28 March, 1837, the surname and arms of WARE, as being the representative of the oldest branch of the family of Sir James Ware, the historian of Ireland. Dr. Hibbert-Ware is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, and has held the office of vice-president of the Antiquarian Society of Scotland; he is also the author of various works connected with physiological, antiquarian, and geological researches.

Citings.

The family of Ware (see HARRIS'S Ware, vol. ii. p. 145) is descended from Roger de Ware, lord of Isefeld, and a baron of parliament in the reign of EDWARD I. The founder of this house was John La Warre, whose descendants enjoyed extensive grants of land in the southern, midland, and western counties of England, for having signalized themselves in various wars, particularly on the fields of Cressy and Poitiers; while the last baron was "Magister Thomas la Warre," living in the reign of HENRY V., priest and rector of Manchester, and the munificent founder of the collegiate church of that town.

CHRISTOPHER WARE was in the beginning of the reign of Queen ELIZABETH settled in Yorkshire.

SIR JAMES WARE, Knt., the younger of the two sons of Christopher Ware, was very early sent to push his fortunes in the court of Queen ELIZABETH. In the year 1588 he accompanied Sir William Fitz-William, lord deputy of Ireland, in the capacity of secretary. He obtained a grant of the office of auditor-general of Ireland in Nov., 45 ELIZABETH; and by letters patent, 17 June, 1610, JAMES I. granted this office to Sir James Ware and his son, John, for their lives and the life of the survivor of them. And, 11 JAMES I., the office was granted in reversion to James, the son of the said Sir James.—Addl. MSS. 4756, British Museum. In 1613 he was returned member of parliament for the borough of Mallow, co. Cork. His will mentions estates in the co. Longford, at Cloughred, in Tipperary, at Jamestown, Abbey of Derge, Macetown, in co. Meath, &c. &c. Sir James Ware m. Mary, dau. of Ambrose Bryden Esq. of Saint Edmundshury, Suffolk. (Walter Harris says she was the sister of Sir Ambrose Briden, of Maidstone, in Kent.) She was interred in the church of St. Werberg, Duhlin, 5 Dec. 1632. The issue of this marriage were,

- I. JAMES, (the historian,) knighted in the lifetime of his father. He was the only one of the sons who left behind him male issue, of whom more immediately.
- II. John, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Henry Piers, Bart. of Tristernagh, by whom he had a son, Henry. After the murder of John Ware, by Holliswood, of Artaine, his widow m. William Fitzgerald, Esq., eldest son of Sir Edmund Fitzgerald, of Gortine, in Ophaley, by whom she had a numerous issue.

II. Anne, m. to Emanuel Downings, Esq. of Dublin, and d. 23 Oct. 1641.

III. Russel, m. to Humphrey Reynolds, Esq. of Loughsirul, co. Leitrim, by whom she had a son, James.

IV. Martha, m. to Sir William Piers, Bart. of Tristernagh.

V. Cecilia, m. Sir Dudley Loftus, Knt. of Killyan and Clonard, and had issue, Thomas, Elizabeth, and Elenor.

Sir James Ware d. suddenly, 14 May, 1632, in walking from Fishamble-street to his house in Castle-street, and was s. by his son,

SIR JAMES WARE, Knt., the historian, who was b. at his father's house in Castle-street, Dublin, 26 Nov. 1594. At the age of sixteen he entered at the university of Duhlin as fellow-commoner. Upon leaving college, the peculiar bent of his mind having been directed to the elucidation of Irish antiquities, the first fruits of his exertions made their appearance in the form of three consecutive memoirs, which treated of the Archbishops of Cashel and Tuam, of the Bishops of Duhlin, and of the Cistercian monasteries of Ireland. In 1629 he received the honour of knighthood. In the year 1632, by the death of his father, Sir James Ware the elder, he succeeded to the office of auditor-general; and upon the arrival in Ireland of the Lord-deputy Wentworth, afterwards Earl of Strafford, he was called to a seat in the privy council. Although Sir James Ware was thus occupied, his public functions did not so entirely engross his time as to leave him without any leisure for the prosecution of literary pursuits. He printed, from a manuscript which fell into his possession, SPENCER'S View of the State of Ireland, a most valuable work, which he followed up by editing MEREDITH'S Hammer's Chronicle, and CAMPION'S History of Ireland. He also published, in 1639, his important bibliographical memoir, in two parts, Descriptioribus Hibernie. These several labours were considered of such national importance, that the learned body most capable of appreciating it returned him member of the House of Commons for the University of Duhlin.

The troubles of Ireland were now approaching. In the year 1641, the great rebellion broke out, when the cool advice of Sir James Ware is acknowledged to have greatly aided the numerous cabinet councils which were consequently held. In 1643, he took a great share in the question entered into with the Irish insurgents touching the expediency of a suspension of arms; and being appointed a member of the council of seventeen for arranging the terms of the armistice, the treaty became so disturbed with the numerous jarring prejudices and interests which it involved, that, eventually, Sir James was appointed one of the three commissioners instructed to repair to the king at Oxford, and to confer with his majesty relative to a final peace with the confederated rebels. The sense which Oxford entertained of the national benefits which Sir James had conferred upon his country, was evinced by the honorary degree with which he was complimented, of doctor of laws. His return home was followed by a serious disaster. Being taken prisoner at sea by one of the ships in the service of the parliament, he was sent a prisoner to the Tower of London, where, to hegule a tedious imprisonment, he wrote an imaginary voyage to an Utopian island, which, having never been published, is now regarded as lost. At length, after a painful detention of ten months, an exchange of prisoners was agreed upon, which obtained the release of Sir James Ware, whose return to his native country was hailed with great satisfaction. His excellent qualifications for public business were again called into requisition, and the first proof of the trust reposed in him was his being conjoined with two distinguished noblemen in a committee of inquiry relative to the Earl of Glamorgan, who, it was imagined, had exceeded his commission in patching up a clandestine peace with the disaffected Irish.

In 1647, the Marquess of Ormond surrendered the metropolis of Ireland, in obedience to the king's order, to the parliament, when Sir James Ware, along with the Lord Richard Butler, afterwards Earl of Arran, the Earl of Roscommon, and Colonel Arthur Chichester, became hostages for the faithful performance of the conditions of surrender. The consequent detention of Sir James in London, did not, perhaps exceed the term of one year. Upon his return to Dublin he found that the reins of power had passed into the hands of rancorous enemies, and that his long and unshaken adherence to the royal cause had rendered him obnoxious to the new governor of Dublin, Michael Jones. He was deprived of his office of auditor-general, while his well-known intimacy with the Marquis of Ormond, who had then entered into an union with the army of the supreme council, led to his banishment. Accompanied by his eldest son, he set sail in the spring of 1649 for France, where St. Maloes, Caen, and Paris, became his successive places of residence. At the expiration of a four years' exile, when the political horizon was considered more clear, Sir James had the liberty conceded to him, upon the urgent plea of his presence being indispensable to the well-being of his estates, to revisit Ireland. He had kept a written journal of his foreign exile, under the title of Itinerarium Gallicum, which was never published. It now holds a place on the shelves of the Cottonian library. The first care of Sir James upon his return, and after arranging his private affairs, was to add to his extensive collections of national and ancient manuscripts, for which he spared no cost. At length he was enabled to prepare for the press his masterpiece, which he published under the title "De Hibernia et Antiquitatibus ejus disquisitiones." Its success even advanced his reputation, high as it already was, in the republic of learning; and, in 1656, he illustrated, with valuable notes, the ecclesiastical works usually ascribed to St. Patrick.

The restoration of CHARLES II. and the recall of the Marquis of Ormond to the viceroyalty of Ireland, under the title of Duke of Ormond, interrupted for a time these literary labours. Sir James Ware, the tried and faithful adherent of the royal cause, and the confidential friend of the restored lord-lieutenant was invited to resume his former office of auditor-general. To this confirmed sentiment of public approbation the university of Dublin responded, by electing Sir James, for a second time, one of their representatives in parliament; and, lastly, when the government appointed a chosen council for the peaceful settlement of the affairs of the kingdom, and for the satisfaction of the several interests of adventurers, Sir James Ware was, by the king's special instructions, included in the quorum indispensable to the validity of every act of the royal commission. Amidst these varied political duties and avocations, it may easily be supposed that Sir James would find the opportunities afforded him for indulging in his usual literary occupations much diminished. He published, however, in 1662, the Annals of Ireland, during the reign of HENRY VIII.; to which, two years afterwards, he added those of the subsequent reigns of EDWARD VI. and MARY. As a reward for these immense labours, political as well as literary, it was proposed to create Sir James a viscount of the kingdom of Ireland. Declining, however, the honour intended for him, yet anxious that his royal master should not misconstrue the motives of his refusal, he requested, in lieu of a peerage, two blank patents of baronetage, which he filled up with the names of two friends, whose posterity, Walter Harris assures us, continued to his day to enjoy the hereditary distinctions.

The later contributions of Sir James Ware to the early history of Ireland, were confined to ecclesiastical affairs. He edited two epistles of the venerable Bede, in illustration of the more ancient customs of the British churches, and preparatory to the last commentary published by him, when he was seventy years old, relative to the bishops of Ireland, from the dawn of the Christian faith, down to modern times; and even when he was approaching still nearer to the very advanced term beyond which human existence is rarely prolonged, he contemplated the publication of divers other researches connected with Ireland. These were frustrated by his decease, which took place, 1 Dec. 1666, aged 73. When CHARLES II. was informed of his death, he was heard to exclaim, with much apparent feeling, that he had lost a faithful servant. But it is less for the political than for the literary services which he has rendered to his country, that his name will be perpetuated among the worthies of the sister kingdom.—He has been properly designated, THE CAMDEN OF IRELAND.

Sir James Ware, in his will, had directed that his body should be deposited under the tombstone in St. Werberg's church, Dublin, where his father, mother, wife, and some of his children lay buried. This was done in the most unostentatious manner; neither stone nor monumental inscription marking the place where his remains were interred. "But he had taken care," remarked his biographer, "to erect a monument for himself by his labours, more lasting than any mouldering materials."

Sir James m. 1st, 31 Dec. 1620, Elizabeth, dau. of Jacob Newman, Esq., and Rose, his wife, dau. of James, Barry, Esq., sheriff of Dublin in 1577, who was descended, from Barry of the Roch, co. His father left him, in his will, lands and tenements at Finglas and Tawlaght, in the co. of Dublin, at Ballynagog, Queen's Co., and elsewhere; besides all the goods, debts, books, money and plate, of which he might die possessed. The books, including probably, the valuable collection of Irish manuscripts collected by Sir James Ware, were no doubt bequeathed to Robert Ware, in consideration of the early literary zeal which he displayed. Robert Ware was a very voluminous author on controversial subjects, the very titles of his volumes exhibiting the spirit of the times in which they were written. It may be easily supposed that their anti-papal character would not recommend the author to JAMES II.; for, when the Earl of Tyrconnel landed in Dublin to take upon him the government of Ireland, Robert Ware, in company with other gentlemen favourable to the Orange cause, fled to England, where he remained until recalled by the event of the battle of Boyne. During these troubles the property of the family suffered. The numerous Irish manuscripts, collected by Sir James Ware, at an immense expense and labour, fell into the possession of the Earl of Clarendon, lord-lieut. of Ireland, in the reign of JAMES II., by whom they were sold to the Duke of Chandos, (see HARRIS'S Ware, vol. ii. p. 157.) created. When under age she was forcibly married by James Shirley, Esq., but by a decree of the Consistory of Dublin, the marriage was dissolved. She subsequently m. Alexander Fraser, Esq. After his death she became the wife of Sir John St. Leger, of Grangemellan, co. Kildare, (brother of Arthur, first Viscount Doneraile,) one of the barons in the Court of Exchequer in Ireland, in whom, according to Walter Harris, "the estate of the family vested," (see HARRIS'S Ware, vol. ii. p. 156.) She d. 11 Nov. 1722, s. p. (LODGE'S Peerage of Ireland, vol. vi. p. 119.)

- ii. Jacobetta, to whom Sir James Ware left a legacy of five hundred pounds, d. an infant.

Elizabeth, the first wife of James Ware, d. 4 Nov. 1667, and, 24 Nov. following, James Ware m. 2ndly, Barbara, dau. of — Stone, in whose favour he subsequently made a settlement to three trustees, viz., to William Jones, Esq. of Dublin, (whose wife Jane, was sister to Barbara Stone,) Sir Humphrey Lewis, Knt., and Richard Chappell, Esq. The issue of this second marriage were,

- i. JAMES, his heir, (the first son of that name having died.)*
- i. Barbara, b. 2 Feb. 1669, d. young and unn.
- ii. Jane, m. in 1692, to Sir John Sandes, Bart., son of Sir William Sandes, formerly of Throwby, co. Kent, afterwards of Blackball, co. Kildare, who was created a bart. 13 Nov. 1676. She d. 15 Dec. 1696.
- iii. Elizabeth, m. to Andrew-Francis Cheney, Esq. of Mace-town.

James Ware d. 6 May, 1689, in the city of Chester, whither he had fled during the short period of civil commotion in Ireland, attending the last effort of King JAMES II. to regain his throne. Independently of a previous settlement in favour of his second family, he made a nuncupative will, declaring that all which he had in the world he left to his only surviving son,

JAMES WARE, Esq. The limited fortunes of the children of the second marriage appear to have been derived from a residuum of the family estates which had escaped the alienating tendency of the entail created by Sir James Ware, conjoined probably, with the savings of their father, from his office as auditor-general of Ireland. By virtue of two deeds, the last of which was dated March 8, 1683, James Ware, the father, after having reserved a provision for himself, and for his wife, Barbara, during their respective lives, settled most of his property upon his son, with the exception of £1000 each to his two daus. But the complex state of the property gave rise to two suits in equity, the first of which was commenced in the year 1692, by Sir John Sandes, Baronet, on the part of Jane, his wife, against James Ware, Elizabeth Ware, and Jane Jones, sister of Mrs. Barbara Ware, his late mother-in-law. In the course of these proceedings, Macetown Castle co. Meath, (now in ruins,) came into the possession of Mr. Cheyney. James Ware married and had a son,

WILLIAM WARE, Esq., his heir, who was b. in 1692. He m. Margaret, dau. of (Pierce?) Fitzgerald; she d. in 1787, aged 96, and was buried at Rusagh, near Street, in Westmeath. By her William Ware had issue,

- i. ROBERT, his heir.
- ii. Joseph, who m. and had issue, who all d. s. p.
- iii. William, of Dublin and of Kilcock, left issue.
- i. Elizabeth, wife of — Moore.
- ii. Ellenor, wife of — Moran.
- iii. Margaret, d. unm. 26 March, 1824, and was buried at St. James's Church, Dublin.

William Ware d. in the year 1756, aged 64, and was buried at Rusagh aforesaid.

ROBERT WARE, Esq. of Castle-Street, Dublin, (see HARRIS'S Dublin, p. 485,) afterwards of Hale, co. Chester, lieut. in the Royal Lancashire militia. He d. 18 July, 1799, at Tynemouth, in Northumberland, where the Lancashire militia was stationed, and was interred with military honours at the church of St. Nicholas, (see Chester Chronicle, 30 July, 1779.) He m. 25 Aug. 1748, at St. Mark's, Dublin, Anne Thomas, of a Welsh family, and had issue,

* Walter Harris appears to have been careless in his genealogical history of the family of Sir James Ware, in not mentioning the second marriage of the historian's elder son, and the issue resulting from it, as the very will of his father-in-law, Robert Ware, makes mention of his nephew, James Ware, and his nieces, the Lady Jane Sandes and Mrs. Eliza Ware.

Pierce, bapt. at St. Mark's, 19 Aug. 1750; he d. an infant. SARAH, his successor.

And for his second wife, he m. 25 Jan. 1762, Dorothy, dau. of Thomas Slack, Esq. of Slack Hall, Derbyshire, by whom he had issue one dau., viz.,

Margaret, b. 22 Sept. 1763, m. 12 April, 1790, to Holland Watson, Esq. of Stockport, Cheshire, and died soon after.

SARAH WARE, the only surviving child of Robert Ware, who left issue, was b. in June, 1751. She m. 30 May, 1780, Samuel Hibbert, Esq. of Manchester, afterwards of Clarendon House, Chorlton, co. Lancaster, and dying 24 Jan. 1813, was buried in Cross-street Chapel, Manchester; she had issue,

- i. SAMUEL HIBBERT, now SAMUEL HIBBERT-WARE.
- ii. Titus Hibbert, b. 26 Aug. 1783, and d. 12 Jan. 1803.
- iii. Robert Hibbert, b. 3 March, 1785, m. in 1811, Mary-Anne, dau. of William Craven, of Weaste House, near Eccles, co. Lancaster, merchant, and left at his demise, 28 Feb. 1828, a dau., Emma-Georgiana, b. at Lausanne, in Switzerland.
- iv. William Hibbert, a lieut. in the 40th regt. He was b. 27 June, 1786, and d. 23 Feb. 1809, soon after the battle of Vimeira, in which he was engaged.
- v. Thomas Hibbert, b. 5 Feb. 1788, and d. 24 Dec. 1805.
- vi. George Hibbert, a lieut.-col. in the army, b. 6 April, 1790. In 1813 he joined the 40th regt. in the Peninsula, and served with it afterwards in America, Waterloo, and in India. The rank of lieut.-col. and companion of the Bath was conferred upon him as a reward for his services in the Afghan war.

Family of Hibbert.

The name Hibbert is a corruption of Hnhbert, which may again be referred to the Norman Hudebert. This is indicated by an examination of the pedigrees of the Norfolk and Suffolk Huberts or Hoharts, (see Harl. MSS. 2161,) and of the registries of wills for Nottinghamshire, where we find, about the year 1600, families of Huhbert, who have their names variously moulded, during succeeding generations, into Huhberd, Hihberd, Hihberdt, and Hihbert. From Nottinghamshire, branches of the families of Hihbert extended into Derbyshire, of which county several individuals of this name have been registered as benefactors, or worthies. (See GLOVER'S list of the Worthies of Derbyshire, in his topographical work on that county, vol. i. p. 97, &c.)

The first notice of the existence of this family in the county of Chester is to be found in the Harl. MSS. 2161, f. 274 (a), from which it appears that John Huhard, of Boughton, in the said county, 17 EDWARD IV., by Agnes, his wife, had (with other issue) Rafe Hihbert, or Huhart, of Marple, co. Chester, who had issue a dau., the wife of Audrey Ridge, of Marple.

NICHOLAS HIBBERT, of Marple, who is presumed to be a descendant of the said John, had issue, (see his pedigree in the same MSS., f. 257, g.) the Rev. Thomas Hibbert, of Marple, the purchaser of that manor, and ancestor of the Marple Hibberts.

Passing over some intermediate descents, we come to NATHANIEL HIBBERT, or HYBERT, of Werneth, next Marple, who was twice married, and left issue by both marriages. His will bears date 6 April, 1664, and was proved at Chester. By his second wife, Mary, (who d. in 1667,) he had a younger son,

TITUS HIBBERT, of Werneth, who was also twice married, and had, with other children, a younger son,

TITUS HIBBERT, who afterwards settled at High Knowls, in Lancashire. He had several children, of whom the third son was

TITUS HIBBERT, of Manchester, bapt. at Ashton-under-Line, co. Lancaster, in April, 1717. He was engaged in commerce as a foreign merchant. He m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Heywood, at the Collegiate Church, Manchester, 30 Dec. 1745, by whom he had issue, Lineage.

In 1656,

JOHN WARNER, the first mentioned in the title-deeds of the family, purchased a tenement in the burgh of Irvine, together with the braid meadow adjacent, from John Mure. He had two sons, viz.,

Thomas, an eminent minister of the church of Scotland, and a great sufferer in the persecuting times of CHAS. II. This divine, who was minister of Balmaclean, in Galloway, was thence ejected in 1679, for attending conventicles, but was restored at the Revolution. He d. 10 Sept. 1716. He was generally called Vernor in his own parish, and under that name is known in the history of the times. The reverend pastor outlived the persecution, spoke twenty-six years from his former pulpit, finished his days amidst the blessings of his flock, and his gravestone is yet to be seen in the churchyard of Balmaclean.

PATRICK.

The second son,

PATRICK WARNER, was educated in the university of St. Andrews, and licensed a preacher of the gospel about the year 1667, by the dissenting ministers in London, by whom he was recommended to the East India Company, and appointed, in 1669, minister of Fort St. George, on the Coromandel coast. In 1677, he returned to Scotland, and preached in various conventicles in the fields, especially in Galloway, together with the celebrated John Welsh. In two years after, the battle of Bothwell Bridge forced him to retire to Holland; but returning in a short time, he renewed his field preachings throughout the western parts of Scotland. He subsequently suffered a long imprisonment and a variety of persecutions, which at length compelled him to fly a second time to Holland, where he remained until 1687, when, taking advantage of King JAMES's indulgence, he returned to Scotland, and was ordained 24 March, in the following year, minister in Irvine. He there officiated until 1709, and then retired to his house at Ardeer, where he was living in 1722, being at that period the oldest minister of the church of Scotland. He purchased, in 1611, from Scott of Clonbeith, the lands of Scot's Loch, and the Trindlemoss, near Irvine, which he improved so effectually by a large drain, still called "The Minister's Cast," that from a swampy field, of small value, it has become the best land in the parish. In 1692, he acquired the lands of Hallbarns, in the parish of Kilmaurs, from Sir Robert Berkeley, of Piercetown, and, in 1708, those of Ardeer and Dowcotehall, from Robert Cunninghame, of Auchenhavrie. Patrick Warner m. in 1681, Mary, dau.* of the Rev. William Guthrie, the learned minister of Fenwick, (eldest son of the laird of Pitforthly,) and had one son and a dau., viz.,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Margaret, m. to the Rev. Ebenezer Veitch, lecturer in the Tronkirk, Edinburgh; afterwards, in 1703, minister of Ayr. She m. 2ndly, the Rev. Robert Woodrow, the celebrated author of the "History and Sufferings of the Church of Scotland."

Family of Brydges.

It appears by ancient deeds and records belonging to the family, that in olden times the name was spelt Brugge, Brudge, Brigge, Bridge, Bridges, and Brydges, and that, from time immemorial, it possessed lands and estates* at and near Bosbury, Brudge Solers, Staunton, Tiberton, Old Colwall, Ledbury, Priors Court, Ross, &c. Michael, buried at Bishop's Cannings, 13 Nov. 1674.

Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Thomas Shatterden, Esq., who took the surname of Drax; and 2ndly, to John Colleton, Esq.; by the former she left a son, Henry Drax, Esq. of Ellerton Abbey, who m. Elizabeth, only surviving dau. and heir of Sir Edward Ernle, 3rd baronet.

II. WALTER, of whose line we treat.

The second son,

WALTER ERNLE, Esq. of Conock, in Wilts, high-sheriff of the county in 1710; m. Mary, sister and co-heir of Anthony Hungerford, Esq. of the Leigh, near Cricklade, and d. 27 Jan. 1720-1, leaving two sons and a dau., viz. WALTER, his heir, JOHN; successor to his brother; and Gertrude, m. to Isaac Warriner, Esq., and d. 21 Dec. 1709, leaving a son, Gifford Warriner, Esq., who m. his cousin, Elizabeth Ernle, as hereafter. Mr. Ernle was s. by his elder son,

SIR WALTER ERNLE, of Conock, who, on the decease of his cousin, Sir Edward Ernle, 3rd Bart., in 1728-9, became the 4th Bart. He d. s. p. 16 July, 1732, and was s. by his brother,

Lineage.

This Anglo-Saxon family, spelt Wartyr and Watur, and by the Cundall branch, Water and Walter, originally of Warter, co. York, and subsequently of Nafferton, Hutton Cranswick, and Cundall, in that co., of Wandsworth, in Surrey, and of Stableford, (where they are to be traced from the remote records of the court of ancient demesne holden in the seigniory of Worfield,) Cruck Meole, Hatton, Swancote, and Rudge Hall, in Salop, also of Staffordshire and London, numbered amongst its earlier members, Walter de Warter, who, in 1222, was witness to a grant by Richard de Boshale, of a carucate of land at Fordon, to Whitby Abbey; Geoffrey Wautre, who was witness to a grant by Jordan de Rouseby, of an oxgang of land, in Rouseby, to the monks of Wyteby; and John del Watur, who migrated to Shrewsbury, and was a burgess of that borough in 1404, and who was father of Richard, John, Degory, and William, all of whom were burgesses, Degory being a member of the Drapers' Company, and founder of St. Mary's almshouses there, in 1444: also some distinguished amongst the hierarchy, more particularly Richard Warter, Prior of Nostel, co. Ebor., in 1277, whose reputation was such, that when in parliament he was advanced above those of his own order, to sit amongst the bishops; Adam Warter, prior of Kirkham, co. Ebor., in 1333; Nicholas Warter, vicar of St. Lawrence, York, in 1346, and founder of a chantry there; Richard Warter, administrator of George Neville, fifty-second Archbishop of Canterbury, brother of the great Earl of Warwick, better known as the King-Maker; Richard Warter, who founded a chantry in St. Saviour's, York; William Warter, prior of Warter, co. Ebor., in 1424; and Francis-Nicolas Warter, vicar of St. Mary's, York, in 1429, and Bishop of Dromore, (BURTON'S Ecclesiastical History, DRAKE'S Antiquities of Yorkshire, &c. &c.) which two latter were brothers to

RICHARD WARTYR, an eminent merchant of York, of which city he was sheriff in 1431, and twice lord-mayor, viz., in 1436 and 1451, and for which city he sat in the parliament holden at Westminster, 13 HEN. VI., 1434. This Richard left three sons, viz.,
